

U.S. 'Bombs' Russia With Truth on K-Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Voice of America will aim a Sunday punch at the Soviet Union today in an unparalleled effort to tell Soviet citizens about their government's fallout-spreading nuclear tests.

Using the massed power of 52 radio transmitters, the Voice hopes to penetrate deep inside Russia with word of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's "monstrous nuclear blasting."

"Have you been told?" announcers speaking in eight languages will ask Khrushchev's people over and over.

"Have you been told about world-wide protests and denunciations; about the danger to future generations; about the United Nations appeal to not explode the 50-megaton superbomb?"

"You were not told—but every place in the world, the people knew."

The 29-page prepared script quotes leaders from all continents in opposition to atmospheric nuclear explosions.

It reminds the Soviet people what Khrushchev said on Jan. 14, 1960:

"The government which would be the first to begin nuclear weapon testing would take upon itself a heavy responsibility before the people."

It recalls the three-year-long Geneva test ban negotiations during which Russian and American diplomats agreed on 17 articles of a 22-article treaty. Then the Kremlin reneged on the agreements and later it broke the test moratorium, the Voice will say.

It will recall editorials from the London Daily Mail (Khrushchev "seeks to inflict death and deformity upon unborn generations"), Il Messaggero of Italy ("Contemptuous of the rights of the people") and Nur-Sulmat of Iran ("The explosion of the Soviet 50-megaton bomb is an international crime").

It also will quote warnings from Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric:

"The fact is that this nation has a nuclear retaliatory force of such lethal power that an enemy move which brought it into play would be an act of self-destruction on his part."

To cap the saturation program, the Voice will relay President Kennedy's comment that the Soviet government disregarded completely the welfare of mankind and his promise that fallout from U.S. aerial testing—if it becomes necessary—will be held to an absolute minimum.

Voice of America experts have estimated that transmitters generating some 4,331,000 watts—greatest concentration ever beamed at the Iron Curtain area—will tell the story over 80 frequencies.

These already have been publicized by the Voice by spot announcements during regular programming.

Voice of America radio monitors at strategic points around the Soviet empire have been alerted to report to Washington on success of the saturation effort, which must cope with as many as 2,000 Russian jamming transmitters.

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Thousands of California drivers on the verge of having their licenses suspended for violating traffic laws will be mailed warning letters, Tom Bright, director of motor vehicles, announced Saturday.

In previous years, the DMV sent warning letters, but discontinued the program two years ago when Robert I. McCarthy was director.

McCarthy resigned last August in a political row with Brown and was replaced by Bright.

Brown Has Flu; Ordered to Bed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown is in bed with the flu.

A doctor was called when Brown became dizzy Saturday while addressing the California State Employees' Association convention. He finished the speech.

Dr. Alfred Allen said the governor was suffering from a combination of the flu and a rough flight from Los Angeles in an unpressurized plane.

Dr. Allen ordered Brown to bed and said "I am sure he will be fine after two or three days' rest."

Adenauer Sure of Fourth Term

BONN (UPI)—The Christian Democratic party voted

Saturday to join the Free Democrats in a coalition government. The move ensured the election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to a fourth term.

The Christian Democrats' decision, made during a 3½-hour meeting, ended a six-week government crisis in which the political fate of their aging leader hung in balance.

JFK Acts Soon on Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to make basic decisions this week on expanding U.S. military assistance to South Viet Nam in an intensified effort to prevent Communist guerrilla forces from taking over the country.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Kennedy's military adviser who is just back from a first-hand study of the Southeast Asian cold war front, worked with State and Defense Department and White House officials Saturday to get a program of detailed recommendations on paper.

Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other administration policymakers will give them top priority attention early in the week.

WHILE TAYLOR and his aides worked in secret through the weekend, informed officials said Kennedy would very likely order an increase in the 685-man U.S. military advisory assistance group.

Taylor indicated on arrival Friday that he was against sending U.S. combat forces into South Viet Nam, saying the Vietnamese have plenty of manpower. This, however, would not rule out an expanded training program.

Test Neutron Bomb at Once, Hosmer Tells United States

Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer Saturday called for the United States to begin testing of neutron bombs immediately.

Hosmer, a member of the Senate-House Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said the neutron bomb is "potentially as significant in world affairs as the original discovery of the atom bomb and later development of the hydrogen bomb." He said the weapon "undoubtedly is under development in Russia."

K Planning New Tests If U.S. Resumes

ROME (UPI)—An Italian cabinet minister said Saturday night that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told him Russia will continue nuclear test explosions if the United States resumes tests in the atmosphere.

Giuseppe Codacci Pisanelli, minister for relations with parliament, made the statement on his return from Moscow, where he met Khrushchev Friday.

The Italian cabinet minister was delegated by the Inter-parliamentary Union in Brussels last month to convey an appeal for negotiations on Berlin to the leaders of the big powers.

HE SAID Khrushchev also told him that the Soviet Union would continue its nuclear tests if the United States resumes atmospheric explosions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday the Russians are continuing their nuclear test explosions in the Arctic. Another atmospheric shot was detonated early Saturday in the Novaya Zemlya area, scene of Monday's 50-megaton superbomb blast, the AEC said.

The fallout cloud from Monday's mammoth explosion passed over the Great Lakes region and Eastern Canada Saturday en route toward the Atlantic Ocean.

Republican Backed by Ike Concedes to Gonzalez Early

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Liberal Democrat Henry B. Gonzalez, backed by President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, defeated a conservative Republican in San Antonio's congressional election Saturday night.

Republican John Goode Jr., for whom former President Dwight D. Eisenhower campaigned, conceded the race at 9:20 p.m. (CST).

Kennedy sent Gonzalez a telegram saying, "My heartfelt congratulations on your victory tonight."

The final vote, with all 170 precincts complete, gave Gonzalez 52,836 to 42,486 for Goode.

Goode conceded the race a half hour after veteran GOP State Committeeman Joe Sheldon said that Gonzalez had won.

The judge of that court, Lynn W. Johnston, is on trial, accused of seeking love bribes from four young women, in exchange for judicial clemency in cases involving them, their relatives or friends.

DEFENSE counsel Melvin W. Belli has subpoenaed chief clerk Jerine Wood of the Downey court, to question her about "missing files."

Mrs. Wood, however, has notified Superior Court Judge James Whyte, who is presiding over the Johnston jury trial, that she is too ill to testify. A lawyer has presented to Judge Whyte a request that she be excused from the subpoena.

Judge Whyte has announced he will rule Monday on whether Mrs. Wood must appear in court as a defense witness and be questioned about Belli's allegations of missing files.

BEATS WINDS AND CLOUDS

Udall Climbs Mt. Fuji Through Fog in 6½ Hours

MT. FUJI, Japan, Sunday (AP)—Interior Secretary Stewart Udall climbed through clouds today to the 12,397-foot summit of Japan's famed Mt. Fuji. He made the climb—which he said he just had to make—without a mishap.

Two U.S. Marines accompanying Udall radioed that he spent 30 minutes on the snow-capped peak, then began his descent. Udall, along with veteran Japanese climbers, scaled Mt. Fuji in six hours and 36 minutes, the Marines said.

Experienced climbers at base camps said veteran alpinists can make the climb in about five hours. They said the secretary's time could be considered good for a relatively inexperienced climber.

Udall began the climb before dawn in a thick fog. However, by the time the party had reached the halfway mark, sharp winds had cleared the fog. At midday when the climbers neared the summit, heavy clouds swept in, enveloping the peak.

It was reported winds of 55 miles an hour lashed the summit and the temperature was 16 degrees above zero.

Obviously eager to get started, Udall emerged from his bed roll at 4 a.m. after a night during which stiff westerly winds rattled his shelter at station No. 5, about 5,000 feet up Fuji's slopes.

Holding an ice pick, Udall told newsmen, "We will have the wind speak to us; we will have the mountain speak to

L.A.C. Says: Allegiance Pledge and Loyalty Oaths

The so-called liberals are enjoying the controversy over the legislation passed last year which no longer makes it mandatory that schools have the Pledge of Allegiance each day. The Governor has been asked to place the issue on the agenda for the coming meeting of the legislature. Many of its members have expressed the feeling that the legislature was careless in passing such a measure—and should have a chance to change it back to the former rules of the State Board of Education. The Governor who signed the bill into law now indicates he also thinks it was unwise and should be reconsidered.

Service clubs, and many of our largest organizations take pride in starting their meetings with the Pledge to the Flag. They resent any suggestions that such a ceremony should be discontinued. They also resent the sneering attacks on those who object to legislation that makes it permissive to discontinue the Pledge in our schools.

There have been many efforts to eliminate loyalty oaths for school and other government employees. The California Democratic Council at its Fresno meeting last year, adopted the policy that "All state and federal non-disloyalty oaths should be abolished, including the oath provisions of the National Defense Education Act, as being inconsistent with the principals of American freedom and useless as well."

We would agree such an oath is useless to one who is disloyal. Such a person would care little about an oath. Many of these people are loud in proclaiming themselves against communism. But they continually seek to break down the established American system and dedication to patriotic ceremonies. They may be opposed to communism—but it can hardly be said they support Americanism.

Freedom of speech and even the freedom to refuse to Pledge Allegiance or take a loyalty oath is the legal right of every person. But it should also be the right and duty of government to refuse employment to anyone who refuses to take such an oath. If it is important to them not to willingly take such an oath—it is equally important that they not be placed in public employment.

We have many controversies over social securities, labor-management, how property is to be taxed and many other issues. But there should be no controversy over the duty of every American to willingly stand up and be counted when it comes to demonstrating his, or her, attitude as concerns an oath to defend the Constitution and to Pledge Allegiance to the symbol of America—which is our flag.

An organization may not have included the Pledge in its ceremonies. It may not now change its procedure to do so. This is not important. But we feel it is important when an organization decides to drop the procedure. We do not advocate the loyalty oath for all workers. But we question those who seek to abolish it where it has been a part of procedure. In particular, we question those who would abolish it for schools and other government employees where it has long been established.

The Governor has said he was considering placing the issues before the legislature when it meets in January. It cannot be considered at that session unless he does so place it on the agenda. He has pressure from the "liberals," including his own Democratic clubs to refuse to do this. It is an issue that should again be placed before the assemblymen and senators who, like the governor, now know there are many of their constituents who believe the Pledge of Allegiance should continue to be a part of every school day—where we are convinced our children take pride in the patriotic ceremony.—L.A.C.

Girl, 10, Killed by Mistake

POWNAI, Maine (AP)—A hunter who thought 10-year-old Brenda G. Broad of Portland was being kidnapped by two men fired a shotgun blast at their car Sunday, killing the girl, police said.

Authorities said Harold K. LaPierre Jr., 25, of Freeport told them he was returning from a hunting trip when he saw the men with the child. The two men with Brenda were Paul D. Levesque of Pownal and his father, William, with whom the girl, a state ward, was boarding.

LaPierre gave this account: "I thought they were trying to kidnap her or attack her. The man was dragging her into the car. She was screaming and yelling and fighting. "I ran over, took out my shotgun, loaded one shot and fired at the car as it was driving away."

The blast struck the child in the head, police said.

Pope Exhorts World to Peace

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII Saturday made an "anguished appeal" for peace and harmony among the peoples of a world he said is "always troubled, always restless, always under the threat of some fresh catastrophe."

New Defi to Nixon by Knight

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who insists he's in the Republican gubernatorial primary fight to stay, Saturday renewed his challenge to Richard M. Nixon for television debates.

"After all, with all due respect, Mr. Nixon has had more experience debating on television than I have," Knight told a news conference.

Knight, who has been a TV commentator in Los Angeles since he lost a bid for the U.S. Senate in 1958, said he never has asked Nixon personally for a debate. He has suggested it publicly, and Nixon has declined publicly.

THE FORMER governor, here to address a convention of state employees, said Nixon's refusal is "denying the people of California the right to test Mr. Nixon's qualifications and knowledge of state government, compared with mine."

Knight scoffed at reports that he intends to withdraw from the primary and run in the general election as an independent candidate.

He said the best evidence that he is in the primary fight to stay is that he has leased an office on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles for a campaign headquarters, equipped it with electric typewriters and duplicating machines, employed a press secretary and two campaign managers, and contracted for television time and ads in other media.

Brown to Back State Pay Raise

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Brown Saturday renewed his pledge to support a 5-per-cent pay raise for California's 120,000 state employees effective Jan. 1.

Brown told the California State Employees Association that the pay raise should be "a first order of business" before the legislature convening Feb. 5.

If the legislature makes it retroactive to Jan. 1, the cost will be $43 million in the 1962-63 state budget.

not unduly endanger the Soviet homeland, Soviet leaders must seize it. Not to do so would constitute a serious deviation from dialectic materialism's so-called Objective Laws of History and the Marxist-Leninist formulas derived from them," he said.

"Possession of the neutron bomb by the Soviet Union alone clearly would present such an opportunity," Hosmer continued. "Only by also possessing the weapon can the United States maintain its relative strength and assure itself the swift, and deadly retaliatory capacity it must constantly possess in order to deter Kremlin button-pushers."

"BUT THE CASE for U. S. development of the neutron bomb and for carrying out the atmospheric testing necessary to do so does not rest only on a continued ability to deter Soviet surprise attack. Neutron-bomb capability, even if possessed by both sides, would tend to make war, if it ever came, less inhumane than if conducted with present weapons. Therefore, the terror effect of war threats constantly emanating from Communist leaders would diminish and achievement of their ends by bluff, bluster and blackmail would be made more difficult."

"This is because the neutron bomb maximizes the radiation effects of a nuclear explosion while minimizing its blast and heat effects. Its deadly rays may penetrate several feet of concrete, kill instantly and create no fallout aftereffects. As a consequence, military forces would have to be removed from population centers where they now are concentrated for protection against the heat and blast effects of existing nuclear weapons and be dispersed for protection against the neutron weapon."

"THE CONGRESSMAN said such dispersal of military forces to sparsely populated open areas of relative safety from penetrating neutron rays will tend to isolate civilian population from the battlegrounds of war and thus make the conduct of war less deadly in terms of human and physical destruction."

"Far from being the terror weapon many think the neutron bomb to be, in actuality it has an opposite connotation," he declared.

"It is a fundamental of military science that the capabilities of available military weapons systems determine the size of the battlefield and thus the extent and nature of war's destruction. When only swords and spears were available, civilians were largely spared the destructive effects of war because the issue could be resolved between soldiers on a battlefield."

"IN CONTRAST, the conventional high-explosive weapons available during World War II proved inadequate for resolving defeat or victory on the battlefield. In consequence, civilian populations were drawn into the arena of conflict. Wholesale destruction of life and urban industrial complexes resulted. The same limitation exists on the employment of existing nuclear weapons stockpiles and total war involving entire populations could result. Almost an opposite result might be brought about by the availability of neutron weapons," he concluded.

Judge Lynn W. Johnston. Belli is famous for dropping the "bomb."

His unexpected and often dramatic demonstrations in court have won millions of dollars for his clients. Like the time when he had his client strip to the waist to prove she had been disfigured in an "uplift" demonstration.

As she disrobed, she wept. Later, Belli figured the tears were worth $30,000 apiece, based on the jury's damage award.

Belli was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, the son of Caesar Belli II, a Northern Californian who owned two banks.

OF HIS DAD, Belli says: "He was the last of the humane bankers. I think he spoke 17 languages, everything from Chinese to Pakistani, and he loaned out money in every one of them."

"He figured that the bank had money to put in circulation, not to hang on to it."

His father's banks eventually became part of the Bank of America, Belli recalls, and his dad turned down offers to become associated with that giant chain. Belli has named his youngest son Caesar III, after his late father.

WITH A background that might have enabled him to retire at 21, Belli—driven by a restless search for ways to help the "little man"—instead studied law at the University of California, and topped that with a year's study in Europe.

He returned to pass the bar "and I never passed another bar after that until I got hepatitis."

"Getting sick was one of the finest things that ever happened to me."

"After I went on the wagon, I found I could think better, work harder, work longer ... I wonder what ever happened to fun in life."

ALMOST FROM the beginning, he became a specialist as attorney for the plaintiff in tort (civil wrong) cases.

Pretty soon he was attracting nationwide attention. He began winning verdicts in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The result was that the defendants, usually insurance companies, found that a whole new standard of evaluation of personal injury had been established under their noses.

One of his most recent victories was against a firm that allegedly made a faulty polio vaccine. He won a $675,000 verdict two years ago for his client, a little boy.

"IT WASN'T nearly enough—and besides, we haven't collected yet," he snorts.

Belli's usual fee is a third. The silver spoon Belli had as a starting point in life began turning to gold. But even this wasn't enough for this restless lawyer in modified cowboy boots ("others hurt my feet").

He began writing books. His newest, "Ready for the Defense," is the twelfth and more are in the works.

Belli has turned to lecturing. His favorite audience is composed of his old foemen—insurance people. These lectures have been so well attended, and so profitable, that Belli is building a combination office and auditorium on Sunset Boulevard.

THERE, HE SAYS, he will spend "about a third of my time" in the future, practicing law in Southern California and running schools in his auditorium.

The classes will be for lawyers, insurance men, engineers—any professions that feel the need of instruction in law.

Meanwhile, he has turned more attention to criminal law. His defense of Judge Johnston has not been the only cause of his current visit to Southern California. He has another client.

He went to the movies with this other client a few nights ago, to see a movie called "The Birth of a Gangster."

HIS CLIENT'S comment was:

"I can't see why dey don't tell the 'trut' about dese 'tings.'"

Next day his client was arrested and jailed again. His name: Mickey Cohen.

It was Belli who spearheaded the appeal case that got Cohen out of penitentiary temporarily.

Belli presents a striking figure in court. His thick head of hair is almost solid silver. His tailored suits, of imported British fabric, show his broad shoulders and a figure that tapers down in the most approved Vic Tanny style.

His trousers become tucked in his boots as he walks on two-inch cowboy heels.

HE'S RESTLESS, often springs from his seat with startling speed. But his voice often is so low and calm that spectators strain to hear.

Then, as his cross-examination progresses, his voice rises steadily, but so evenly that it's a while before spectators even realize he's almost shouting.

Life magazine labelled him "the king of torts" in explaining how he rewrote the basis of personal-injury-suit awards. He accepts the title, and the attention that goes with it, in the gracious manner of a well-conditioned movie star.

Even when he walks the hallways to the courtroom, whispers rise around him: "That's Belli!"

AND HE works ... works ... works. During recesses he studies law, depositions, statements, evidence. He doesn't leave the courtroom at lunch. A 30-cent sandwich in a cellophane bag often remains uneaten while he ponders the case.

In the Johnston trial, quite often the "only" man in the courtroom at noon recess is the king of torts.

For Belli, the law is a deadly serious thing, but his sense of humor is quick and sharp.

FRIDAY THE district attorney's deputy was listening to a tape—supposedly erased—during the trial, and said across the courtroom:

"Would counsel like to hear some static?"

"Counsel's heard enough static today," Belli replied, sticking his nose back into a law book.

Even the prosecution's witness, sitting in obvious dread of impending cross-examination, was "broken up."

"Gotta hunt me up some law," he says, dodging into the judge's library.

"I wonder," said one lawyer, "if he's going to read it or write it."

missing file, but was blocked Monday morning as the prosecution nears the end of its case against the judge.

SHE HAS testified that Judge Johnston "propositioned" her in a Long Beach traffic circle parking lot.

Miss Dolphus said she carried a tape recorder in her purse at the time. The recordings are scheduled to be offered in evidence Monday.

Unemployed Man Confesses Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Charles Otto Wurtz, 49-year-old unemployed bookkeeper, walked into the FBI office here Saturday and confessed a bank robbery because his "conscience bothered him," the FBI reported.

The FBI said Wurtz told officers he held up a branch of the Crocker-Anglo bank in San Francisco last Oct. 18. The holdup netted $300.

MRS. MURPHY was asked whether she could identify Mrs. De Carlo, and said she could not.

The defense contends, Belli said in his opening address to the jury, that Mrs. De Carlo was present when Mrs. Murphy visited Judge Johnston in the latter's chambers.

Vida Dolphus, 26-year-old Anaheim redhead, is scheduled to resume the stand

Suspect Captured Driving Stolen Bus

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A man who told police he "just wanted to go to Santa Monica to see some friends" was jailed Saturday on charges he stole a city bus.

Police said Richard McWhorter, 42, was arrested driving the MTA bus.

Report Closing of 'Missile Gap'

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit News said Saturday President Kennedy has closed the "missile gap"—politically as well as militarily—on the strength of new intelligence information about Soviet Russia.

The News' Washington bureau chief, J. F. Ter Horst, reported "Russia's superbomb blackmail made it necessary, in Mr. Kennedy's opinion to publicly affirm this country's superiority" in missile strength and total retaliatory might.

"The result has been to discard the gap theory as a military figment and also to cancel it out as a democratic political issue," The News said.

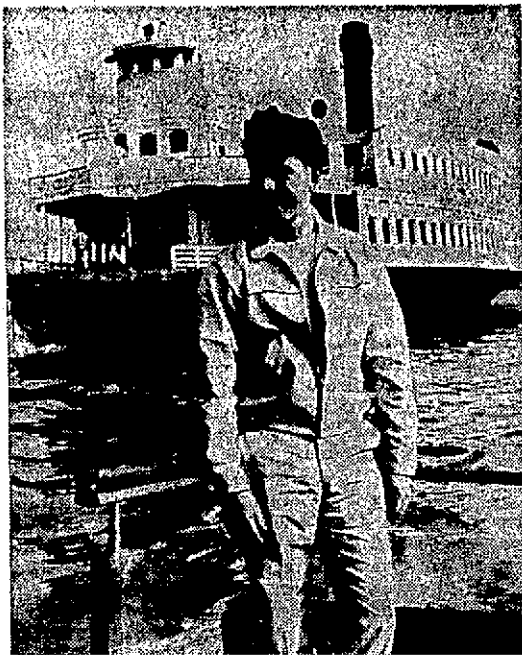

"The decision to do so publicly was reported to have been difficult for the administration."

"For one thing, there was a reluctance to let the Russians know that we had ferreted out—in a manner extremely secret—the size of their missile stockpile and its growth potential."

"But, it was said, the President overruled secrecy and political arguments because Soviet nuclear tests and pressures on Berlin and Southeast Asia had made it imperative that the U. S. declare in bold fashion that it was not being intimidated."

"The decision put Mr. Kennedy askew one of the prime Democratic issues of the 1960 campaign—that a budget-bound Republican administration had permitted the country to fall behind Russia."

"Now Mr. Kennedy's position on military strength is the same as was Gen. Eisenhower's last year. Administration intimates, however, insist that Mr. Kennedy is standing on known facts while Mr. Eisenhower was standing on faith."

went to Goode, 38, by a 2,727 to 1,327 margin.

THREE OTHER candidates received less than a thousand votes between them.

The special election was held to fill the vacancy in the 20th Congressional District left when veteran Democrat Paul Kilday resigned to become a judge of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals. Texas has 20 Democrats and one Republican in its House delegation.

VOTING HOURS were 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. (EST). The one-county district has 140,000 potential voters among its 600,000 residents.

Johnson endorsed Gonzalez in a series of statements. Mrs. Johnson also spoke in his behalf before the Vice President flew in Thursday night for a round of public and television appearances.

The acting House majority leader, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, also spoke at a Gonzalez rally, and President Kennedy, Gov. Price Daniel and Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

U.S. Doubts Reds Lost 3 in Space Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration discounted Saturday a report that the Soviet Union had launched and lost a space ship with three men aboard last month.

The New York World-Telegram & Sun reported that government space experts are investigating information indicating the space ship was sent into orbit Oct. 14. It said ultra-high frequency radio signals were received in Tokyo and elsewhere.

The World-Telegram & Sun said scientists believe the spaceship left its orbit and carried its crew into outer space and certain death.

Russ Helping U.S. Explore in Antarctic

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The United States, with Russia cooperating, plans to attempt today its longest—and potentially most hazardous—research flight over this ice-capped continent.

A Navy P2V Neptune plane, designed originally for anti-submarine warfare, will set out on a 3,500-mile triangular flight over the least-known sector of Antarctica in a new effort to chart the continent's hidden features by studying its magnetic forces.

THE VENTURE, starting from the U.S. base, will include a flight of about 1,500 miles across eastern Antarctica to the main Soviet scientific base at Mirny on the Indian Ocean, a hop of nearly 450 miles to the Australian-American Wilkes Station and then the return to McMurdo.

E. German Army Trains With Russ

BERLIN (UPI)—Adm. Waldemar Verner, deputy East German defense minister, Saturday said the East German Army in coordination with the Soviets has begun a "new phase of development" to strengthen it and prepare for modern war.

Verner said this resulted from the "military-political conclusions" drawn from a speech by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev at the Communist Party Congress in Moscow.

EAST GERMAN Communist boss Walter Ulbricht returned Friday from the Moscow meeting with a demand for conclusion of a German peace treaty, the end of Western rights in Berlin and control of Western routes to the city.

East Berlin police continued building their barbed wire barricades higher and higher —and on the roofs of buildings on the border line—but still a trickle of refugees made it to safety in West Berlin.

West Berlin police said seven eastern residents escaped between 7 a.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday. One was a 19-year-old girl who cut her way through barbed wire and then swam 200 yards through the icy waters of the Teltow Canal at 3 a.m.

A Communist railway policeman fled in civilian clothes, bringing his pistol with him.

4 Masked Men Take Furs Worth $40,000

MONTREAL (UPI)—Four masked gunmen robbed a furrier of $40,000 worth of mink, beaver, otter and Alaska seal furs Saturday and escaped in a truck after beating an employee with a revolver.

Big Nuclear Carrier Fast as Destroyer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy officials disclosed Saturday the huge nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise reached destroyer speed in her first sea trials.

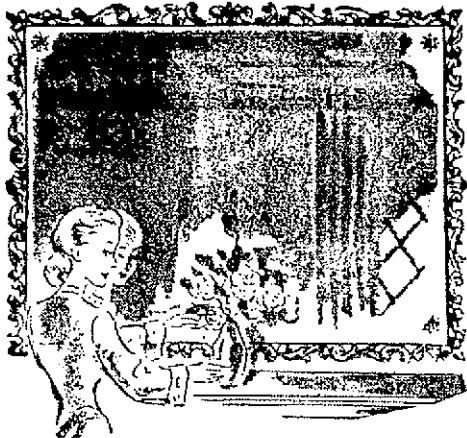

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, said the 85,000-ton Enterprise, powered by eight atomic-reactor engines, "exceeded by far" the predictions of the ship's designers.

"The ship has gone faster than any other carrier; it's gone in excess of 40 miles an hour in trial conditions," the admiral added in response to questions by a newsmen.

Anderson said every indication is that the designers and builders of this first nuclear carrier had "hit the jackpot."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ask Special U.N. Meeting on Congo

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ethiopia, Nigeria and Sudan Saturday requested an emergency meeting of the Security Council this week to cope with the deepening Congo crisis which they blamed on colonialist mercenaries.

Acting Secretary General Thant conferred with the Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, council chairman for November, and they were expected to call the council into session early in the week.

The request for the meeting was supported by a personal cable from Emperor Haile Selassie to Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia. Selassie said the Katanga forces "have been reinforced by 'certain colonialist powers' and that the central government had been forced to carry out new police actions.

Cadet Reappears

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (UPI)—An 18-year-old cadet who disappeared from the United States Military Academy last Aug. 30, Saturday appeared at his parents' home here and then surrendered to FBI agents.

Cadet Paul M. Weaver had been the object of a nationwide search since his disappearance by the FBI and military police.

Weaver's mother said her son was well and apparently spent the time since he left West Point wandering around the country. She said he is to return to West Point to try to "straighten out things there." Mrs. Weaver said the youth was to report to Ft. Hayes in Columbus, Ohio, Saturday night and was to go from there to West Point, probably to be charged with being AWOL.

Russ A-Tests Evil, Nehru Says

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said Saturday the resumption of Soviet nuclear tests was an evil thing and that it "is of the utmost importance to put an end to all nuclear tests by formal treaty."

The explosion of the big Soviet bomb "shocked us," he told reporters at London Airport where he arrived from India en route to the United States and talks with President Kennedy. Nehru held a two-hour-long extended luncheon discussion with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Informal sources said much of the conversation concerned nuclear testing.

French Atomic Blast Due

PARIS (UPI)—France was reported Saturday to be ready to resume nuclear testing with an underground blast in the Sahara Desert scheduled this weekend. It would be the fifth in a series of French nuclear blasts.

British Shun K Berlin Bid

LONDON (UPI)—British government sources Saturday said there was "little new" in Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's hints that Russia might be willing to make some concessions for a Berlin settlement.

They dismissed suggestions that formal negotiations on Berlin and Germany are just around the corner and said there is still "a long way" to go to any such East-West conference.

Jury Convicts Officer Killer

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—A Superior Court jury Saturday afternoon found Thomas Arroyo Estrada guilty of first-degree murder for killing a Van Nuys policeman.

Estrada, a 30-year-old ex-convict, also was found guilty on two counts of attempted murder and two counts of robbery. He was convicted for the fatal shooting of officer Sidney Riegel, 44, during a gunbattle last May 5 in which a second officer was wounded.

Rusk Arrives in Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, highest ranking U.S. official to visit South Korea since the military coup last spring, Saturday assured Koreans of continued American economic and military support against the threat of communism.

GOP in Dixie to Hit at JFK Liberalism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican strategists plan to make full use of President Kennedy's liberal policies as a weapon during the 1962 congressional campaigns in the South.

Lee Potter, commander-in-chief of "Operation Dixie," said Saturday the Republicans intend to saddle every Democratic candidate in the South with the liberal policies of the President.

"Mr. Kennedy hasn't hurt our chances any," Potter said. "He has boosted our opportunities considerably."

Potter said that for many years Republican candidates were stymied during the campaign because they could not find any issues against the conservative-voting Democratic congressmen.

"Operation Dixie" encompasses the 11 states of the old Confederacy plus Kentucky. In the 1960 elections, the Republicans held on to their eight seats but made no gains.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman met briefly with Mayor Robert F. Wagner Saturday on a party-endorsement mission designed to kill off one of the strongest Republican bids for New York's City Hall since the 1930's.

The back-slapping political visit, which followed by two days a similar brief stop here by President Kennedy, was hailed by local Democrats as the one-two punch that could stop Republican

CRACK SHOT AT 103

James White Calf of the Blackfoot Indian Reservation at Browning, Mont., also known as Last Guns, showed Saturday he was no slouch when it comes to shooting a pistol. The 103-year-old Indian, on a visit to Seattle, hit the bullseye once and came mightily close three other times.—(P)

Russ Ready Fete for Anniversary

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union celebrates the 44th anniversary of the Russian revolution Tuesday with the accent on hoped-for future peace and prosperity.

But Western observers in Moscow expect the Berlin crisis and current East-West tension may produce a strong military display.

Moscow for the last week has been blooming with Red flags and banners bearing slogans hailing the nation's march toward communism.

The main Moscow boulevard is strung with chains of bright lights and the traditional portraits of Lenin and Marx. Pictures of the newly elected ruling Communist party presidium decorate the walls of main buildings.

GOVERNMENT offices are working through this Sunday after which the country officially will be on a three-day holiday until Nov. 9.

Many a hard-drinking Russian is expected to use it for a continual binge. Stores already are jammed with citizens laying in an ample supply of food and vodka.

Highlight of the celebrations will be a military and civilian parade through Red Square. It will be about five hours long and will start early Tuesday morning.

The military will be followed by half a million Soviet citizens riding on floats, marching with banners, balloons, and flowers past the reviewing stand.

As in recent years, the military emphasis is expected to be on giant cannons. But Western observers also have seen medium tanks rumbling through the square in mid-night rehearsals for the holiday parade.

NO TANKS have been shown either in the Nov. 7 or May Day parades for four years. Westerners have interpreted it as an effort to tone down the military emphasis of the celebrations.

It also has been speculated

Best of Students Have a Life Goal

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

Students who have a goal in life are the ones who do the best work in high school and college—and afterwards. No later than the sophomore year of high school, he should have a program of courses which will meet college requirements and lead toward a specific degree. Otherwise, he may encounter needless delays in his career as he makes up for courses he neglected to take.

How do you know whether your son or daughter is picking the right career?

TIME, OF COURSE, is the only sure test. But here are two preliminary questions you can ask which may prevent heartbreak and failure later on:

1. Is it a field in which he is truly interested?
2. Is it a field for which he is truly suited?

"There are so many alternatives for careers today that the child and the parent become understandable frustrated," remarks Meredith Wiley, instructor in personnel management and member of the committee on personnel research at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"PERHAPS THE best advice is that the parent come to know his child's genuine interests.

"I don't mean the interests expressed on a contrived test. Such tests can be quite helpful, but they can sometimes be quite unreliable—especially when the child answers questions in a way which he thinks will meet the approval of parents or teachers.

"The thing to really watch for is that subject which makes him sparkle and overflow with enthusiasm.

"WHEN THIS interest and the thing he does best come somewhere near one another, you are on the right track in helping him select a career.

"But a word of caution: You can only guide him. The final choice must be his own."

A true interest will survive a searching, realistic investigation. Sometimes the career looks interesting from afar, but, like a cactus, loses its charm on closer investigation.

ENCOURAGE THE student to find out about the hours of work, the pay as compared with that of other jobs, the routine, and disadvantages. He should discuss the job with somebody who has been working at it for a long time.

If, after this exploration, the youngster still likes the field, perhaps it is the right one for him. We say perhaps, for there is the second question:

Is the job one for which he is suited physically, mentally and emotionally?

IS YOUR SON is color blind, an extravert, and a mathematical genius, it is questionable whether he could be happy as a landscape painter.

Without pushing the child into anything, the task of school and home is to define his longings, his strengths and weaknesses and guide him into his proper orbit. It is a launching as delicate and important as any that takes place at Cape Canaveral.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent Press-Telegram. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in the "Grade Card" column.)

Mayor Proclaims Better to Just Forget-Me-Not Park the Car for the Winter

Annual Forget-Me-Not Days in Long Beach will be Nov. 7 to Nov. 11, by proclamation of Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

Otto H. Hinkson Sr., vice commander of the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 17, sponsor of the sale of forget-me-nots here, said all members who wish to participate in the drive should see him in room 202, Veterans Memorial Building between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily.

Funds raised go for hospital work and claims work for disabled veterans and dependents.

Crystal Lake Road Ribbon-Cutting Set

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ribbon-cutting ceremonies are scheduled Monday to mark the opening of Crystal Lake Road between San Gabriel Canyon Road and Angeles Crest Highway.

The State Division of Highways said the Azusa Chamber of Commerce and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of San Gabriel Valley are sponsoring the ceremonies.

The road, a southern entrance to Angeles National Forest, cost approximately $4,250,000.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Rather than wait in line at a service station, a Wichita man decided to winterize his car himself.

With the job barely under way, a wrench slipped, breaking a sparkplug and injuring his thumb.

He borrowed a neighbor's car to go buy a new sparkplug and scraped a fender in backing out.

The job finally completed, he took his newly winterized car out for a spin. The engine overheated, a hose broke and the new anti-freeze ran out. Reason: thermostat was installed backward.

Said the red-faced, do-it-yourselfer: "Please don't tell anybody it happened to me."

Widow Asks K to Probe Trotsky Case

PARIS (UPI)—Mrs. Natalia Sedova Trotsky took note Saturday of the anti-Stalin campaign in Russia and demanded that the Soviet Union publicly investigate the slaying of her husband, Leon Trotsky, in Mexico in 1940.

She also asked the fate of her son, Serge Sedov, who was arrested by the Russians in 1935 and never heard of again.

Trotsky was living in exile in Mexico when an assassin crushed his skull with a pickaxe as he sat at his desk in a villa near the Mexican capital. Trotsky, one of the original Bolshevik leaders, died the next day.

The killer, known as Frank Jackson and as Jacques M. Van Der Dreschd, was arrested and convicted but insisted throughout his imprisonment he was not a hired Soviet assassin. He was freed in 1959 and last was reported in Communist Czechoslovakia.

Mrs. Trotsky, who lives in the suburbs of Mexico City, made her demands in identical letters to the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet and to the Communist Party Central Committee.

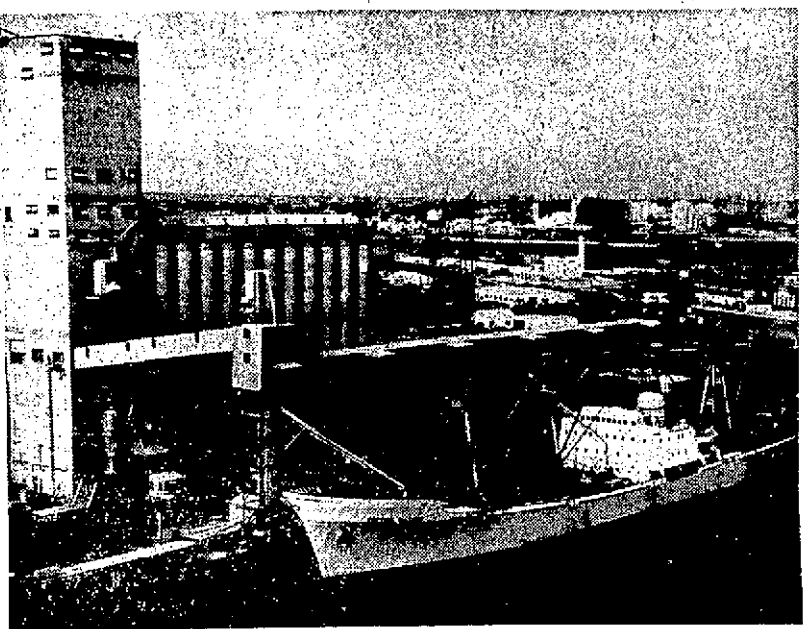

The letter was made public here by the international secretariat of the "Fourth International," an organization founded by Trotsky in 1958.

"You have just revealed the Stalin provocations committed, under cover of the assassination of Kirov, against the old Bolsheviks," she wrote.

"I demand that you proceed with a total revision and publication of the Moscow trial, in which the chief accused were Leon Trotsky and my son Leon Sedov.

"I DEMAND a public and complete investigation on the methods used by the OGPU (secret police) against Trotsky, and on the assassination of Leon Trotsky in Mexico, the originators and the executors of the crime.

"I demand to know the fate

TALENTED, LETHARGIC

Sioux Artist Does Jail Mural Again

PIERRE, S.D. (AP)—Another cell-wall portrait of Christ brought brief freedom to Indian artist Jack Rencountre, but he was behind bars again Saturday working with his crude enamels and cardboard palette.

Rencountre, a lean, 26-year-old Sioux, was arrested Friday for disturbing the peace. The judge offered him his freedom for a second mural of "Christ in the Garden" or 10 days in the workhouse.

Seven years ago, Rencountre, of my other son, Serge Sedov, arrested in 1935 and whose only crime was being the son of Leon Trotsky.

"I demand the publication in Russian of the complete works of Leon Trotsky, begun in the Lenin era, and of which 22 times already had been published before they were banned and falsified by Stalin," the letter said.

tre, who has had no formal art training, was brought to book and given the same choice. He elected to do the painting, won freedom, wide attention, and an offer of an art scholarship from an affluent New York woman.

BUT RENCOUNTRE had disappeared into the South Dakota prairies by the time the offer arrived.

Rencountre's picture of Christ, highlighted in green and blue tints, is a four-foot-square work of the night in Gethsemane before the crucifixion. He uses hardware-store enamel and a piece of cardboard for a palette.

After the first picture, Rencountre took to the road to seek work as a now-and-then ranch hand. Now, the old city jail, condemned, faces demolition and with it will go Rencountre's jail-wall Christ.

Tuesday he completed his second Gethsemane scene, perched on a ladder in the new city jail. It earned his freedom, but a public intoxication charge brought him back.

Now, there will be no deals. Rencountre is serving 10 days, and Police Chief Morris Michaelson has given him his choice of painting traffic markers or applying his skill to a wall in the women's cell.

"He likes to paint," says Michaelson with a hint of exasperation. "But he doesn't seem to want to do anything with his talent."

THIS TIME Rencountre works at "Praying Hands," a familiar religious picture theme taken from a woodcut by Albrecht Durer, a 15th-Century German artist.

One of seven brothers, Rencountre was born on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation, about 60 miles south of Pierre.

Why doesn't he paint steadily, develop his talent and try to make a living at it? "I couldn't make money doing it," he says. "If people want pictures it's too easy for them to buy them at the dime store."

Asked if Rencountre would be back soon, Michaelson said: "No, I don't think so. I think he'll just take off for the road again when his current sentence is finished."

Porumbeanu and Heiress Flying to N.Y.

PARIS (AP)—Gamble Benedict Porumbeanu and her husband arrived in Paris Saturday with their baby son and said they planned to fly to New York today.

The runaway heiress, who eloped with a Romanian-born former chauffeur in defiance of her grandmother, refused to talk to newsmen.

Porumbeanu explained they want to be present when the will of the grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Geddes Benedict, comes up for probate, in case they want to raise any objections. Porumbeanu said he does not believe any objection will be made.

Radioactive Rubbish Fails to Pollute Sea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission reported today it has surveyed two Pacific Ocean sites where radioactive wastes are dumped and has found no detectable radioactivity due to the disposal operations.

"Assays of sample of bottom sediment, organisms and bottom-caught fish revealed no evidence of radioactivity above natural background levels," the AEC statement said.

The sites, long used as chemical and explosive dumping grounds, are (1) on the seaward side of the Farallon Islands, approximately 48 miles west of the Golden Gate, and (2) in the Santa Cruz Basin, approximately 32 miles southwest of Port Hueneme, Calif.

Water depth at both places is at least 6,000 feet, the mini-

MEDICINE AND YOU

Heart Victims Steady on Job

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.

Industrial workers who have recovered from a heart attack have no greater absenteeism from the job than other workers, provided they are assigned to suitable work.

The finding is that of Dr. Neill K. Weaver, of the medical department at the Baton Rouge refinery of the Humble Oil Co.

In the American Heart Journal he describes a study of 100 employees (average age: 50) who resumed industrial work after a heart attack. These workers, part of a 7,500-man refinery work force, worked an average of 4.7 years after their initial heart attack.

The study shows that the heart-attack victims had 10 calendar days of disability per person each year, while the average for all workers in the plant was 9.9 days annually. Only 2.7 days of the 10 absent each year were due to cardiovascular disease.

THE NEW ANTI-STERILITY drug, identified only by a code number in recent news stories, is chloramphenicol, discloses Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of the University of Georgia Medical School.

The drug, still experimental and not available to the public at present, induces ovulation. In trials it has enabled hitherto barren women to become pregnant.

Chloramphenicol is a chemical relative of TACE, a synthetic female hormone (estrogen). TACE is a trade name for chlorotrianisene.

The new drug is identified in a report in the medical journal Fertility and Sterility.

A NEW YORK dental products firm has developed a plastic resin—Densene Muc-Tone—which makes false teeth undetectable from the real thing.

The new material, reported to the American Dental Association, is a translucent paste containing color pellets and tiny fibers. This mixture, say researchers, produces a chameleon quality that reflects the exact shading of the gums to the denture.

The substance, the researchers explain, "borrows color from the patient's own mouth."

CAN A PERSON'S job cause mental illness? Yes, says Dr. Robert L. Vosburg, a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association. Often, however, the occupational factor merely is the triggering force.

A promotion may precipitate a guilt-ridden neurosis, he says. Decision-making may create great anxiety. And sharp business practices may be morally abhorrent to the individual and thus provide a source of continual conflict.

IF YOU HAVE seat belts in your car, you can get a reminder sticker (FASTEN SEAT BELT) for your dashboard by writing:

Automotive Safety Subcommittee, Colorado State Medical Society, Republic Bldg., Denver 2, Colo.

Enclose 5 cents, coins or stamps. Also a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The subcommittee recommends that the sticker be applied to the dash in front of the right passenger space.

Rayburn Jokes; Seems Stronger

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, wasted by incurable cancer, managed to laugh Saturday at a joke his nurse told him.

"He seemed in real good spirits," she said. Rayburn, 79, ate toast, jelly and a poached egg with his breakfast milk.

A morning bulletin from Dr. Joe Risher, who is attending Rayburn at the 15-room hospital in his home town, said: "Although the speaker slept little last night, he is alert and seems stronger."

Heater Kills Four on Hopi Reservation

KEAMS CANYON, Ariz. (UPI)—Three sisters and a brother of the Wesley Ponema family were found dead Saturday in their stone and adobe house on the Hopi reservation.

The four apparently were asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes from a new unvented propane heater. The victims were identified as Clara Mae Ponema, 29; Amelia, 14; Nancy, 10, and Albert, 8.

ORVILLE R. FOSTER
Presents Demonstration Series

Officer Cited for Capture

Patrolman Terry C. Brown, a 10-year veteran on the Long Beach force, has received an official commendation for his participation in the capture of a murder suspect.

Chief William J. Mooney commended Brown for his "efficiency and alertness on Oct. 27 in connection with the arrest of Melvin Thomas Darling, a San Francisco robbery-murder suspect."

BROWN, 37, spotted the suspect's car parked at the Lafayette Hotel only minutes after the police broadcast describing the vehicle.

The officer, Chief Mooney said, immediately notified the detective division and participated in the capture of Darling, a two-time loser.

Brown was riding a three-wheel motorcycle at the time he spotted the car.

Mexico Train Wreck Kills 4, Injures 26

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Four persons were killed and 26 injured in the head-on collision of a passenger train and freight train near La Piedad, about 200 miles west of Mexico City, officials said Saturday.

The freight train was ahead of schedule when it collided with the passenger train from Guadalajara.

Groundbreaking Set for Library at Seal Beach

Ground will be broken Monday at 9:30 a.m. for Seal Beach's new branch of the Orange County Free Library System.

The structure will be built at the northeast corner of Eighth Street and Central Avenue, facing City Hall, and will contain 3,000 square feet of floor space. This is about four times as much space as the library now has in the City Hall.

James Pragastis is financing the construction for lease to the county.

New Jersey, NYC Races in Spotlight

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—City Hall in New York and the State House in New Jersey are the biggest prizes at stake next Tuesday in off-year elections in which hundreds of state and city offices will be filled.

Virginia also will elect a governor and other officials in a state where the Democrats dominate. Kentucky will elect half of its state Senate and all of its state representatives in another state where the Democrats are dominant.

Many states will vote on constitutional amendments or other statewide propositions. Ohio and New Jersey will vote on proposals for keeping the government functioning in case of nuclear attack wipes out the state administration. Ohio also will vote on a reorganization of the state militia for home defense, including a plan to make women eligible for service.

IN NEW YORK, the odds-makers have made Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner the favorite to win re-election despite a lively challenge from Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Republican nominee.

In New Jersey, James P. Mitchell, the Republican candidate and secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration, is favored to win the governorship. His Democratic opponent is Richard J. Hughes, a former judge.

If these two major elections follow the book, the outcome will be less than a standoff from the Democratic viewpoint. A democratic defeat in New Jersey would mean the loss of a politically important state in which Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner has been head man for the two four-year terms.

A MITCHELL victory would mean much to the liberal wing of the GOP, which hopes to set up a broad base in the Middle Atlantic states in elections this year and next. Mitchell is viewed as politically akin to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in neighboring New York, who is expected to be a major contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination if he wins re-election next year.

Although national issues are not directly involved in the Tuesday voting, former president Eisenhower campaigned in both New Jersey and New York City and talked national politics. President Kennedy responded by invading the same territory in behalf of the Democratic candidates last Thursday.

In Virginia, the Democratic candidate is Albert S. Harrison Jr., former state attorney general, who was nominated in July primary contest with the backing of the state Democratic organization led by Sen. Harry F. Byrd. His Republican opponent is H. Clyde Pearson.

PENNSYLVANIA will hold one statewide election, filling a 21-year term on the state supreme court. The judgeship now is held by Anne X. Alpern, a Democratic appointed by Gov. David L. Lawrence and first woman to sit on the court. She is running for the elective term against Republican Henry X. O'Brien, a Pittsburgh judge.

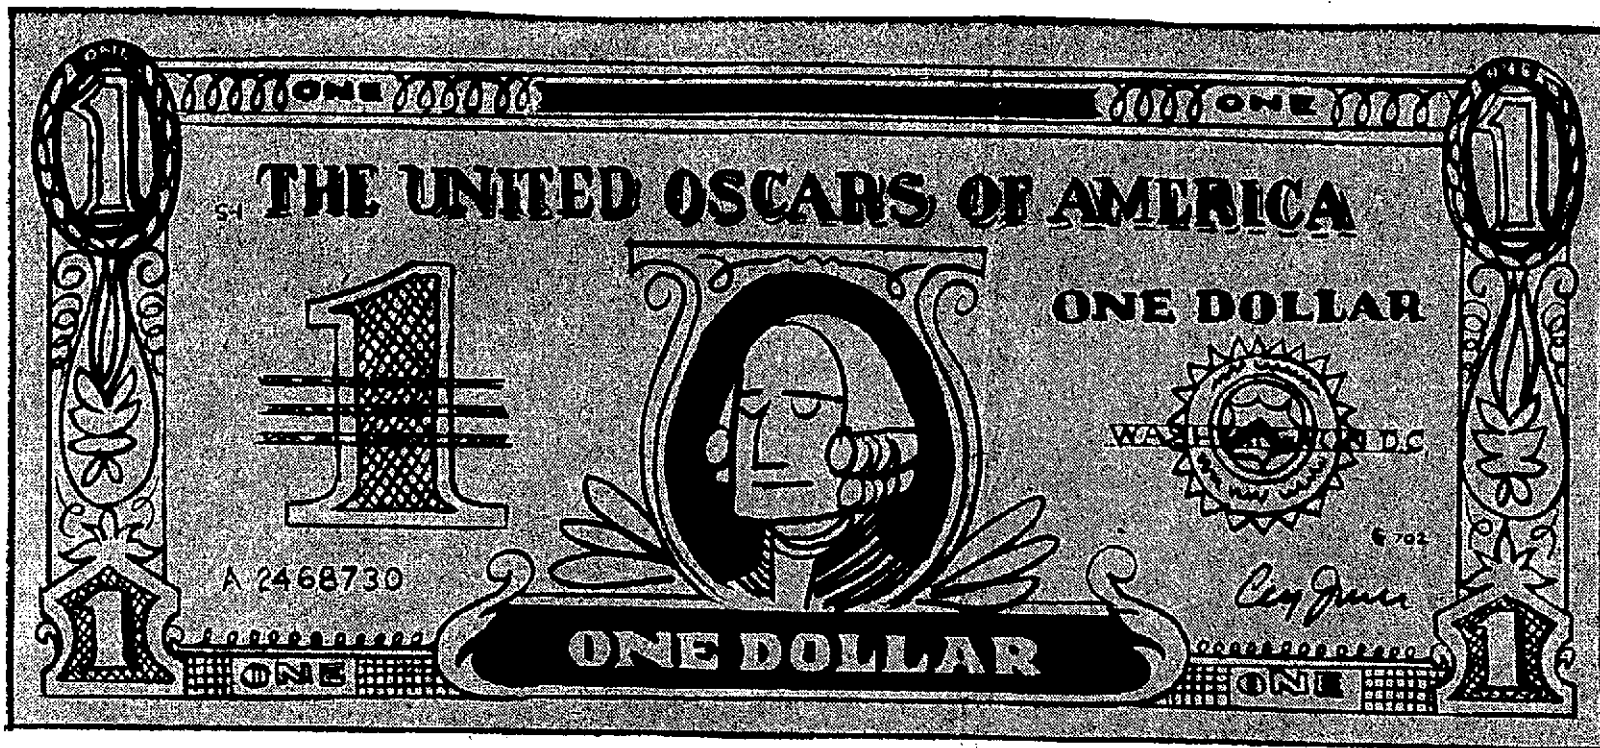

Pennsylvania also will vote on a constitutional amendment which would permit a governor to succeed himself.

A special election will be held in Michigan's first congressional district to fill the seat of former Democratic Rep. Thaddeus M. Machrowicz, whom Kennedy appointed to a federal judgeship.

Along with New York, major cities holding partisan municipal elections include Oakland, Calif., Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn., Louisville, Ky., Buffalo, N.Y., Cleveland, Youngstown and Akron, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Cities holding nonpartisan elections include Cincinnati and Toledo, Ohio, Salt Lake City, Utah, and San Francisco.

Profit-Sharing Versus Wash-Up Time

DETROIT (AP) — The importance put on working conditions in contract bargaining within the auto industry was pointed up anew at a Kenosha, Wis., plant of American Motors Corp.

It appears that 3,624 production workers at Kenosha had rather keep a five-minute wash-up time than share in any future company profits.

That number voted at Kenosha to reject the first profit-sharing contract in the history of the auto industry, and the main complaint was against giving up the company-paid five minutes heretofore devoted to washing up.

But 6,738 of Kenosha Local 72 of the United Auto Workers union cast ballots for profit-sharing, and the new voting upset a previous 63-vote majority against ratification in a previous election in which only about a fourth of the local's 12,000 members took part.

Local-level issues, rather than paycheck dollars and cents, proved the knottiest throughout 1961 contract bargaining, which virtually wound up with initialing of a new agreement between the UAW and Chrysler Corp. at Detroit.

Studebaker-Packard, fifth and smallest, now is the only automaker without a new three-year contract which the UAW estimates is worth more than 12 cents hourly in new take-home pay over each year.

The contracts retain built-in automatic wage annual increases.

Shipping Man Dies

increases of six cents hourly or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater, and a cost-of-living allowance. They also provide for full company payment of hospital-medical insurance, instead of a 50-50 split; higher pensions and life insurance; and 62 per cent of gross pay for any hours fewer than 40 in a short workweek.

Only at American Motors is profit-sharing included. There workers will get 10 per cent, after an amount equal to 10 per cent of the company's net worth is set aside for stockholders. Workers also will get a five per cent bonus in stock.

Guards Tiptoe for Royal Baby

LONDON (AP) — Sentries outside Clarence House did not stamp their nailed boots on the ground as usual when turning at the end of their beat Saturday. Instead they adopted a new soft shoe routine.

A War Office spokesman said that, although no official order had been issued, it was possible that someone from Princess Margaret's household had said "a quiet word to the Guard commander about keeping his chaps quiet" so as not to disturb the new baby.

Chemicals Sterilize Insects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government scientists have reported a new way of making insects unable to reproduce themselves without interfering with the bugs' love life.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said its experts have applied sexually sterilizing chemicals (chemosterilants) to a wide variety of insects including houseflies, mosquitos, boll weevils and screwworms.

"Sterilized females laid no eggs and the eggs laid by fertile females that mated with sterile males did not hatch," the department said in the current issue of Agricultural Research.

"Sexual vigor and mating behavior were not affected," it added.

If the technique can be applied on a wide scale it may eliminate many destructive and dangerous insect pests, the report said.

It said that chemical sterilization did not seem to reduce the competition among male bugs for female attention.

When radiation was used, the report said, it always reduced the sexual vigor of males and this meant that more male bugs were required to compete with normal males if the same effect on reproduction was desired.

Scientists Warn of Space Germ Threat

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—Human life on earth could be wiped out by strange unknown bacteria from other planets, unless effective decontamination methods are developed for space vehicles, Lockheed scientists said today.

A searching program covering study of biological decontamination techniques and construction of ground and in-flight sterilization units was proposed by a team from Lockheed Missiles & Space Co.

In a historical comparison, the scientists pointed out that an ordinarily mild children's disease like measles became a rampaging killer when introduced to the South Sea Islands by Europeans during the 18th century. The long-isolated Polynesians had no immunity to it.

Whooping cough and mumps were almost as deadly on some Pacific islands.

THERE COULD be a 20th century space age parallel that could affect the whole human race when spacecraft return to earth after initial landings on Mars and Venus, perhaps within 10 years.

Lockheed scientists noted that not only living biological matter from other planets can carry bacteria, but also every extra-terrestrial specimen of rock, soil and atmosphere could be suspected of transmitting infectious matter harmful to man, animals and plants.

Equally dangerous could be introduction of unknown forms of plant life that might play havoc with the established order of life on earth.

Such plant material might be present on film and tape records and sampling instruments brought back from extra-terrestrial surfaces.

This material must be sterilized, handled aseptically and, if possible, decontaminated of living organisms, the scientists said.

STERILIZATION could take place on the alien planet or in flight back to earth, by means of remote control units, or on earth itself in a sealed off area.

The scientists also noted that sterilization is a two-way affair. Space vehicles launched from earth should be completely antiseptic to prevent contamination of other planets and the moon by earth bacteria.

"Without proper sterilization, it is very possible to destroy invaluable clues to the origin of the universe and of life itself, which may be within the lunar strata and under the atmospheres of strange planets," a Lockheed scientist said.

"The deposit of earth microorganisms on extra-terrestrial surfaces could render doubtful the subsequent space research results of an evolutionary and even theological character."

THE VAN NUYS section of Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. already has designed and built a prototype sterilizing unit for the lunar landing range space vehicle. The first ranger, using a Lockheed agency second stage, was launched last August.

In the long-range study, scientists recommended that spacecraft be developed to facilitate sterilization of all components. Among the methods of sterilization and decontamination that should be investigated for either earth or space operations, the scientists suggested:

Ultrasonic vibrations, radiation, dry heat, chemical disinfectant, extreme cold, dehydration and mechanical destruction.

When manned space exploration is possible, the sterilization procedures will extend to space suit exteriors and the areas between the space vehicle cabin and the outer environment. Sterile procedures must be devised for astronauts reentering the space vehicle and maintaining a sterile airlock prior to retrieval operations on earth.

Duke of Windsor to Sell Ranch

CALGARY, Alta. (AP)—Col. Douglas Kennedy announced Saturday the Duke of Windsor plans to sell his 4,000-acre ranch near High River, Alta.

Col. Kennedy, ranch manager since 1956, did not name any purchaser or the price sought. Sales have been announced for all livestock on the ranch, which includes Hereford and Galloway cattle, Welsh ponies and about 800 pigs. The ranch has been the property of the Duke of Windsor 42 years. He took a personal interest in the operation of the ranch for many years.

In 1956 a group in Great Britain including the Duke of Windsor and Col. Kennedy formed the E. P. Ranching Co. to take over the operation.

Lions Grant Vern Hedden Life Membership in Club

Vern D. Hedden, who for 27 years has made and presented gavels to Lion's Club officials in this area, was honored at the 40th anniversary luncheon of the Downtown Lions Club in the Wilton Hotel.

Having previously presented Hedden with a huge 17-pound gavel and a miniature gold lapel gavel pin, the Downtown Club gave him a life membership and a bound book with letters of appreciation from most of the gavel recipients.

Those who received gavels include 128 Long Beach area club presidents, at least 12 district governors and an international president.

The life membership was only the second ever given by the Downtown Club. The first went to Bob Swanson, now deceased.

Hedden, a retired city civil engineer, joined the Downtown club in April, 1922, and is a past deputy district governor of the Lions. He and his wife, Nina, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Wesleyana Acquired by Duke U.

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—The Duke University library has acquired the "largest and best collection" of the writings of John and Charles Wesley in America and "one of the most outstanding in the world."

University officials Saturday said the Frank Baker collection of Wesleyana and British Methodism includes some 17,500 volumes, documents and manuscripts.

The 1,500 editions which make up the Wesleyana collection constitute about half of the 3,000 Wesley publications known to exist, university officials said.

JOHN WESLEY was the founder of Methodism and his brother Charles its early poet and hymn writer.

Some 300 of the editions have not been previously listed in published Wesley biographies and 50 appear to be unique in America, library officials added.

The addition of the Baker collection completes the picture at Duke for Dr. Baker, a former secretary of the Wesley Historical Society in England, who joined the faculty in September. He holds joint appointments as associate professor of religion in the University's Department of Religion.

The acquisition of the collection was announced by Dr. Benjamin E. Powell, university librarian, and Dean Robert E. Cushman of the Divinity School.

New Foreign Trade Look Urged by Business, U. S.

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The government and a big segment of business directed sharp attention to the vital problems of foreign trade last week.

More than 2,000 businessmen engaged in international commerce gathered in New York City for the National Foreign Trade convention.

They heard the Kennedy administration advocate a foreign economic policy of open competitive trading for the entire non-Communist world. And they voiced demands that this country act to eliminate foreign restrictions against its exporters.

MEANWHILE, on the domestic scene major interest was centered on the automobile industry, where the United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. teetered on the brink of a strike.

A walkout at Chrysler would be the third in the key industry in close succession. The UAW struck General Motors and Ford before reaching contract agreements.

The administration's proposal for a new international trade policy was outlined by George W. Ball, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, in a speech to the foreign trade convention.

He said the President should be given power to make "much broader and more ambitious bargains on behalf of United States industry." And, he added, there must be a basis for an open trading world extending beyond the European common market.

EARLIER, Christian A. Herter, a secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state for economic affairs in the Truman administration, had recommended a trade partnership with the common market and a departure from restrictions on international trade.

Overtime operations by General Motors and Ford, catching up after the strike shutdowns, kept auto production at a high level this week. Output was estimated at 152,000 passenger cars second this year only to last week's 159,136.

Production in October totaled 567,200 cars, a drop of 60,000 from October 1960, due to the two-week strike at Ford. The industry scheduled assembly of 680,000 cars for this month, highest in 21 months.

Steel output last week posted an increase after three weekly declines. The total of 2,057,000 tons was 0.7 per cent above the previous week.

THIS BROUGHT the total for the year to 78,721,000 tons, down 8.5 per cent from the comparable 1960 period.

October production showed little improvement over September and not much of an increase was expected for November. Industry executives expressed disappointment that orders from the automakers are increasing at such a slow rate.

A flood of corporate earnings reports gushed from directors' meetings. Profits exceeded those of the 1960 third quarter, showing the results of recovery from the recession. But results were spotty.

Among companies reporting were two of the country's biggest—Ford and U. S. Steel. Ford announced earnings of $79.8 million, highest since the firm became publicly owned in 1956, and well above the $51.4 million a year ago. U. S. Steel's profit inched downward to $51.7 million from $52.4 million in the 1960 third quarter.

BECAUSE of improvement in October, Baltimore, St. Louis, Seattle and Flint, Mich., were removed from the Labor Department's list of areas with substantial unemployment. They had been listed as having 6 per cent or more of their work forces jobless. Now their unemployment is rated at 3 to 6 per cent.

Other newly reported business indicators include: New orders received by manufacturers in September increased $110 million to $32.2 billion; manufacturers' sales held steady at $32.1 billion; manufacturers added $400 million to inventories, bringing them to $53.8 billion.

Consumers reduced their installment debt in September by $75 million, compared with an increase of $26 million in August.

Spending for new construction in October declined 0.3 per cent to $58.4 billion from the record September level.

Briefly around the business scene: Tax Foundation, Inc., reports state legislatures this year enacted more than 60 tax changes which are expected to increase collections by nearly $1 billion a year.

LBSC Looks Back Upon Humble Beginnings

By ROBERT WILCOX
(First of a Series)

Classes in living rooms. Offices in kitchens. Files in bathrooms. Labs in garages.

This was the picture of Long Beach State College in 1949 when the school set up operations in a rented apartment building at 5401 E. Anaheim St.

Professors fondly recall fresh-air faculty meetings under the shelter of a pepper tree.

Situated since 1954 on its city-donated 320-acre campus on a portion of the historic Bixby Ranch, the school today begins a week-long celebration of its second annual "College Days in Long Beach."

Marking the observance this year is the biggest building program in the college's history. More than $11 million worth of construction is under way on the campus at the present time, bringing the state's capital outlay there to $34 million.

Scheduled to be completed by Dec. 1 is a 20,800-square-foot addition to the administration building which will allow counseling, testing, personnel and student services offices to move from other parts of the campus to the building.

This in turn, says Dr. Francis J. Flynn, executive dean for development, will provide more space for business, admissions and records offices which now handle a larger volume of work due to surging enrollment.

The project is one of five under construction. The others are the $5.3 million science building, the $2.5 million engineering unit, the $2 million fine arts building and the $1 million liberal arts building.

The most expensive building, including equipment, on campus, the science building, will be completed by Christmas and ready for use in the second semester of this school year. It will contain 112,000 square feet.

Built in a U shape around a courtyard to be used for outdoor laboratories, the engineering building will house 10 labs and offices for the college's fast-growing engineering division, now in its fifth year. Move-in date for the 56,000-square-foot complex is next Feb. 1.

Studies and ceramic labs, as well as additional space for art, are included in the 73,000-square-foot fine arts building, which also will be occupied next February.

The final building to be finished will be the liberal arts building—fifth of the type to be constructed on the campus. The 40,000-square-foot structure, offering classrooms, teaching labs and special facilities for audio-visual services, will be ready by next September.

Completed since the last "College Days" event were a $200,000 utilities expansion program for the new buildings and 1,900 additional parking spaces paid for by parking fees on the "commuter campus."

In the future, as outlined on the college's master plan, are a classroom-locker room addition to the physical education facilities and a permanent building for the student health service.

Long-range plans now call for several additional classroom and faculty-office buildings, another engineering complex, another industrial arts building, an addition to the home economics building, an auditorium, a student activities building, a number of additional dormitories and a dormitory dining hall.

These facilities are aimed at handling an enrollment which is expected to double from its present 11,600 in the next decade, possibly making Long Beach the largest of California's 16 state colleges.

The enrollment climb is expected to be such that even a record construction year like 1961-62 will be only a temporary help.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, college president, estimates: "This should take care of our needs only for about two years."

That would leave the college in cramped quarters again some time before the "College Days" of 1964.

But it's still been a long trip from the apartment kitchens of 1949.

AGAINST BACKGROUND of scaffolding adorning Long Beach State College's forthcoming liberal arts building, pretty freshman Carol Martin, 18, of Hollywood, walks to class. The building is one of five under construction there.

THIS LIVING room drama was no doubt duplicated thousands of times last week.

Dad comes home. Mother hands him a couple of envelopes. He glances at the return names and addresses on the corners and gets a twinge of apprehension.

It takes nerve to open them. Eventually he does it, and the cry of pain startles the neighbors—provided the neighboring man of the house isn't doing his own crying at that moment.

I can describe this, I think, fairly accurately, because it's the way it went at my house. After opening my tax bills, I wasn't fit to live with.

I looked around the place for luxuries that we could get along without. I suggested crackers and milk for dinner. I growled when I saw the extra footstuffs in the refrigerator, and was something less than enthusiastic when my daughter showed me her new dress. I refused to go out for a little evening's entertainment. Does it sound familiar?

SINCE THAT DAY, my office phone has jingled a lot as irate property holders called to yell about their taxes and asked about suggestions as to the places to send their protests. "We've got to do something," said one woman. "This is awful."

County supervisors, school board members, city councilmen, tax assessors, state assemblymen and tax collectors are hearing plenty.

But except for exceptional cases, where an assessment may go through the board of equalization, these complaints are futile so far as their effect on the current tax bills are concerned. We've got 'em and we've got to pay them.

THE processes of government that funneled up these tax bills have been going on for a long time. And most of us have either supported the actions that helped build taxes, or at least have accepted them when they happened without protest.

Hardly anybody goes to budget meetings where the various boards make the decisions that determine the amount to be raised by taxation. Hardly anybody does or says much about holding down expenses until the day the tax bills arrive.

And many people, including me, yowl about paying for things we actually have favored.

Take school costs, for example. They represent a big chunk of the tax bills (take a look at your county tax and see). People have been feeling pretty strong about education in recent years, especially since the Soviets orbited their spunk. They have supported better pay for teachers, expanded classroom and laboratory facilities, etc. The public pressure has been steady for expanding and improving educational services. The result: Higher taxes.

SO, before we go off the deep end and threaten suicide because of high tax bills, we should determine whether we are really opposed to the things that create them.

For instance, should we have been down at the school board fighting the requests of the teachers for higher pay? If not—if these things have had our favor through the years—then we really can't kick now.

Of course, there are a lot of factors besides education in the tax bills, but it is a good example. The point is that if we don't want taxes, we have to do more about it than yell on the day we get the bill. And if we don't want to protest through the year, we simply have to dig up the dough at taxpaying time.

It's an old story.

State To Hold Freeway Hearing

Engineers to Explain 3 Routes

By BOB HOUSER

Best location for a two-mile segment of freeway in south-east Long Beach will be the subject of a State Division of

Highways public meeting at 10 a.m., Nov. 22 in Wilson High School Auditorium.

Engineers of District VII of the division will explain recent studies on each of three alternates proposed. Then they will hear views of local governmental officials, civic groups and individuals.

Facts developed at the meeting, the full transcript, will be considered by the state highway engineer before he makes his recommendations to the California Highway Commission. The commission has authority for final determination of the route.

THE THREE routes are depicted on an accompanying map. They also are on display in a large aerial photograph in the City Hall lobby. They will be referred to in the public meeting as the Red Route (north), the Blue Route (middle) and the Orange Route (south).

Although actual freeway construction may be 10 years away, District VII engineers stress the importance of early route designation.

They stress that lower right of way cost is a chief benefit of early determination. They point out also that subdivision developers are standing by, ready to build both residences and commercial establishments once the route is set.

ONLY THE Blue and Orange Routes appear to be feasible. Engineers say the northerly Red Route is not being seriously considered because of undesirable engineering factors.

The Red Route, as do both others, has its east end at Seventh Street and the Los Cerritos Channel. It runs west slightly south of Seventh, bends northwest along the north side of Pacific Coast Highway, then bends west to Kimo Avenue just south of 15th Street.

Blue Route is the more costly of the two routes under serious consideration. It dips south from Seventh Street to cross PCH just south of Sixth Street and proceeds west to Quincy Avenue. This segment is two miles long. Its esti-

Reveals Outlook of VA Hospitals

By BEN ZINSER

Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital already is typical of the new look slated for the VA's entire hospital system.

DR. J. S. GLOTFELTY
VA Hospital Manager

So says Dr. James S. Glotfelty, new director of the VA hospital here.

The VA is converting its 170-hospital system to all-purpose hospitals, incorporating tuberculosis and psychiatric facilities within a general hospital setting.

"You already have such a hospital here," Dr. Glotfelty said as he assumed his new duties this week. He formerly was medical director for the VA Center in Los Angeles.

ALTHOUGH THE VA's biggest waiting list for admissions is that of the mentally ill, the trend is away from separate neuropsychiatric facilities, Dr. Glotfelty said.

The VA's aim is to concentrate many specialized medical skills on the single patient, and the best way to achieve this the VA feels, is in a general hospital.

Currently the VA has 41 neuropsychiatric hospitals, nine TB hospitals and 120 general medicine and surgery hospitals. However, only 70 of the medical-surgical hospitals have beds for mental patients and many have no facilities to care for tuberculous patients.

BUT THE LONG BEACH VA Hospital, Dr. Glotfelty notes, already fulfills the new concept. Although a general medical-surgical hospital, the Long Beach hospital also has facilities to care for TB and psychiatric patients.

Dr. Glotfelty, 56, will manage the Long Beach hospital during the absence of the former director, Dr. Michael L. Matte, called to active duty in the Air Force.

Dr. Glotfelty has been affiliated with the VA since 1937. He has been director of the VA's hospitals in Lebanon, Pa., and Durham, N. C., and area chief of psychiatry and neurology with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

He also has served in VA hospitals in St. Cloud, Minn., and Sheridan, Wyo.

L.B. State Grows in Size, Influence for Enriching Life

ONLY 12 YEARS OLD, Long Beach State College is passing rapidly from the stage of awkward youth to growing maturity.

If you haven't visited the campus lately, this week is a fine time to see for yourself how the college is blossoming physically, a reflection as well of its intellectual and cultural growth.

Beginning today, attention is focused on all the schools in recognition of American Education Week, but especially so on the big school along East Seventh Street. There the second annual College Days in Long Beach add extra zest to the occasion.

Along with other events, open house will be observed on campus from 2 to 5 p.m. next Saturday, Homecoming Day. Not only the old grads (most of them still in their 20's or 30's) but everyone in the community may well feel pride in the flourishing condition of the college and its bright prospects.

THE PHYSICAL growth is evident in the current construction of five buildings encompassing 300,000 square feet of floor area and valued at $11 million—the biggest construction program in LBSC's short history.

Statistics reeled off by Dr. Carl McIntosh, president, tell the same story of steady expansion. From a makeshift beginning in a rented apartment building, with an initial annual budget of $135,840, the college has advanced to a $34 million complex housing the activities of 11,300 students and a faculty of 432 full-time and 130 part-time teachers. The master plan contemplates a $60 million institution with an enrollment of 25,000 by 1975.

CASUAL VISITORS won't see it, but Long Beach State's contributions to culture and knowledge have been substantial for so young a school. Four issues of the Weekly Bulletin, covering a typical month, reported such faculty achievements as the publication of two books, two pamphlets, 11 articles and two musical compositions. Recognition has come in the form of 22 current research grants totaling $317,488, primarily in natural science studies. Faculty members hold degrees from more than 200 colleges and universities in 42 states and 14 foreign countries.

The main impression of the college's vitality, however, comes from the students. On any school day they throng every section of the campus in their pursuit of careers, a variety of extra-curricular activities and the more intangible benefits of learning. Median age of freshmen is 18, although the range is from 15 to 65. Observing them in purposeful action, even the skeptic feels reassured about the younger generation.

IN THE PROCESS of its development, of building its facilities and awarding 10,055 degrees, LBSC has become a major influence in the community, both economic and educational. Citizens of Long Beach have a right to special satisfaction because their city contributed the 320-acre site. But the homecoming will show that the college's impact has reached beyond local limits through its alumni who have gone out in all directions to richer and more productive lives.

Every Bomb Spawns One More Horrible

EDITOR:
Some politicians are proposing the development of the neutron bomb, designed to kill only the people but not damage property. Well! The tragedy of the Soviet bomb tests and all others is that a decade of an arms race has not yet convinced us that the build-up of force has led us to the brink of hell, not to peace.

To continue the arms race knowing every bomb and missile will be matched by another more horrible is insanity. Our children live with the constant voice of doom.

The impending holocaust can be avoided if in our own self-interest we take the lead in decreasing tensions. Difficult it may be, the United Nations and the conference table offer more hope and saner solutions than the neutron bomb.

No Hope for Gains From Negotiations

EDITOR:
There will always be a crisis. Write off any advantage at West Berlin over the Reds. Already the West is retreating.

The West should never have allowed that fence to stand in the first place. On the other hand, negotiations usually end in concessions—political blackmail like Cuba.

Now there's a lot of talk about removing Stalin's body from the tomb. Just what difference does it make?

'Agrarian Reform' Producing Hunger, Crime in Red China

WASHINGTON—The story of starvation inside China after 12 years of "agrarian reform" is far more grim than the outside world has been told.

Now on top of their terrible hunger, the Chinese face a scourge from the skies dumped upon them, ironically, by their Soviet comrades. Of all the people lying in the path of the radioactive winds out of Russia, the hunger-weakened Chinese have the lowest resistance.

Bad harvests, peasant apathy and a mushrooming population have produced an acute food crisis. Apart from the pampered soldiers and bureaucrats, the masses are weak and listless from malnutrition.

The diseases of starvation, such as dropsy and beriberi, have reached epidemic proportions in some areas. This should make the people peculiarly susceptible to the radioactive poison from the Soviet testing grounds.

INTELLIGENCE reports out of China are full of gripping human drama, sad and sordid stories, which have never reached the public. This column has now had access to the reports which should be made known to the world.

The Communists once boasted that they had rid China of the shame of beggars, corruption and theft. Now the beggars are back, and crime is the worst in China's history. Goaded by hunger, men, women and children have taken to raiding restaurants and stealing from market stalls.

The traffic in forged ration coupons has become so rampant that the government is even confiscating children's printing blocks. At night, city dwellers roam the countryside looking for some unguarded vegetable patch. To protect the fruits of their toil, peasants are forced to mount pitchfork patrols.

HERE ARE a few typical glimpses of life in Red China, taken from official

intelligence reports:

In Foochow, a mother drowned herself and her three children rather than suffer the slow death of starvation.

In Swatow, a family of 10, accused of stealing rice, committed mass suicide. A Chinese visitor from Hong Kong brought food parcels to his relatives in Swatow. The word got around. That night 10 men armed with knives and pistols broke into the house to steal the precious food.

A visitor to the village of Hsin Ho Hsiang was surrounded by a crowd begging for food. Communist officials tried to disperse the mob, but it turned on them with shouts of "You give us food, and then we will go away." Finally the visitor had to pay off the demonstrators in cash.

An elderly man snatched some boiled eggs from a basket carried by a child. Several onlookers gave chase, but the thief crammed the eggs into his mouth as he ran.

Peasants in the Chang Ahai Pien Hsiang commune are paid off in working points which can be used to buy meals in the mess hall. It takes all they earn in a month for a meager diet of rice, plus one bowl of salt-water soup each day. No side dishes.

WHAT IS the Red regime

doing to counteract the growing hostility of a once docile people, a people renowned for their stoic acceptance of hardship?

The Communists have reduced work "norms" for those suffering from malnutrition and cut out evening political activities to conserve energy. In other words, their solution is to lower the people's caloric needs rather than increase the rations.

By pressure and propaganda, the Reds are encouraging overseas Chinese to send food parcels to their relatives in China; then turning round and taxing the parcels heavily.

The government has also bought 5 million tons of grain from Canada, Australia and France. For the vast Chinese appetite, however, this is a mere morsel.

The outlook has improved only slightly with the fall harvest. The soaring population has condemned the Chinese people to years of sub-standard living and reduced energy.

Nowhere in the world are the people more gaunt and conditions more ghastly.

Meanwhile, American farmers are bringing in another abundant harvest, which the politicians seem to regard more as a bane than a blessing. They grumble about food surpluses and the cost of storing them.

CASPAR W. WEINBERGER

Author Advocates Primary Endorsing

LAST WEEK the University of California Public Bureau Administration, which ordinarily does not produce best sellers, published a study entitled "Preprimary Endorsements in California Politics."

Professor Leonard Rowe, the author, had been working on this pamphlet for several months, but it appeared, by coincidence, at a time when more public attention than ever has been focused on this delicate subject.

The problem, stated most simply, is whether or not official and unofficial party organizations should "endorse" or otherwise indicate a preference among competing candidates of their party for various nominations.

Rowe, a scholar with no personal or political axes to grind, concluded that preprimary endorsements "have had a healthy effect on California politics."

ROWE pointed out that the direct primary method of selecting party candidates was brought in to replace state conventions about which had gathered substantial charges of corruption.

The theory was that if the people made the nominations themselves, rather than delegates to party conventions, "party bossism" would vanish.

But in practice, largely because of the enormous cost of elections, it has worked out that many potentially good candidates did not enter the primary because they were unable to finance a campaign.

Prof. Rowe says that if the parties play a more positive and responsible role, deliberately recruiting, developing and supporting the best candidates, the parties would find that more persons of outstanding ability would be encouraged to run for office.

What Makes the Front Rank Man Fall Down? Just Bugles

ABBY RENTS supplied the tent which canopied the overflow diners on the patio of the Lakewood Country Club Friday night.

From the patio seats, Steelworkers President Dave McDonald was about a nine-foot and a dog-leg to the right. So they used closed circuit television to pipe him in to all corners.

They served 980 dinners. The manager said 70 more stood but didn't eat. Total 1,050. That was about 200 too many people for comfort or safety. Waitresses squeezed through the picket line of table hoppers like strikebreakers.

Famous songbird Jo Stafford and baritone swashbuckler John Carroll sat at our table just four feet from the air conditioning—two doors to November's icy blast. Board of Equalization member Richard Nevins asked for help to roll away the small boulders holding the doors open. Miss Stafford pulled her fur snuggler and blinked her eyes against the thumping boom-clash of the drum on the band's platform at her shoulder.

Gesturing Carroll sang from the platform. In bravura posture on a big note, he stepped on the right toe of the accordionist. When it was Miss Stafford's turn, her arm-spread gesture made it appear she was holding a finger under the accordionist's nose to forestall a sneeze.

A UNIFORMED Lake Elsinore bugle corps lost cadence in the jampack and had to use a grunting, swivel-hipped route step to line up for their bugle blast. The bells of their gleaming horns played against the front rank diners. The blow ruffled the short hair on diners' necks. Hands held over their ears only partially muffled the sound.

The compelling thought which came to mind was: if this is what shelter living will be like, I'll take the fallout.

But this testimonial to Governor Brown and McDonald must be written as a big success, with all the pageantry of a political convention.

You were bound to talk to a lot of labor people at a bash like this. And you're bound to pay some heed when you consider their political strength.

RANDOM ITEMS: A pitch was being made to McDonald by some present to use his influence on behalf of Wayne (Sharkey) Hull for the Long Beach postmaster appointment. And further representations for Hull were to be made in Sacramento and Washington, D. C.

Hull, secretary of the Building Trades Council here, led in county committee balloting for the recommendation for PM all the way until the last two ballots of about eight. The seventh was a tie and the eighth went 8-4 in favor of Councilman Virgil Sponberg.

State Central Committee member David Selcer, who was eliminated on about the fifth ballot, has his friends too. They said if the PM job is to stay strict patronage, he's the most deserving.

It's reported national committeeman Stanley Mosk would go for Selcer in speaking to Senator Engle. But a weekend set-to between Mosk and Engle over federal judicial appointments, said one politico Friday night, "makes Mosk's recommendation as good as nothing."

AFTER DESSERT Items: Lakewood Councilman William Burns will take on Joe Kennick for the 44th Assembly seat next year.

Kennick will go for Congress in the 1964 presidential year with Lakewood Mayor George Nye stepping into the Assembly contest.

Finally, word that next Thursday's vote to pick a successor to Southern California Demo chairman Bill Munnell (a new judge) will go 2-1 in favor of Eugene Wyman over Glenn Wilson. Source: Los Angeles Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman, the Mrs.

Arms Costs Slice Domestic Program

By WALTER T. RIDDER
ROBERT E. LEE AND
WILLIAM BROOM

WASHINGTON — Behind President Kennedy's order to all government agency heads to economize on spending and hiring is a cold reality: The military budget for next year will be higher, somewhere in the neighborhood of $47 billion.

That figure covers requests for new spending authority.

Counting leftovers from past budgets, actual spending will be even higher than $47 billion.

Although the Pentagon's budget is still in the very rough preliminary stages, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has already informed the White House that his department will need at least the total of last year's Eisenhower's budget, plus the $6 billion in increases voted last summer by Congress as an emergency measure.

This leaves the administration's domestic programs in tough shape. They will have to be trimmed to fit forecasts of government revenues next year, since the administration is firmly committed to a balanced budget. Something had to give in order to meet that goal, and it was the non-defense agencies.

The slowdown on domestic programs is bound to create political problems for the administration and could cost some Democratic seats in Congress next year.

A MEASURE of the coldness of U.S.-Soviet relations was visible when Leningrad's Kirov ballet performed here Tuesday. Not a single high-ranking government official was in the audience.

AN AFRICAN diplomat recently came to a formal Washington dinner dressed in the ceremonial gown of his nation. During the dinner he had considerable trouble with the rig. A kind of shawl kept slipping and falling into the soup. He spent more time trying to adjust the complicated affair than in talking or eating.

Finally he leaned over to his partner and apologized. "You know," he said, "I have not learned how to manage this costume. We never wear them when we're in my country."

SIR DAVID Ormsby Gore, the new British ambassador, has a distinction no doubt never before held by any British envoy to the United States — or elsewhere for that matter. He has played touch football with the President of the United States.

Ormsby Gore and President Kennedy are old friends and each has visited the home of the other. During one of his visits to the Kennedy establishment he was corralled into a game of touch. As far as can be observed, he suffered no permanent harm.

The social and athletic energies of the Kennedy family are creating an unexpected bonanza for such things as charity balls and sporting events. People show up at things they never dreamed of attending, apparently in the hope that they will see or be seen by a Kennedy. Washington's International Horse Show is an example. Year after year it has lost money.

This year it was announced that Mrs. Robert Kennedy would be present. The opening night and it was rumored that Mrs. John F. Kennedy would appear the final night. Well, the Attorney General's wife did appear on the first night. She not only appeared, she suddenly borrowed riding clothes from a friend and jumped a horse in the ring. And for the first time in years the show made money.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Appian Way Extension

Q. How long was the famous Appian Way? E. J. A. Originally the road ran from Rome to Capua, a distance of 132 miles, but later it was extended to Brundisium, on the southeast coast of Italy, about 386 miles from Rome. The Appian Way was the most famous of all the old Roman roads and the Romans themselves called it Regina Viarum, the Queen of Roads. It was named for Appius Claudius Caecus, the Roman Censor who began its construction in the year 312 B. C.

Top U.S. Chiefs Set for Series of Big-City Clinics

INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM—B-3
Long Beach 12, Calif., Sunday, November 5, 1961

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's economic medicine is curing domestic ills.

The administration road show, featuring a half dozen cabinet members and a group of lesser officials, is billed as nonpartisan. But by design or chance it will produce an inventory of area needs useful in pointing up Kennedy arguments to Congress next year for additional legislation.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, has charged the administration tour is aimed at trying to whip up interest in Kennedy domestic proposals that Dirksen said "just aren't clicking with the people."

$4 Million Fire Cost in Forests

DUNSMUIR, Calif. (AP)—Why, asks many an incredulous easterner, do you have such big forest fires in California?

Well, easterner, if you have a notion that California is just one big orange grove, ponder this: more than 42 million acres of California land are forested.

To get a clear idea, merely consider the 370,000 acres in this Sacramento district of Shasta-Trinity National Forest. It's only one of 10 similar districts in that forest. And there are 17 such national forests in the state, not to mention state forests.

ELEVATIONS in the Sacramento district vary from 1,200 feet above sea level to Mt. Shasta's summit of 14,000 feet. Elevations change as much as 4,000 feet in only two miles. Yet only one major highway slices the area. And there are few feeder roads. When fire breaks out in a remote area, you've got problems.

But U.S. Ranger John Watt proudly points out that during this year, one of the driest on record, of all his 370,000 acres only 42 acres were ravaged by 33 man-caused and 39 lightning fires.

You've read about California forest fires burning for days, hundreds of men on the fire lines, Indians imported from the southwest and all that. Too true. Forest fire damages this crackling dry year exceed $4 million.

BUT CONSIDER: of some 20 million acres of U.S. national forests in the state, only 57,000 acres were burned over this year by more than 2,800 fires, most started by lightning. Last year the national forest acreage burned was around 190,000. There have been years when it exceeded 500,000.

In state-protected areas this year—rated the highest ever in fire potential—more than 300,000 acres were burned by nearly 3,000 fires. That's 203 per cent above average in acreage burned but it's well down from the record year of 1936 when 576,675 acres went up in flames.

Modernized fire-fighting techniques are the answer—borate-spraying tanker planes, helicopters, radio walkie-talkie communications.

THIS YEAR, however, is the worst ever from the standpoint of total damage to forest lands. It's estimated at more than $4.3 million, just for state-protected forest areas. Add on areas of counties which protect themselves and non-forest fires in the state protection area and the fire damage figure soars past $13 million.

Each forest fire is carefully investigated later by teams of specialists. District Ranger Watt said "we come up with some of the darndest things." Too often it's a careless camper.

pute this while acknowledging that one object is to boost measures already passed and generate support for those still stuck in the congressional mill.

Several thousand invitations have been issued to each of the 12 White House regional conferences to hear about economic aid measures already cleared through Congress and how they can be applied to solve local problems. Bids to attend went to all members of Congress.

"It is equally important," Kennedy said in outlining aims of the meetings, "that federal officials seek the views of state and local officials, as well as those of interested individuals, in making plans for future developments.

"It is my hope that these conferences will contribute to the future welfare of all our citizens."

KENNEDY won't participate personally in the conference. But he has scheduled three West Coast speeches at Seattle, Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles in mid-November at about the time the Cabinet caravan swings to the West Coast.

The Cabinet tour will start out with simultaneous two-day sessions next Tuesday and Wednesday at Chicago and St. Louis. From there it will move on to Nashville Nov. 9-10. Meetings the following week are due Nov. 13 at Madison, Wis.; Nov. 14 at Denver; Nov. 14-15 at Detroit and Cleveland; and Nov. 16-17 at New York and Philadelphia.

The next week will see a one-day stand at Seattle Nov. 20 and two-day affairs at San Francisco and Los Angeles Nov. 20-21.

PRACTICALLY every Cabinet member and agency head primarily concerned with domestic problems will participate somewhere on the tour. These include Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Labor Arthur J.

Goldberg, Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, and Postmaster General J. Edward Day.

The big-name cast will also include top administration economists and experts in such problem areas as juvenile delinquency, area redevelopment, urban renewal, mass transportation, Housing, education, physical fitness, recreation and many others.

Top speakers in each city will deal with the over-all picture. Lesser officials will preside over panel discussions of specific problems. Four panel teams have spent some time rehearsing special subjects: (A) full employment and economic growth, (B) problems of youth, (C) problems of the elderly, and (D) metropolitan area problems.

THE ONE-DAY meeting at Madison will be keyed to farm policy and the one-day sessions at Denver and Seattle to public power and conservation.

In each of the dozen cities workshop sessions on area difficulties are planned with citizens encouraged to air their gripes.

The cabinet tour has been labelled partisan politics conducted at taxpayer expense by Republican party chairman William E. Miller in memos sent to GOP Congress members and to top Republican leaders in each of the dozen tour areas. Miller urged counter propaganda efforts.

WHITE HOUSE officials insist that Republicans as

Press Girls Hear Lawyer Assail Males

By GEORGE ERES

The quality of Terrys T. Olender's mercy toward males is somewhat strained.

Don't let the name fool you—Terrys is a lady lawyer, first gal to work on major felony cases as a deputy district attorney, and her battle in the war of the sexes is told in "For the Prosecution: Miss Deputy D.A."—a top seller in the U. S.

Miss Olender related some of her jousts with the concept of male supremacy at the California Press Women's statewide luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel Saturday.

THE TROUBLE, said Miss Olender, is that a woman "has to work twice as hard to get half as far" as a man with no more ability.

First of all, USC Law School, where she went for two years, denied her the editorship of the Law Review because she was a woman. The dean, she said, didn't feel that USC should break a precedent by allowing a woman to hold such a position.

Miss Olender (Mrs. Edward Glick in private life) decided to show them. She had only two years of law school but decided to take the bar examination.

She moved to an apartment in Long Beach and pored over law books, swam in the ocean here for relaxation and was almost drowned in a rip tide. (She recounts in her book that her cries for help were not heard by a lifeguard she later noted "was busy chatting with a bosomy blonde.")

SHE PASSED the bar on her first attempt and started making the rounds of lawyers' offices to be told it was a man's world: "Ladies didn't belong in court."

She recalled she got considerable satisfaction later as a deputy district attorney in beating some of these same lawyers in court.

Marjorie Seville, of Menlo Park, president of the CPW, presided. Fred Kraft, editor of The Independent Press-Telegram's Southland Magazine, welcomed the group to the city. Mildred Flannery, home economics editor of the I. P. T., who won second place for a series of articles in the National Federation of Press Women's contest for 1960-61, was chairman of the day.

PROPOSED CROSS-TOWN FREEWAY ROUTES

Location of three proposed cross-town freeway segments designated Red, Blue and Orange all converge at Seventh Street at right on map. Red route runs slightly south of Seventh Street, bends northwest along the north side of Pacific Coast Highway, then swings west to Ximeno Avenue south of 15th Street. Blue route dips south from Seventh Street and crosses PCH south of Sixth Street, then continues west to Quincy Avenue. Orange route runs southwest from Seventh Street, crosses PCH and continues west just south of Colorado Street to Appian Way where it goes northwest to Quincy Avenue.

Estimated cost is $12.2 million, divided $5.2 million for construction and $7 million for right-of-way acquisition.

THE BLUE WOULD require 144 residential parcels, 16 miscellaneous parcels and would affect 152 family units.

The southernmost, or Orange Route, is 2.2 miles long with an estimated cost of $10.3 million, divided $6.5 million for construction and $3.8 million for right-of-way. It would require only 18 residential parcels, 23 miscellaneous parcels and would affect only 27 family units.

Orange Route dips southwest from Seventh Street, crosses PCH near Colorado Street, runs west just south of Colorado to Appian Way, then northwest along Appian Way to Quincy Avenue.

ALL THESE SEGMENTS west of PCH are referred to as "Pacific Coast Freeway." Those portions east of PCH are called "Garden Grove Freeway."

Engineers have presented no specific routes for westerly continuation of this freeway across town from the Quincy Avenue terminal point.

Engineers pointed out that the California Highway Commission, while responsive to requests and wishes of involved communities, has the final authority for setting a freeway route. However, no construction can begin until the city enters into a freeway agreement with the state.

Persons or groups interested in making a presentation at the public meeting are requested to notify George A. Hill, District Engineer, Division of Highways, District VII, Box 2304 Terminal Annex, Los Angeles 54. Telephone MA 03030.

Yuletide Tree Lane Dates Set

The annual Christmas Tree Lane on Daisy Avenue between Pacific Coast Highway and Hill Street will be opened Dec. 1, Councilman Emmet M. Sullivan said Saturday.

Christmas programs on the lane will begin Dec. 15 and continue through Dec. 23. The program will include Christmas music by local musicians and appearance of Santa Claus, under sponsorship of the Westside Lions Club.

The lane features lights on rows of trees growing in the center of the divided roadway on Daisy.

Woman Beaten by 5 Young Men

Five young men, believed to be members of a motorcycle gang, were sought Saturday night in connection with the vicious beating administered early Saturday to a 24-year-old waitress on E. Seaside Walk.

Officers said the woman had refused to serve the men upon orders of her employer. She was quoted as saying the attackers waited for her as she left the cafe, knocked her down, kicked her and ripped her clothing.

Apartment Looted

A burglar stole cash and household goods valued at $40 from the apartment of Lois L. Gist, 1431-B Walnut Ave., police said Saturday.

Cadillac

What a difference a year makes!

If anyone had told him that his 1961 Cadillac could be improved on—he would have regarded them with disbelief.

And yet, after only half an hour in the newest "car of cars", he knows beyond doubt that a year of Cadillac progress has made a world of difference.

In fact, the list of Cadillac advancements for 1962 embraces each of the great motor-ing virtues.

For added beauty, there is a lower, longer silhouette... greater simplicity and dignity of lines... and new elegance and luxury.

For improved comfort, there is increased spaciousness... new convenience of appointments... and a ride that is unbelievably quiet and smooth.

For finer performance, there is greater power... more responsive handling... and a degree of all-around road ableness that is new even to Cadillac.

For increased safety, there is an exclusive new dual power braking system... a new three-phase rear warning light system...

and new cornering lights that illuminate your way around turns.

And we would like to say that even Cadillac quality and craftsmanship have been enhanced for 1962. But the truth is simply that the car continues to be built to the highest standards that can be brought to the production of an automobile.

Stop by your dealer's soon, won't you? He'll be happy to demonstrate to you what a difference a year can make—when the year is this one and the car is Cadillac.

Command to Change on Hornet

Rear Adm. Thomas A. Christopher will relieve Rear Adm. Robert L. Townsend as commander of Carrier Division 17 in a change-of-command ceremony Monday at 10 a.m. aboard the division flagship USS Hornet at Pier E, Terminal Island Naval Base.

Adm. Townsend, who has commanded the division since August, will report to Washington as assistant chief of the Bureau of Weapons for Program and Management Plans.

His successor's most recent assignment was as director of recruiting, Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington.

A 1933 Naval Academy graduate, Adm. Christopher earned two Navy Crosses and three Air Medals for his World War II service as a PB-4Y patrol bomber pilot and flight commander.

He was promoted to rear admiral last July.

HARBOR VIEWS

U.S. Exports Top Value of Imports

By LOU JOBST
Marine Editor

The United States has a $1 billion favorable balance of trade with its three best customers, Canada, Great Britain, and Japan. Canada—the best customer—received $3.7 billion in U. S. imports last year while exporting $2.9 billion; Great Britain got $1.1 billion and sent $1.1 billion and $1.3 billion was exported to Japan while $1.1 billion was imported.

Many maritime experts feel this is a good reason to maintain low protective tariffs.

One such expert is Albert Perrish, the articulate Los Angeles Harbor Commissioner.

"Under these circumstances," he told a luncheon at the British United Services Club, "this is a poor time to think of protectionism when the balance of trade is so much in our favor."

"YET THE protectionists are threatening liberal trade policies and making a tremendous impact upon Congress. They represent a real challenge to those favoring two-way world trade."

Although many feel that should the British enter the European common market it will have an adverse effect on American maritime commerce, Perrish, who is also president of West Coast Metal Importers Association, doesn't hold any such view.

"Britain's joining the common market will not isolate us any more than did the formation of the original common market. The greater world activity they have... the greater will be their ability to buy from us."

GOV. PAT BROWN has appointed two Los Angeles County men to two-year terms on the Marine research committee of the State Department of Fish and Game. They are Max Gorbey, president of the California Marine Curing and Packing Co., Terminal Island, a reappointment, and Edward F. Bruce of Rosemead, past president of the California Wildlife Federation, Inc., will replace Temple City newspaper publisher Lee F. Payne on the committee.

On Alert for War: These Men Are Ready

ALERT GENERAL

The commander of the Strategic Air Command, Gen. Thomas S. Powers (center), confers with staff members after alighting from his jet tanker. He had been up all day, taking his turn as the general officer always in the air over SAC headquarters as a precaution in case of disaster on the ground.—(AP.)

(Editor's Note—Across the breadth of the North American continent, a select group of professionals devote their complete attention to waiting for war. Their duty: to block attack and strike back. Associated Press reporters watched them at their work on one typical day last month. Here's what they saw.)

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press News Features Writer

"We happen to live in the most dangerous time of the human race," says the President of the United States.

Yet Americans go about their everyday business in factories and offices, on farms and trucks, in schools and restaurants.

But with one group of Americans, this "most dangerous time" is their daily business.

They are the men, and some women, who stand guard for the rest of America. Their duty is to watch... and wait... and be ready.

AT SUFFOLK COUNTY AFB near the tip of Long Island, N. Y., Capt. George Jatrass, 30, 2nd Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, fingered the shoulder of his bright orange suit.

His silver F-101B Voodoo Fighter-Interceptor awaited only a touch of the starter button. It could be airborne in five minutes.

PVT. WILLIAM COTTON, 20, of Charlie Company, rose with the 5:30 a.m. bugle at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Charlie Company, 1st Airborne Battle Group, 501st Infantry, the first ready company of the 101st Airborne Division, was set to move—anywhere in the world—on an hour's notice.

COL. McLYLE G. Zumwalt, director of operations, 1st Strategic Aerospace Division, Vandenberg AFB, Calif., was up at 4 a.m. to make the first of three visits to the Titan and Atlas missile complexes.

If the traditional 15-minute alert obtained, the 65-foot Atlas could be erected, fueled and fired in a quarter of an hour.

A FOUR-ENGINE converted K-135 jet tanker thundered down a runway and climbed into the high clouds over Offutt AFB near Omaha, Neb. Aboard was Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command.

There is always a general officer in the air over SAC headquarters, ready to assume direction of the missile-bomber forces in case of a disaster on the ground. SAC's commander himself is no exception.

So it went one day recently along the ramparts of American defense: radar picket planes above the cold Atlantic, across the wide continent—turning from summer green to grey and wintry white—and up the Pacific shoreline to little Diomedes Island, where an Eskimo scout three miles from Russia studied the sky for clues to weather or to war.

TWO AND ONE-HALF weeks ago, on Oct. 18, Associated Press reporters were sent to watch the nation's guardians at work in a half-dozen critical stations across the continent.

They found an air of relaxed readiness during this single day on America's first line of defense. Here's a partial view, in close detail, of how ready to protect itself the United States was on that day—

CAPT. JATRASS, from Harrisburg, Pa., came on duty at Long Island's Suffolk AFB at 9 a.m. this day, he was senior pilot of two two-man crews and two airplanes on five-minute alert.

First, Jatrass ran through a pre-flight inspection of his F-101B. By radio to a control room, he reported himself and plane ready.

Jatrass and his crew for 24 hours are not allowed to leave the heavily guarded alert hangar area. They are ready to "scramble."

The word to "scramble" (get airborne fast) comes to Suffolk AFB's alert room from the "Hot Room," the Combat Alert Center about 100 yards away in 2nd Squadron Headquarters. The Hot Room is in communication with the New York Air Defense Sector (NYAD) at McGuire AFB in New Jersey. A sample alert would go like this:

NYAD to Hot Room: "Scramble two!"

Hot Room to Alert Room: "Scramble two!" (or a blast of the klaxon.)

Both crews on five-minute alert scramble for their planes, strap themselves in, close canopies, start engines. When the planes are airborne, they contact NYAD directly for running instructions and changes in orders.

AT FORT CAMPBELL, Pvt. Cotton, from San Mateo, Calif., and his jumpmates of Charlie Company settled into the day's routine.

Capt. Bibb Underwood, 28, of Dallas, Charlie Company's commander, checked his men against an aircraft loading manifest as they double-checked past shouting their list numbers. They carried rifles, rocket launchers and .45 caliber pistols. One wore a hunting knife, an age-old weapon still useful in the atomic era.

For Pvt. Paul Neese, 28, of La Grange, Ga., a newcomer to the 101st, it was the third day of parachute training at the division's jump school.

"Hit it!" barked an instructor.

"Hup thousand, two thousand, three..." shouted Neese, gripping a dummy parachute and striking a jump pose in a dummy plane door on the ground.

"Recover!" Neese and his fellow trainees ran to the stairs leading to the top of the 34-foot training tower. Instructors in black jackets checked each man's gear in minute detail for a mistake or an omission that might cause injury.

"Hup thousand..." yelled Neese and he leaped through the tower door, dropping 15 feet before his harness played out and snapped him short like a chute does on opening. He rode a cable to the ground and started over.

On the firing range, Pfc. David Reichenback, 20, of Wyandotte, Mich., was checking out on the new M-14 rifle. The rifle is not Reichenback's weapon. He's a crewman on a rocket battery. His baby is the 27-foot Honest John, a rocket capable of carrying a conventional or a nuclear warhead.

The watchword of the 101st is:

"BE PREPARED TO MOVE, ANYTIME, ANYWHERE AND FIGHT!"

AT VANDENBERG AFB, members of the 576th Strategic

Missile Squadron were working 12 hour shifts in the control blockhouse of an Atlas launching complex.

In the same blockhouse, T. Sgt. Richard Brooks, 37, of Hartford, Conn., was giving a refresher course to visiting airmen from Warren AFB, Wyo., and Offutt AFB, Neb.

AT A THOR Missile Complex, Wing Commander David Downs, 39, of Brigend, Wales, a Royal Air Force liaison officer, was awaiting the arrival of his missile, Welcome 10, due the following morning, and his RAF crew of about 50, due sometime later.

Once every three months, explained Lt. Col. John F. Waters, a Thor and its crew are brought in from England to test and refresh its readiness. The crew is held on alert and suddenly ordered to fire. Reaction time is considerably less than 15 minutes, said Waters.

AT ELMENDORF AFB near Anchorage, Alaska, where the 317th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron maintains alerts, Capt. Clyde Markley, 37, of Tacoma, Wash., studied a bit. He's adding to college credits gained during a year at the University of Wichita.

"This job," he says, "is 24 hours of boredom broken up by occasional periods of sheer panic."

AT STRATEGIC AIR Command headquarters near Omaha, down the dark gray concrete corridors to the glass-walled control center near the underground war room, there was tension, hush and quick movement. A defense "exercise" was underway.

A loudspeaker boomed: "The submarine is under surveillance."

Col. William H. Cooper, 43, of Duquesne, Pa., sat at a desk behind a broad panel of lights, switches, telephones, loudspeakers. He held a phone to his ear constantly. Within reach was a red phone, the one he would use—on orders from the President—to send SAC's bombers and missiles to war.

BMEWS, an early warning network tracking missiles in the far north, reports: "Predicted impact four on sight two. Fourteen minutes to go."

Silence. Then from NORAD, the North American Air Defense Command near Colorado Springs, Colo.: "A large air burst at Great Falls, Mont."

And the announcement: "Simulating turning control over to the Airborne Command Post."

The New York accents of Gen. Power, high over the base in his converted K-135, crackle over the loudspeaker.

Col. Cooper, controller of the exercise, rose and disappeared behind a large pillar. He returned with a paper cup of coffee.

"These exercises keep us fit," he said.

Up on the field, in an inconspicuous house trailer set on permanent foundations at the end of a quarter-mile long concrete ramp, Bomber Commander Capt. Walter Ratliff, 32, of Norman, Okla., told a visitor:

"We have to continually study our emergency war plan. We're tested periodically to..."

A klaxon squawked loud and urgent. Ratliff and his crew vanished suddenly. Moments later they could be seen speeding down the apron in their light blue station wagon. Other blue station wagons converged on the big jets down the ramp. The first jet engine roared.

"We could have been airborne in 10 minutes," said Ratliff later.

Peace Corps Foe Rejects L.B. Visit

Nigerian student leader Dapo Falase, who led opposition to postcard-writing Peace Corps girl Margery Michmore, said Saturday he has rejected an offer to visit Long Beach.

Falase said he was turning down the offer because "I don't believe a pleasure trip can atone for the insult to Nigeria," according to United Press International.

MISS MICHELMORE returned to the United States last month after a postcard she wrote describing living conditions in Nigeria set off anti-American protest demonstrations.

Russell Guiver, of 6229 Seaside Walk, local real estate-investment businessman, offered Falase the free trip to Long Beach "to see what America is like and what Americans stand for."

Asked whether he had ever visited the United States, Falase replied: "No, but I know a lot about it from the movies."

Snake Plot's Perpetrator Sent to Jail

Daniel Calvin Milligan, 19, or 319 W. Central Ave., La Habra, a college student whose displeasure with his ex-wife led him to put a poisonous snake in an air-conditioning system at her home, must serve five months in Orange County Jail.

The snake was found Sept. 5 in an air-conditioning vent at the home of the former Bonnie Johnstone, 18, of 2024 W. La Palma Ave., Anaheim, by her father.

revlon's new eterna 27 with progenitin

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women, aged 26 to 74. Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Today, the probability exists as never before. Doctors and research scientists from four great universities tested "Eterna 27" with Progenitin by Revlon. They saw remarkable results in 6 out of 10 cases. Usually, the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. If after 40 days of daily use, you are not completely satisfied with the results obtained from "Eterna 27," return the unused portion to us and Revlon will refund your purchase price in full.

Gades Ruin LBCC Streak, 20-0

Coaches Agree Line, Defense Big Factors

By KEN RIVERNETZ

While all the pre-game writeups stressed the expected offensive show that Bakersfield and Long Beach would put on, both coaches agreed after the game Saturday night that defense was by far the big factor.

Bakersfield coach Ray Newman said it was by far his team's best defensive effort of the season, and that it had to be, because Long Beach was by far the best team he had seen this year.

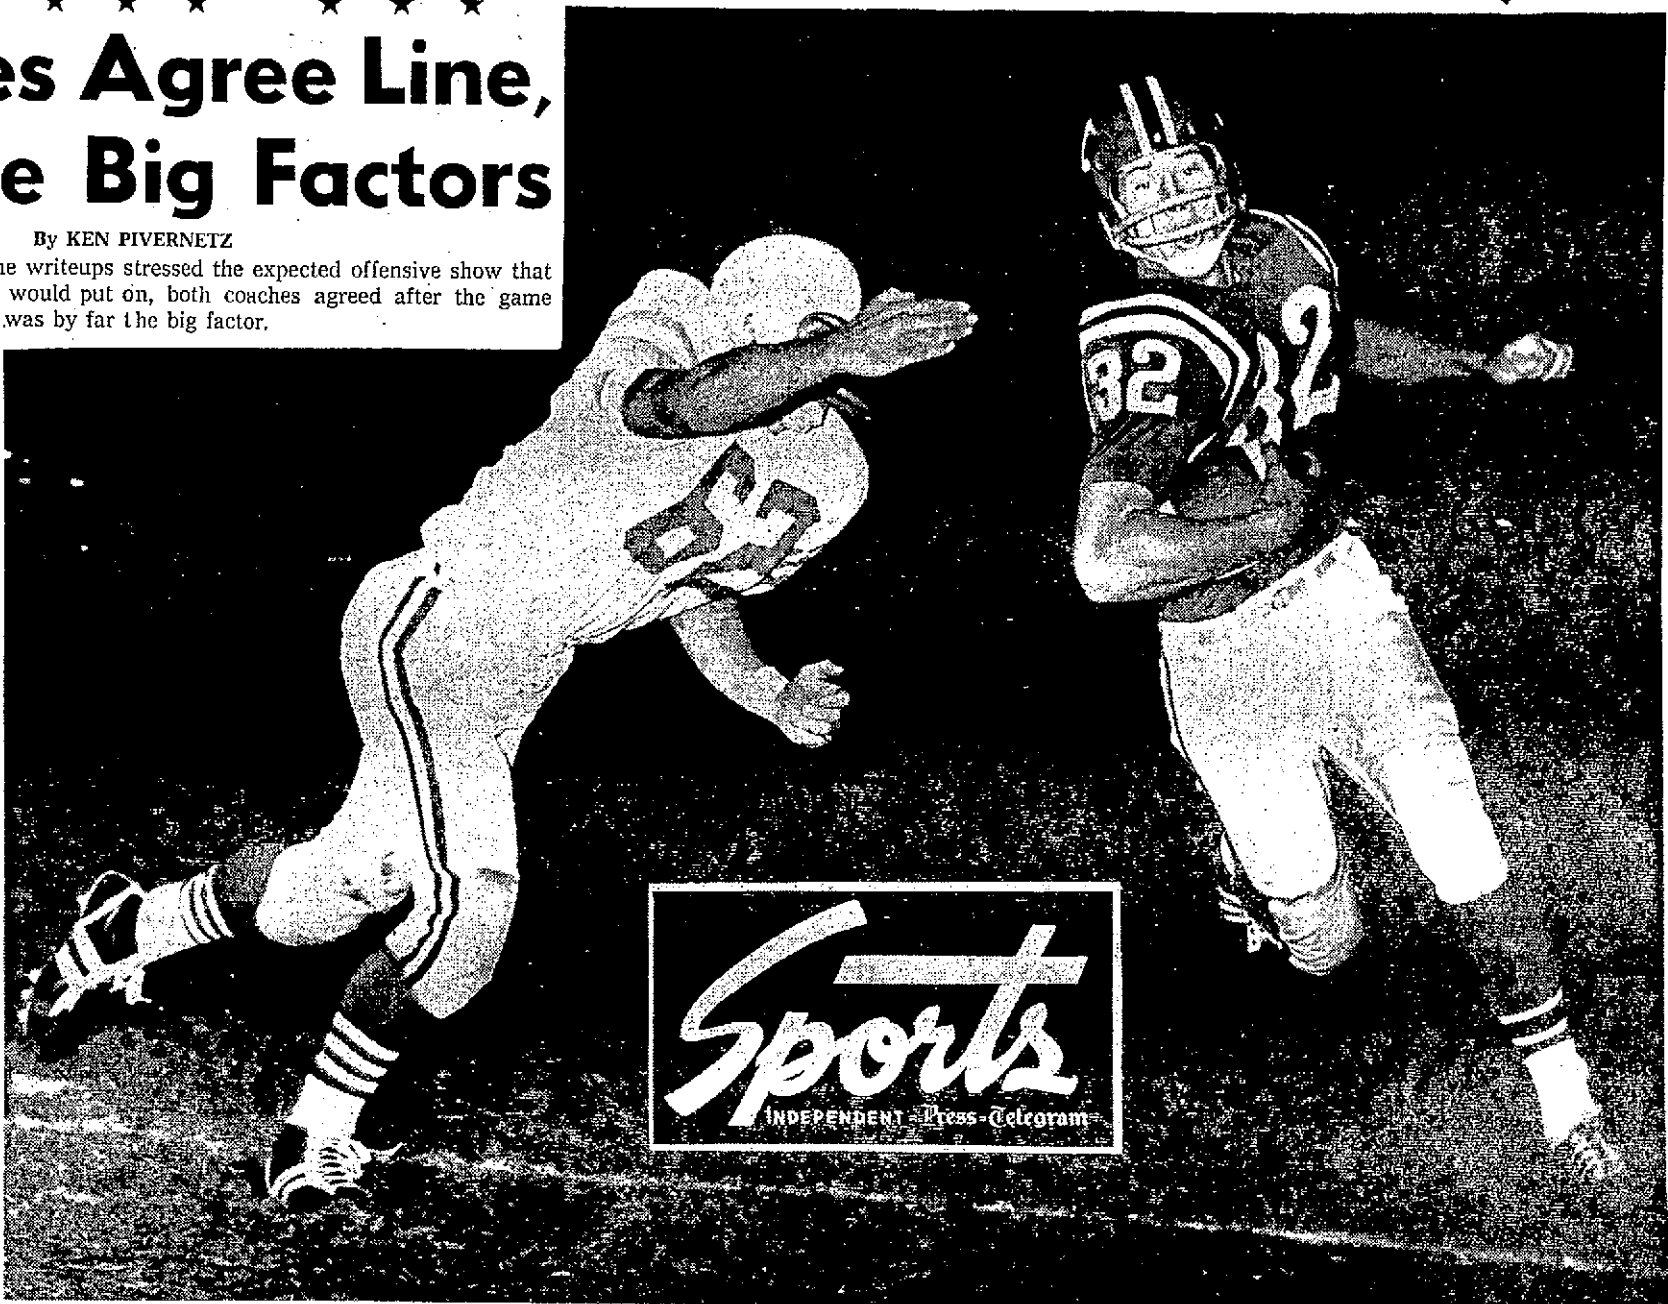

"We were prepared physically and there isn't enough I can say about our defense," said Newman. "Everybody talks about our backfield depth, but it's the line that won it for us. When you can contain their backs, you know you've done a good job because they're the best in the league."

FOR A MAN who had lost his first football game in two years, LBCC's Jim Stangeland said the Renegades didn't do anything he didn't expect.

"They were much stronger defensively, but it's what we expected. It might have been a different game if we had held them scoreless in the first half, but they forced us to gamble in the second half and the four interceptions wrecked us. No doubt about it, they're a fine ball club," said Stangeland.

Both coaches agreed there was no real turning point.

Newman said, "the only turning point was when we had 20 points on the scoreboard and the clock had run out."

Viking Errors Costly

Interceptions Pave Bakersfield Path to Title, JRB

By BOB SHIBLEY

Bakersfield threw an impenetrable blanket over the Long Beach City College offense Saturday night and dealt the Vikings their first loss in 17 games, 20-0, before an overflow Veterans Stadium crowd.

For the Renegades it left open the door to the Junior Rose Bowl and kept them in a tie for the Metropolitan Conference lead with Santa Monica. Aside from the loss of its 16-game winning streak, Long Beach also lost much prestige in its vaunted running attack. Hardest hit of all Viking offensive threats was Dee Andrews, who for the first time in his heralded career was virtually useless as the Renegades concentrated most of their defensive tactics toward stopping him.

ANDREWS, who had averaged 11 yards per carry and scored 74 points in six games, netted only 28 yards on 11 carries.

Bakersfield's mammoth defensive line, which averages 215 pounds, gave all in attendance a good lesson in how to stop a rushing attack. It held Long Beach to 12 yards net. The Vikes entered with an average of 262 yards on the ground.

Long Beach managed only eight first downs, another season low. So dominant was the Renegade attack that Long Beach was able to run off only 19 plays in the first half and 43 for the game. Bakersfield had the ball for 90 plays.

THE RENEGADES came to town with a 45.4 scoring average and a reputation for being the nation's strongest defensive J.C. team. By the end of the game there was no arguing this point.

When their running attack failed to jell, the Vikings went to the air and showed only a minor improvement. Chris Dawson completed six of 17 attempts for 113 yards and had three interceptions. In 48 previous throws only three of Dawson's passes were picked off.

Bakersfield took an 8-0 lead into the dressing room when Cliff Chilton scored from the five with only 30 seconds left in the first half.

Throughout the first half Bakersfield pushed the Vikings all over the field, but couldn't score until the waning seconds. The Renegades were stopped twice inside the LBCC 20.

Bakersfield turned the game into a rout late in the fourth quarter as interceptions by Marvin Grim and Jerry Dow set up two quick touchdowns.

GRIM'S THEFT came with 3:30 left as he raced from his own 45 to the Long Beach 2. After three running plays lost two yards, Kenny Loti hit L. C. Brown in the end zone. Loti's conversion pass failed.

Dow raced 28 yards to paydirt with a stray Ed Reddick pass with one minute left.

Until the final three minutes when the interceptions made victory impossible, Long Beach remained in contention behind the sterling defensive efforts of Andrews, who twice prevented Bakersfield touch-

Bruins Punch Out KO; USC Plain 0

Free-for-All Ends Smith-Led 35-15 Routing of Cal Cousins

By DAVE LEWIS

The Bruins of UCLA won a "doubleheader" Saturday at the Coliseum—thoroughly chastizing California, 35-15, in 60 minutes of football and then outpunching their cousins from Berkeley in a wild five-minute free-for-all as the battle drew to a gory close.

The blocking and tackling, particularly by UCLA, was the most vicious seen in the Coliseum this season and it was inevitable that tempers would reach a flaming peak and that the "bitting" would go beyond the normal contact in football.

But trouble didn't begin until late in the game when spirited reserves took over.

First "preliminary bout" came four plays from the end of the game. Cal was penalized for a personal foul. There was no retaliation.

Second prelim on the following play with just one minute remaining found Walt Dathe, third-string UCLA guard, and Dave Favro, Cal's third-string center, mixing it up and being ejected from the game. The by-play nullified a 32-yard Cal pass.

On the next play, came the main event as Sam Stassi, second-string Cal tackle, and a Bruin lineman got into it at midfield. Two other UCLA players came up fast to jump Stassi and that was the signal for a general free-for-all. Tackle Bob Weeden and halfback Carl Jones were two of the featured Bruin battlers.

THE CALIFORNIA BENCH erupted and joined the fray and at one time at least 30 players were swinging. UCLA coach Bill Barnes and his assistants averted an even more serious brawl by keeping the bulk of the Bruin squad out of the action. But it still developed into one of the most bitter mixups in Coliseum history.

No injuries from the free-swinging melee were reported by the Bruin camp, but Stassi was helped off the field in a woozy condition and bleeding from a wound on the forehead, while Mel Piestrup, third-string Cal tackle, was bleeding profusely from the mouth, and tackle Andy Segale suffered a cut forehead.

Once order was restored, both coaches called their players together and handed down ultimatums of "no more fighting." The game ended on the next play with no further incidents.

Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, including the UCLA campus, was instrumental in putting a "gag" on the coaches and players after the game following a hurry-up visit to both dressing rooms.

DR. KERR, IN A STATEMENT to the press, said "it was an unfortunate incident and everyone is very apologetic. The two captains have apologized on behalf of their teams for embarrassing the university. This is a type of incident that sometimes happens at the end of a tough game. Both coaches regret it and beyond that the incident is closed."

The slugfest overshadowed one of the great all-time UCLA performances by tailback Bobby Smith.

Smith gained 177 yards rushing—just three shy of Bill Kilmer's single-game record—and scored 23 points with three touchdowns on runs of one, 30 and 63 yards; a field goal from the 16, and a two-point conversion.

Smith supplied the momentum for the Bruins to take over disputed first place in the AAWU standings with their second straight conference triumph and move them a notch nearer the Rose Bowl bid.

It was UCLA's easiest afternoon of the season as Cal's defense was unable to cope with UCLA's hard-charging forward wall and the savage Bruin blocking.

ALTHOUGH CALIFORNIA ANTICIPATED virtually every Bruin play and massed its defense to meet the charge, the Bears still were unable to keep the Bruin machine from rolling up 418 yards on the ground.

Despite being decisively whipped, the Bears made it a close game for a half and at one time enjoyed a 7-3 lead for a period of four minutes and 45 seconds.

After Smith had kicked a field goal from the 16-yard line at 11:52 of the first period to send the Bruins into a 3-0 lead, California snapped back on the second play after the kickoff with a lightning 70-yard touchdown strike by halfback Alan Nelson. Jim Ferguson's placement made it 7-3.

The touchdown was a bit of a fluke. Nelson appeared to be stopped on the line of scrimmage, but as the UCLA defense eased up waiting for the whistle, the Bear halfback slipped out of a tackler's grasp, picked up a key block and sprinted the 70 yards to paydirt.

The Bruins came right back with a 66-yard drive in 11 plays to regain the lead. Mike Haffner capped the advance by cracking over from the one for the tally at 2:49 of the second period to make it 9-7.

IT WAS ALL DOWNHILL FOR the Bruins from there, although they had to wait until the third quarter to "ice" it.

Actually, the score would have been much greater but for the Bruins' offensive mistakes. They cost themselves another TD midway in the second quarter when poor play selection fouled up a drive that finally stalled on the three-yard line just six inches from a first down. They were stopped again at the outset of the fourth period on the Cal 10 when a fourth-down pass to Al Gevermink was ruled incomplete when the latter caught it a step beyond the end zone.

Smith broke things wide open in the second half as

Willie Fizzles In Scoreless Husky Contest

By JEROME HALL
L. P.-T. Staff Writer

SEATTLE—The USC and Washington football teams got what they deserved—a scoreless tie.

But it wasn't dull for the 55,200 who filled the Huskies' stadium on a cold, cold Saturday in Frostville on the Puget.

There were seven fumbles, four pass interceptions, two field goal attempts and one long touchdown run was called back. Other than that, things were fairly normal—if you overlook the fact that the game ended on a riotous note with a Washington player running half the length of the field on an interception with hundreds of youngsters in close pursuit.

Though the tie doesn't severely damage USC's Rose Bowl chances, it pretty well eliminates the Huskies, who are 1-1-1 now in AAWU play. Troy has a win over Cal, with Stanford coming up Saturday in the Coliseum.

Last Trojan scoreless tie was 19 years ago, with Washington.

The heralded return of Willie Brown was a fizzle. He ran to the outside only once, losing yardage, and wound up with a net of nine yards in five carries.

THAT LEFT IT UP TO FULLBACK Ben Wilson, who started the year as Willie's replacement. And Wilson again was the outstanding runner on the field, totaling 93 yards.

"It was a game of missed opportunities," said a dejected John McKay, the USC coach. "Only ourselves kept us from scoring."

But it was a penalty that kept the Huskies from scoring. Early in the third period QB Kermit Jorgensen ran 50 yards to the end zone on a keeper, but a holding penalty nullified it.

Soon after, Troy made its strongest touchdown bid, reaching the 10 where a fourth-down plunge aimed at gaining a half yard was exactly a half yard short.

This was a far cry from the crisp-blocking, hard-running Washington teams we've seen in the Rose Bowl the past two times. This year's doesn't have an offense.

Washington's strong point was a blanketing pass defense that held ace end Hal Bedsole to two receptions for 25 total yards. The Huskies practiced all week on stopping Bedsole and it paid off.

USC's big break came at the start of the fourth period when center-linebacker Dave Morgan picked off a Jorgensen pass at the Trojan 25 to halt a long drive and he returned the interception 37 yards. From the Husky 38,

L. B. 49ers Were Outclassed

Long Beach State College's football team had all the appearance of a claiming horse thrust into a stakes race Friday night as it was routed thoroughly by a Fresno State squad that has no business competing in the CCAA.

The California Collegiate Athletic Assn. is a nice, friendly conference, with the one exception of Fresno, a coldly competent football machine which must enter every league game in much the same manner as a con man eyeing a little, old lady clutching her life savings.

The 49ers shouldn't be chastized for their feeble performance in the 37-14 rout. The league should be reprimanded for failing to graduate the Bulldogs into the AAWU.

The Fresno squad that pulverized Long Beach could have played USC and UCLA on equal terms. This isn't to say the Trojans or Bruins would be beaten by the Bulldogs, but merely to point out that the Fresno team which played here performed much more impressively than any of the two Los Angeles institutions thus far this season.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

Fresno should be well equipped to perform in the Mercy Bowl on Thanksgiving Day. Every time out against a CCAA foe this year, the Bulldogs have shown little mercy.

If it's any consolation to Don Reed and his coaching corps, a horde of Los Angeles State College scouts clucked approval of the 49ers' "game" stand against an obviously far superior team. (It's of passing note only that the 49ers engage L. A. State in a homecoming contest here this Saturday night.)

"Har-rumph," grunted Ferron Lossee, Diablo athletic director, with all the dignity of Major Huopie. "Off what I've seen both clubs do against Fresno, I'd have to say that Long Beach should rate a two-touchdown edge over us."

Mr. Lossee is a sharp man with predictions. Last Monday he told the Southern Calif. Football Writers Assn. that if Long Beach upset Fresno "there should be an investigation." However, if Los Angeles State looked two touchdowns worse against Fresno than Long Beach State, someone should have called the humane society.

BUD ADAMS, the Diablo head coach, said he was looking forward to the game with Long Beach State. "It'll be nice to drop back into our own class again," commented Adams.

Pipe-smoking Adams observed also that he could find no one weakness in the Fresno armor: "Trying to keep all those big linemen and fast backs happy when they're not playing."

Scotty Deeds, the Long Beach man who defected to the L.A. institution, pleaded with this writer "not to stir up a hornet's nest" prior to the Diablo-49er contest. "We don't want to get Long Beach fired up against us," insisted Deeds, "because they might blow us right out of the park."

The tongues—even the one with the pipe around it—were in the Diablo cheeks Friday night.

THE TURNOUT of 4,000 or so was a sad commentary on the whole 49er situation. The school with an enrollment of 11,000 has been labelled in some columns as "the mausoleum on the hill."

The paltry turnout for the school's biggest game was indication again that the mausoleum hasn't been converted. Speaking of conversion, someone might study a plan to convert the "turf" on the Veterans Stadium field from a spotty weed patch to something slightly resembling beauty.

The many visitors who jammed the stadium Saturday night and saw the field for the first time were appalled at the turf's poor condition.

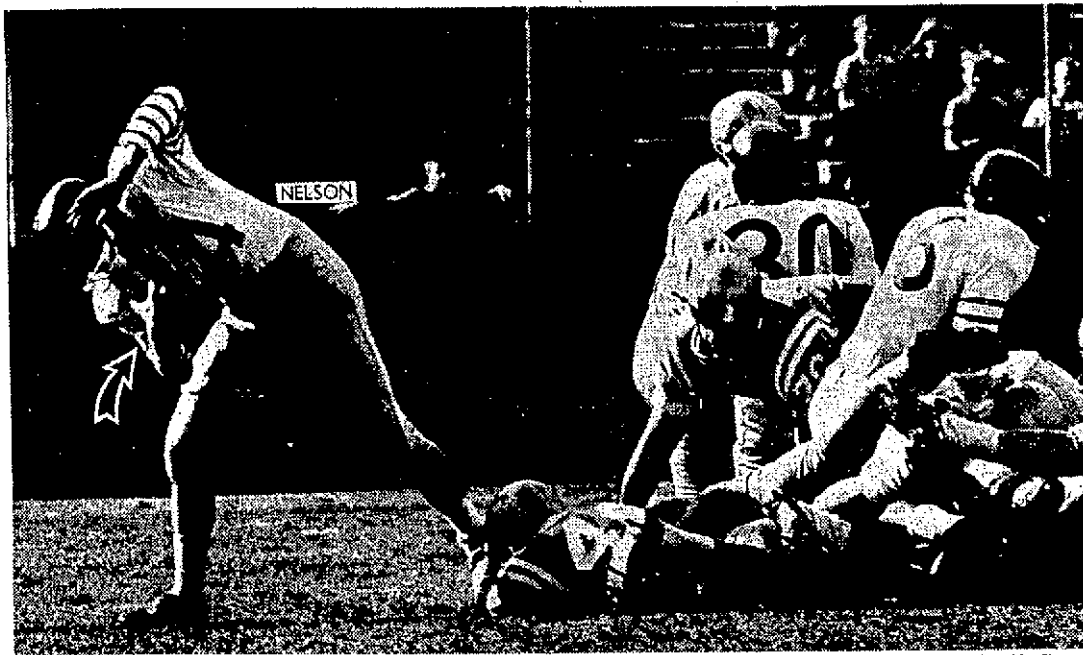

It's bad enough for a city of this size to own a stadium with seating on only one side, but it's downright disgraceful to add insult to injury with a weed patch where grass should exist.

Blades Fall to Seals

The cellar-dwelling San Francisco Seals outshot and outplayed the Los Angeles Blades Saturday night, 3-1, to Seals their third goal.

Los Angeles took the lead early in the first period when Gerry Goyer, with assists from Danny Belisle and Jim Powers, scored at the 1:31 mark.

From then on it was the Seals' game. San Francisco picked up its first goal in the second period at 9:48 on a shot from Bob Solinger.

Cal halfback Andy Nelson eludes UCLA lineman and starts 70-yard TD run.

Gophers Stun Top-Rated MSU, 13-0

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—School boy chums Sandy Stephens and Bill Munsey of Minnesota combined for two touchdowns and the Gophers held off top-ranked Michigan State's dreaded offense Saturday for a 13-0 victory.

It was the first loss of the year for the Spartans, who had not been scored on in conference play. The victory kept Minnesota's defending national champions unbeaten in the Big Ten and in a tie for the conference lead with Ohio State.

The Gophers, winners of five successive games since an opening 6-0 loss to Missouri in miserable weather, still must face Iowa, Purdue and Wisconsin.

Munsey scored both Minnesota touchdowns. The first came with less than 7 minutes left in the first period on an eight-yard pitch-out play from Stephens. The second came with four minutes remaining in the game when Stephens hit Munsey with a 23-yard pass on fourth down.

Stephens and Munsey, who grew up together in Uniontown, Pa., provided most of the Minnesota offensive show, and were outstanding on defense. It was Munsey's first action since he was injured two weeks ago early in the Illinois game.

Between the scores, the Gophers' punishing defense, best in the conference, held off the Spartans' No. 2 offense.

The Spartans, seven-point favorite going into the contest, drove deep into Minnesota territory on two occasions. But the Gopher line, anchored by giant Bobby Lee Bell, Capt. John Mulvena and linebacker Julian Hook, checked Michigan State both times.

Stephens ended another Spartan scoring bid in the last minute when he intercepted a pass in his end zone.

Minnesota's first touchdown came on a 71-yard march in 11 plays on the second series of the game.

Stephens, who has been named a UPI back of the week, hit two key passes in the drive, good for 25 yards.

The clinching touchdown came after Spartan third-stringer Dewey Lincoln fumbled on the Minnesota 40 and Tom Hall recovered with six minutes to go. Minnesota pushed inside the Spartan 20 but penalties drove the Gophers back and it took the desperation pass from Stephens to score.

Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty said his team lost the contest by making offensive and defensive mistakes at crucial points.

"Our offensive drives broke down because of fumbles or key passes missed," Daugherty said. "And our defense made several mistakes especially the one that gave Minnesota its final touchdown.

"There isn't much you can say about a game like that. We just got beat. They apparently wanted to win more than we did."

"I thought we were going to win until the final minutes. We moved nearly everytime we had the ball, but we didn't have the Minnesota sharpness."

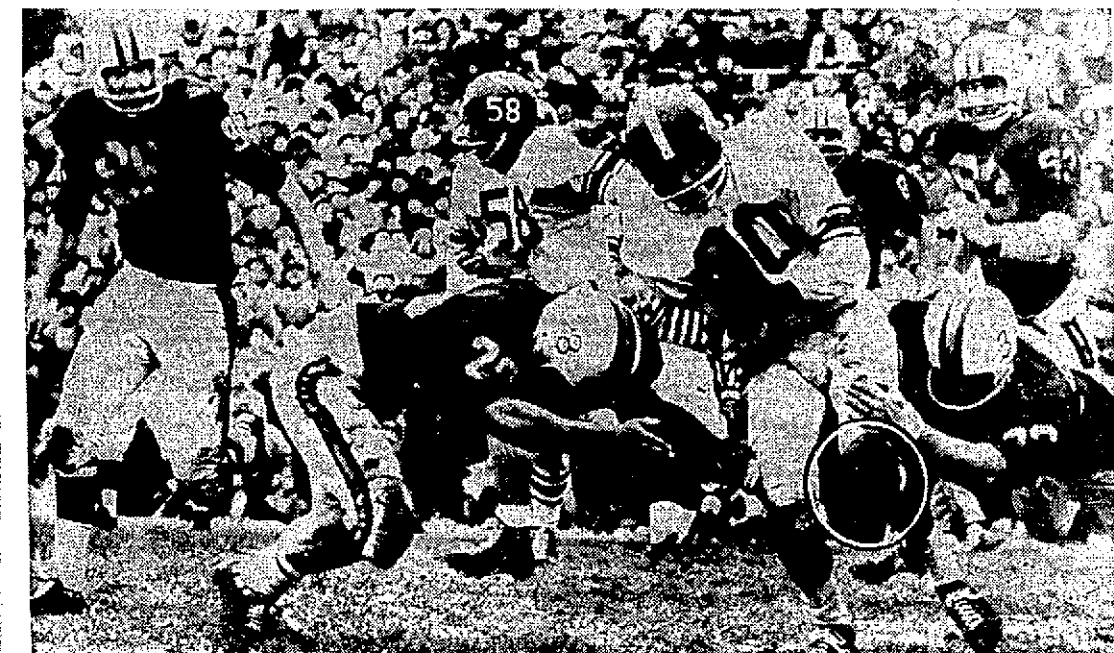

Minnesota coach Murray Warmath remained nervous long after the game.

"I really burned up some nervous energy," Warmath said.

He heaped praise on the entire Minnesota team, especially on Stephens and Munsey.

SURPRISE AIR ATTACK

Buckeyes Drop Iowa

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Unbeaten Ohio State, using a precision ground machine and a surprise aerial attack, crushed Iowa 29-13 Saturday to stay in a tie for first place in the Big Ten race.

A record Ohio Stadium crowd of 83,795 homecoming fans watched the Buckeyes take advantage of two pass interceptions and a fumble, and turn them into touchdowns to knock the Hawkeyes out of the Big Ten title chase.

A 17-point barrage in the final period ended all Iowa hopes. It was the Hawkeyes' second consecutive loss, having dropped a 9-0 decision to Purdue a week ago.

The Buckeyes, normally a savage grind-it-out team, called on sophomore quarterback Joe Sparma who fired two touchdown passes to end Chuck Bryant and all-American fullback Bob Ferguson to make their offense roll.

Ohio State, tied 7-7 by Texas Christian in its opening game, has now won five in a row and is 4-0 in the Big Ten. Iowa has won four games and lost two.

Defense end Tom Perdue sent the Buckeyes out to an early lead by grabbing a fumble in the air when Iowa's Sammie Harris dropped the ball on a hand-off on the Ohio 45, then ran 55 yards for a touchdown with the game less than four minutes old.

The Buckeyes hit again in the second period when Sparma fired an 18-yard pass to Bryant for a touchdown. Both kicks for the extra point were wide.

Bengals Eke Out 10-7 Win

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—

Jerry Stovall, a 193-pound starry-toed halfback, streaked 57 yards to set up a touchdown and Louisiana State smashed Mississippi's dreams of a national championship with a 10-7 victory over the Rebels Saturday night.

third period and paved the way for a 7-yard touchdown run by halfback Wendell Harris.

Mississippi, ranked second in this week's Associated Press poll to Michigan State, lost its bid to take over the No. 1 spot when the Spartans lost to Minnesota earlier in the day. LSU was ranked sixth.

This was the third straight year that LSU has wrecked a possibly unbeaten season for the Rebels.

BUT Mississippi kept the 68,000 screaming fans tense until the final seconds when LSU end Gene Sykes recovered Rebel quarterback Glynn Griffing's fumble on the Tiger 36-yard line.

LSU moved out front midway in the first period when Harris booted a 37-yard field goal.

But Griffing and starting Rebel quarterback Doug Elmore opened up a passing attack and got Mississippi rolling just before halftime.

Griffing tossed to end Wes Sullivan for 2 yards and a touchdown and the intermission ended with the Rebels showing a 7-3 lead.

A 22-yard field goal attempt by Sullivan at the halfway point of the third stanza came just two plays before Stovall found a weakness in the Mississippi line and scampered to the Rebel 23.

SEVEN PLAYS later, Harris circled left end behind a great block by guard Monk Guillot for the game's final score.

With 5 minutes left in the game, Ole Miss saw two potential scoring drives fail. With the combination of Elmore to end Ralph Smith clicking for big gains, the Rebels probed deep into Tiger territory but defensive ace Steve Ward intercepted an Elmore pass at the LSU 16 to halt the march.

Mississippi intercepted a toss by Tiger quarterback Lynn Amedee at the Rebel 34 to launch its final desperation bid for victory.

GRIFFING directed this march and it failed when the substitute Rebel quarterback was swamped under, fumbled and Sykes came up with the ball.

BUFFS NIP MISSOURI, EYE ORANGE BOWL BID

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—

Colorado sailed through the air for a touchdown in the final minute of the first half and fought off Missouri's fourth-quarter comeback for a 7-6 triumph in a battle of Big Eight unbeaten football teams Saturday.

Missouri gambled for victory with a two-point conversion try but the pass from halfback Mike Hunter, who pitched the 10-yard touchdown pass, sailed over the end zone.

Colorado's triumph in clear, crisp weather before 43,200 fans sent the Buffaloes into undisputed first place and into top consideration for a trip to the Orange Bowl. Colorado entered the game ranked eighth in the AP poll and Missouri was 10th.

Missouri made one last try to triumph with a 44-yard field goal attempt by halfback Bill Tobin, but it wobbled short and wide.

Halfback Leon Mavry's 25-yard punt return to Missouri's 47 ignited the Colorado touchdown march with barely a minute left in the second period.

Halfback Teddy Woods scampered 12 yards and quarterback Gale Weidner hit end Jerry Hillebrand with a 14-yard pass to the Tigers' 21. After one incomplete pass, Weidner connected with halfback Bill Harris for the touchdown.

Early in the fourth period Missouri took a punt on its 37 and marched 63 yards in 13 plays for the equalizing touchdown. Quarterback Ron Taylor started the scoring play with a pitch-out to Hunter, who then rifled the ball to end Don Wainwright on the goal line.

Longhorns Blast SMU For 7th Straight Victory

DALLAS (UPI)—Jitterbug James Saxton's 79-yard third-quarter touchdown scamper ignited a smoldering Texas offensive fuse Saturday and the nation's third-ranking Longhorns blasted Southern Methodist, 27-0 for their seventh consecutive victory.

Saxton, the 164-pound bundle of greased lightning, whipped up 173 yards in all in the face of terrific SMU defensive work. His understudy, Jerry Cook, tacked on two more touchdowns and reserves manufactured another in the fading minutes when Tommy Ford lunged two yards.

The victory kept Texas atop the Southwest Conference standings with a fourth league triumph and it knocked SMU out of contention.

Before Saxton snaked his way through right tackle and streaked down the sideline with a herd of Mustangs pounding at his heels, Texas' heralded offense and defense was under intense pressure from the fired-up Methodists.

SMU, guided by lanky sophomore Jerry Rhome, played in Texas territory most of the first half. However, a 24-yard field goal try by John Richey that flipped backwards off the cross bar in the first quarter and another drive that blunted itself four futile times inside the Texas two in the second quarter were the only Mustang scoring threats.

Once Over Lightly

Van Brocklin, Waterfield Old Rivals

There was no love lost between Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin when they formed the greatest 1-2 quarterback punch in football a few years ago with the Rams.

Regardless of what they might say publicly, there's still no great "bond" between them as they oppose each other today as head coaches of the Rams and Minnesota Vikings in the Coliseum.

NORM VAN BROCKLIN
Vigorous Taskmaster

Waterfield is in his second year at the helm of the Rams while Van is boss of the new Minnesota club.

In fact, Van Brocklin is the first man since the early days of the NFL when the player-coach was common to make the long leap from competitor direct to mentor.

You have to go back 23 years to 1938 when Dutch Clark played and coached the Detroit Lions for the last man to make that jump.

"Dutch" has turned in a fine job with the Vikings to date. Expected to be soundly trounced in every outing this season, Minnesota has equaled the record of the Rams to date, 1-6.

The Vikings' home win is one of the three most stunning upsets of the season to date. They clobbered the Chicago Bears, 37-13, in the opening game. They almost upset the Colts, 10-9, before Baltimore pulled a 34-33 thriller out of the fire with a last-second field goal. And Van's boys gave the 49ers a battle royal up to the closing minutes of the play.

Van has taken a bunch of rookies and "castoffs" drafted from rival clubs to put together a team that can be exceptionally dangerous. He is getting tremendous mileage out of several veterans who have been considered washed-up for several seasons.

IT WAS ABOUT THIS TIME 13 years ago that the Rams first heard from Van Brocklin.

Oregon was headed for a tie with California for the PCC title and while Cal was to receive the Rose Bowl bid, a special ruling was to permit the Webfoots to go to the Cotton Bowl.

Van wrote Dan Reeves, Ram president, that he had enough credit to graduate a year sooner than anyone else in the NFL suspected and he was ready to listen to offers.

The Rams surprised league rivals by picking Van on the third round of the draft. For the "tip," Dutch received a $2,500 bonus.

Van left the Rams with bitter feelings after rowing with coach Sid Gillman for the better part of two seasons. Gillman insisted on calling the plays from the bench. Van thought he was in a better position to call them and proved it time and again. Whenever Gillman took the handcuffs off him and let him call the shots, the Rams played much better ball.

BUT THE FEUDING SPLIT THE CLUB and it was inevitable that Van would go. As it turned out, it would have been better to keep him and fired Gillman right then and there before the Rams slipped even further. First it was announced that Van was retiring, but the next season (1958) he was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles where he climaxed his playing career last year by leading them to the NFL title.

Van was expected to succeed Buck Shaw as coach of the Eagles, but he was stunned when Shaw's chief assistant, Nick Skorich, got the job.

Norm was offered a fabulous contract to quarterback the Eagles again this season, but he angrily rejected the deal and said he was through playing. Shortly afterwards, he was named coach of the Vikings.

Van was a vigorous taskmaster and stern disciplinarian as leader of first the Rams and then the Eagles. He actually was a coach on the field.

VAN SHOOK UP EVERYONE in the dressing room during his last appearance at the Coliseum in the Pro Bowl game last January.

After the game, a sportscaster held a mike up to Van and asked: "Dutch, was this really your last game?"

"You right it was," Van snapped.

The radio man managed to stammer "well, then, what are your future plans?"

"My first plan is to get the hell out of Los Angeles," he growled.

The radio man ran for cover at that point.

Van then aimed a few choice words at some of the L.A. scribes who had needed him in the past.

So now he returns nine months later as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings. And he's certain to draw a record crowd to his dressing room interview today.

It should prove most interesting . . . particularly if things don't go smoothly for the Vikings on the field!

SYRACUSE (UPI)—Big Ernie Davis smashed two more school records and the hopes of upset-minded Pittsburgh Saturday in leading Syracuse to a 28-9 victory on rain-slicked Archbold Field.

Gaining revenge for last year's loss to Pittsburgh, which snapped a 16-game winning streak, Syracuse spotted the Panthers nine first half points and then came pounding back in decisive fashion for its fifth win of the season.

An alert Orange line pounced on three Pitt fumbles to set up Syracuse touchdowns.

urday to guide Purdue to a 32-9 Big Ten football victory over Illinois.

The Illini absorbed their seventh straight loss in a stretch from the final game of 1960, but their rookie half-back, Cecil Young provided the biggest thrill of the game.

He took a kickoff on the four, shook off two tacklers, picked up his interference and broke loose for a 96-yard scoring run. It was a school record, beating by one yard the touchdown kickoff returns by Red Grange in 1924 and Johnny Karras in 1949.

JUST 17 seconds earlier, John Greiner scored for Purdue on a fluke play. Hogan's pass was intercepted on the Illini two by Thurman Walker. Walker was hit hard by Greiner. He fumbled the ball. It rolled into the end zone and Greiner pounced on it.

All this left the score knotted at 6-6, the kick for points failing. But Purdue went ahead to stay, 13-6, 25 seconds before halftime when Hogan, a 195 pounder hit sophomore Tom Boris for 65 yards and on the next play passed to rookie Harold Wells of St. Louis for a 16-yard touchdown.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Fullback Mike Fracchia bulled through the Mississippi State line Saturday as methodically as the steady drizzle which fell all afternoon and powered unbeaten, fourth-ranked Alabama to a 24-0 victory.

In running up its seventh straight win, the Crimson Tide turned a Maroon fumble on the opening kickoff into a score in just four plays to set the pattern of the contest.

Billy Richardson bucked over from four yards out for one touchdown. Quarterback Pat Trammell carried over from the one for another and Tim Davis added a field goal to give the Crimson Tide a 17-0 lead before four minutes of the second period had passed. Larry Wall smashed one for a third score and Davis added the extra point.

GAME, BUT outgunned Mississippi State three times, launched long drives but twice was stopped by the sturdy Alabama defense, best in the nation.

Pheasant Season to Open Saturday

Next Saturday marks the opening of California's pheasant season, but its significance to Southern California is minor. When I say that, I mean that hunters by the tens of thousands will turn out to kill exactly 19,500 ringnecks.

They won't get all the 19,500 because some of those birds will escape from open to closed areas, others will fall victims to predators and still others will die of fright when the army of shooters starts firing.

The season lasts through Nov. 26 in most of California but a 30-day period has been granted to Imperial and eastern Riverside counties, carrying the season through Dec. 10.

The state's only southern co-op, Morena in San Diego County, will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily from Saturday through Nov. 20, and DFG wardens will stock 3,300 birds there.

Here's how the remainder of those ringnecks will be planted: Imperial Valley, 9,100, from Niland south to Calexico and from Westmoreland to Holtville; Coachella Valley, 1,500, near Mecca and near Oasis; Bard Valley, 900, north of Winterhaven; Palo Verde Valley, 1,000, to be liberated along the west mesa of the Colorado, and Owens Valley, 2,650, around Manzanar, Big Pine and Bishop.

IN MENTIONING THE FIGURE 19,500, it must be remembered that private clubs also plant pheasants and additional numbers of those birds make their way to the wild. However, survival of pheasants in Southern California is a risky business, so there is little chance of killing birds that were holdovers from last year.

Shooting at private clubs remains by far the best way to get as many pheasants as you like, and, in the long haul, it is the cheapest way. Prices of ringnecks range from $3.50 to $10 per bird, depending mostly on just how fancy the club may be.

The Sportsmen's Service Bureau, 250 E. 43rd St., New York 17, N.Y., has just completed a pamphlet, "The National Directory of Shooting Preserves, 1961-62," and it is free for the price of a postcard. It lists all California clubs, as well as those of other states.

There are dozens of clubs in the Los Angeles Basin and in other parts of Southern California—far too many for this writer to visit in the course of a season.

But I will say that of all the clubs I have seen, I think that Tommy Williams' Green Head Hunting Club at Santa Ynez is one of the best. Tommy not only uses flighted mallards, but is releasing pheasants, chukars and Bob White quail from traps. It is tops for shooting sports. For information, call Santa Ynez 8-4855.

SPEAKING OF HUNTING, Gene Duhamel, Professional Building Barber, has a real hair-curler about Americans shooting in Canada. Gene, a former Canadian, has a brother, John, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Lambert, living near Winnipeg.

His sister wrote that brother John allowed a group of Americans to hunt deer on his property. When they had finished and shuttled back across the border, John found two of his fine saddle horses dead, one shot through the head, the other through the heart.

Gene's cynical comment in a return letter to his sis said: "Americans may not know what they are shooting at, but, believe me, they can shoot straight! Turn the same ones loose in Russia and they'd probably shoot the U.S. ambassador instead of Khrushchev!"

Dr. Don Markham is back from the Clearwater River country of Idaho where he shot an enormous bull elk. Most of all, however, he was impressed with the variety of game in Idaho—grouse, pheasants, deer, and trout.

He said that he caught trout in the Clearwater without half-trying and that late October is a terrific month for such fishing.

Mexico's waterfowl shooting season started Wednesday and will continue through Feb. 28, with limits on ducks 15 per weekday, 30 on Saturdays and Sundays. Plenty of quail also are flying south of the border.

IN RICHEST RACE

Shoe Boots Home Crimson Satan

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI)—Crimson Satan, ridden by the veteran Willie Shoemaker, came with a rush around the far turn and into the stretch for a victory Saturday in the world's richest race, the $301,365 Garden State Stakes by 2 1/2 lengths.

Backed to 6-5 favoritism by a crowd of 37,015, the chestnut 2-year-old son of Spy Song earned $180,819 for owner Peter Salmen Sr. of Detroit, who almost sold the horse for $12,000 at a yearling sale just a year ago.

Although the horse did the running in this 1 1/16-mile run for 2-year-olds, Shoemaker gave the Salmen colt a magnificent ride, moving him in and out of others in the field of 11 like a halfback picking his hole and blockers.

Shoemaker thus became the first jockey ever to win in the same year the Gardenia, Garden State's rich run for 2-year-old fillies, and the Garden State. The "Silent Shoe" won the Gardenia here two weeks ago aboard Christopher T. Chenery's Cicada.

CRIMSON SATAN was never threatened once he wrested the lead from Mrs. Adela I. Rand's pacesetter, Green Ticket, as the field swept into the stretch. Green Ticket, obviously a sprinter, faded and Verne Winchell's Donut King came on for second by a nose over the fast finishing Obey.

Crimson Satan, winner here last week in one division of the Garden State Trial, was timed in 1:44 1/5, the same time he turned in last week. He returned $4.60, $2.60 and $2.50 across the board. Donut King paid $2.60 and $2.20, and Obey was $2.60 to

WILLIE SHOEMAKER

Wins Rich Classic in Breeze

By Mac McGuire

Adios Butler, the fastest harness horse in history, closed out his Hollywood Park campaign in brilliant fashion as he knocked three full seconds off the world record for a mile and one-eighth in capturing the third and final leg of the $80,000 American Pacing Classic Saturday.

The Pacing Classic was the first half of a gigantic double-header which saw Air Record nab the first leg of the $80,000 American Trotting Classic in the second feature of the twin bill.

All the glory went to Adios Butler, however, as he was timed in 2:11 1/2 to crack the four-day old mark of 2:14 1/2 set last Tuesday by Hark Win at Hollywood Park. The 4-year-old son of Adios finished the race four-and-a-half lengths in front of the second place Mr. Budlong, with Dancer Hanover, Caduceus, Right Time and Stephan Smith rounding out the field of six in that order. All horses bettered the former world mark.

ADIOS BUTLER took the lead from the start and held his advantage all the way around the track. Caduceus held on to second place until the horses reached the top of the stretch and then gave way to Dancer Hanover and Mr. Budlong. The latter came on to nip the Dancer by a half-length for second place.

As usual, Adios Butler was eliminated from the wagering board and Mr. Budlong was ruled the betting winner, paying $13.20, $4.00 and $2.20 across the board. Dancer Hanover, bet down to odds-on favoritism by the crowd of 17,066 spectators, returned $2.60 to place and $2.20 to show, while the show price on Caduceus was $2.20.

AIR RECORD scored somewhat of a surprise in nailing down the first leg of the Trotting Classic, beating last year's classic winner, Silver Song, by a length and a half, with Lucky Demon, a 55-1 longshot, getting up for third. The top three were followed by Duke Rodney, Merrie Duke, Elaine Rodney, Harlan Dean and Trueheart.

The time for the mile was 1:58 1/2. Going off as a 9-1 longshot in the betting, Air Record returned $21.60, $6.80 and $5.00 across the board.

Rossmoor Leisure World Thronged Opening Week

Since its official opening, 25,000 persons have visited the first unit of 844 in the nation's first senior citizen development to include an insured program of medical care and drugs, excluding hospitalization, in monthly payments for cooperative apartments.

"About 500 apartments in the first unit of 844 were sold in the first 10 days by private appointment and 67 were sold Sunday," reported William G. Brangham, general sales manager.

THE UNIQUE development, planned for completion in two years, will comprise 6,750 one and two bedroom apartments. Builder is Ross W. Cortese.

Minimum age for owner eligibility is 52 years.

When completed, the entire project will include a medical center, golf course, county library, 12½-acre shopping center, a 2,500-seat amphitheater with a retractable roof, churches for all major faiths and three elaborate clubhouses with banquet facilities for 600 persons and hobby centers for woodworking, ceramics, sewing, courts. One clubhouse is already near completion.

The medical program will go into effect when the first residents move in early in 1962, said Lewis M. Lelton, administrator of the Golden Rain Foundation, a non-profit organization which will administer and operate all medical, recreational and maintenance facilities.

UNUSUAL construction features of the 541-acre development are:

- No steps or stairs anywhere in Leisure World—only ramps and grades.
- Street curbs are rolled.
- Electrical outlets are placed two feet above the ground so no bending is necessary.
- Sit-down seats in the shower rather than tubs to avoid slipping accidents.
- All of the apartments are soundproof.
- Extra-wide hallways provide 36 inches.
- Built-in safety night lights to avoid groping for switches in the dark.
- Twelve furnished model apartments are open daily for inspection.
- To reach the community from Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. to one block west of Los Alamitos Blvd.

Dean & Hoffman, one of the Southland's largest electrical appliance firms, has moved into this new building at 975 E. Willow St. The facility permits much larger displays.

Dean & Hoffman in New, Larger Site

The oldest and largest exclusive appliance sales and service center in the Southland, Dean & Hoffman has moved to a new location in an expansion of facilities.

Just opened, the new facilities are at 975 E. Willow St. Started more than 36 years ago by W. James Dean, the firm was located many years at 221 Long Beach Blvd. In 1958 it was moved to 2648 Cherry Ave.

RONALD J. DEAN, the present owner and son of the founder, said the new building has more than 9,000 square feet and two large parking areas.

The largest Westinghouse dealer in the area, the firm now has a complete built-in kitchen center on display. They act as sub-distributor for Westinghouse for contractors and builders.

Besides the large showroom floor, the company has a complete parts and service department for all appliances and has four radio-dispatch service trucks in operation.

Crowds are expected for this weekend's extended Grand Opening of the Fifth Unit at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said Jim McCarthy, vice-president of McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction. Buyers can now choose from a full selection of plans and elevations, he said.

Golden West homes are offered with the finest 35-year, 5 1/4% FHA terms, McCarthy added. FHA down payments are from $800. Also available are GI no-down payment terms, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

GOLDEN WEST sales are paced by an unusual double patio plan which features a sweeping kitchen-family-living room complex opening on two separate patios. The impressive front patio in this plan serves as an enclosed entranceway. Numerous exterior stylings are available, among them an authentic Spanish design.

The homes, which may be $17,500, are offered in 22 exterior stylings.

LOCATED LESS than ten minutes from inviting beaches and the Long Beach and Balboa boating marinas, the new Golden West development offers all the advantages of a choice smog-free vacation area.

Among the quality features of the homes are: gleaming breakfast bars, ash kitchen cabinets, sliding glass doors, forced-air heating and center entry hall.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by going east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., then right to furnished models.

A REVOLUTION IN HOME BUYING!!

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL HOME BUYERS:

We at Sun Ray Estates in Westminster honestly believe we have the greatest deal ever offered, especially for you who are eligible to buy under V. A. financing. Without one red cent of investment (no down payment, no closing costs) you, on a G.I. loan, can purchase one of our award winning Provident Series homes on a pool-sized lot (65' wide, 100' deep) in a climatically desirable area (south of the smog, east of the fog), only ten minutes from Long Beach.

Never before in history has the following combination of items been included in the purchase price of a tract home: 1) wall-to-wall carpeting throughout (even in the closets), 2) over 110 yards of custom made drapes (in every room) with a wide variety of fabrics and colors to choose from (at last a new home area where sheets will not be seen hanging over windows for the next year or so!), and 3) the rear yard is completely fenced with an attractive concrete wall (all sides!) five-foot-four-inches high.

This revolutionary concept of financing means that there is practically no way in the world you can take a financial loss. Without any capital invested you are getting a luxurious residence (just try to rent anything its equivalent for what your monthly payment will be!), PLUS the benefit of income tax deductions for loan interest and property taxes (this should mean a nice little refund from Uncle Sam), PLUS an increase in your home equity every month, PLUS protection against an inflationary spiral in building costs. Man, you just can't go wrong.

Perhaps the greatest innovation in these homes is the block wall fence encompassing the rear yard. Not only does it cut out a costly initial expense, but it eliminates the cause of many a feud based on "what kind of fence to put up and who is going to pay for it." Uniformity in fencing is bound to add to the value of the property.

A partial list of the many features in these three and four bedroom homes includes a family room with oak parquet floor and a sliding glass door leading out to a large patio deck, forced-air heat with a summer switch, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe & Merritt, Insinkerator garbage disposal, insulated acoustic ceilings, and two baths. Featured in the baths are shatter-proof tub enclosures, Formica topped Pullmans, and genuine ceramic tile on the walls. The oversize double garages are available, either detached or attached to the house. Choice may be made between rock and split cedar shake roofs, with no additional charge for the latter.

Prices start at $19,300, and occupancy is practically immediate. Among those already moved in are doctors, lawyers, aircraft engineers, and a high percentage of retired military personnel.

For those not eligible to buy G.I., thirty year F.H.A. loans at 5 1/4% interest are available.

Anyone who is renting, or thinking of a more modern home, should make it a point to see these homes while they are still available. It is very doubtful that such a deal will ever be offered again.

Yours most sincerely,

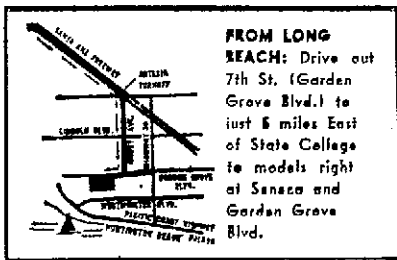

John Bollinger

No Price Increase for Dutch Haven New Unit

IN NEW DUTCH HAVEN UNIT

With sales of previous units far ahead of expectations, Dutch Haven has rushed to completion unit 19 in Huntington Beach. The homes will be sold at the same prices in previous units. Here is a living room view of one model.

Dutch Haven's newly third Huntington Beach unit opened since May of this year by Luxury Homes, Inc., developer of Dutch Haven communities. Edward S. Boyd, sales agent, said that Dutch Haven Units 17 and 18, also located at Huntington Beach, were accorded such acceptance that it was necessary to speed up development plans for Unit 19 by as much as six to eight months to meet the public demand.

Reason for industry interest in the Dutch Haven decision is that it is in direct contrast to the current price-raising trends prevailing at most new beach developments. Mounting construction costs and increases in land values have sparked the move to higher prices. Unit 19 will offer features identical with those shown at other most recent Dutch Haven communities.

THE NEW UNIT is convenient to a host of recreational activities. It is only a few minutes distant from several of Southern California's finest beaches.

Some Westmont Homes on Low Terms to Vet

MURALS OFFERED IN HOME

Mural wallpapers, fireplace, tile eating bar, built-in kitchens, shake roof, are all included in the Westmont community where vets may purchase for a total $35 move-in charge in some units. Homes are located south of Westminster Boulevard on Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach and are priced from $16,500.

A limited number of choice move-in charge is the low Westmont prices with many models selling as low as $16,500. "Comparable homes in the same area are selling for as much as $2,000 more," a spokesman for the pioneer building firm said.

Several of the homes have just been completed and can be occupied within a few days. The $35 total move-in cost includes everything with no costs or imposts to be paid by the veteran, the Westmont developers stressed.

AMONG THE homes are three bedroom models with family rooms, two baths, and features such as shake roof, fireplace, tile eating bars and tile work areas, glassed in showers, master bedroom suites with private bath, built-in kitchens, paneling, mural wallpapers, and a score more luxury features. Stressed with the low

IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Today's opening celebration at Garden Park Estates on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway, introduces the new "1962 Series" of luxurious quality-built residences in this popular fine-home community. New, too, are the very favorable "four-way" terms that include a "move-in" to veterans of $97.97 with monthly payments from $97.97 including principal and interest, plus new 35-year FHA loans and excellent conventional and Cal-Vet terms, officials state.

Garden Park Estates Showing 1962 Models

Today's showing at Garden Park Estates will be highlighted by a display of "1962" model homes that depict the luxurious, quality-built residences in the series now presented at this popular community on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway, W. R. Effinger, sales director, announced.

Very favorable new "four way" financing is available that offers veterans a "move-in" of $97.97 with monthly payments from $97.97 including principal and interest, Effinger said. There is also new 35-year FHA and good Cal-Vet and conventional terms. Full prices are from $17,450, he explained.

GARDEN PARK Estates' "1962 Series" affords a wide diverse choice of distinctive exteriors ranging from California ranch, conventional and contemporary. Versatile floor plans are designed with three or four bathrooms, dining area and family room, two luxurious baths, and in some plans, separate service porches. All plans have two-car garages plus a quality "first" for the area, sturdy, long-lasting concrete driveways.

Moderate full prices include a great many fine home features usually found only in higher price brackets. Typical are the handsome corner or traditional fireplaces, walls of sliding glass opening onto the outdoor living areas, the all-year comfort of thermostatically controlled forced-air heating with summer cooling switch, baths with pullman lavatories, stall showers with glass doors and colored fixtures.

BEAUTIFULLY appointed kitchens are equipped with built-in gas wall oven and range with color-matched range hood with light and exhaust fan, semi-automatic dishwasher, sink-installed disposer, cabinets of natural ash with center guided drawers, and supermatic tile countertops in decorative colors. Walker & Lee Display Wins Walker & Lee Co. of Long Beach was named a first-place winner in the California Real Estate Association's Realtor display contest for their entry in the most effective sales brochures classification, held at the convention of the 35,000-member association early this month in Los Angeles. Gene Nebeker, president of the Long Beach board, announced.

This contest is held each year to encourage better real estate service to the public. It also provides an excellent means for the exchange of ideas in promoting real estate sales.

Walker & Lee received an engraved plaque in recognition of their accomplishment. A record number of entries were received in the contest this year.

VETS NEED ONLY $1

Only $1 is needed by veterans to move into a Brentwood Gardens home such as this. They are priced from $15,700.

Crowds of veterans are responding to the $1 total veterans' move-in costs offered on the present unit at Brentwood Gardens, said Larry Weinberg, president of Larwin Co., builder-developer. The special low move-in costs are available only on a few remaining homes, Weinberg said.

Veterans' move-in costs on the new unit at Brentwood Gardens will be the regular $95, he said.

THE BRENTWOOD Gardens 30-year, 5 1/4% GI terms offer low monthly payments of $87, including principal and interest. Just 12 minutes from Long Beach, are priced from $15,700.

Offered with three or four bedrooms and two baths, the homes incorporate countless quality features unusual at the low price, Weinberg said. From Long Beach, the Brentwood Gardens development may be reached by driving on Carson to Knott Ave. and the model homes.

WITH HYPNOSIS, POSITIVE THINKING . . .

She Shapes Her Own Model Life

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Want the moon? You can have it. So says blond and vibrant Terri Lee Robbe, who leads a charmed life of self-hypnosis and positive thinking—with a bit of extra-sensory perception mixed in. "Actually, all you have to do is go to bat for what you want," says she. And she must be right. Because, so far, her batting average (as licensed hypnotist, professional model and writer) adds up to a thousand.

TWO YEARS ago Terri was widowed by the untimely death of her professional ball-playing husband, "Curly" Robbe, first baseman with the Portland Beavers.

Left with two children—Mike and Kathy, now 11 and 9—she was trained for no particular profession. "I'd been a housewife so many years, I had no idea what I could do," she reflects.

But her thinking-will-make-it-so approach to life soon came to the rescue. She set up these objectives:

1. To become a professional model; 2. To use her previous hypnosis training in the medical field; 3. To make a good home for her two children.

In two short years, all have come true.

TODAY, she's a busy model, works daily as staff hypnotist for Dr. Charles Bartell at his Signal Hill Alcoholics Hospital, 1600 Orange Ave., gives free lectures at the sanitarium on Monday evenings, teaches classes in self-hypnosis (for loss of weight, habitual smoking, hyper-tension) and is writing a book, "The Magic Key."

The subject: how through one's own mind he can become the person he desires —without tensions, sleeping pills, ulcers, tranquilizers or goof-balls.

"All people can be helped with a more positive attitude toward life," says she.

AND HERS is the voice of experience. Terri has used the positive approach—with overtones of hypnotic persuasion—all her 29 years.

Her father was a hypnotist in home-state North Carolina, back in the river boat days when hypnosis was an entertainment medium.

"The hypnosis, positive-thinking, extra-sensory philosophies run through my entire family," says she. "We THINK things into reality."

WITH NOSTALGIA, she looks back on the time she met her husband.

"I was sitting on the sidelines during a game at Southgate Park watching my to-be-husband play. I must have been sending out strong thought waves—because, he hit me smack on the head with a fly ball."

The result? "He came over to apologize and we were married three months later in Oklahoma."

Since his death, Terri has made good use of her concentrative powers to build a new life for herself and her children.

TAKE THE modeling, for instance. Although she'd had no previous training or

As staff hypnotist at alcoholics hospital, she works under direction of staff physician in treatment of alcoholism, other problems; holds lectures, classes in self-hypnotism.

AS PROFESSIONAL MODEL, Terri Lee Robbe, here pictured during showing at Hawaiian, approaches assignments with positive attitude, self-assurance. An openly magnificent blond, her personal wardrobe is made up of clothes along bone-simple lines. "I like things very plain with no fluff on them at all—no bows, no poufs."

AS WIDOW AND MOTHER, Terri Lee Robbe pinch hits during backyard baseball workout with children Mike, 11, and Kathy, 9. She often warms up Mike for game of Little League, sometimes wearing her best high heels because there wasn't time to change.

HADASSAH MEMBERS DINE, DANCE

It's Their Golden Jubilee

HADASSAH LEADERS (from left) Mmes. Harold Ehrlich, visual aids chairman; Harry Wolfe, program chairman; Edwin Spitzer, ways and means chairman; Max Stotland, president; and Robert

Baldwin, adviser, finalize plans for group's annual benefit dinner dance to be held next Sunday at Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel. Cocktails at 5:30 p. m., dinner at 6.—(Staff photos)

Featuring a golden jubilee theme, the annual benefit dance of Long Beach chapter of Hadassah will be held next Sunday in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

A delightful evening of cocktails, excellent cuisine and outstanding entertainment is planned, according to Mrs. Max Stotland, president, and Mrs. Robert Baldwin, general chairman.

Cocktails will be served at 5:30 p. m., dinner at 6:30. A minimum pledge of $65 is admission to the ball.

HIGHLIGHTING the entertainment will be a song and dance act by comedy team Patti Moore and Ben Lessy. An added attraction: the famous Billy Gray, straight from the Band Box Club in Los Angeles.

Herb Silvers and his band will provide music for dancing.

Adding a serious note will be a talk by Dr. Moshe Feuchtwanger, a graduate of Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical School, now serving as chief physician of general surgery at the hospital in Israel. He is also author of many medical books.

IN ITS 50TH YEAR, Hadassah looks back on a remarkable record of achievement in Israel and the United States. Founded in February, 1912, by Henrietta Szold, Hadassah now numbers 318,000 members.

The program started as a modest attempt to raise health standards of what was then Palestine. It has become an intricate system of healing, teaching and medical research, child rescue work, vocational education, social welfare and land redemption, which has earned international renown.

On the American scene, Hadassah has been noted for its cooperation and participation in all local community affairs.

THE MEDICAL Organization of Hadassah, which benefits from proceeds of the ball, has been main core of the Hadassah program. The new Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center is without parallel; is there to serve Israel, science and all mankind.

Haven for Spare Time, Parts

By MARY NETH
L. P. T. Staff Writer

The lady shopper who sticks to hat counters, jewelry bars and dress racks is missing a delightful "other" world. Shopping for car accessories is as intriguing as tracking down dress accessories... well, almost. Such stores carry more than just tires, windshield wipers and puzzling auto parts. There's a lot on the counters to interest non-mechanics, too.

Under $1
Meter muddled? Parking pennies always in the bottom of the purse, or home on the dresser? Quick-change, magnetic coin holder solves the problem. Tuck away somewhere in car, out-of-sight, perhaps, but not out of mind. Dispenser assures change in a minute. Handy, too, for telephone.

Under $2
Trunk traveler. New T handle shovel is handy item for campers to store in car trunk. Measures 27 inches overall. Its neat, nifty, well made and low priced.

Automobile do-it-yourself addicts will find new engine and transmission enamel in spray can aid. Spray comes in black and red. Sixteen ounces for $1.39.

Sharp turns won't shake it. Family can dine on the go with new no-tip auto food tray. Shatter and stain proof, tray fits over raised area of car floor. There's room for four cups plus food. Long trips won't seem so long when tray's along. Eliminates searching for a level place to put hot cup of coffee when driver needs both hands for wheel.

Another item for compact car owner. Compact, lever-handled grease gun is perfect for working on smaller equipment. New on market, it's good gift for fanatic sports car mechanic.

Let car look out for itself! Guard bell guards it while you're away. When someone tampers with doors, guard gadget sets off horn reaction. Horn blows intermittently while car's being "annoyed"... then for five minutes afterward. Easy to install, hard to detect, guard may be placed in motor, under hood or inside car. Is set to blow by hidden switch. Stop thief device ideal for apartment dwellers who park cars on street.

Under $4
New nylon heavy duty strap, complete with hook, is strong enough to lift car in air... will hold up to 18,000 pounds. For those going straight... not up... strap is pulley. It's easier to store and handle than chain; won't rust. Good for around home moving jobs, too.

Wheel for wheels. Under 16, two-wheel drivers will go for new round steering wheel which replaces bicycle handlebars. It's newest thing on bikes. Watch for it next on trikes.

Under $5
Lit up with no lights. Revolving color wheel lights up modern aluminum Christmas trees by means of light through colored lens. Under $10

Shapes Her Own Model Life

experience, her I-want-to-be-a-model plans came off as planned. Here, in broad outline, is how:

She surveyed herself with penetrating eye, corrected the faults she saw, set up a clothes system geared to the model life.

Then, she walked into Vogue Modeling Agency, applied for a job; got it on the spot. In a short time, after some training, she was teaching classes at the school.

Of course, one quickly sums up her assets: handsome 5-foot-7 frame, nicely proportioned figure, good features—also the kind of projected "here I am" personality that seems to fill the corners of every room she enters.

But, says she: "Attitude has made it so. My features are no more than most women have."

Asserting that her own attributes are mind-made, she contends beauty is a mental attitude that comes from within.

"Any woman who thinks beautiful CAN be beautiful," says she. "By planting the idea in her sub-conscious, she automatically does the things that make it so."

AND THE same positive approach goes on at the Robbe home, 6464 Los Arcos, a comfortable abode with wood-burning fireplace, backyard swimming pool—AND the added attractions of a cat with three kittens, also a poodle with four puppies.

In her mother-father role, Terri participates in all her children's school activities... whips up holiday surprises at the drop of a calendar... often helps her son warm up for a game of Little League (sometimes in her best high heels, because there wasn't time to change.)

How does one accomplish so much, so soon?

Terri sums it up this way: "Anything I want to do... for some reason... I know I can do. I feel that life is a gift and a privilege—to be lived positively and fully."

"I sincerely believe that anyone can be the person he—or she—wants to be."

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON

A LIVELY, curious crowd showed up for the dedication party of a new office building last weekend which turned out to be the headquarters of Guy Balser, Alex Horowitz and Joe Abrams on the surface this doesn't sound unusual. But it actually is a monument to the inquisitiveness and pioneer spirit of our citizenry. You see Messrs. Balser, Horowitz and Abrams' invitations failed to mention whose building or what firm was hosting.

But all's well that adds up to the right total and merry well wishers present at the accountant's party totaled up very nicely—despite the invitational debit. Among those who took a chance on what 3491 Elm Ave. might turn out to be (good natured guesses ranged from mortuary to coffee house) were Cal and "Rod" Strong, Bruce Mason, Les Lawson, Henry Clock, Harold King, Bob Avery, Clare Hamman, Lucille and Harold Gray, Grace and Clarence Knox, Sally and George Badenhausen, John Paap and the Henry Moores.

The attractive structure was designed by Alex's son, Jack. Decorative paintings which graced the office walls were there, courtesy of Ruth Balser. Say, she does right well with brush and canvas.

THIS SEEMS so potent it's like a Persian fairy tale. I am told that Ann and George Thagard of Downey annually host a trip as casually as thee and me might give a dinner party. This year they took about 60 by chartered plane to San Francisco—put them up in the new wing of the Fairmont; wine and dined them in the sanctum of the Blue Fox wine cellar. Then, again by charter plane, took their guests to Klamath Falls thence into hunting country for the opening of the pheasant season. Trip, which began week ago Thursday, ended Monday. Localites on the 14 karat journey were Mary and Bob Lintz, Barry Merritt, Larry Crager.

DETERMINED to see for themselves how the hula is REALLY done are Barbara and Norb Dean. Some-what confused, they left for Hawaii yesterday to research this phenomenon of undulation in its native breeding grounds—a trip incidentally, which Norb won. At any rate, last Saturday Joy and Bob Axtell entertained at cocktails prior to the University Club party. They had talked Ruth and "Sandy" Sandberg into a surprise rendition of the hula as a bon voyage for the Deans. In sarongs, yet. After only four rehearsals and a few glasses of champagne-courage it proved quite a preview.

IF YOU'RE an old Wilson grad you may have experienced the ears burning sensation, common to people being talked about, last Tuesday. Alma McFarland had a farewell luncheon for Helen Young before her departure for home in Rhode Island. Campaniles, the Bruin's year books, other school mementoes, were mulled through by guests Jean Wood, Kitty Carroll, Eloise Chase and Lee McFarland. Wotta lotta laffs.

HERE's hoping Grandpa John Cottrell has left something for Grandma Emily Cottrell to brag about when she returns from New York in a couple of weeks. It would be terribly frustrating if every time she tried to tell someone about their first grandson friends smiled condescendingly and gave her the "I know" treatment. Emily and John took off for New York the minute they heard daughter and son-in-law Janet and John Hancock were parents of John Cottrell Hancock. Dr. Cottrell returned here mid-last week while Emily stayed on. All I've got to say—someone in that family of Johns is going to have to settle for Jack, Junior or Charlie.

HOLIDAYS have begun for Jean and Ray Houghton. They "opened" their Christmas gift to each other Thursday night as they sailed aboard P&O's liner, Oronsay, for a 58 day South Pacific cruise. Among farewell parties in their honor was the one given by Ruth and Lyle Payne—a delightful Javanese dinner as a salute to the glamorous places the Houghtons will visit.

GLOATING about having her Christmas shopping well started is Eunice Crail. Personally, I think she's taking unfair advantage of her slow-to-the-counter friends. She has two new granddaughters—both born within the past year—to inspire this early season frenzy.

RUEFULLY settling back into the routine of life as she is usually lived are Ruth and Leroy Jensen. Exciting houseguests, now departed, were Emilio and Meta Glinz of Guatemala. They were here for marriage of daughter, Maya, to Tracy Lay of Santa Monica. Ruth was Maya's official hostess when she was Miss Guatemala in our Miss IBC contest three years ago and that was when the Central American beauty met Tracy and how an international friendship between the Jensens and Glinz began.

SIGN THAT it's time to begin thinking, and seriously, about dusting off your Christmas list is the fact that Viennese Waltz Club is about to begin its season—next Saturday matter of fact. First formal dinner dance at Virginia Country Club will have Helen and Joe Kellogg and Dolores and Herman Weissker as hosts. Assisting will be Byrd and Vern Garten, Roxanna and Eugene Moore, Ola and Don Murphy. Newcomers joining the group as it begins its 18th year will be Fran and Dominic Cavaliere, Janet and "Sven" Runolfson, Hallie and Gay Fisher, Lucille and Lowell Bowman, the Monroe Yunkers and the Bill Harberts.

A LITTLE vacation for Tina and John Biby of five days duration ran the gamut from a total peace and quiet beginning to a joint-is-jumping climax. They spent three days at Cherry Cove aboard their boat, "Mad-cap"—the only craft in sight; then wound up at Las Vegas where it seemed there were more people playing than dice being.

MOST realistic women's bridge group in town is the Crazy Bridge Club. When a hand is dealt it is the signal for the gals to start talking—and I don't mean bidding. Marge Young entertained the conversation grand slammers at the Yacht Club Wednesday.

INVITED to an informal dinner party Thursday by Doris and Jim Wood, close friends discovered upon arrival they were helping the well known pair celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary. Which only goes to prove again how pifflefling is time.

He Went Thataway, but Witch Way Did She Go?

With jaunty, not to say even foolhardy, courage, Jim Edmunds showed Mary Jaene her surprise wedding anniversary gift—it was HIS ticket for a trip to the Virgin Islands. Before she could say, "What about me?", he told her they would leave Halloween night, this crafty timing enabling her to ride her broom. Just before he lost consciousness he admitted he had bought an extra plane ride, just in case.

They flew—one way or the other—first to New York to meet former L.Bers, Nancy and Peter Frederick, then to Miami for a real estate convention. After palavering there they'll fly to San Juan and on to San Croix Island, returning—via New York again—just before Thanksgiving.

Becky Perry Bride of George Davis

Becky Perry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leland F. Perry, 105 Rivo Alto Canal, became the bride of George Wallace Davis, Lakewood, in a recent mid-afternoon ceremony at Gloria dei Lutheran Church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of embossed white brocade with pannier pleats ending in a train. Her veil of bridal illusion was held by a headdress of pearls and crystals. Her bouquet was of stephanotis and orchids.

AN AUTUMNAL splash of color was added to the wedding through purple brocade dresses of attendants, the bride's sister, Susan, as maid of honor, and Mrs. T. D. Dalton, also a sister, Mrs. James H. Kinney, Mrs. Arne Peterson and Miss Marcia VeDel, bridesmaids. They carried bird of paradise bouquets.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. George W. Davis and Mrs. C. H. Fenton of Lakewood and James A. Davis of Santa Barbara, asked John R. Kelly to serve as best man, and Jim Kinney, Larry Dodd, Hal Lynch and Lee Warnick to usher.

A champagne reception followed at Long Beach Yacht Club with the newlyweds departing later on a Las Vegas honeymoon trip. They are at home in Bellflower.

BOTH YOUNG persons have been active on the LBSC campus, the bride as president of Alpha Phi.

State College Graduates in Rites

Now at home in Honolulu, Hawaii where the bridegroom is office manager for American Concrete Pipe of Hawaii are newly married Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Donovan.

The bride is the former Mary Alice Wynne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Wynne, Torrance. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. Donovan, 5231 25th St.

Setting for the recent morning wedding vow exchange was St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor length Chantilly lace over white taffeta. Her bouffant veil was held by a crystal tiara and she carried white roses.

BRIDAL attendants were Mrs. Michael Donovan, matron of honor, and Misses Sharon Ebacher, Ann Hoppman, Judy McCauley and Michael Wynne, bridesmaids. The bridegroom asked Michael Donovan to serve as best man and Phil Baker, John Carney, Richard Dyer and Emmett Ryan to usher, Laurie Woelm, flower girl, and Johnny Robutz, ring bearer, completed the entourage.

The new Mrs. Donovan was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and attended LBCC. Her husband, a Wilson alumnus, was graduated from LBSC.

White-Goodart Shades of bronze and gold in flowers and gowns of her attendants contrasted becomingly with the dress of candlelight bridal satin selected by Linda Maurine Goodart for her recent marriage to Stroller Tod White at Community Presbyterian Church.

Her gown was fashioned with full overdrape pannier forming a sweep train and was enhanced with Venice lace. She carried white orchids.

Preceding her to the flower banked altar were her sister, Diana Goodart, maid of honor, Gail White, bridegroom's sister, Mary Jerald, Linda Heckman and Mrs. Dennis Brown, bridesmaids. All wore gold taffeta dresses and carried bronze mums. Linda Pino was flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stroller White of Balboa Island, was attended by Ronald Davis as best man and Robert Coane, Kenneth Shannon, Peter Lewi and Bill Goodart, brother of the bride, seated the 375 guests.

A RECEPTION followed at Petroleum Club with the newlyweds later departing on a honeymoon trip to Mexico. They are home this weekend in Seal Beach.

Mrs. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Goodart, 6495 Clayton Ave., was graduated from Jordan High School, and in June from LBSC where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta. The bridegroom was graduated from Occidental College where he affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega. He received his M.A. degree from LBSC and currently is working toward his doctorate in industrial psychology.

SEARCH FOR SCHOLARS ON AT STATE COLLEGE

Calling all scholars at Long Beach State: Sigma Sigma is looking for you. President Stan Hilton wants it known that the group is on a membership drive. Most of last year's members have graduated, and there are only 31 names on the roster right now. Stan knows there are many qualified candidates on campus, and he would like them to come forward. To get started in Sigma Sigma, you need 12 units at LBSC with a 3.0 GPA. The path gets steeper for permanent members—check details in the Activities Office. The local group is working on plans to affiliate with the national honorary Phi Kappa Phi.

Chi Gamma Iota, the Vets Club, is doing its part to make next week's Homecoming football game a colorful affair. The group is sponsoring the sale of brown and gold pom-poms and rooters' caps, also in the college colors. Price is nominal, and cap purchasers will get a pom-pom thrown in free.

We want to express our appreciation to Gary Little, 49er Sports Editor, for his efforts in behalf of the fund drive for a LBSC page in the program of the Mercy Bowl football game on Thanksgiving. Gary made a plea to delegates at the leadership conference recently and came back with $27 for the fund. As we understand it, he is still conducting his solo campaign around the campus, and we salute his endeavors.

BIG ITEM THIS WEEK is Homecoming. Stories in other sections of the paper have the details, but we just want to note briefly the Open House from 2 to 5 p.m., Saturday, to which the public is invited; and to remind those alums planning on attending the Alumni Buffet in the Chart Room at 5 p.m. to get their reservations in ahead of time.

In closing, we noted a "Hill Name Ballot" in last Tuesday's Forty-Niner. Listed are nine candidates for titling the area on which our college is built: Alamitos Hill, Bixby Hill, Cerritos Hill, College Hill, Forty-Niner Hill, Knowledge Knob, Nugget Knoll, Peterson Hill, and Study Slope. Ballot Box is outside the Forty-Niner office. Don't know how others are voting, but we think "Knowledge Knob" has a nice individualistic ring. Winning entry will be suggested to U. S. Board on Geographic Names as the official name for "the hill."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I Spy--And So Does He!

DEAR ABBY: I came home from a football game and put my binoculars on the table. Just for the fun of it I picked them up and started looking out the window at the apartment building across the way. Into focus came another man, looking directly at ME through a pair of binoculars! My heart almost stopped beating. Now I am wondering what kind of a nut lives so near to me. Should I call the police?—MORT.

ABBY

DEAR MORT: Why not give him the benefit of the doubt? He may be as normal as you. Strange how, when the speck is on one's own nose, it is a "beauty mark"—but on someone else's, it's a mole.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's firm promoted him, and moved us to another city 400 miles from our former home. We have one child, Karl, who is 14. Karl was very unhappy over the move because he had to leave all his friends.

We live in a beautiful home in a fine neighborhood, where there are many boys and girls Karl's age, but Karl shows no interest in making friends. He sits around the house and sulks, and looks down-hearted and miserable. He used to be such a happy boy. Did we make a mistake to move? If Karl is going to be miserable it will not have been worth it. Any suggestions?—KARL'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Pretend not to notice Karl's sulking, and he will stop trying to punish you (that's what he's doing, you know) for disrupting his social pattern. He will meet plenty of potential friends at school. If this is the biggest adjustment Karl will ever have to make in his lifetime, he'll be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: You hear so many older people say how terrible the teen-agers of today dress, make up their faces and do their hair. My mother told me herself that 20 years ago she used to put RATS in her hair to make her pompadour stand up higher than anybody else's. Now, can you top that?—LINDA.

DEAR LINDA: The "rats" your mother used to puff up her pompadour were made of synthetic hair. They were not real rats. But the goldfish the college boys of that era used to swallow—just to be cute—were very real indeed. And alive!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SO IN LOVE": The only married man worth waiting for is your own husband.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Puppets to Delight Children

Maxim Gershunoff's Children's Theatre of America will make a pre-World's Fair appearance Saturday morning at Long Beach City College with a puppet production of Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

Second in the current Programs for Children series, sponsored by Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc., and the Junior League of Long Beach, Inc., the presentation will feature puppet master, Rene Zendejas, known as the "Puppeteer's Puppeteer." The child-size figures have been elaborately constructed at an average cost of $700 and are so well animated that they have been seen and enjoyed by a crowd of 8,000 in a baseball park.

Ten-year-old Russ Lewis will introduce such characters as Maestro Psst, Alfie, the Elf, a gossamer winged Sugar Plum Fairy, and a complement of woodland creatures. Six-foot snufflowers and caterpillars made of genuine sable will provide additional fascination for young theater goers.

PERFORMANCES will be at 10 and 11:30 a.m. Season tickets, priced at $2 for the remaining four programs may be obtained from Mrs. Francis Fillipow, 471 Daroca Ave. or at the box office on the morning of the performances.

For the fifth consecutive year, Programs for Children is bringing the finest in varied live theater at minimum cost to children from 5 to 12 years of age. Future productions include "The Unicorn and the Myth Maker" by Immaculate Heart College, "Impressario" by Educational Opera Association, and "Ozma of Oz" by Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc.

Music for College Days 'Accessible'

A program of "accessible" music will be presented by Long Beach State College Orchestra Thursday in the college theater.

Two free public performances will be given, the first at noon and the second at 1 p.m., as part of the College Days in Long Beach observance which begins today.

Dr. Bertram McGarrity, director, says the music "will be of a type readily accessible to the listener." The program includes "Jamaican Rumba" by Arthur Benjamin; selections from the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, "Carousel," and the hilarious "Circus" by Ernst Toch.

Three students will appear as soloists. Jean Hockney will sing "My Hero" from the Strauss operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier." Linda Riddle will conduct her own composition, "La Solita." The final number will be Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with Anita Grossman as soloist.

Museum Exhibit Shows Past, Present Trends

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"The Figure, Past and Present," and Jewelry and Sculpture by Radakovich open today at Long Beach Museum of Art. Each is a visual treasury in its own right.

Bernard Berenson, the eminent art critic says: "I have stated that the human figure must furnish the principal material out of which the graphic and plastic arts are constructed." This thesis is projected in a large showing of both paintings and sculpture beginning with charming figures from the pre-Christian era and logically developing up to the present. Works by Rodin, Matisse, Archipenko and Henry Moore are included. One of the most arresting and charming is a poly-chromed sculpture of St. Catherine, c. 1420 from Burgundy, a transition from the strictness of Gothic to the more "life-enhanced" approach of the Renaissance.

CONTRASTS are interesting; there are contemporaneous examples of American and European early 19th century painting, and, on facing walls, Norman Rockwell's "Television Antenna" and David Park's "Three Male Figures on Beach."

Radakovich's jewelry and sculpture are pensive commentaries on value in a mechanized age. A standing bronze cross is embedded symbolically in a polished and incised black rock. One looks through the open intersection at a pure shape in crystal.

Maio & Minor Notes JOAN SUTHERLAND WINS ACCLAIM OF AUDIENCES

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P. T. Music Critic

The sensational opera singer from Australia is Joan Sutherland, about whom I wrote the following after hearing her sing the title role in "Lucia di Lammermoor" with the San Francisco Opera recently:

"Music history was made at the Shrine Auditorium Sunday afternoon when the San Francisco Opera presented the opera 'Lucia di Lammermoor' by Donizetti. You have heard the phrase, 'the audience went wild.' Well, that's exactly what happened when the Australian soprano, Joan Sutherland, appeared as Lucia. Never since I heard Caruso at the Metropolitan have I witnessed such frenzy in an opera house. After the Mad Scene, the recalls were so many that I lost count. There has been no singing like it since the days of the de Reszkes, Chaliapin and Rosa Ponselle.

Joan Sutherland is the quintessence of supreme art and vocal mastery. Her voice, unlike other coloratura singers, is big as well as floating, warm as well as liquid. But apart from the glorious phenomenon of the voice itself, Miss Sutherland has a finesse in acting that is rare indeed. Miss Sutherland is destined to become the rave of the operatic world."

TO MY GREAT amazement and joy she telephoned me personally after reading my review and invited me to come in and meet her and her husband. In one of the cozy bungalows of the Chapman Park Hotel in Los Angeles I spent a thrilling hour and a half with this charming couple.

In the old days of Tetrazini and Melba, after a success as astonishing as that of Joan Sutherland's one would have found a prima donna with muffled throat, who spoke only in whispers—if one could get to her at all. But this was not so with Joan Sutherland. She received me personally at the door with a warm, firm hand clasp.

SHE IS NOT six feet tall as I erroneously stated in my review; she is 5 feet 8½

Gift Shopping? Visit Museum

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Art makes ideal Christmas and holiday gifts," reminds Mrs. Martin Garron, chairman of the second annual Art Rental and Sales Show which opens today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

The display, a project of Friends of the Museum, is shown in conjunction with the "Figure, Past and Present," and Jewelry and Sculpture by Radakovich exhibits.

Also on view will be original prints from the Roten studios of Baltimore, Md. Redon, Chagall and Rouault are a few of the masters represented in the 40 works which will be on sale at prices ranging from $7.50 up. This offers an unusual opportunity to the collector of graphics.

THE FRIENDS note that their current show boasts a wider selection than last year. Some of the artists represented are Vic Smith, Eugene Wallin, Guy Williams, Ulfred Wilkie, Sister Mary Corita and Fran Soldini. Works also have been obtained from local galleries, including Comara, Paul Rivas and Primus Stewart.

An innovation this year is the method of reservation. Each work will carry a tag on which the renter may write his name. He may then return Friday or Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. to pick up the reserved piece instead of waiting until the show closes Nov. 26. Rental will apply to future purchase price, and, of course, works are offered for sale outright.

The Friends also suggest gift certificates as unusual

Christmas presents, not likely to be duplicated.

All exhibits will be seen for the first time today from 1 to 5 p.m.; a reception is scheduled from 2 to 4 o'clock.

ANOTHER enterprise of the Friends of the Museum has been received enthusiastically. The first and just-concluded series of art workshop classes was so well-attended that a second series is slated for eight weeks beginning Nov. 18. Each class will be limited to 25 pupils.

The tentative schedule for Saturday is: Children 6 to 8, 9:30 to 10:45 a.m.; children 9 to 11, 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; children 12 to 14, 1:30 to 2:45; 15-year-olds to adults, 3 to 4:15 p.m.

Registrations will be taken Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the museum; a fee of $6 will cover cost of materials. Parents and friends are invited to view works completed by students of the first classes; refreshments will be served.

The workshop teacher, Dorothy Lanier, holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from New York University, has taught in elementary and secondary schools, was a supervisor of art, and taught at People's Art Center at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

SAN PEDRO Art Association, 820 S. Beacon St., will exhibit oils, water colors and mixed media in its fall juried show which begins today from 4 to 6 p.m.

Cash prizes will be awarded by the jury—John Weeks, Mildred Walker and Wayne Long. The show will run

AMERICAN SCENE

Contemporary America is reflected in Norman Rockwell's "Television Antenna," a high light of the show which opens today at Museum of Art. The large painting, meticulous in detail, is on loan from Los Angeles County Museum. Also on view are "Two Nudes," by Auguste Rodin; "Boy in Blue," by Whistler; "Honey Is Sweeter Than Wine," by Dali; and "Arabian Bride," by Klee.

who could do the Mad Scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor" so magnificently with all its high E's, arpeggios and trills sing Wagner?" I asked.

"My husband developed my upper range, unknown to me," she said. "In practicing he would take me higher than I thought until the very high upper range was perfected." It was then that he persuaded her to sing the coloratura roles; an art which is fast dying out. (To be continued)

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

She's Still a Child

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My wife is 16 years old and so I suppose I shouldn't expect too much. We've only been married five months, but all she talks about is how old I am—I'm 26. And all she does is complain about having to get up and get my breakfast.

I admit she has to get up early, as I have to be on the job by seven. But, Molly, surely it isn't any harder for her to get up and fix some coffee and eggs and toast for me than it is for me to get up and drive 12 miles to my job and work there eight long hours.

Guess this is what I get marrying a child—UPSET.

DEAR UPSET:
Your wife must be as spoiled as she is selfish. And she sure is acting more like a child than a young woman. Maybe she should be treated like a child if she is going to act like one. Maybe you ought to turn her over your knee and give her a spanking?—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I certainly married into an odd family. My mother-in-law is constantly boasting about my husband's ancestors, and acts very hoity-toity when I admit I don't know overmuch about mine.

My father-in-law can't talk about anything but big business, and seems ashamed of the fact that my dad is just a foreman in an electric plant.

I'm very proud of my folks. Dad has worked hard to get where he is, and Mom often worked to help him out, as there were six of us kids to bring up.

So far I have not lost my temper with my in-laws—but I'm liable to help!

—MARIAN.
DEAR MARIAN:
Sometimes a young wife has to have pretty thick skin to put up with in-laws, and, apparently, this is one of those times.

They may irk you, Marian, probably even hurt your feelings. But you are the winner, my dear, if you can keep your sense of humor, and not let their irksome ways ever really touch the inner you.

Hard, it's true—but so rewarding to show them they can't really touch you, no matter what they say—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Several years ago—I five to be exact—I gave my nephew some rather special cuff links with figures of the Statue of Liberty on them. He had just been divorced and I considered these appropriate.

Yesterday was my husband's birthday and my nephew's new wife sent a gift. Yes, you can guess. It was the same set of cuff links.

I am quite sure my nephew didn't know. But isn't it rather shabby to take old gifts and pass them out for new? I'm not exactly hurt, but somewhat—ANNNOYED.

DEAR ANNOYED:
Keep them, my dear, and send them back to your nephew this Christmas.—M.M.

WHY do stores start Christmas before Thanksgiving?

That's a question that's often asked and it deserves a sincere answer!

We appreciate the spirit that prompts many of the objections to early Christmas shopping promotions. However, when the reasons for the urge to "Shop Early" are examined, the most critical agree it's MORE than a problem for stores alone.

So we're happy to take this opportunity of presenting some of the problems that confront all stores at holiday time.

Every successful store directs its best effort towards perfecting a helpful service to ALL its customers. And since many customers ask stores to make it easier for them to complete their gift shopping before the crowded post-Thanksgiving period, Christmas merchandise and displays are brought forward early to accommodate them.

And scarcely a major store in the nation could cope with the store traffic that would be generated if any part of early Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving. Even under present circumstances most stores are strained to capacity during the peak of the season, to maintain the kind of store service all shoppers have learned to expect. When you recall the extremely crowded conditions of stores the final two or three weeks before Christmas the problem becomes evident. If no early Christmas shopping was done, this condition would be multiplied many fold. (Actually there would not be enough room behind store counters for enough sales people to serve shoppers during this period between Thanksgiving and Christmas.)

The same condition exists in regard to the children's visits to Santa Claus. Thousands of children and their parents look forward to their annual visit with him, and unless he makes an early appearance, many hundreds would be doomed to disappointment, simply because it's physically impossible to reach him in a shorter time.

Those in the store business know that an extremely large percentage of the Christmas gifts that are selected are items that are in plentiful supply the entire year.

If you were to ask the thousands of retail employees—and as a group they represent one of the largest employee groups in the nation) they would tell you that much of the stress and strain of their Christmas would be relieved if the shopping public would anticipate Christmas shopping throughout the year. (Then you'd seldom hear your friends in retailing remark, "I'm simply worn down to my knees by Christmas Eve.")

Granted that the problem is not a one-sided one. It should be recognized that stores are faced with the problems of convenient service to customers, of maintaining helpful employee relations, of providing a place where those of the public who cannot, or do not, plan ahead may select the traditional gifts for their loved ones and friends.

We are sure that if storekeepers everywhere could chat with you, personally and informally, that you would be convinced of their sincerity, and that in the true spirit of Christmas they would not be criticized for their efforts to perform a helpful service to their shopping public.

Romance On a High Level With Flag Rites

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Long Beach Council of Parents and Teachers will hold its first open council meeting of the year at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Marshall Junior High School Auditorium, 5870 E. Wardlow Road.

The flags of the 50 states will be displayed and an inspirational flag ceremony presented by Marshall students. Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of Long Beach Unified School District, will bring greetings.

DALE F. ELY, attendance counselor for Long Beach schools will speak on "The Dropout Student." He will be introduced by Mrs. John Green, council program chairman.

Some of the subjects to be touched on are why students drop out of school, how to detect signs of dropping out in young folks, and what might be done to prevent them from dropping out. His presentation will be followed by a question and answer period.

Mrs. Raymond Still, president, will conduct the business session following the program.

and Lowell Grammar Schools, Jefferson Junior High, Wilson High and Long Beach City College preceded his accepting a position in Palm Springs as swimming instructor.

Before too long he joined the Flying Club. Part of the initiation was a 30-minute plane ride. He liked it so well, he signed up for lessons, and thus began his flying career. His first position was flyer-demonstrator for the Piper Distributing Co. of California, Arizona and Nevada.

As of Dec. 7, however, commercial flying ended, and Army flying began. Everything from single engine pursuit planes to 4-engine bombers came under his control. He became the third air force pilot ever to fly the new Lockheed Jet in 1945. Advancing from a second lieutenant to a full colonel and a command pilot, he presently has a mobilization assignment at Travis Air Force Base as director of operations.

His reserve assignment each year takes him to Japan. He thinks that country a perfect wonderland—including the "hotu batsu" (hot baths complete with attendants). This past summer flying a C-133 Turbo Prop Cargo Plane, he covered 17,000 miles in 14 days.

LONDON belongs to the Los Angeles Industries Club and is membership chairman of the Los Angeles Industries Distributors Association. He is fleet captain of the National Fleet, Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, and both he and Barbara belong to the Aviation Country Club. They have two little "Powder Puff" future contenders, Terry, 13 and Kristine 11. They, as a family, enjoy sailing, swimming and water polo.

Little did our "chef" dream when, as a lad, he commandeered a Press-Telegram newspaper route, that one day he would land on the Woman's Page, cooking a batch of Sukiyaki.

SUKIYAKI (Skee-a-kee) (Serves 10) Melt in a sauce pan, 1/4 lb. butter.

Cut into very thin slices across the grain and brown in butter, 2 1/2 pounds of fillet of beef. Boil and add to it approximately 2 1/2 cups beef stock.

Then add (cut into very thin slices) 2 cups bamboo shoots 20 young green onions 2 seeded green peppers 2 stalks celery 1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms 1/2 lb. bean curd (sliced very thin)

Season this stew with: 1/4 cup soy sauce (more if desired) salt paprika 2 tblsp. sugar

Cook ingredients gently for 15 minutes — NO MORE

Place in large chafing dish and serve with broiled rice and hot sake.

FUTURE BRIGHT FOR 'ALL COLLEGE SING'

Business, Technology

An "All College Sing" is scheduled at 11 a.m. Wednesday for students of the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division. It's the first event of its kind at the Pacific Coast Hwy. campus but may well develop into an annual extravaganza.

Special attractions for Wednesday's program are also being planned by music director Earl Thomas and organist Orville R. Foster.

For the sixth straight year, BTD's Associated Junior Retailers had the honor of judging the downtown window displays during "Good Old Days" and the group is now planning a campus fashion show in December. Current A.J.R. officers are Ed Buras, president; Joan Glasier, Mary Jo Petersen, and Al Winters.

With an eye to college service and public relations, members of Norsemen and Kiasab have joined forces to patrol the campus parking lots several evenings a week. Their special mission: to hold a reserved parking area for the management and labor members of the Joint Apprenticeship Committees which hold regular meetings on the BTD campus.

Liberal Arts

With the fun-filled Homecoming Week celebrations at Long Beach City College finally over, faculty members and students will get back to the old grind tomorrow. However, many events and activities will highlight the coming week.

"United States Propaganda Abroad" will be title of the Student Forum in the school auditorium Wednesday at 11 a.m. Dr. Totton J. Anderson, political science professor at USC, will discuss the propaganda methods of the United States abroad in combatting communism and winning prestige for the U.S.

Anderson's talk will be the first of two lectures dealing with international propaganda techniques before the forum on Nov. 29. Also on Wednesday, the CRA women's basketball team will travel to Fullerton Junior College for a game. The Long Beach contingent won the women's championship last year without a defeat.

MEMBERS of the 1961 spring semester Viking newspaper staff were recently notified that their paper was one of four junior college bi-weekly publications to be given an "All-American" honor rating by the consecutive semester the semester the newspaper had been awarded the honor.

Mrs. Lee Carter Takes Presidency

Mrs. Beulah Nelson, of Long Beach, first vice president of State of California Grandmothers, will install Mrs. Lee Carter as president of North Long Beach Grandmothers Club 57 during a luncheon meeting Monday at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Others assuming board of directors posts are Mmes. Everett Harris, Hazel Markham, Jean B. Miller Sr. and Harold West. State officers, members of nearby clubs and prospective members will attend.

Bids Make Grand Slam

Here is an actual hand from one of the matches in this summer's knockout team championships which shows another gambling grand slam.

Charles Gabriel, sitting North, opened two clubs as a force. Many experts today use other two bids as weak hands, but reserve two clubs for all rockcrushers.

Dr. John Fisher, sitting South, had just enough for a positive response. (The negative response is two diamonds.)

West did not know who was going to do what to whom, but he decided that a five diamond bid would stir things up.

IT SURE DID. Gabriel went into a trance. Decided that he could not buy the hand below seven and that if he did bid seven the one sure thing would be that he would not have to look at a diamond lead. After all, West was a great expert who shall be nameless and East would never play Gabriel for any diamonds if he jumped to seven.

So Gabriel bid seven and things worked out even better than he had hoped. To start with, West doubled. Gabriel did not redouble. He felt that a redouble would give away the fact that he was void of clubs.

So he just passed and let West drop a high club on the table. Dr. Fisher ruffed in dummy and had no trouble setting up the spades upon which to discard his two losing diamonds.

Tint Rug Spots

Bleach spilled on dark cotton rugs can be made less noticeable by applying food coloring to the lightened spot. The coloring will have to be replaced when the rug is washed, but it is a cheap and easy way to make the rug presentable.

Dodge Dart Visits Health Spa

Week-End Adventure

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Back in 1902, Fritz Guenther, just over from Germany, happened upon the early California health spa of Murrieta Hot Springs, a small collection of tents and shacks some 11 miles south of Lake Elsinore.

With visions of a health spa matching the famed mineral springs resorts of Germany and Europe, Guenther purchased the property and proceeded to put his dream into action. Fifty-nine years later, through the efforts of father, sons and grandson, Murrieta Hot Springs has grown to become one of the best-known health resorts in California.

And back in 1914, having given up their bicycle shop in a small Detroit barn to turn to horseless carriage construction, John and Horace Dodge produced their first Dodge Brothers automobile to launch the success story of one of the great names of motordom.

And there's still another "way back" in this motorlog story as it was the Glenn E. Thomas Dodge agency here that provided our tour car last week-end—a beautiful new 1962 Dodge Dart hardtop for our run down to the Murrieta resort. For it was back in 1909—52 years ago—that Glenn E. Thomas' father, Walter L., first began his automotive career in a small garage which stood on the site of the present-day Buflums' parking lot on downtown Pacific Ave.

WARM MINERAL WATER POOL AT MURRIETA

Dodge Dart Motorlog car hovers over huge swimming pool at Murrieta Hot Springs, south of Elsinore, Calif. Pool is fed by filtered water from warm mineral spring. V-8-powered Dart scored 18.4 miles per gallon on 198-mile trip.

Well, with this historic background, let's get on with the trip. It was Monte Davis, general manager of the "Thom-Dart for the overnight junket," as agency, who put us in the Dart for the overnight junket. A good-looking buff color, with luxurious interior to match, the car was equipped with every conceivable extra, including air conditioning, which we had no need for this rather crisp, cool week-end.

SHOWROOM NEW, the speedometer showed only 4.8 brand new miles as we left the trip. It was Monte Davis, the Anaheim and Elm show-room for our 91-mile-trip—out the Riverside Freeway to Corona, then right on Highway 71, past arid Elsinore and the 11 miles to Murrieta. A little over two hours, Dart time, saw us at our destination. It was real pleasure driving this new lean breed of Dodge. Operated on the American plan, Guenther's offers a variety of accommodations. Our choice was a room in the California section of the resort—a double-bed room with shower that went for $24.50 a day for two. This includes three meals a day per person and a mineral bath daily for each. Other rates range from $12 per day for a single to ultra-modern, air-conditioned bungalows at $36 daily for two. Life at Murrieta, we soon found, revolves around the healing properties of the warm waters that bubble up from unknown depths at several places on the grounds. Hot, natural tulle mud and hot mineral water baths, combined with the drinking of basis of Murrieta treatments. Lorraine and I sampled the hot water as it came gurgling out of a well but I was never one to go for a hot water drink except maybe around Christmas time and then it might have something a little more substantial in it than sulphate of lime and chloride of sodium. The wife concurred.

But the baths, massages and bubbling water aren't all the activities here, we found after a chat with George Blake who manages the sprawling resort. There is hiking to Cold Water Springs in nearby Murrieta Canyon. Horses are available for riding over mountain trails. There is rabbit, dove and quail hunting in season, and croquet, tennis and badminton courts are on the grounds. A billiard room is available and free movies are offered for guests.

Informal dancing every night but Sunday is offered for those who have been imbued with new zing from the spring.

DINNER VARIETY

A late dinner that Saturday night offered a variety of appealing entrees. Our family-style chicken and steak dinners were seasoned to perfection and included everything from soup to lox. Other selections included lobster and lamb chops, and were served in ample quantity, we could see.

An after-dinner drink seemed in order, now so we adjourned to the Forty-Niner's Room done in the decor of the gold rush days. Adjoining was a huge card room with every table filled with avid players. The game was panguinea, Bartender Zeke Lieferman explained, an intricate type of gin rummy played with eight decks, and it looked too involved to request an explanation.

Health-seekers, fun-seekers... it was a gay, animated group enjoying the hospitality of Murrieta's Forty-Niner's Room this Saturday evening.

Late Sunday morning saw us simmering in the huge warm mineral water pool till time for lunch which afforded such niceties as squab chicken with wild rice, roast beef, swiss steak and other delights. You can see they dine well at Bud Guenther's table, grandson of founder Fritz, who now operates the health resort.

Two p.m. saw us back in our lively Dart for the short run to Elsinore where we stopped to explore the dry lake bottom before heading over the twisting Ortega Highway to San Juan Capistrano, the coast and home.

All new cars are nice. They look sharp... they have that wonderful new-car smell. It's hard to single out one car's features over another but as its outstanding feature the 1962 Dodge Dart would get my vote for the very smooth ride and excellent way it held the turns on that snake-like Ortega grade. No squeal... no sway... no tilt. Stability, roadability... whatever the name... the Dart hit the mark with me.

Everybody in the pool!

When the Army was experimenting with camels, this was a scene at military headquarters in Wilmington. Outbreak of the Civil War caused scheme to lose interest.

Ships That Cruised the Desert

By V. Franklin Limerick

Thousands of years before herds of these animals had roamed the area. Why they became extinct is an unsolved scientific puzzle.

It was on May 16, 1856, that the first army-sponsored camels were unloaded at Powder Horn, Tex., for their overland trip to California. Jeering and jostling, the motley crowd shouted insults at the bright-sashed, burnoosed and turbaned, camel tenders, imported with their charges. The unwelcoming committee loudly and profanely criticized the peculiar looking and smelling "critters."

Weeks later, a strange looking caravan of horses and wagons, mules and men, camels and cameleers left Texas for the long, perilous journey across Indian infested territory for the west coast. The little-known country of the Southwest was to be surveyed en route.

After expected incidents with weather, difficult terrain and Indians the expedition arrived in California. The camels had stood up well on the trip and had proved to be superior to the other animals in many ways. They required very little water and seemed to enjoy a prickly pear diet. And when the going got really rough and there was a dire need for nourishment they could draw on the built-in supply on their mounded backs.

Patiently, they bore their burdens and they held their own with the thievish redskins.

Siesta time was shattered when the one and two-humped animals marched into the small, sleepy city of Los Angeles. Attired in bright blankets, blue beads and bells, the haughty animals stalked past gaping citizens, looking down their noses with heavy lidded eyes. The awe-inspiring spectacle rooted some of the inhabitants to the spot.

ALTHOUGH THE camels turned in a good performance and did more than was expected of them, the venture was ill-timed. The Civil War broke out in 1861 and interest in the camel corps lagged. Soon afterwards the idea originated by the then secretary of war, Jefferson Davis, and promoted by Lt. Beale died of neglect.

For awhile the camels were indifferently used for one minor project or another. The temperamental animals required special handling. The soldiers hated the lofty creatures and were accused of abusing and mishandling them.

Most of the foreign cameleers soon returned to the land from whence they came. Of the few who stayed, history remembers only three: Greek George is buried at Whittier; Mico settled in Texas and is said to have descendants there today. The stepping, silver-bellied camel corps down the streets of the drowsy little pueblo of Los

WHEN LT. BEALE, commandant at Ft. Tejon, California paraded his high-

Sidelight to a Desert Interlude

By Ellen Saunders

WEEKEND touring in the desert may easily include an interesting side trip to the Edward-Dean Museum of Decorative Arts in Cherry Valley, less than an hour's drive from Palm Springs.

The museum houses Riverside County's most diversified collection of art and sculpture, valued at $1 million, and attracts about 7,500 visitors annually. It is open again, after being closed in August, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Admission is free. J. Edward Eberle and Dean Stout, owners and founders of the museum, planned it that way.

Eberle, a real estate investor and art lover, says, "This is our dream, a museum where the best in art could be made available to everyone. My mother was an artist and early in life I learned to distinguish between good and bad art. Then I met Dean who is an interior decorator, and our collection, like Topsy, just grew.

"THREE YEARS ago I bought a fruit farm here and built a weekend home. It was then that we decided to build the $225,000 structure which houses our collection."

The spacious rooms of the museum are cheerful and the art objects have been arranged with care. The immediate impression gained by a visitor is that of entering a private residence filled with beautiful belongings.

Although each century is represented in the treasures on display in the gallery's four main rooms, art objects of the 18th and 19th centuries predominate. The majority of them were picked up at a fraction of their worth by Eberle during eight trips to Europe.

"Mostly at public auctions," Eberle stated. "I've made a hobby of buying the best at the lowest price." As an example he cited a Pissaro valued at $7,000 and for which he had paid $20.

"I DIDN'T KNOW when I bought it that it was a Pis-saro," he admitted, "but I did sense that it was something good. The dealer was only too happy to get rid of it."

Several art objects are of interest not only because of their own intrinsic value, but because of their association with famous personalities. A lacquered table inlaid with mother of pearl was once owned by Ellen Terry, the noted actress. There is a chair formerly the property of Lord Nelson, crystal chandeliers which belonged to the Duke of Windsor and a bronze statue of "Icarus" which one was in the Hermann Goering collection.

NORWEGIAN pine paneling in the Pine Room, the work of Grenling Gibbons, famed 17th century wood carver, was brought intact from the home of the Earl of Essex.

One entire wall is taken up with water colors of the 18th and 19th century.

In the basement is a research library containing several hundred volumes, many of them priceless because of their bindings and prints. Eberle says it ranks with the Claremont College Library as possessing one of the two finest collections of books on decorative arts to be found in Southern California.

Students are allowed to do research in the library without charge any day except Sunday or Monday.

The museum is located at 9401 Oak Glen Road, Cherry Valley. It can be reached from Beaumont by driving about four miles north on Beaumont Avenue, which becomes Oak Glen Road at the north edge of Cherry Valley.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of LE CLERCQ and LE CLERC.—Mrs. A.D., Anaheim; R.L., Long Beach.
A.D., R.L.: DE CLERCQ

and LE CLERC both mean "cleric" which in medieval France, was a lay-member of the clergy. These names originated in northwest France. The Le Clerc coat-of-arms, granted at Lyon, has three silver coins and a golden chevron on a blue shield. The De Clercq shield was granted at Bruges, Belgium, and has a silver horizontal stripe surrounded by three gold sea-shells on a blue background. Seashells indicated ancestral participation in the 12th century Crusades to the Holy Land.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze KING.—A.K., Bell Gardens; Mrs. F.F., M.B., Long Beach.

A.K., F.F., M.B.: KING had two sources. One, from an English inn-sign, designated the "King's Inn" whose owner became identified as "King," first by village humorists, later by tax collectors. Alternately, in yearly medieval religious pageants, the man who portrayed the king was eventually called King. The King coat-of-arms has a golden rampant lion on a black shield. Thomas King of England, born about 1620, was among early Massachusetts settlers.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like brief genealogy on CORREIA from Portugal.—J.C., Seal Beach.

J.C.: CORREIA refers back many centuries to a remote Portuguese ancestor whose occupation of "correia" meant "maker of leather belts and straps." No coat-of-arms is recorded for this lineage.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain BURHAM.—D.B., San Pedro; R.B., E.H., Long Beach.

D.B., R.B., E.H.: BURNHAM is from a locality in Somerset, England. This placename deciphered as "From the brook-land." The town name is listed as Burnhamme in the will of King Alfred the Great who died in A.D. 901. The Burnham family coat-of-arms from Suffolk has a silver cross between four silver crescents on a black shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you analyze HENNESSEY and HENNESSEE.—Mrs. F.H., Long Beach; Mrs. R.H., Lakewood.

F.H., R.H.: HENNESSEY, famous in Irish history, is traced to an early Gaelic leader called Aonghus whose name meant "one-choice," or "unique strength." Aonghus' descendants became the clan "O'Haongusa which was eventually modernized to O'Hennessey. Ancestral records of this family are found in Offaly, Meath and Thomond in the Emerald Isle. The world-famous French brandy by this name was first produced by an Irish family who settled at Charante, France, in the late 1600s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you genealogy on BURRI.—Mrs. R.R., Long Beach.

R.R.: BURRI is from Italian Switzerland. This surname is based on an ancient German-Gothic warrior title "Bod-Raed" meaning "Herald-counsellor." The Burri coat-of-arms from Winterthur, where this family had a manor house, in German Switzerland, has six horseshoes in natural coloring on a silver bar that lies below a gold star and above a gold diamond on a red shield.

Man has changed the face of many things in his conquest of Nature, but . . .

The Desert Is Forever New

By Robert Wilcox

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS long ago learned that they couldn't change the dictionary's unflattering definition of a desert as "barren and uninhabited."

They changed the desert instead.

Blushing not unseen on Noah Webster's so-called "wasteland" are fabulous Palm Springs, the "Jewel Box of the Desert"; the lush winter-growing farmlands of the Imperial Valley and the palatial Scotty's Castle of awesomely named Death Valley, among other man-made spectacles.

Yet carefully unchanged is the desert's spectacular beauty which lends a feeling of oneness with nature captured in this description:

"For the fascination of the desert is that it remains forever an undiscovered country, new though man has passed through many times."

AMONG THE FIRST "passing through" Palm Springs were "35 passengers not counting the driver and a Chinaman" aboard the first stage from San Bernardino into the Indian country in the 1860s. They reportedly were moved mainly by the scenic beauty of the sun reflecting from the gold they hoped to find in the nearby mountains.

The first permanent settlers of what was to be called "the nation's foremost desert resort" were brought in 1884 by Judge Guthrie McCallum to the community of Agua Caliente (Hot Water) as Palm Springs was named by the Indians.

Present civic leaders give generous credit to the founding fathers for guiding the growth of the village to preserve its atmosphere and serenity while creating a modern winter-spring resort area.

VISITORS TODAY are struck first with the beauty of Palm Canyon Drive, the spa's main thoroughfare, in sharp contrast with the streets of other resort areas.

No glaring neon signs or brightly illuminated unattractive advertisements clutter or distract from the drive's natural beauty.

Stretching $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles and spaced 20 to 30 feet apart, stately palms line both sides of the street. When the afternoon sun sinks behind the peaks of Mt. San Jacinto (10,805 feet), suddenly 1,000 palms are lighted in spectacular array.

After a quick sightseeing trip through town, our travelers—two hours from Long Beach—are faced with making a difficult selection of lodging from among more than 350 hotels and apartments at a wide range of prices, nearly all of which include swimming pools.

(Palm Springs with its noontime average temperature of 83 degrees calls itself the "Swimming Pool Capital of the World"—2,600 pools, or one for every five persons among its official population of 13,000.)

ONCE SETTLED, the visitors probably will be ready for an evening out and again face a happily difficult selection from among dozens of top restaurants offering a wide selection of food and prices.

Among top attractions are the Chi-

Clu which features a "name" floor show, Romanoff's on the Rocks, the Dunes and the Doll House. After dinner one of the desert community's noted theater attractions may beckon.

The visitors may be wise to reserve the next morning for a shopping tour around the village where they're apt to encounter any of the dozens of notable desert dwellers.

The roster includes Honorary Mayor Bob Hope, Desi Arnez, the Phil Harrises (Alice Faye), Hoagy Carmichael, Frank Sinatra, Groucho Marx and others. Shopping list items can be obtained at Alan Ladd's hardware store or Jolie Gabor's pearl salon.

FACED WITH the choice of afternoon amusements, the visitors may decide to extend their stay. Just a few include golfing (12 courses), swimming, hiking, horseback riding, burro riding and tennis. (The Chamber of Commerce advertises: "Everything Under the Sun.")

Major winter and spring special events include "Western Week," the Palm Springs Golf and Tennis tournaments, National Art Week, All-Star Police Show, Palm Springs European Sports Car Race, Mounted Police Ride and Desert Circus Week.

The many canyons surrounding the resort offer a prime attraction. Visitors, cameras in hand, may journey a short distance to picturesque Tahquitz Canyon with its spectacular 60-foot waterfall.

Located on Indian territory 15

Andreas Canyon, five miles from the heart of Palm Springs, is ever-new in its appeal to visitors who ride and hike in to enjoy its features.

George R. Szank Photo

Golf courses abound in the Palm Springs area, and Eldorado Country Club is one of these—sporty, beautiful and richly appointed. One of its landscape features is a man-made lake near the $2 million clubhouse.

Exclusive community of luxury mobile homes, Sahara Park is one of modern marvels of desert living.

The Desert Is Ever New

minutes away from the city are Palm and Andreas Canyons, the former a 15-mile-long desert gorge with a stream running off the mountains through 3,000 towering palms.

GIANT INDIAN grinding stones more than 100 years old may be found in Andreas Canyon, named for Capt. Andreas of the Cabuilla Indian tribe which inhabits the area.

Also beckoning tourists who want to extend their trip through Southern California's fantastic desert wonderland is Imperial Valley with its famed "orphaned ocean," the Salton Sea, highly saline and warm for winter swimming. The sea is a favorite place for winter boating, water skiing and fishing for the sporty big corvina.

Visitors will see the valley's lush farmlands slope down to 235 feet below sea level. Its colorful town names include Calipatria, Niland, El Centro, Brawley, Holtville, Imperial and Calexico.

ANOTHER desert locale, Death Valley, boasts perhaps the state's most spectacular panorama as seen from Dante's View. By looking up, visitors can see the top of 14,495-foot Mt. Whitney, highest spot in the continental United States. By looking down, they can scan the salt pool of Bad Water, 282 feet below sea level, the deepest point in three continents.

Another resort area is booming in the high desert on two sides of Victorville, just off Highway 66. A few miles to the east is prospering Apple Valley, a short distance south, Hesperia.

Concluding their desert trek, tourists probably will find that no matter how long they've stayed they haven't seen it all. The desert claims a fantastic "rate-of-return."

"THOUSANDS of people have found Palm Springs since the Indians came and have returned again and again," boasts the Chamber of Commerce.

All of which tends to temper the dictionary's outdated definition of the desert, although, going back a few years, desert devotees prefer to quote the Bible: "And the desert shall blossom like a rose."

They challenge you to see the phenomenon for yourself.

With 1,000 palms lining its sides and lighted individually at night, Palm Canyon Drive is intriguing.

The Windfall of the Navajos

By Elizabeth
Cannon Porter

NAVAJOS make up the largest Indian tribe in the United States. Numbering less than 10,000 a century ago, the Navajos are now in excess of 80,000. Most of them live on a reservation of 16,000,000 acres of semi-arid land carved out of sections of Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

Navajo means "cultivated land in a canyon." It is estimated that this tribe first came to this locality 600 years ago. Before sheep, horses and cattle were introduced into America by the Spaniards, they were a small tribe that lived by hunting, raiding and gathering roots and seeds. They stole squaws and sheep from the Pueblos. Instead of eating the sheep, they bred them and tended flocks.

During the American occupation they were a source of much trouble. In 1863, Kit Carson, who resided at Taos, was commissioned to round up the Navajos. After destroying their supplies he marched 8,000 of them to an encampment at the Bosque Redondo near Fort Sumner. Unused to confinement, many died. When they were released five years later they were given clothing worn in the 1860s.

The lands that were assigned to them were vast in scope but rich only in scenery—desert, cliffs and mysterious canyons in the colorful hues of the West. Today, a windfall is in prospect: Oil, uranium and other minerals of value have been found on the reservation. The lands may yet yield a more fitting inheritance for the Navajos.

NOW THE MEN usually wear gaudy shirts, blue denim trousers, earrings, belts studded with huge silver conchos, and either worn Stetsons or bright bands tied around their long hair; the women, clad in velvet tunics and flowered or brightly colored voluminous skirts, often carry their black-eyed babies strapped in cradleboards.

The Navajos' ceremonial dances are famous. Some are for curing the sick. The Squaw Dance serves the older people as a general gathering and a mating ceremony for the younger. The rites occur in summer and fall; beginning at midnight and lasting until dawn. A girl chooses a man by tugging at his coat. If he likes her he continues to dance with her; if he prefers another he must pay his partner.

The Navajo has the odd custom of the "avoidance relation." A married man must never look at or speak to his mother-in-law.

Navajo reservation trading posts offer blankets and turquoise and silver jewelry.

HOGANS MADE of poles and brush in a tent form serve the Navajos in summer. A look inside discloses only a stone fireplace. In the top is a smoke hole. Entrances all face east. The Indians sleep on the floor on sheepskins.

Nomads, who follow their flocks, the Navajos have sheep corrals, ramadas and more substantial hogans for the winter. They are built of logs or rocks and covered with adobe.

This mud hut is thus described by the Navajos: "Built of poles of white shell, turquoise, obsidian, jet, and red sandstone" and at the entrance is "a fourfold curtain of dawn, skyblue, evening twilight, and darkness."

The Indian brings in his rug, bracelet or wool to the trading post and is credited with the value of his product. From this credit he purchases coffee, flour, sugar, velvet or other goods. Business is conducted in the Navajo language.

Trek to Death Valley

Death Valley's sand dunes shift with the winds, form spectacular patterns.

Miners left their mark on the rugged peaks and in the barren canyons that isolate the valley. These cars were part of one mine operation. Death Valley has long been a mecca for hardy prospectors.

By Sharon Elgin

HELLHOLE OF HEAT in summer, Death Valley National Monument opens its regular season Oct. 15 to the vanguard of thousands of sight-seers and vacationists who will trek to the area until next May 15.

The area will swarm with visitors beginning next Thursday when the Death Valley 49ers' annual encampment opens at Furnace Creek and Stove Pipe Wells. Continuing through next Sunday, days of the Old West, when the desert was the domain of the intrepid prospector, will live again. The program will include dancing, conducted tours, exhibits, burro races and religious services.

FAMED FOR ITS scenery, as a scene in the drama for gold in the Far West, and as the lowest land point in the Western Hemisphere, this 3,000-square-mile region also is rich in scientific and human interest.

For centuries Death Valley was inhabited by Panamint Indians, part of the Shoshone nation that existed following the seasons in incessant migration between valley floor and mountain slopes. Their ingenuity in utilizing every edible or otherwise useful plant and catching animals for food developed unusual endurance, perhaps originating from the hunters of big game and mammoths at the end of the Ice Age.

Historically, discovery of the southern end of the valley is attributed to Gen. John C. Fremont in 1844 but in 1849 was written a tale of suffering by a wagon train of half-starved immigrants called the Jayhawker Party and the Bennett-Arcana group having finally crossed to civilization.

WORD OF THE country gradually spread and forty-niners went there to prospect for silver, although it was borax that brought the railroad near. An ex-cowboy called Death Valley Scotty came later to intrigue adventuresome visitors. Now visitors can enjoy the area, entering by car or plane.

Strata formed by earth materials deposited by wind, water and volcanoes have been changed by heat, pressure and deformation to form many varied (Continued on Page 21.)

Badwater Bill and his burro, Beulah, will attend Death Valley 49ers fete this week.

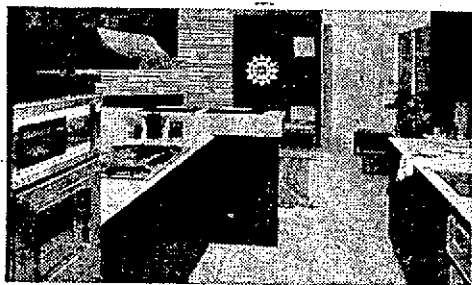

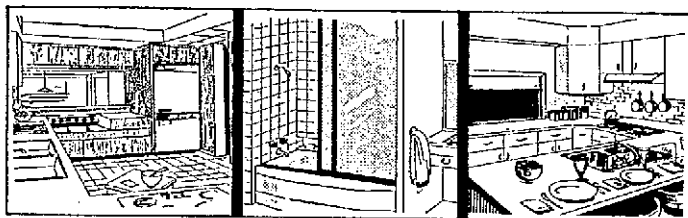

Death Valley Scotty intrigued tourists for years with the mystery of his origin and existence in this elaborate retreat known as Scotty's Castle.

In the 1880s, "cotton ball" borax was produced and freighted over agonizing miles of desert in these heavy-duty, high-wheeled, 20-mule wagons.

Fast change of pace for Audrey Hepburn finds her cast as Holly Golightly in film, "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

Man, What a Party!

HOLLY GOLIGHTLY without doubt ranks as the most dynamic and provocative character ever to splash across the pages of a Truman Capote manuscript — a distinction not to be taken lightly, considering that Capote is the creator of some of the most stunningly bizarre and touching people in contemporary fiction.

On her celebrated first appearance in print, Holly was a major conversation piece in publishing circles—and ever since, she has been a topic of discussion, just as she is in her own modish world of New York's upper East Side. Fittingly, in George Axelrod's screenplay of "Breakfast at Tiffany's," if people aren't staring at Holly, then they're talking about her; and if they are not talking about her, they're certainly thinking about her, and thinking plenty.

THE CHOICE of Audrey Hepburn for the raffish Holly was the casting surprise of the year, because Miss Hepburn is usually associated with far gentler creatures—princesses, nuns and ladies of noble bearing. But Audrey pulls out all the stops as she drags the fascinated George Peppard through a series of devastatingly earthy situations, spinning dizzily through New York City as though it were an enormous playground, organized and operated exclusively for her amusement.

Since "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is so uniquely a Manhattan story, director Blake

Edwards and producers Martin Jurov and Richard Shepherd didn't hesitate to shoot as many scenes as possible on actual Gotham locations.

AMONG THE principal sequences filmed in Hollywood was a squashing jammed cocktail party, the type that squeezes 80 people into a tiny room and sets them all smoking, drinking and shrieking to be heard. Due to the exigencies of filming, this particular spree stretched out for seven full days. For the grand finale on the last day, director Edwards replaced the usual stage liquor of tea and ginger ale with real champagne, and added a smoke-making machine, thereby driving out the last vestige of any fresh air that might have been lingering in camera range.

By the time the smoke cleared, Audrey Hepburn had clocked a couple of miles sashaying around in bare feet and a fringed bath towel; a woman's hat had gone up in smoke while still on her unsuspecting head; a six-foot tall fashion model had passed out like a felled oak; Peppard had crawled through a dense forest of tangled legs searching for the telephone (it was in a suitcase, of course); and various sozzled guests had gone popping in and out of showers and up and down fire-escapes in a madcap effort to avoid the police riot squad. These spoilsports were called in by an irate neighbor, a Japanese photographer, enacted with incomparable originality by Mickey Rooney.

over-all action, atmosphere and excitement. Band formations, card stunts, and other activities can be photographed. However, you can make effective close-up snapshots of football plays from grandstand if you use a camera such as a Kodak Reflex III with a telephoto lens. For making color slides or prints of action subjects, Kodak High-Speed Ektachrome is excellent.

Many fall sports can be photographed by the participant. For example, hunting scenes—the brightly garbed huntsman, his dog, a bird in flight—all are grist for the camera mill.

Translucent leaves stand out beautifully against a backdrop of water or sky as the camera looks at autumn.

By the Shutterbug

AUTUMN'S yellows, purples and crimsons rouse the poet that's in most of us. But the beauty of autumn should also rouse the photographer in us—to capture on color film its flaming loveliness.

There are no special photographic problems involved in snapping autumn scenes. Normal exposure is all that's needed. Try some black-lighted close-ups of translucent foliage, with a blue-sky background for necessary color contrast. Backlighting is also recommended for leaf-burning activities.

Whenever possible, put people in your autumn scenes for balance, added spots of color, depth and dimension.

A VERY satisfactory way to photograph "frosty asters like a smoke upon the hills," is to shoot them or other fall flowers and leaves singly or in clusters—and close-up.

Simple cameras, such as Kodak's line of Brownie Star cameras can be used for real close-up snapshooting with inexpensive supplementary lenses—such as Kodak Portra lenses. These lenses, of varying powers, will give your fixed-focus camera sharp focusing ranges of from 3 feet to 3 3/4 inches. Easy-to-build focus sticks or focal frames which aid in determining accurate distances between lens and flower must also be used. Instructions for making focal sticks and frames can be obtained at no charge by writing for pamphlet B-10, "Portra Lenses and a Technique for Extreme Close-ups," Sales Service Division, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester 4, N.Y.

It's possible to get good pictures of fall sports action fairly closeup with a single, fixed-focus camera. Just remember to snap the shutter as the action is, coming toward you. However, action-stopping sports pictures can best be made by adjustable-lens cameras.

AT A FOOTBALL game, snapping from the grandstands (unless you're a press photographer the chances are you'll not be permitted on the field near the action), you can capture on film much of the

Touched by the talents of a creative family, the Rossmoor home of the Kenny Glombs has a personality all its own. This is a view of the living room which bases its decorative scheme on an oriental motif.

Creative touches were added to the landscaping, too, for outdoor individuality.

a ceramic artist who has won many awards. Her artistic skills have manifested themselves throughout her home which is at once comfortable, attractive and distinctive. As every owner of a tract home knows, although the floor plan of his home may be similar to many others it is possible to create a custom appearance if one has the talent and creativity—which the Glombs have.

Their home is a model that has an entry hall divided from the living room by a low hearth; the L-shaped living and dining room; and the center kitchen in the rear flanked by the family room on one side and the dining room on the other. The hearth seat in this home is decorated and made usable as a couch by cushions in shades of orchid and rose.

THE AREA near the hearth and fireplace is tastefully furnished with a Hammond organ, table and occasional chair. Near the fireplace is a planter that is decorated with flowers and shrubs and a very special "family tree"—a creation to which the whole family contributed. The tree is black, placed in a black planter box amid white stones, and

Two-toned, carved carpeting in champagne shade is used throughout the home, including the bathroom adjoining the master bedroom. The curved couch in the end corner of the living room is gold and beige, a good neutral background for many orchid, lavender, and gold pillows that add color accents. The coffee table is large, round, and with polished ebony finish. Chinese figures and flowers are placed strategically. End tables are topped with white formica. Lamps are tall, with neutral shades showing off the handsome bases to advantage. Behind the couch is a full, wall-sized Byolu screen from Japan.

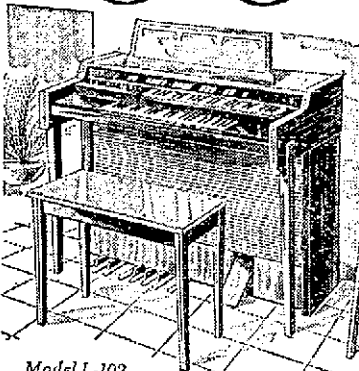

The dining room set is customized to add size to the surroundings. The round, glass-topped table seats eight comfortably. Antique-white aluminum decorates the underside of the glass near the edges.

Antiqued white aluminum decorates the dining room table and chairs. The breakfast holds a ceramics collection.

Legs are aluminum. Similar chairs have gold foam cushions. Dainty in appearance, the table is strong and substantial. A breakfast, also in antique white, completes the set, and holds a treasured array of figurines made by Mrs. Glomb.

APPLIANCES in the center kitchen are pink. Pink frothy curtains frame the window that looks out into the back yard.

The family room has a black sectional couch topped with colorful pillows of the same fabric that form a back rest. Aqua, pink, orange, and white is used for the pillows, and chairs facing the nearby sit-down bar are of matching colors. A white formica coffee table edged in black sits luxuriously upon a furry white rug. The TV set is opposite the couch.

The den is formal but inviting with several choice furniture pieces including a fine antique desk.

The boy's room has blond furniture, well placed to provide a maximum amount of space. A corner desk has a chest of similar height on one side, a higher chest on the other. The bed has a matching headboard. Opposite, the TV is flanked by two blond chests. The furniture has all the advantages of built-in units.

THE MASTER bedroom has a gold Japanese mural above the bed. A pink cover, gold headboard, and black-and-gold duster are of interest. Chests of drawers are solid black with brass handles. Twin pink ceramic lamps were made by Mrs. Glomb. A shocking pink chair fits perfectly with the decor. Black towels and accessories in the adjoining bathroom add a glamour touch.

The wide back yard, partially cemented, is expertly landscaped — another do-it-yourself Glomb family undertaking that appears to have been professionally handled. In either corner, a touch of the oriental was created with various plants, a waterfall, and yard ornamentations.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

BACK VIEW
FRONT VIEW

Fun-filled project for Santa's workshop.

FOR A do-it-yourself Santa Claus, Christmas is practically the day after tomorrow. If you have one or more young ladies in the household, and would like to see their eyes light up Christmas morning, you might consider getting started right now on this two-story doll house, submitted by William Meyerriecks, Huntington, N. Y., designer.

It's guaranteed to look impressive under the tree. The house measures 38" wide, 21" high, and 11½" deep. The scale is one inch in miniature to one foot in real life. This is a standard proportion for manufacturers of doll house furniture, so you'll have no trouble furnishing the finished house at the dime store.

ONE OF the attractive features of the step-by-step Sketchbook plan is that you are allowed a great deal of leeway in how far you want to pursue a realistic effect. The basic shell is exceedingly simple to build with plywood and a few short pieces of 1 x 12.

For those with time and energy to burn, suggestions are made on how to go even farther by applying miniature clapboard siding, louvered shutters, and extra fancy windows and entrance.

To order Doll House Plan S-31, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Create a World of Elves

NOTHING is impossible in the world of childhood. So, watch your youngster's face light up when he sees these little characters that you have made for his world of for-fantasy and for-real.

These Santa's helpers appeared in thousands of places across the nation last year, popular everywhere.

They are easily made with waterproof colors. You simply glue them on plywood, saw them out and they're ready for display.

To obtain five elf pictures No. C-10, send name and address and $2 in currency to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. Other seasonal decorations in color are C-7, two-thirds life size nativity scene, $5; C-17, giant Santa, sleigh and 8 reindeer, $12; No. 258, angels, $1 each; C-6, snow family, $5, and No. 183, Santa head for front door, 50 cents each.

Ships That Cruised the Desert

third was an amiable Syrian by the name of Hadji Ali, popularly known as Hi Jolly. This gentle camel tender lies in a grave near Quartzite, Ariz.

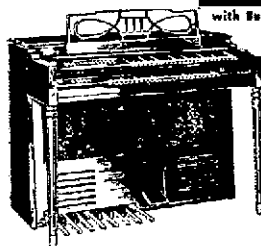

Eventually the government camels were sold at auction. Some of them went to circuses and zoos. Other stately ships of the desert ended up in mines and working at jobs degrading to their proud heritage.

A FORTUNATE few escaped to a life of freedom on the desert. Here they thrived and multiplied until tracked down by beaver hunters who cared only for the sport of killing. A few trickled through mountain passes into remote valleys for a time.

Rocks That Gad About

By Bertha Blanchard

IN AN isolated section of the northern part of Death Valley National Monument, 20 miles beyond Ubehebe Crater is a phenomenon known as the race track playa where huge rocks move mysteriously. No one has ever seen them move, but these 200 and 300-pound stones do move, leaving a path where they have moved. Once in a while, some of these rocks disappear.

These mysteriously moving rocks are no myth and are shown in Disney's movie, "The Living Desert."

The race track playa is a dry lake bed. According to a Death Valley ranger, the earth underneath the lake bed is hard and when it rains, the water does not soak through. Therefore, when the wind blows and the lake bed is wet, it acts as a greased track.

Since these rocks move infrequently, there is some question as to whether slight earthquakes in the vicinity may be the moving factor.

Whether by skidding on the wet sand or due to some force, the fact is that these huge rocks do move—mysteriously.

Simple filter which its inventor asserts will desalt, remove impurities from water shown here in demonstration.

His Secret: Sweet Water

By Tamara Andreeva

MANKIND from the earliest times has been concerned with the problem of turning salt water into sweet and thus opening new sources of water supply for agriculture, sea travel and sanitation. But all machinery built so far has always been too cumbersome and expensive. Owen Atkin of Henderson, Nev., a mining engineer, has invented a simple filter which will not only desalt water, but will also remove radiation and other impurities in a matter of seconds.

It has no motor or any complicated apparatus, just a plain filter, that he says can be made as small as a straw or as large as a room, the only difference in the action being speed of filtration.

The composition of his filter, of course, is a secret. The government thought enough of it to ask him to bring it for a demonstration at the Pentagon, and according to Atkin, on the completion of the session, he was told that his invention would revolutionize the water industry.

Atkin and two others have formed "Nuclear Filters, Inc.," and plan to issue franchises for production in different parts of the country as soon as patent rights are established.

Do Nazis Still Haunt Germany?

By Vera Williams

Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A LEADING expert on German geopolitics believes the Nazi menace still lurks in Germany.

Author T. H. Tetens, a concentration camp refugee and one time member of the U.S. War Crimes Commission in Washington, documents in book-length form how Hitler's cronies have staged a comeback.

"THE NEW GERMANY AND THE OLD NAZIS" (Random House, $4.95) by Tetens is more than a shocker.

It also accuses the Pentagon and State Department of conspiring to play down the resurgence of Nazism in Germany — lest it hurt their policy of giving the Bonn government the image of a solid ally of the Western democracies.

Tetens charges that former Nazi war criminals — gotten off the hook by diplomatic pressure from the Adenauer Administration — have infiltrated into the West German Government.

Tetens says West Germany now regards the former Nazi leaders as war heroes, and that anti-Semitism is on the march again.

Hitler's judges still sit on the benches; former SS officers and many one-time Nazis run the police and Bonn army, says Tetens.

Tetens questions whether West Germany can be counted as a 100 per cent ally if a showdown comes with the Soviet Union.

He tells how West German envoys have made several trips to Moscow, and speculates that for the right deal West Germany might even throw in with the East.

VOLUME ONE of the three-volume Centennial History of the Civil War is out: "THE COMING FURY" by Bruce Catton (Doubleday, $7.50.) E. B. White did the prodigious research.

"The Coming Fury" carries the story from the stormy political conventions of 1860 through the first major battle at Bull Run. As Catton presents it, this was the time when democratic processes broke down, the problem of slavery became "intolerable and insoluble," reason vanished and emotion prevailed.

Catton does not hold with many historians who think the Civil War was inevitable. He points to lost opportunities to win the peace — but somewhere the nation passed the point of no return.

The historian paints the 1860 campaign as "tragically unreal." When Jefferson Davis and Abraham Lincoln took office as rival presidents, preservation of the Union had become the issue, and men would fight for it, whether or not they would fight to abolish slavery.

"THE SURVIVAL of the Unicorn and Other Poems" by Virginia Brasier ($2.25) is the first in a series, Poems of Distinction, to be issued by Creative Press (Box 89, Claremont, Calif.) Miss Brasier, widely-published California-born poet, is the wife of Charles D. Perlec, San Bernardino music critic.

The title poem, an enchanting tale of a romance between a white mare owned by Ham, son of Noah, and "a horse of moon-dust . . . stallion of stars" sets the pace for the book. Miss Brasier writes with flair, imagination, and tremendous love of life.

AMERICANS are rediscovering Africa—the Africa of growing power, mounting importance, turbulent politics. What about the people and their daily lives? Now comes "YES AND NO: The Intimate Folklore of Africa—Dilemma Tales, Stories of Love, Adult Riddles, Proverbs" by Alta Jablow (Horizon, $3.95). The stories, of course, have been handed down orally for generations.

Modern Tyrants

Two new fall books give the reader a back-to-back look at dictatorship. Both are studies of modern day tyrannies.

"THE MAN FROM NOWHERE" by Roy MacGregor-Hastie (Coward-McCann, $4.) traces the rise to power of Nikita Sergeevitch Khrushchev, who holds the future of the earth's billions in his hands.

"MUSSOLINI" by Laura Fermi (University of Chicago Press, $5.95) is the biography of the Italian school teacher who wanted to revive the Roman glories of the Caesars and who died an ignoble death in the attempt.

The story of Khrushchev's rise from a peasant's hovel in the Ukraine to supreme master of the Soviet world is fraught with contradiction and ironies. His name is but one of these many paradoxes. His father had wanted to call him Nikolai after the Tsar-to-be, but his noble-fearing mother thought it would be disrespectful to name a poor peasant after a Father of All the Russias, and so they compromised on Nikita.

Author MacGregor-Hastie points out that Khrushchev overcame incredible odds to gain political ascendancy and attributes this to Nikita's "many human qualities including . . . a special sort of courage, and above all a devotion to an ideal."

As a London newspaper correspondent in Moscow, MacGregor-Hastie was on familiar terms with the Russian leader and his cronies and in his words has "waded through a soggy swamp of nonsense" to produce probably one of the more accurate biographies to date of a man who could determine the fate of human civilization.

While MacGregor-Hastie's approach is journalistic, author Fermi's study is scholarly. This probably can be attributed in part, to the fact Mussolini's life is complete and the records and archives of his regime and life have been open to detailed study since the end of World War II.

Author Fermi sets Mussolini in the proper environment and perspective—the social turmoil, economic distress and national frustration which helped create his dictatorship.

She also reveals his dramatic juxtaposition to the striking figures of his time who helped shape his career—Gabriele D'Annunzio, poet-adventurer from whom the Duce stole much of stage decor; Leda Rafanelli, Mohammedan anarchist he wooed but never won; Hitler, his apprentice who rose to become his Frankenstein.

Leo Carrillo

"Endeared himself to millions . . . Santa Monica, his beloved home, has lost its first citizen and devoted son."

—MSGR. RAYMOND O'FLAHERTY

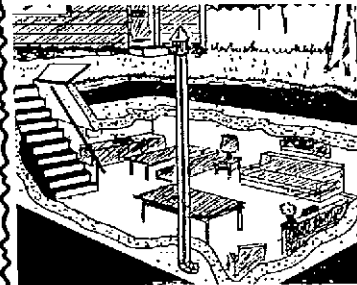

LEO CARRILLO's bountiful collection of colorful history, violent adventure and romantic legend is a triumphant evocation of the beauty, richness and restlessness of the Golden State.

"What are you allowed to bring into the U. S. without paying duty? We heard the amount now is only $100."

THE AMOUNT now is only $100 — cut from $200 every month and $500 every six months.

The new Customs form I got entering Honolulu from the Orient is just as simple, however. Mark an X in the corner indicated if purchases with you are less than $100. That's all.

List articles coming to you. They give a slip to give the mailman.

Naturally, everybody is having to cut down. BUT—here are some ways to help you, legally:

 You can mail any gift of less than $10 value from overseas. It enters free and does not have to be declared. Carry it with you and it is added to your $100 exemption.

The new form does not require you to list small articles of less than $5 value.

"... whether it is safe to go to Haiti now. There seems to be so much revolution and trouble in the Caribbean..."

We don't hear of any problems in Haiti now. (Any country is bad to go into when there's a revolution.)

The main thing about Haiti that troubles the tourist is either water or uncooked fruits. The locals seem to be immune. But the bugs really cut into the visitor. Bottled water and peel your own fruit and you're okay.

"... if Hong Kong is the best place to buy cameras in the Far East?"

IT'S A FREE PORT and the selection is the best. But I think Singapore (with lower rents for the merchants) is cheaper. (A Minox for $110 was listed at $80 in Singapore; $99 in Montego Bay, Jamaica free port; $115 in its native Germany.)

"Our travel agent advises us to travel by train rather than drive in Switzerland..."

He's right. Particularly at this snowy time of year. Swiss trains are excellent. And you should have a lot of fun when they're full of skiers and the amateur accordionists are playing. Best time of year for air fare overseas, too. Check those 17-day excursion rates.)

"What is the MINIMUM amount of clothes for a woman going to Hawaii?"

I'd take what you are wearing and ONE cocktail dress—which you may never wear.

The things most women wear are bought better in the Waikiki shops: Bermudas, slacks, muu muus, swimsuits—and for evening maybe a Chinese collar-thing called a pakemuu.

Leave the other things

home and some space in your baggage for what you buy. These things are good-looking and NOT expensive.

Stan Delaplane finds it impossible to answer all of his travel mail. For his intimate tips on Japan, Italy, England, France, Russia, Hawaii, Mexico, Ireland and Spain (10 cents each), send coins and stamped, self-addressed, large letters, 821 Market St., San Francisco.

Ghost in the Desert

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

WHEN Walter Knott purchased the Mojave-Desert ghost town of Calico in 1950, he took the first step in realizing a long-cherished dream of perpetuating what was once the largest silver mining camp in Southern California.

Today, except for improvements made for the comfort and convenience of visitors—and as many as 7,000 of them come on weekends—Calico looks much as it must have appeared in the early 1890s when hardy miners were taking millions of dollars worth of the rich ore from the neighboring hills.

Silver was first discovered there in 1881 by a trio of prospectors grubstaked by John C. King, San Bernardino sheriff and, oddly enough, an uncle of Knott. In no time at all, Calico boomed to 3,500 population. Twice the town was ravaged by fire but rebuilt each time because silver was flowing from the mines. But, by 1896, the veins petered out after $86 million of high grade ore had been mined.

A GENERATION later—prior to World War I—Walter Knott moved with his family to Newberry, about 20 miles from Calico, to eke a living from Mojave sand and soil. Failing in that, he took a job at a silver mill which, somehow, was still operating at Calico.

"I listened to the stories around the campfire in the evenings," says Knott. "They seemed to recreate Calico in its most active days—wagon trains, prospectors' bonanzas, gambling and all. They impressed me along with the nearby scenery, picturesque and austere, and they stuck with me. Although I didn't dream of buying the town then, these experiences undoubtedly influenced me to restore the town so many years later."

Since purchasing Calico, Knott has restored the important buildings—Lil's Saloon, Wells Fargo, Silver Gulch, Calico House, the Bottle House, Lane's General Merchandise store and other landmarks.

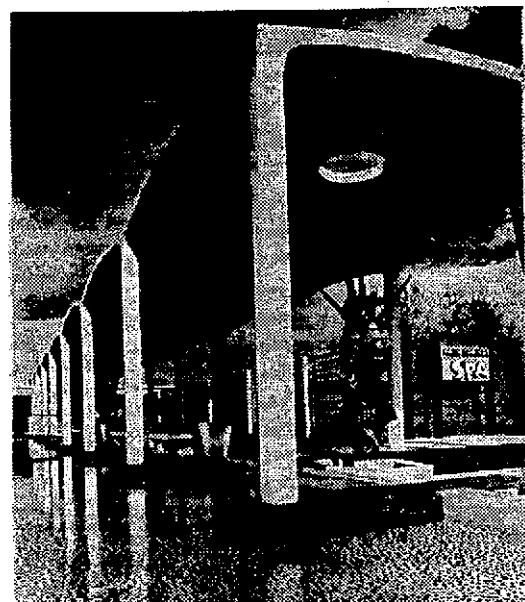

Under the neighboring hills are 30 miles of tunnels with 13 working levels. One of these mines, with 1,000 feet of tunnels, has been restored and may be explored by visitors. The others have been boarded up and are strictly off limits to those who come to take in the sights.

JUST RECENTLY, Knott paved Main Street, working red rock into the mixture. Other improvements are constantly being made to add authenticity to the scene.

"It's certainly not a money-making venture," admits Knott, "but I feel it has great historic interest and I take pride and interest in seeing the restoration take place, step by step."

It takes considerably less than three hours to drive to Calico (via Barstow) from Long Beach, a distance of less than 150 miles with freeways the entire distance. Those who make the trip say they wouldn't want to part with the experience, even though they don't own a mine in that rugged terrain.

CHRISTMAS at sea? A swell idea! Passengers aboard the SS Matsonia, sailing from Los Angeles Harbor on Dec. 23, will be just such a deal, with passengers and ship's officers uniting as one big family to hang tinsel and holly,

UNDER THE MANAGEMENT of executive director Eddie Davidson, the Palm Springs Spa offers steaming, hot baths for which this desert oasis originally was famous, and the pampering of customized massage to visitors ranging from a Near East prince to such household names in entertainment as Art Linkletter. The Spa was opened Jan. 12, 1960, at the corner of Tahquitz-McCallum Way and Indian Avenue, one of the most luxurious spots on the desert. The $2 million bath house contains the sunken baths where 104-degree mineral water soothes away stress and strain.

carol around the tree, participate in talent shows and costume balls, dance to the ship's orchestra, and attend midnight services.

The same round of fun awaits passengers sailing Dec. 23 aboard Matson's big liner, the Lurline, en route to Acapulco; aboard the SS Monterey, sailing Dec. 19, two days short of Tahiti; and on the SS Mariposa, departing (Continued on Next Page)

TOKYO

WHATEVER its advantages, the jet age has completely changed one aspect of travel. That is its sense of reality. We have been through a night that did not end until dinnertime, and we lost a day somewhere to boot. We also saw the sun set and rise twice within 24 hours, on one occasion doing both from the same direction. It started half a world away in New York, where we boarded a TWA jet for a non-stop, 5½-hour flight to San Francisco.

We were scheduled to board a Japan Air Lines DC-8 which, for reasons which will soon be readily apparent, is scheduled to depart San Francisco at the reasonable hour of 2 in the afternoon and arrive in Tokyo at the equally reasonable hour of 9:30 in the evening. Racing the sun westward, it is, as the airline publicity states, just a long sunset from Honolulu.

But a mechanical delay held us up until 11 at night. At an hour when most reasonable persons are preparing for bed, Capt. Sugiyama was gunning us down the runway westward towards the mysterious East.

LEST THE airline lose further face with the passengers than that already entailed by the delay, out came the resplendent kimonoed stewardesses with the sake, sushi and tempura. An hour of that, a few more of sleep, and we were honorably awakened for humble stopover at Honolulu for fuel, both mechanical and human.

THE DESERT INN

Famous Desert Inn under new management completely redecorated. Relaxation and privacy of 20-acre estate, dining—dancing—Bobby Ramos Orchestra, swimming, golf, horseback riding, theatres, night clubs, excellent cuisine. European plan, singles $12.00 to $18.00; doubles $12.00 to $20.00; suites from $25. Make reservations thru travel agent or direct.

We left Hawaii shortly before 4 a.m. local time, at an hour when milkmen were already at work in San Francisco and the subways were already disgorging stenographers on Lexington Avenue. And over the Pacific there was a "mid-night snack of cold chicken, champagne and Chinese mince pie."

Again we slept, and somewhere in our dreams the international date line came and went, and Wednesday somehow became Thursday. Finally, at 4:30 a.m., while executives on Madison Avenue were beginning to think about that first martini, we had breakfast. At Hana Airport, the sun was just beginning to burn off the morning haze as we set down. Our night finally had ended after 18 hours of darkness.

Some days later, we flew from Tokyo to Paris on Japan Air Lines' polar flight an experience in getting disoriented in the Orient.

We left Tokyo about 11 at night and, with a logic alien to our flat-map oriented minds, headed northeast by way of the United States at Anchorage, Alaska. By 3 a.m. it was broad daylight, and when we landed it was 9 a.m., Anchorage time, the previous day. Crossing the international date line again, we had grown 19 hours younger.

TAKING OFF from Anchorage on a bee line for the North Pole, we ran into night again in about three hours, or early afternoon, and after only six hours or so of daylight. It stayed dark until we reached Copenhagen eight hours out of Anchorage.

Thus we had the rare experience of seeing the sun rise twice and set twice within 24 hours. Not only that, but we saw it set and rise from the same direction. While we were heading north toward the pole, it was setting in the west, on our left. After we had crossed the pole, we were heading south, and the direction on our left thus became east. From it the sun dutifully rose.

"THE GREAT ONE," Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, and his all-star concert group is the attraction through Nov. 11 at Palm Springs Chi Chi, the desert's only theater-restaurant. Appearing on the same bill is England's laugh-getter, Betty Regan, "My Fair Lady of Satire." Bill Alexander's orchestra furnishes the musical background for shows each night at 8:45 and 11:45 o'clock.

What to eat and drink? Menus will include such items as choice of roast suckling pig and other Polynesian specialties, besides the traditional turkey, plum pudding and hard sauce. AND egg-nogs and champagne!

PAN AMERICAN World Airways reveals that in the three years since the dawn of the jet age in 1958 when it inaugurated jet service under the American flag — it flew 120,021,500 jet miles and carried almost 2 million passengers. Translated into space terms this means that Pan Am Clippers could have carried the entire population of Philadelphia to the moon and back 237 times, or one way to the sun!

LONG BEACH-built DC-8s figure prominently in Scandinavian Airlines System's revised winter traffic program to the Middle East. The big birds will provide Teheran two services weekly to Europe and the Far East. Also, beginning Dec. 5, SAS will operate DC-8s on its route to South America, terminating in Santiago de Chile.

WEEKEND GADABOUT:
Nov. 11-12: Salton City holds its first 500-mile race for outboards, with more than 100 boats competing 250 miles each day at speeds of 100 mph over a 5-mile course.
Nov. 10-12: Two days of RCA rodeo, western parade and chuck wagon breakfasts will mark Brawley's Cattle Call and Imperial Valley Rodeo. The parade will be held the morning of the first day.

Nov. 11-12: Twentynine Palm holds its Desert Weed and Gem and Mineral Shows at Oasis School and high school.

Death Valley

Known best is the contrasting topography of Death Valley—from Badwater 279.6 feet below sea level, to 14,495-foot Mt. Whitney only 80 miles away. Both points can be viewed on clear days, which average 283 in a calendar year.

CONTRARY to popular belief many wild animals live in Death Valley although some can be observed only after dark. Actually recorded are 26 species of mammals, lizards of dozen kinds and more than 230 kinds of birds. All have adapted themselves to the extreme conditions in this unusual sanctuary.

Identified also are more than 600 plant specimens ranging from common cacti and brush to the sage and desert bear-poppy. Myriads of desert flowers bloom in season.

Park rangers and naturalists provide directions for tours and give illustrated talks at the hotels and at the free Texas Spring campground. Special programs for groups may be arranged and, upon request, organized groups are conducted on caravans.

Once named "Tomesha" meaning 'ground afire' by the Indians. Governed and protected by the United States Department of the Interior, Death Valley Monument belongs to all of us for our enjoyment.

Hamburgers and hot dogs, with suitable accompaniments, and mugs of chocolate make up this football-day feast.

FOOD

Football Feast

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

AUTUMN Saturdays find kick-off cheers ringing in the crisp air. It's the height of the football season, so plan a winning buffet, before or after the game.

A platter of hamburgers and hot dogs would be a real touchdown entree, accompanied by potato salad, assorted relishes, apples, date bars and steaming mugs of hot chocolate.

No fancy trimmings are needed for this party so hostess duties are kept at a minimum.

Ground beef patties may be either broiled, pan broiled or pan-fried. For broiling, place the patties on the rack in your broiling pan so that they will be 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil 4 to 5 minutes on each side. There is no need to preheat the broiler, and the meat should be seasoned after broiling.

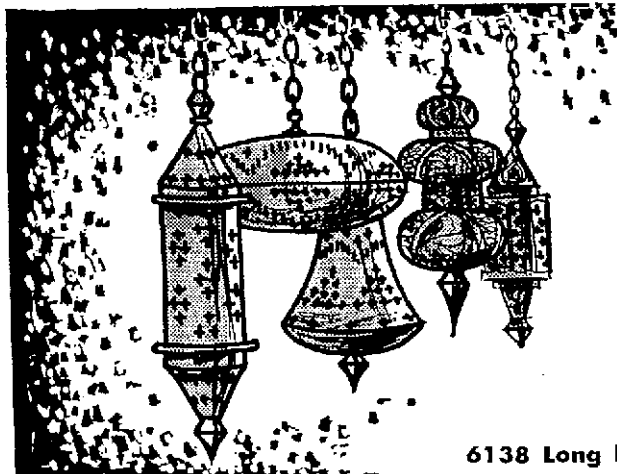

For panbroiling, place the patties in a heavy frying-pan. Since panbroiling is a dry heat method of cooking, no fat or water should be added and the pan should be covered. However, you may want to rub the pan with fat before cooking to prevent the patties from sticking.

COOK the patties slowly, using a low temperature. Turn the meat occasionally to insure even doneness. The fat should be poured off as it accumulates, because in pan-broiling the meat is not cooked in fat.

For the hostess who might like to dress up the hamburgers, have slices of mild cheese, sliced onions, sliced tomatoes and pickle relish available. For a surprise, try hiding stuffed olives or dill pickle slices in the middle of the hamburgers. Or give them a stuffing of grated cheese, minced onion or chopped olives.

Your table setting, too, ought to contribute to the spirit of the day. Pennants, "mums" and miniature footballs are suggestions to go along with the theme of your Saturday football feast.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Ribbons indicate top quality of ceramics produced by Mrs. Ellen Glomb in pursuit of her engrossing hobby.

A Winner in Ceramics

COLLECTING ceramics can be considered just an ordinary hobby, except in the case of Mrs. Ellen Glomb, 3261 Tigertail Ave., Rossmoor, it's far more than a casual diversion. She makes the ceramics and has won many awards for her artistic pieces.

In making her figures, Mrs. Glomb first casts porcelain in a mold and then cleans it with a damp cloth in preparation for decoration. If the figure is a gracious lady doll, a design for dressing is selected. The dress of the gypsy girl (see photo) as an example was made of old bed sheeting, sewed and gathered with lace inserts. The finished skirt was then dipped into liquid porcelain and placed on the doll. The blouse was done in the same manner.

The arms were then attached; the fingers filed and shaped. A tiny sleeve was then cut and placed. After the jewelry, violin, and bow were placed in position the gypsy was ready for firing at 2,400 degrees. After cooling for 24 hours, she was ready for painting, and finally, another period of firing.

THE FIGURES are extremely delicate. The lace, for instance, is actually burned away with the fragile porcelain fuses taking the shape of the material after firing. In some of the figures, Mrs. Glomb's creative imagination knew no bounds.

One doll stands regally in a mother-of-pearl costume. Another is elegant in brown lace intricately designed in a 1900 style. The gypsy is gay and colorful in yellow, green, and red. Because of the folds of the skirt, this was one of the more difficult figures to produce. The doll was a prize winner at a California Ceramic Hobby Show—STELLA GEORGE.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Plant primroses for bloom next spring and primulas for bloom this winter.

Plant pyracantha and other berried shrubs for fall and winter color. You'll find several kinds with crops of berries on display in nurseries.

Coastal gardeners can plant lawns. Where early cold snaps are the rule, it might be better to wait until spring. Ask your nurseryman.

Plant a cover of annuals for the spring bulb bed. Alysium, pansies, violas are all recommended.

"Thy rest is earned," reads a motto on this bench that invites passerby to pause in pleasant surroundings.

Dress Up the Garden Details

By Bertha Blanchard

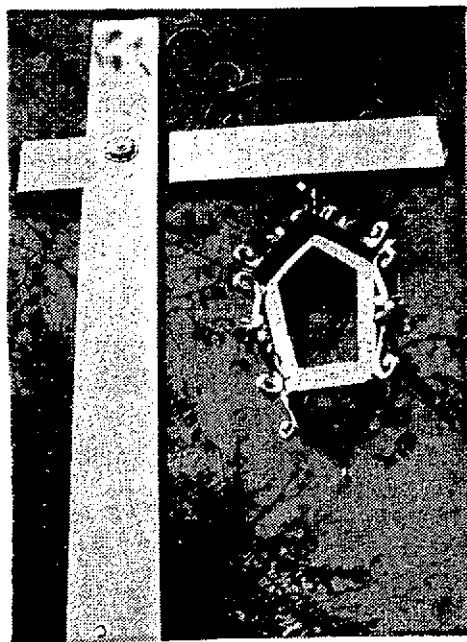

ACCESSORIES add individuality, charm and interest to the garden. A few carefully selected pieces are effective but too many give a cluttered appearance.

Choose accessories that will fit into the background, blend with the setting and become a pleasing part of the garden picture. When building a new home, plan the right setting for them before landscaping the property.

If you have a small garden, carefully consider the size of your decorations.

Hobbies of the family may happily find expression in the garden. Amateur artists, woodcarvers, sculptors and metalworkers can make accessories that will be both beautiful and practical.

A lamp is attractive at an entrance and lights the way for guests. A bird house or a feeding tray attracts feathered songsters. Then, too, every garden should have a seat.

Scraps of metal acquired in antique shops and from similar sources went into constructing this street lamp.

Redwood wheelbarrow was assembled by owner, painted white like house trim and filled with potted plants.

Tip on Snaps: United They Stand

By Joe Littlefield

PLANT snapdragons close together in sunny flower bed areas and they will stand up practically without staking, but set them widely apart and you'll likely have to stake each plant.

Space the snapdragons eight to ten inches apart and you'll have a mass of brightly colored, self-supporting flowers.

Pinch tips out of young plants when they're six to eight inches tall. Some gardeners pinch tips out again a second time after several inches of new growth and leaves have developed. Plants thus will develop more side branches, hence more blossoms.

Fertilize the annuals about a month after they've been planted, again a month or so later. A balanced complete plant food is good. Soil must be moist before feeding. After fertilizing, plants should be thoroughly watered again. Unless you apply plant food too thick in spots, or too much overall, or apply the fertilizer when the soil is dry, you'll never burn the plants.

The same watering principle applies to granular form fertilizer for lawns. A day or so before fertilizing, water lawn thoroughly. Then walk over the lawn and if the soles of your shoes are dry, no moisture on them, feed the lawn. If soles of shoes are even slightly moist wait an hour or two longer for the grass or diondrea to dry before fertilizing. Apply proper amount of turf fertilizer and you'll avoid burning the lawn. Immediately water in thoroughly.

LAWNS renovated and reseeded and now have been mowed several times should now be fed. Use about half the amount of lawn fertilizer that you would if the lawn was well established.

Tired looking lawns that seem to need something to revive them may be pepped up by fertilizing them right now.

Weedy, messy, lawns may be improved by mowing them close with mower, seeding with grass seed mixture, or rye grass seed, applying top dressing of good grade of steer manure and keeping area moist till first mowing. Thereafter water when the lawn dries.

LARGE CLAY pots make excellent containers for rooting plant cuttings.

Fill the pot with plain clean sand or vermiculite to within one inch of its top. Then make cuttings from three to five inches long of young, tender plant shoots, making sure you cut below the node joints. Place cuttings in the pot's rooting mixture to a depth of 1 to 1½ inches to hold them upright. Then water thoroughly from the top and place a plastic bag over the pot to conserve moisture. Cuttings should be well rooted and ready for clay-potting in soil within six weeks.

Fuchsia Society

By Eleanor Avery Price

TORTOISES as pets have developed into something like a farming operation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Grantham, 2103 Charmagne Ave., where several desert tortoises started what is now a large family.

The Granthams acquired their first desert tortoises some time ago. The largest measured 15½x12 inches and since the plastron or floor of his walking home was somewhat concave and his tail a little long, the Granthams rightly assumed he was a male and called him Oscar. The next largest had a flat plastron and was named Grandmother Grey. The other females were named Grandmother Brown, Susie and Myrtle. Since tortoises are close to nature, the Granthams' pets are one happy family, play together, sleep together in their tortoise house, and between the females there have been 18 babies. (A tortoise matures at 15 years when the carapace is about 9 inches long. At 12 inches, a tortoise is about 50 years old but still can reproduce.)

WHEN A TORTOISE becomes a mother in June, she usually digs a hole in soft earth or sand with her hind feet. The Granthams are ready to give nature an assist and when eggs are laid they place them without turning them over in a foot-square cardboard box and this box inside another. They cover the eggs with 3 or 4 inches coarse sand and put on a lid previously lined with tinfoil and with a hole in the center to run an electric cord holding a 7½-watt light bulb. A thermometer is placed inside so temperature can be checked—it should stay at 90 degrees. To provide humidity, they set a glass of water in a box corner.

Eggs should not be disturbed. About four days before the end of incubation—72 to 90 days or longer—baby tortoises start gyrating inside the shell and work up through the sand. Break-out takes about three days. The effort makes them hungry, and they come out looking for food and water. Desert tortoises enjoy water and will stick their heads under in a shallow pan and drink sometimes for five minutes. They usually do not drink again for a week and will survive without water if food is succulent. They also enjoy orange juice. Their foods consist of shredded lettuce, chopped apple, tomato, other fruits and melons, flowers, clover, dried leaves, even bits of twigs, but no meat.

PET PARADE

It's Sort of a Tortoise 'Farm'

Desert tortoises stop eating just before they need their winter nap starting in November and should be placed in a box in the garage or home.

Desert tortoises may be found along the Mojave River, at Cottonwood Springs or along desert canyon bottoms and washes where sand is coarse and burrows that won't collapse can be dug. California law permits removing these creatures from their natural habitat but prohibits buying or selling them. However, anyone removing them for pets should have due regard for their needs and care for them as attentively as for any other creature.

Caricature by Bob Arel
RICHARD KATSARIS

YOU CAN'T fool experienced restaurant goers. They know whether the sea food they're eating is fresh from the ocean.

And that's one reason they keep flocking to Sam's Sea Food, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, a few miles south of Long Beach. Nick Katsaris, his wife, Ruth, and their son, Richard, operate a fish market and delicatessen adjacent to their restaurant—and this enables them to keep large supplies of fresh sea delicacies available daily.

Currently in season (and fresh as tomorrow) are halibut, sanddabs, red snapper, sole, lobster, yellowtail, swordfish and salmon. Chef Danny M. Totonides and his seven assistants prepare those sea foods in a number of different and delicious ways, making Sam's one of the most popular fish restaurants in Southern California.

A $500,000 Polynesian showplace with half a dozen special tropical dining rooms and a huge luau garden for special parties, Sam's serves 500 guests simultaneously—and keeps each one happy. The restaurant's staff of 98 employees sees to it that hot dishes are served hot and cold dishes are cold—a maximum in good restaurant operation.

The dinners at Sam's include fine clam chowder, salad with French, Thousand Island or Roquefort dressing, potatoes, vegetable, bread and butter, beverage and dessert. Prices start at $1.95 for the complete dinner or $1.65 a la carte. Among the many other entrees are jumbo shrimp, $2.25 on the complete dinner; deep sea bass, $2.25; rock cod, $1.95, and albacore, $2.25.

Hardest working man at Sam's right now is Richard Katsaris, a friendly good-natured fellow who directs the operation of all the restaurant's numerous departments. In order to accomplish his endless duties, he works a man-killing shift daily from 7 a.m. to 3 a.m.

WALTER SCOTT'S

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question of interest on a personality of note, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless requested otherwise in writing. Sorry, PARADE cannot reply individually to the inquiries of readers.

Q. Now that Allen Dulles is leaving the C.I.A., could you please identify Mrs. Clover Jebson, the woman he secretly used to meet here in London?—T.L., London, S.W. 1.

A. Mrs. Jebson is Mr. Dulles' daughter. She is married to an American banker working in London. Mr. Dulles used to go over to London frequently to visit his grandchildren.

Q. Is Sophia Loren married to Carlo Ponti or is she not? Just for once—the truth, please.—Jack Horner, New York, N.Y.

A. Miss Loren's latest statement: "Carlo and I are no longer married. We live together of course, but we are not married. We had to annul our marriage because Italian law does not recognize Carlo's Mexican divorce from his first wife—and therefore in Italian eyes, we were bigamously married. It is a nuisance but it does not worry me too much. I feel married. That is the important thing."

Q. What's happened to Juan Peron, ex-dictator of the Argentine? Has he remarried?—Allen Hepworth, Washington, D.C.

A. Peron lives in Spain where he has extensive real estate holdings. Unmarried, he spends much of his time in Madrid with Isabel Martinez, a dancer from Buenos Aires, who has been his close friend for several years.

Q. What was Mary Pickford's original name, and how old is she?—Mrs. Ella James, Milwaukee, Wis.

A. Mary Pickford was born in Toronto in 1893, was christened Gladys Smith.

Q. Will you tell me when the baby of Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin is expected?—J.R.S., Seattle, Wash.

A. First week in December.

Q. Can you inform me if a venereal disease of the blood was responsible for driving Adolf Hitler insane in 1945, or if he ever suffered from such a disease?—Otto S., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. A 26-page medical report on Hitler compiled by agents of Heinrich Himmler revealed that Hitler had contracted such a disease in his youth. He was treated for it at Pasewalk in the 1920s but in 1937 the symptoms re-appeared. By 1942 the Nazi Fuehrer had begun to suffer from progressive syphilitic paralysis.

Q. What is the population of Africa? How many whites and non-whites?—J. Taylor, Chicago, Ill.

A. Africa is home to 230 million people; only 5 million are white.

Q. In World War II, is it true that the U.S. Navy refused playwright Moss Hart a commission because of insufficient education?—C. Urey, Washington, D.C.

A. True.

Q. Has Lillian Hellman ever been married?—Gerald D., Oklahoma City, Okla.

A. Yes, from 1925 to 1932 she was married to writer Arthur Kober.

Q. Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, former commander of the U.S. 24th Inf. Division in Augsburg, Germany, who was relieved of his command—was he or was he not a member of the John Birch Society?—B. Lee, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A. According to the report Lieut. Gen. Frederic J. Brown filed with the Pentagon, General Walker was a member of the John Birch Society.

Q. Will you please tell me if Dan Daniels, announcer for the Washington Senators, is the husband of Margaret Truman?—Mrs. Wilson Wheeler, Strasburg, Va.

A. Clifton Daniel of the New York Times editorial staff is Miss Truman's husband.

ON PARADE. Today's cover (above) not only introduces a delightful young lady, it also marks the debut of PARADE's new cover design. Compared with our old design (see below), the new one is sprightlier and has technical advantages that will result in a more readable, more attractive Sunday magazine for you. Our new cover is one step in a program to streamline our appearance. Other innovations will follow in later issues—all part of PARADE's continuing effort to bring you entertaining and informative articles in the most attractive possible form.

Combine 3 tablespoons softened butter, 3 tablespoons dark brown sugar and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard in 9 x 5 x 2-inch baking dish. Place in hot oven (400°F.) until butter melts. Blend; top with 1 can (9 oz.) sliced pineapple, well drained. Return to oven while preparing rice.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

INTERNATIONAL FACTS OF LIFE. What the Kennedy administration has failed to tell the American public concerning the entire Berlin situation is this: The most hated and feared nation in America is Soviet Russia. In Europe, however, the most hated and feared nation is Germany. During World War II, the Nazis overran every European country except Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Portugal and Spain. They killed 30 million people, savagely exterminated 6 million Jews in a barbarity unequalled in modern times. Most of our NATO allies -- the British, French, Italians, Norwegians, Greeks and others -- couldn't care less about the welfare of 2,250,000 Germans in Berlin. Nor do they believe that the basic militancy of the typical German has changed. Rightly or wrongly, most Europeans fear the Germans more than they do the Russians. Unpleasant as it is, that's the truth...and part of the Kennedy dilemma.

PRINCE RAINIER, THE PROMOTER. Latest promotion scheme of Prince Rainier, who recently invested a few bucks in a Majorca hotel, is the Monaco Economic Corporation. To a select group of American executives, the prince has sent an expensive brochure entitled "Monaco Can Help Your Company." How? The prince explains that the Constitution of 1911 "expressly precludes any direct income tax," and invites corporations to establish subsidiaries in Monaco, 370 acres large. So far half a dozen companies have accepted.

NEED MONEY? Qualified small businessmen in need of loans at 4% may obtain them from the Small Business Administration provided their businesses are located in redevelopment areas. To find out if you qualify, write Area Redevelopment Administration, Washington 25, D.C.

DE GAULLE'S DANGER. Gen. Charles de Gaulle has spent most of his life working and fighting for France. The result? More Frenchmen are determined to assassinate him than ever before. Why? Because de Gaulle wants to give Algeria its independence. Investigation of the latest assassination attempt on de Gaulle reveals that the O.A.S. -- the "Secret Army Organization" in France -- is determined to get him. So far two generals, a baroness, an insurance salesman, a university lecturer and many others have been caught in the police dragnet.

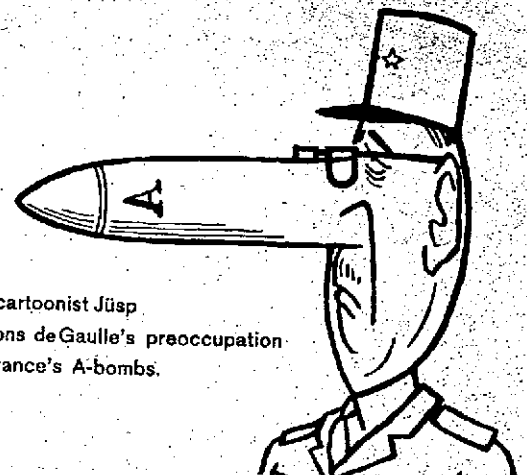

DRAFT REJECTION RATE. American youth is getting softer all the time if the current draft rejection rate is any indication. Of every seven young men now examined for military service, five are rejected -- 60% for physical defects, 40% for mental defects. Twenty years ago, only two out of every five were rejected. Army standards are either higher or our young men weaker.

MAUGHAM, THE PHILANTHROPIST. Somerset Maugham, 87-year-old novelist, owns one of the world's great private collections of paintings -- Picassos, Matisse's, Monets, Utrillos, Lautrecs. The collection has been appraised at $2,500,000. Originally Maugham planned to have his paintings sold after his death. The money received was to establish a fund for needy writers. The recent series of art thefts on the Riviera has changed Maugham's mind. He now plans to sell his paintings for the fund or give them to a museum before they're stolen from his Cap Ferrat villa.

BEWARE OF THE CON MEN. Space-age con men are springing up all over the U.S. These are glib, sincere-sounding, fast-talking securities salesmen offering investors "ground-floor" opportunities on space-ships to Mars, the moon and Jupiter. Recently the O.T.C. Enterprise, Inc., of Baltimore, announced in a stock-selling drive that it was ready to test a "prototype of the O.T.C. X-1 near Oklahoma City." Later the company announced the test had been canceled because the government decided to classify this top-secret project. The truth: the company's space rocket couldn't get off the ground, and the president of the company had been jailed for selling unregistered stock.

SEX LESSONS BY DISC. Because most British parents are still reluctant to discuss sex with their children, a record company, Transatlantic Records, is now producing a 12-inch record which explains simply and in detail the facts of life. Entitled "The Biology of Sex" and recorded by a Harley Street physician, the disc sells for $6, may soon be on sale in the U.S.

ANTI-GANGSTER TAXI. At the recent International Motor Show in Frankfurt the car which attracted most attention was an anti-gangster taxi with bullet-proof windows, steel panels and a special fingertip door control which prevents passengers from getting out until the driver presses the correct button.

HAYLEY MILLS

She's the greatest child find since Shirley Temple

by LLOYD SHEARER

PINEWOOD STUDIOS, ENGLAND.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO a 13-year-old Canadian girl, Edna Mae Durbin—screen name: Deanna Durbin—singlehandedly rescued Universal Pictures from the precipice of bankruptcy.

Simultaneously another child, Shirley Jane Temple, working for 20th Century-Fox, became one of the 10 best money-making stars in motion pictures and the studio's top box-office attraction.

At MGM in this same period a third child actress, Frances Gumm—screen name: Judy Garland—won similar honors.

The decade of 1936-46 was the golden age for little-girl stars—an era which proved correct the sage words of the late W. C. Fields: "Nothin' pulls 'em in like a cute kid or a trained dog."

Today, happily married to a French director, Deanna Durbin, a bit on the hefty side, lives outside Paris, completely retired from show business. Shirley Temple, also domesticated, resides with her husband and three children in Atherton, Calif., occasionally journeys to Hollywood to pick up some easy television loot. Judy Garland, 40, resembling a young edition of Elsa Maxwell, is the sole member of the trio still singing for her supper.

To this coterie of onetime child stars Walt Disney has found a truly worthy successor. Her name is Hayley Mills. She's 15 but looks 12. You may have seen her in Tiger Bay, Pollyanna, Whistle Down the Wind, which her mother wrote, or in The Parent Trap in which she plays twins.

Hayley is English, blonde, impish, pug-nosed and putty-faced. The middle one of John and Mary Mills' three children, she is so enormously talented that Walt Disney, no mean judge, describes her as "the greatest movie find in the past 25 years."

Teenage Fans

In contrast to most film producers, Disney is not a spendthrift with superlatives. He maintains an un-Hollywood-like respect for truth. When he points a figurative finger at this delightful blue-eyed pixie and describes her as "the greatest," he has evidence, both popular and financial, to back his contention.

Hayley Mills today receives more fan mail than any other motion picture player in the world. This includes Elizabeth Taylor, Brigitte Bardot, Lassic and Cary Grant.

Hayley averages 7,500 letters a week, most of these from teenage girls who comprise the largest movie-going segment in the country.

Family photo shows four of the Millses: Hayley (with pet Pomeranian and setter); father John, an actor; mother Mary Hayley Bell, a playwright and actress; and brother Jonathan.

This figure is even more amazing when one realizes that to date only two Hayley Mills films, Pollyanna and Parent Trap, have achieved wide distribution in America.

Pollyanna cost Disney $2 million and will easily gross $6 million. Parent Trap also cost $2 million and will earn an estimated $12 million.

What Disney originally tried to do with Hayley Mills was to give her a screen image compounded of yesterday's Mary Pickford and Shirley Temple—sweet, charming, innocent, almost cloying. But Hayley refused to generate that particular contrived personality. Instead she came up with her own. On-screen she is pixyish, mischievous, bubbly, intelligent, delightful, realistic, semi-hoydenish. She exudes an infectious humor with which the audience finds so much rapport that unwittingly it becomes her accomplice.

In Parent Trap, for example, a contemporary version of the hoary-haired tale about a little girl who brings her divorced parents together, Hayley acts American twins—one a tomboy, the other a proper-prim from Boston. The twins, of course, alternate between one unsuspecting parent and the other, bringing joy and jokes to everyone.

It is a tribute to Hayley that in the past three months 2,500 movie fans have written to Disney asking whether one or two little girls played the twin roles in Parent Trap. That's how well she did with her fake American accent, her perceptive eye to environment, her plastic, mobile face, her self-thought-out interpretation of the parts.

A French Appraisal

Maurice Chevalier, with whom she is currently finishing Jules Verne's The Castaways, told me in London a few weeks ago: "Hayley has a wonderful chance of developing into the biggest English star of the century. I have played opposite many, many little girls in my time—but never one like this. She is naturally, not artificially, cute. She has warmth and humor without being—let me find the proper English word—without being sticky-sweet. Too much sugar in a child frequently turns the sophisticated adult sick."

"It is not so with Hayley. She is never over-sugary or offensive; she never tries to steal a scene, never over-acts, which is difficult for most child actors to avoid."

"As she grows older," Chevalier continues, "she will develop warmth and, God granting, sex-appeal, and with those two qualities she will become a great, great star, because already—perhaps it is her instinct or her heritage—she knows how to act, how to appeal to the heart."

"I was married once, you know, a long time ago. It didn't work out. My wife wanted me to be married to her. I was married to my career like all actors. I am sorry now it didn't work because maybe I would have had a daughter like Hayley. I cannot tell you how jealous I am of her father."

Hayley's father is John Mills, for the past 20 years one of England's foremost film stars. Her mother is Mary Hayley Bell, actress-turned-playwright. Her older sister, Juliet, shone for two years in the London and Broadway productions of Five Finger Exercise. And her younger brother, Jonathan, 12, scored so sensationally in a Disney film test two years ago that Disney offered him a seven-year contract. Jonathan refused it on the grounds that he preferred cricket to show business, a reason his parents consider sensible.

With this sort of background, is it any wonder that Hayley Mills became a child actress at age 12? The wonder is that she wasn't, like Shirley Temple, emot-ing before the cameras at age 3.

"Actually," Hayley explains, "my getting into films was sort of an accident. Lee Thompson—he directed Guns of Navarone—came out to our farm in Sussex one weekend. I guess it was three years ago.

"I was in the garden, taking off on one of those ghastly TV commercials, just imitating, play-acting. Mr. Thompson laughed at me. Then he explained that he was looking for a young boy to act in Tiger Bay. That's the film story of a Polish refugee—Horst Buchholz played the part in the movie—who murders his sweetheart and is seen by a young boy who likes him so much that he refuses to tell the police.

"Anyway, Mr. Thompson thought that I might be just as right for the part as a boy. He asked my parents if he could screen-test me. They said sure. Mr. Thompson liked the screen test, gave me the part, and that's how I got into this crazy business."

What Hayley omits with serene modesty from her account is that she proved so able in Tiger Bay that she was awarded top acting honors at the Berlin Film Festival for her work in the film.

Not only that but Disney saw and grabbed her for the lead in Pollyanna, cast her opposite such top-flight professionals as Jane Wyman, Karl Malden, Adolph Menjou, Donald Crisp and Agnes Moorhead. For her performance in Pollyanna, Hayley was awarded the "Oscar" of the Variety Clubs of Great Britain, the youngest actress ever to be so honored.

The Money Rolls In

Under her Disney contract, Hayley is scheduled to make one picture a year for five years with every second production filmed in England. Her current salary is $4,000 a week with a minimum 10-week annual guarantee. For her next picture she will be paid $5,000 a week, then $6,000, and for her final Disney production, $7,500 a week. But, like all film contracts, this one is subject to renegotiation.

According to one leading Hollywood agent, "The kid is easily worth $250,000 a picture. Matter of fact, she's so hot at the box office right now that Universal has signed her to replace Sandra Dee, who's pregnant, in The Chalk Garden, and I think they're paying her a flat $100,000."

Hayley says, "I have no idea how much money I earn. Father looks after that. I don't care about money. I act because it's fun and I love it.

"My parents give me two pounds a week [$5.60] to spend, and when I see something I like and they're not around to stop me, I buy it."

Proud Guardian

Hayley's folks leave England when John Mills is filming on location—he's recently been working in Tahiti—and during these periods their daughter is looked after by Lee Bragg, a pleasant, blonde, middle-aged lady from Louisville and North Hollywood who describes her charge as "the most normal, considerate, well-mannered teenager you're ever going to meet."

Mrs. Bragg has worked as Hayley's guardian on three films and believes the system of alternate production between Burbank, Calif., and Pinewood is the best thing that could happen to Hayley.

"In England," Mrs. Bragg explains, "they don't treat a child star with all the hullabaloo and fuss they accord one in America. This prevents a young girl from getting spoiled. Here at Pinewood, Hayley's regarded as just another member of the crew, and she's treated accordingly. It helps her keep both feet on the ground, although I must say she's never shown any tendency to do anything else. She doesn't regard herself as anything special, just as a lucky girl."

Hayley still attends the Elmhurst School in Surrey—she's been going there since she was 7—and in addition to school subjects takes ballet and drama.

The school makes no special concessions to her as an actress. This year, for example, she couldn't even make the end-of-term class play since, owing to film commitments, she had missed several rehearsals. Instead, she happily sold programs at the affair.

"I only work three months a year," Hayley points out. "So nine months of the year I'm quite normal. I've just started going out with boys. I don't know too many—and frankly I'm not as interested in boys at this point as I am in myself.

"I'm ambitious, I guess, but not terribly. The parts I've played in films, the characters are always younger than myself, and I wonder sometimes if that's made me backward. I mean, I wonder if at my age I should be more interested in boys than I am.

"Right now I'm interested in finishing school at Elmhurst. Then I'm going to Brussels for six months to learn French. I guess I'll enroll in a convent.

"Reporters ask me frequently if working in films doesn't prevent me from enjoying a normal youth. I don't think it does. I still have the friends I've always had. I still do the things I've always done, swim, play tennis, watch my brother Jonathan play cricket. I listen to jazz and rock 'n roll with my schoolmates. I don't think working in films has changed me much.

A Mind of Her Own

"You ask me what sort of girl I think I am. Frankly I'm moronic and imbecilic, but I have a mind of my own. The one thing I've learned from this business is that I shouldn't marry an actor. I need a man I can respect and love, and while I feel that way about my father, I still wouldn't want to marry an actor because then we'd have two rival careers in the same family and it would bring problems, problems, problems."

Essentially a quiet girl, Hayley rarely emits such lengthy spoken thoughts, even in interviews. Although she is by now well-acclimated to life on the sound stages, she claims she is happiest when she's riding around the Mills' 450-acre farm in Sussex on her horse, Annabelle.

"I love horses," she confesses. "Sometimes I even wonder what it would be like if I married one. They're such a comfort, you know. They never talk back." ■

At last doctors see real hope of...

PREVENTING the 'COMMON COLD'

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, medical scientists are convinced that they will be able to prevent the "common cold."

There is a bigger push than ever in medical research circles to produce one or more vaccines that will protect against certain types of respiratory infection.

PARADE has learned these facts from leading authorities in virus research throughout the U.S.:

1) Recent discoveries (within the past eight years) have led doctors to conclude that they have nailed down the viruses responsible for 60 per cent of all severe respiratory illnesses in children.

2) Vaccines to protect against some of these illnesses are in the planning stage. No doubt you will hear more about experimental vaccines within the next year.

3) The first of the new vaccines probably will be aimed at reducing cold-type illnesses primarily in children under 5 years of age. This vaccine might contain the croup virus and thus protect against one of the most frightening of all childhood disorders.

Such optimism is based on findings in one of the most exciting fields of medical research—virology, which since 1953 has yielded so many discoveries that even scientists admit they can scarcely keep up with them.

In the past decade, virus research has produced more than 90 separate viral "bugs" involved in respiratory disease. It is now thought that between 15 and 25 of them cause most of the sore throats, wheezing and sneezing of children in pre-school and early school years.

Hope for a Vaccine

A tremendous effort is now being launched to classify the most prevalent viruses so that they may provide the basis for a protective vaccine. Ultimately, doctors hope for a vaccine that will be given together with polio or flu shots. This multiple vaccine would also protect against common cold-type ailments.

"We can now proceed intelligently toward respiratory vaccines," says Dr. Maurice Hilleman, of Merck, Sharpe & Dohme, leading pharmaceuticals house. "There is a real future for these vaccines, or I wouldn't be in this field."

Dr. Hilleman is a discoverer of some of those 90-plus cold-type viruses which have given the big push to vaccine research.

Another authority, Dr. Robert Huebner of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, Bethesda, Md., adds that vaccines in this area of sickness are no longer a dream. Enough has been learned so that "we need no longer accept respiratory illness as an inevitable condition of life."

This is an extraordinary statement; particularly in the light of a 30-year study at the Harvard School of Public Health which shows that 83 per cent of all illnesses that occur up to age 18 are caused by acute respiratory disease—common colds.

The average American adult has four to six bouts with cold-type illnesses every year. These ailments are the No. 1 cause of job absenteeism in the U.S. It is safe to say that Americans have 1 billion illnesses they call "colds" each year.

(Medical researchers shy away from the term "colds." This is because the symptoms are caused by so many different viruses that to scientists the term has no real meaning.)

Virulent Tongue-Twisters

The respiratory viruses discovered within the past five years include some with tongue-twisting names such as respiratory syncytial, adenoviruses and a group called the parainfluenzas.

An adenovirus vaccine, already available, is widely used in military camps which, for some peculiar reason, are vulnerable to respiratory outbreaks from these particular viruses. In addition, an adeno-plus-flu vaccine is currently available.

Some experts say that gradually more and more viruses can be added to the vaccines already available to provide protection against an ever-widening range of respiratory disorders.

However, there are serious problems in vaccine research, which must be overcome before vaccines are possible for mass use.

The first step, according to Dr. Huebner, is to find a way to purify and concentrate the viruses so they can actually confer immunity with a few injections. A vaccine is usually not fully accepted by the public if children have to keep going to the doctor for shots every few months.

The second step will be to produce a safe vaccine which can be tested on a broad scale. Some viruses which cause respiratory disease in humans have no significant effect on laboratory animals. That means some mass field trials would have to be carried out directly on people without benefit of previous experiments on animals.

One stage in producing vaccine: Pfizer & Co. lab worker prepares a liquid medium before the virus is introduced.

In addition, because of viral differences some vaccines will be easier to manufacture than others.

For example, parainfluenza virus appears to cause about 15 per cent of respiratory illnesses in small children, including many cases of croup. This virus is quite easy to work with in the laboratory. But respiratory syncytial virus, which is thought to cause more cold-type ailments, is extremely difficult to stabilize and to use in a vaccine.

Even with these monumental problems, Dr. Hilleman is willing to concede that the current accumulation of knowledge means that big things will happen in the respiratory vaccine field.

This is his conservative way of saying that today respiratory vaccine research is hot—red hot. ■

Tall and short of it

BRUCE YARNELL, who co-stars as a deputy marshal on Outlaws—a TV Western—is so big (six feet six) that NBC has had some unusual difficulties with him. For example, Yarnell's hands are so large that a special revolver had to be manufactured to accommodate his over-sized fingers. And when it comes to finding actresses who can play opposite Yarnell, none are tall enough for kissing closeups. To solve that problem, Yarnell always takes off his shoes and has the young lady stand on a box in high heels. Attractive Pippa Scott demonstrates the procedure as she and Bruce rehearse a scene.

Do you know how to win

MARITAL QUARRELS?

by LESTER DAVID

MARITAL SPATS are inevitable, all authorities agree. Life with Father, and Mother, is such an intimate matter that disagreements are bound to erupt from time to time. But if you must have fights, why not come out ahead? Better still, why not battle in such a way that the marriage comes out ahead, too?

The quiz that follows tests you in both these areas. It will reveal how well you handle yourself during those occasional family settos. And it will determine how much you know about constructive quarreling.

Here are 10 pieces of advice. Do you agree with them or not? Check the YES column if you do, NO if you don't. Then look at the answers for some valuable psychological tips on husband-wife battling.

QUESTIONS

1 When the battle opens, raise your voice a notch so your mate will know at once you are genuinely annoyed. YES ☐ NO ☐

2 For wives: A shower of pretended tears will win you sympathy and probably the argument as well. For husbands: Make believe your feelings have been seriously hurt by something she said. Chances are she will be instantly contrite. YES ☐ NO ☐

3 When arguing about one specific matter, use the opportunity to bring in another subject that has been bothering you. Thus you can clear up two sources of friction at the cost of one spat. YES ☐ NO ☐

4 Never ask questions during an argument. Make forthright statements instead. Questioning is only sparring and won't move you forward. YES ☐ NO ☐

5 If you have a gripe on your chest, get it off even though your mate is weary and would rather put off a discussion. Remember the old adage: "Never let the sun go down on your anger." YES ☐ NO ☐

6 If a funny remark occurs to you while you are verbally whaling away at each other, throttle the urge to say it aloud. Comedy has no place in an argument where serious issues are at stake. YES ☐ NO ☐

7 Suppose a quarrel has ended in a draw. If you discover some evidence later on that proves your case, be sure to let your mate know. If you don't, the battle will only break out anew in the future. YES ☐ NO ☐

8 Be wise and give in to keep peace in the family. Since quarrels are destructive, you win even though you don't get your way. YES ☐ NO ☐

9 Craftily play upon your mate's reasonableness and sense of justice. Tell him: "Now after all, isn't it logical to feel this way?" Tell her: "Wouldn't any fair-minded person do this . . . ?" YES ☐ NO ☐

10 If you feel like calling names while a spat is in progress, do so. Bottling up your true feelings will only make them fester inside you. YES ☐ NO ☐

ANSWERS

You should have answered NO to every statement! Here is why, according to leading marriage and family relations experts:

1 "If you must quarrel at home be determined but make it a point never to talk above normal conversational tone," counsels Dr. Anna K. Daniels, New York gynecologist and marriage counselor. "It's hard to say cutting things in a gentle voice. Thus if you don't incite your partner, you won't receive sharp replies and the conflict will ebb. Your mate is more likely to see things your way than if you caused outbursts by your own loud arguments."

2 It's true that strong emotion is often the only way we can make our mates realize how important some things are to us, declares Dr. David R. Mace, executive director of the American Association of Marriage Counselors. But the emotion must be genuine. Make-believe tears and hurts are transparent and won't fool anyone for long. Then, when you really feel keenly about something, you'll have trouble convincing your mate you mean it.

3 Quarrels enlarge easily, all experts point out. Sticking closely to the subject at hand prevents both of you from reaching far out for all sorts of grievances and tossing them onto the fire. At this point, a mate finds it hard to yield, even though realizing the other is right.

4 "Ask questions to clarify the causes of the argument," advises Dr. Melvyn M. Katz, Long Island psychotherapist and marriage counselor. By asking questions, adds Dr. Katz, you may learn there is less conflict than you thought. Other experts point out that if you let your mate know you are honestly searching for the roots of the battle, you are also demonstrating fairmindedness. This can turn out to be a big point in your favor.

5 The old saw belongs in the scrap heap. Dr. Judson T. Landis, family sociology professor of the University of California, says: "An excellent rule is never to try to discuss any controversial or emotionally charged questions if either partner is ill, over-tired or hungry." After a good night's sleep, you see things in better proportion—besides, by then your anger may have faded!

6 By all means make the comic remark, provided it's not a cutting one. If you can get your mate laughing, you're way ahead. Says Dr. Landis: "The possession of a good sense of humor helps to relieve tension and to keep quarreling at a minimum."

7 This is one of the most common and yet most dangerous mistakes wives and husbands make, says Mrs. Martha K. Selig, consultant on family and children's services for the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York. She adds: "Perhaps you will win the arguments on points if you 'prove' your case after the battle ends, but you may cause resentments that last for years." Then add: "The fight is ended—prove yourself a big and loving person by letting the matter lie."

8 Yielding just to keep peace is a defeat, not a victory. You'll lose them all that way, plus a good deal more. Dr. Mace warns that the peace-at-any-price policy "no more improves family relations than international relations." If a principle is at stake, stick up for it.

9 An emotion-charged wife or husband will only storm louder when urged to be "reasonable." Authorities urge you to be fair, reasonable and logical as you quietly discuss the matter.

10 If you feel like saying something nasty, DON'T. When quarreling, advises Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, a leading sociologist and family consultant, keep your energies focused on the problem, not on the other's faults. Stinging remarks wound deeply and hurt your cause, both immediate and long-term.

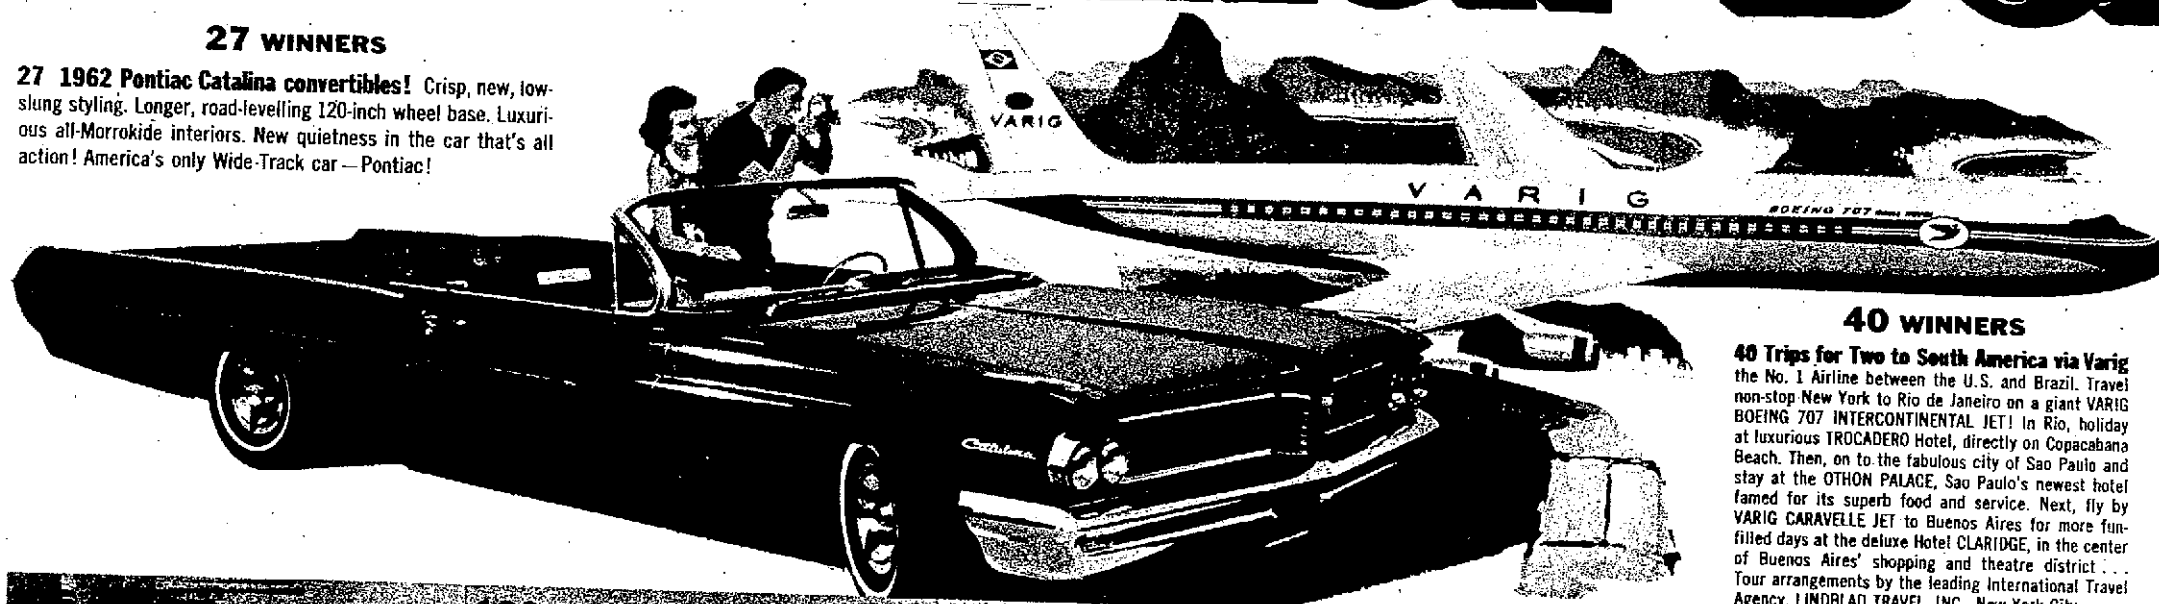

SCORING: Give yourself 10 points for each NO answer. If you racked up 30 or less, you'll lose the next spat too! 40 to 70 gives you a fighting chance each time, while 80 or higher shows a sound understanding of human nature, yours and your mate's.

They make figures more attractive

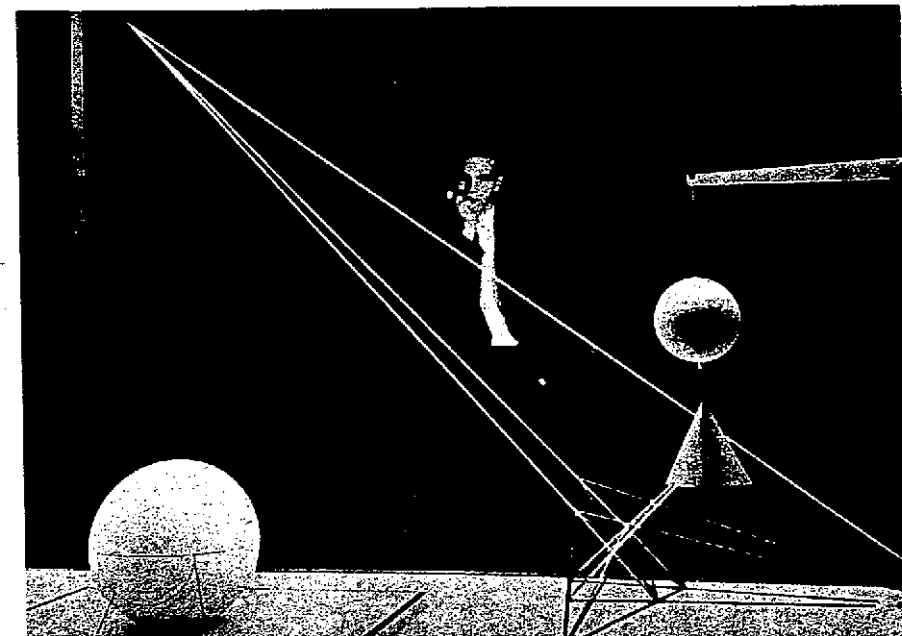

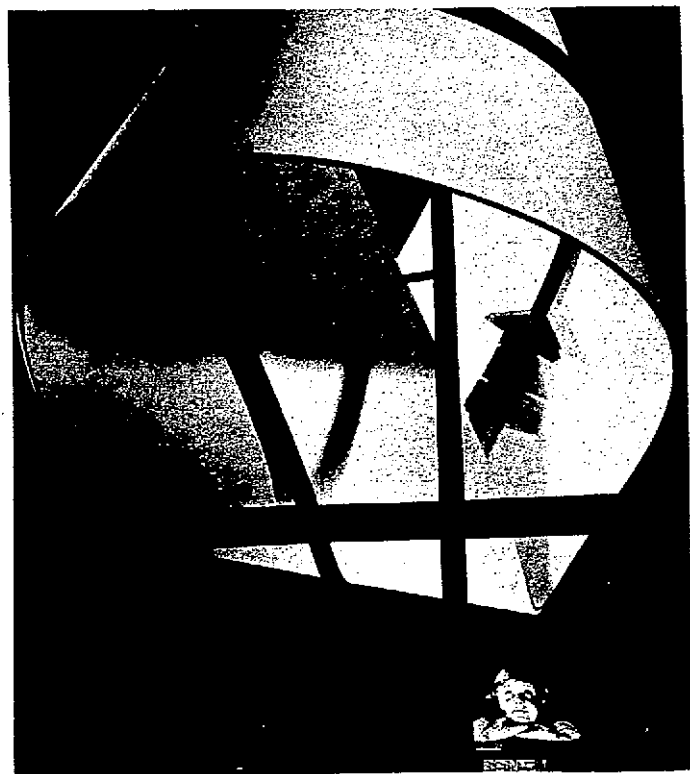

Show case of mathematics stops visitors, young and old, at California Museum of Science and Industry,

Los Angeles. The exhibition, a year in preparation, illustrates principles from simple sums to trigonometry.

TO MANY YOUNGSTERS—and adults—mathematics is a dull, meaningless jumble, filled with intimidating numbers, bewildering problems, and uninspiring memory work. To children in the Los Angeles area, however, math has recently become as clear as a bell—and fun besides. Behind this turn-about is the exciting exhibit shown in these photos.

"The World of Mathematics—and Beyond" is the work of famed designer Charles Eames. Now on permanent exhibition at the California Museum of Science and Industry, it teaches a complex subject through a series of eye-catching surprises. One of the first things visitors learn, for instance, is that sunflowers, seashells and dried-up mud all illustrate mathematical principles. The difficult concept of probability is demonstrated through 8,000 plastic balls which arrange themselves in a bell-shaped curve.

Right from the start the show has been a hit. Today more than one million visitors a year see the exhibit—including many scientists and mathematicians from the California space and electronics industry. A seventh-grader, however, has summed up the show best. "This," he says, "is more fun than Disneyland." ■

'Moebius band'—a geometrical curiosity used by mapmakers and surveyors—catches eye of 5-year-old Abby Wilson. Moving arrow shows that figure has only one edge and surface.

Spheres and cones teach high school boy the basics of solid geometry. Favorite features of the exhibit are "prove-it-yourself" models which allow viewer to solve math problems.

Three newly-ordained clergymen explain

WHY WE SERVE GOD

THE CHURCHES need men. At a time when Americans' minds are troubled and the clergy's mission is vast, 10 thousand towns have no Catholic priest, 25,000 Protestant churches no regular minister, upwards of 400 Jewish congregations no rabbi.

The Methodist Church alone needs 2,800 new ministers a year to offset deaths and retirements. Its seminaries produce 900.

Enrollments in theological schools have fallen off six per cent in the last five years. The United Presbyterian Church recently abandoned plans for a new seminary for lack of enrollment. Another seminary was converted into a training place for lay leaders.

And sociologists say the situation probably will grow worse. Today's eye-on-the-dollar young people, they say, won't be diverted into the priesthood, ministry or rabbinate, which are traditionally underpaid, overworked and exploited.

Yet each year a dedicated handful of 7,500 young men from all denominations enter God's service. Why? What reasons impel them to choose a life of difficult work and miserable salary? What causes do they see that the church must fulfill? What purposes do they feel religion serves in the world today? Below, three young men who have just answered God's call answer that question.

THE REV. WILLIAM CONGDON

RABBI JERRY ORENSTEIN

THE REV. WILLIAM MCCURDY

'The bomb faces us all'

► The Rev. William H. C. Congdon, curate of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Wallingford, Conn., believes the need for clergymen today is intensified by the danger of nuclear war.

"One of the things people must face and the church must face," says 27-year-old Mr. Congdon, "is that there is very little security in this world. The front pages show us that. The only answer is to be found outside this world.

"God's answer is not an easy one, but as long as this threat exists, we cannot expect an easy attitude toward life. There simply is no easy compromise."

Bill Congdon, like his fellow clergymen Father McCurdy and Rabbi Orenstein, is under no illusions that he will change the world. He says he literally "wandered" into the clergy. He was a choir boy in Greenwich, Conn., but at Yale, where he took honors in philosophy, he considered Christianity "irrelevant." But as a graduate student at the University of Glasgow, Scotland, he began to feel "some sort of need."

"It was not a ball of fire," he explains. "It just grew in me. On Trinity Sunday at the cathedral at Salisbury I realized that there was only one door open to me." Congdon returned home, entered General Theological Seminary, New York.

"Essentially," he says "the clergy's mission is the same as always. It is to bring into the lives of normal people something of the knowledge of God's power. It is to learn to say and explain simply the message of God for these times. Clergymen in the 12th century must have seen their task the same way."

'The world wants justice'

► Rabbi Jerry Orenstein, a Flushing, N.Y., youth who once was a concert pianist, considers the need for justice so pressing in today's troubled world that he spent his last year at Jewish Theological Seminary of America concentrating on the Book of Job and on concepts of justice as taught by the rabbis.

"It is not that justice is more important than mercy and love," says the rabbi. "It is that justice is the basic rung of the ladder.

"If your concept of justice is clear, you can judge in your own heart whether an action is right or wrong.

"Our world is confused about this. It tends to say that all things are relative. But there is a right and wrong. The Bible and the Talmud show it."

The cry for justice, as Rabbi Orenstein sees it, also extends to nations in this era of anti-colonial uprising and racial turbulence. This was brought home when he spent a year in Israel and visited Russia.

"The truth about Russian Jewry is bitter, but little known," he says sadly. "A religious Jew suffers almost as much today as he did under Stalin. True, his blood is not spilled. Khrushchev is too crafty for that. He prefers to attack the soul rather than the body."

Yet Rabbi Orenstein feels that, worldwide, counter-trends are beginning to build up. In our own country, for example, he sees the Peace Corps as a counterweight to the drive for money and luxury.

"This is an important time to be in the rabbinate," he says. "But had I lived at any other time in history, I still would have wanted to be a rabbi. I can't imagine any other life outside the service of God."

'Youth needs guidance'

► The Rev. William McCurdy, S.J., prematurely white-haired at 31, feels youth is most in need of guidance today. "The young," he says, "are at a critical age in critical times." He continues:

"Young people need someone to indicate to them that there is something more than the material things around them. They need to realize that the whole goal is not what happens in this life. They need to be shown that 'doing well' by the standards of this world is not necessarily 'doing well' by the standards of God.

"Today's young people may have had things too easy. They have had a great deal given to them, perhaps too much. Yet many of them have lost contact with their parents. They are confused, upset. They don't know where they're going. They need to be challenged, to be helped to see the basic Christian idea — of giving themselves. They need a basic orientation toward God and an understanding of God's plan."

Young Father McCurdy was ordained this June at Fordham University. His assignment has not yet been decided by his superiors. But he would like to aid the Jesuit program of weekend spiritual retreats. In this program, boys winding up their high school studies seek direction and guidance for their future. Priests like Father McCurdy counsel them.

Father McCurdy sees today's task for the clergy this way: "We must help Catholics to deepen their own faith, help non-Catholics to know Jesus Christ, help people everywhere to get to know God better. In a world of power politics and cold war, we must get across a message of helping others and loving God."

All politicians get this disease.

It's called

FOOT-IN-

by JACK ANDERSON
Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

WHEN 3-YEAR-OLD Caroline Kennedy confided to reporters that "Daddy is upstairs with his shoes and socks off doing nothing," she committed her first blooper. She put her little foot in her little mouth.

Not even the President's daughter, it seems, is immune to Washington's most virulent virus. The slightest exposure can cause foot-in-mouth disease, an infirmity of the tongue which commonly besets bureaucrats, upsets politicians and sets back diplomats.

The virus exists, of course, wherever pronouncements are made. Its effects are most severe in places like Moscow and Peking where talking out of turn can be positively fatal. But nowhere does it flourish more than in this free-speaking capital.

The symptoms are most prevalent among politicians who believe in an open-mouth policy on all subjects.

The most troublesome are the fire-eaters who are forever swallowing their own burning words. They clamored for a military expeditionary force, for example, to rescue a hi-jacked airliner from Cuba. The proposal had to be called off and they had to gulp back their flaming language when the next news dispatches revealed that the culprits had had nothing to do with Cuba.

Off the Wrong Cuff

Ships of state have been rocked by a comment off the wrong cuff or a statement that had better been left unstated. The customary procedure is to issue denials, explanations, alibis, retractions. But these seldom silence the reverberations.

Even the most circumspect statesman, schooled in diplomatic double-talk, will get caught with his mouth open and his foot jammed in it up to the ankle. Few, for instance, are more taciturn than General Lucius Clay, the President's man-on-the-spot in Berlin. Yet he managed to stir up an international rumpus by suggesting at a party that West Germany accept the "reality" of two Germans.

This unfortunate remark slipped out shortly after Vice President Lyndon Johnson had been sent to West Berlin to bolster morale. The effect was to take the pep out of Johnson's pep talks to the beleaguered city. To European reporters, always alert to fine nuances, Clay's words also hinted at a retreat in America's stand-firm policy.

Soapy in Africa

G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, was the first New Frontiersman to chew on his foot. Touring the Dark Continent, the exuberant "Soapy," on the frothy tide of oratory, declared his firm belief in "Africa for the Africans." The white settlers took this to mean that they should be cleared off the continent. They roared with rage while Soapy joined a group of Congolese schoolboys singing mournfully, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Another who has contemplated membership in Ad-Libbers Anonymous is Interior Secretary Stewart Udall. His worst gaffe came during a chat with Begum Aurangzeb, the daughter of Pakistan's President. Commenting on the fact that the Begum's husband came from Peshawar, Udall remarked pleasantly: "That's in Afghanistan, isn't it?" The Begum later complained to President Kennedy over Udall's lack of geographical knowledge. Quipped the President: "That's why he's Secretary of the Interior."

Vice President Johnson found he could plant his foot in his mouth without saying anything at all. He accomplished that in India

Gen. Lucius Clay, shown with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, hit world headlines with blooper.

by uttering a full-throated Texas yell to test the echo at the Taj Mahal. This is a shrine and many Indians were offended. But they were so warmed by his friendly, folksy ways that they forgave him.

Few men were more skilled with words than the late John Foster Dulles. Yet in many world capitals, he is remembered more for one unfortunate remark than for all his years of constructive diplomacy. He said: "The ability to get to the verge of war without getting into war is the necessary art."

Life magazine featured the statement under the headline "Brink of War," and the word "brinkmanship" became part of the world's diplomatic language. The mistaken impression was that the Secretary of State was prepared to gamble with world peace.

Nixon's Blooper

Another cautious fellow, Richard Nixon, managed to trip over his tongue while he was Vice President. Urging a flexible foreign policy in a TV debate with Kennedy during the 1960 presidential campaign, he declared:

"We can't stand pat!" The audience, remembering that his wife's name is Pat, snickered with delight.

Chief Justice Earl Warren is still blushing over the occasion when, enthused at the size of his audience, he began: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am delighted to address such a dense crowd."

Nor will Ezra Taft Benson, former Agriculture Secretary, forget the time he proclaimed in a ringing voice: "Price supports can be used effectively to protect the farmers against undue disaster."

Ex-Congressman Alvin Bentley must still squirm at the memory of a GOP policy meeting where he tried to change a party principle. "Gentlemen," he said solemnly, "in this matter we must rise above principles."

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen intended nothing but chivalry when, in response to a denunciation by Senator Wayne Morse, he sprang to the defense of Mrs. Clare Booth Luce. In a voice of righteous wrath, Dirksen called on Morse to "stop beating an old bag of bones." Continued on page 24

John Foster Dulles, the late Secretary of State, alarmed U.S. allies and hurt his career with famed "brinkmanship" remark in an interview.

New Yorkers Were SHOCKED
By The Recent EXPOSE of
PATENT MEDICINE PRACTICES
Now You Too Can Learn How To SAVE
...STOP PAYING HIGH PRICES FOR

VITAMINS

A recent public service study of Patent Medicines in one of New York's leading evening newspapers, devoted one entire installment to VITAMINS and disclosed many interesting highlights about the sale of Vitamins and Vitamin-Mineral combinations.

One of the startling revelations in this frank article was the wide variance of Vitamin prices.

The following three paragraphs taken from the series, as it appeared, are of particular concern to every family buying Vitamins.

"Any particular vitamin bottled under one label is, for all practical and therapeutic purposes, the same as if it is bottled under another label. The fact is, most of the Vitamin concentrates consumed in America are produced by only a few companies.

"The list of ingredients in a Vitamin compound is one thing the consumer can almost always depend on to be correct. Any company which fails to label the bottle with the exact formula and amount (or unit strength) of each ingredient risks a seizure by the U. S. Government.

"Bearing that in mind, it is interesting to pick up a few Vitamin catalogs and compare the prices charged by different companies for the same Vitamin compounds."

Following publication of the installment we received hundreds of telephone calls requesting copies of the Hudson Vitamin Catalog. This interest prompted us to tell the entire nation our story.

Here is one example from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog: A very popular multiple vitamin that is taken once-a-day, regularly sells for about $3.10 per 100...the Hudson formula sells for only $1.50 per 100.

Here is another — a well-known high potency B complex formula with Vitamin C and minerals (similar to a brand nationally advertised at $4.40 per 100)...only $2.10 per 100 DIRECT from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

These are only two examples that you will find in our 48 page catalog that is simple, easy to read and has been a Vitamin buying guide for millions from coast-to-coast.

WASHINGTON BLOOPERS

Sometimes they snowball as far as the White House

Ill-expressed chivalry also caught Sen. Paul Douglas with his phrases down during an impassioned appeal for non-slip polish on the Senate office floors. "It's been reported," he cried, "that many women have fallen in the Senate Office Building."

But no one could have been more embarrassed than the young, eager State Department aide who was delegated to show the new Secretary, Dean Rusk, through the diplomatic establishment. Knowing Rusk to be a professor, he assumed that "Dean" was his title.

"Dean," he said, "you must see this . . . Dean, look at that. . . ."

Only after the tour was the young aide informed that he had been calling the Big Boss by his first name.

The debates over defense have produced some classic cases of "foot-in-mouth." When Russia launched the first Sputnik, Presidential advisor Clarence Randall called it "a silly bauble." The former White House watchdog, Sherman Adams, commented: "The United States isn't interested in a high score in an outer space basketball game." They soon wished they had a magic machine like a magnetic eraser on a tape recorder that could have canceled their words.

Worse off was Adm. Lewis Parks, former Navy press chief, who committed his bloopers in writing. He signed a memo declaring that the atomic submarine wasn't battle-worthy, that her torpedo tubes were added only as an afterthought and that her delicate equipment wouldn't work at high speed. When the memo inevitably leaked to the newspapers, President Eisenhower exploded. "Why," he wailed, "the Navy even asked Mamie to christen her!"

Misunderstood Secretary

But the most incurable foot-in-mouth victim of all time was probably the late Defense Secretary, Charles Wilson. His slips and misses of the tongue began the moment he hit Washington. At a Senate hearing, he remarked: "What is good for the country is good for General Motors and vice versa." Somehow this got twisted, and the nation became convinced that the former General Motors boss had said: "What is good for General Motors is good for the country."

He was still trying to explain this away when he let go an opinion on unemployment in Detroit. "I have always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs," he said. "You know, one that will get out and look for food rather than sit on his haunches and yell for it." Angered workmen across the country accused Wilson of calling them dogs.

Next, Wilson alienated the nation's scientists by expressing his contempt for space research in these words: "I am not much interested in why potatoes turn brown when fried or what makes the grass grow green." He also didn't care what was on the other side of the moon. This caused the Air Force to teletype to all commands: "No statements can be made which might in any way cause national news media to describe Air Force projects as efforts to 'fly to the moon'."

Wilson was continually called on the White House carpet. Once he announced that the United States was pulling a division out of Europe at the moment that State Secretary Dulles was assuring the Europeans this would not happen. Wilson came out of the White House looking dejected. "Maybe," he said, "I should remember what the mama whale said to the baby whale, 'Son, it's only when you're spouting that you get harpooned'."

Most Quoted Line

Another time Wilson bluntly charged that the National Guard was used by some boys to dodge the draft. The uproar was so furious that Ike decided to issue a public rebuke. He called the statement "unwise . . . made without stopping to think."

Even then, Charlie Wilson could not restrain his tongue. Coming out of the White House he shrugged and said, "This is not my dunghill!"—which became the most quoted "no comment" in Washington history.

Fiercely loyal to her husband, Mrs. Wilson chimed in, too—and put her own foot in her mouth. She rebuked the President!

She snapped: "I don't think John Foster Dulles, whom Mr. Eisenhower praised, has done any better job than a lot of other men. I've stood back and listened to criticism until I'm tired of it."

To no one's surprise, Wilson finally had enough and submitted his resignation. As he departed, he still had his foot dangerously close to his mouth. "The price of progress," he said, "is trouble. I must be making a lot of progress. But," he added, "it's futile to talk about the past, something like trying to make birth control retroactive."

Is there a cure for Washington foot-in-mouth disease? No one has found it yet. But there is a preventive medicine which one harried press officer prescribed for his charges. He quotes from the New Testament, James 3: 3-5: "Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body. Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet they are turned about with a very small helm . . . Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!"

A LUNCHEON SANDWICH LOAF

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

RECIPES for a sandwich loaf usually call for a loaf of unsliced bread, which is trimmed and sliced lengthwise into 3 or 4 long slices. Nowadays it is difficult to find unsliced bread at the market. Usually it must be ordered a day or so ahead. Furthermore, lengthwise slicing is not easy and the slices are often uneven. That's why we like this new idea of making a sandwich loaf from a loaf of sliced bread. Trimming is easy, slices are uniform and the finished loaf is symmetrically handsome. Buy a 1-pound loaf of regular-sliced bread, not thin-sliced, and follow our easy directions. The fillings make a delicious flavor blend, and party guests will enjoy every luscious bite.

Sumptuous Sandwich Loaf

1 loaf (1 lb.) sliced white bread (not thin-sliced)
 Deviled Ham, Tuna and Liver Spread Fillings
 2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese
 Pimiento strips Parsley Pitted ripe olives

Trim crusts from bread slices. Place four slices side by side on flat serving platter. Spread with Deviled Ham Filling. Place four more bread slices over Ham Filling; spread with Tuna Filling. Place four more bread slices over Tuna Filling; spread with Liver Spread Filling. Top with remaining four bread slices. Place stacks close together on platter. Beat cream cheese until smooth and fluffy. Frost top and sides of loaf. Decorate with pimiento strips, parsley and ripe olive slices. Chill. To serve, cut into 1½-inch slices. Makes 8 servings.

DEVILED HAM FILLING: Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper or drained pickle relish and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard to 1 can (4½ oz.) deviled ham. Mix well.

TUNA FILLING: Blend together ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced onion and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and chopped fine, ¼ cup minced celery and 2 tablespoons snipped parsley.

LIVER SPREAD FILLING: Combine 1 can (4½ oz.) liver spread and ¼ cup mayonnaise; mix well. Stir in ¼ cup finely chopped ripe olives.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by HILDEGARDE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Hildegard, born Hildegard Loretta Sell in Wisconsin on February 1, 1906, is one of the most fabulous entertainers of modern times. Pianist, chanteuse — a fancy name for singer — and raconteur, Hildegard and her landlady's daughter, Anna Sosenko, hit New York together in the 1930s. Hildegard sang, and Sosenko managed her. Since 1934, Hildegard has appeared in spots ranging from sophisticated supper clubs in Paris to summer stock theaters in New Jersey.

Entering a department store, a little old lady was startled when a band began to play and a dignified executive pinned an orchid on her dress and handed her a crisp $100 bill. It seems she was the store's one millionth customer. Television cameras focused on her and reporters began interviewing.

"Tell me," one asked, "just what did you come here for today?"

The lady hesitated for a minute, then answered: "I'm on my way to the complaint department."

The tiny compact car was jerking and jumping. Despite the fact that it was on a smooth highway, the car would bounce, glide along, then bounce again. The driver pulled over to the side of the road.

A sympathetic policeman approached and asked, "Something wrong with the car?"

"Oh no, sir," the driver answered. "It's just that I have the hiccups."

The easiest way to get a youthful figure is to ask a lady her age.

The millionaire had written his daughter at college about the lavish swimming pool he had built—just for her. She came home for the holidays, and as they drove into the grounds, she noticed several handsome young men, swimming and diving in the new pool.

"Oh, Daddy, that's wonderful," she exclaimed. "You didn't write that you stocked it for me!"

The raw recruits were running the obstacle course, over rocks, across icy streams, through briar bushes, under barbed wire and up an almost vertical hill. "Well, Rookie," said the sergeant when the run was over, "what do you think of being a marine?"

"Shucks, Sarge," said the hillbilly recruit, "I ain't even puffin'. Where I come from, we go through country like that jest to get to the barn."

In a plush photography studio a society matron was looking at her new portrait. "That picture's an outrage!" she stormed. "Now I ask you, honestly, does it look like me?"

The photographer, flustered for a moment, quickly regained his composure. "Madame," he said, bowing slightly, "the answer is in the negative."

A meek little man approached a policeman on the street corner.

"Excuse me, officer," he said, "but I've been waiting here for my wife for over an hour. Would you please be kind enough to order me to move on?"

A foreign diplomat once came in upon Abraham Lincoln while he was blacking his shoes.

"What, Mr. President, you black your own shoes?" the diplomat asked incredulously.

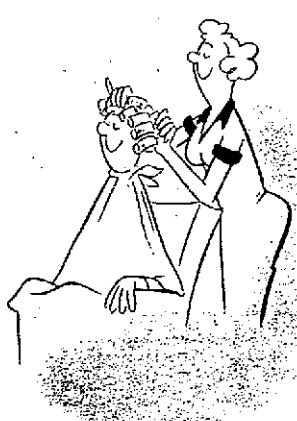

"Yes," Lincoln answered. "Whose do you black?"

A surgeon examined a new patient most carefully. After studying the X-rays, he turned to the man and said, "Could you pay for an operation if I told you one was necessary?"

The patient thought for a moment, then said to the doctor: "Would you find one necessary if I told you I couldn't pay for it?"

George Nader Claims TV 'Hypnotic'

(Editor's Note: The severest critic of television that I have met in more than two years of covering the video beat is an actor who makes his living appearing on the home screen. George Nader, the actor, currently is featured in the title role of "Shannon," airing 7 p.m. Mondays on channel 4, and previously starred as Dr. Glenn Barton on "The Man and the Challenge" series.)

By GEORGE NADER
As Told to 'TeleVues'
Editor Bert Resnik

Television is a hypnotic medium.

Most of what you see goes directly into your subconscious, whether you know it or not.

As a mature individual, you have set up safeguards throughout your life to help you, including your subconscious mind, to discriminate between what is right and wrong.

A child has no such safeguards.

What a child sees on television goes into his mind and is implanted as being real.

The child's subconscious is told that it is acceptable form to use guns, knives, broken beer bottles and to throw acid in the faces of others.

* * * *

FIVE YEARS from now we will reap the crop of the seeds that have been sown by television. The crop will be the worst bunch of juvenile delinquents in the history of our nation.

The "Magic Monster" in the livingroom—a hypnotic monster—will be at fault.

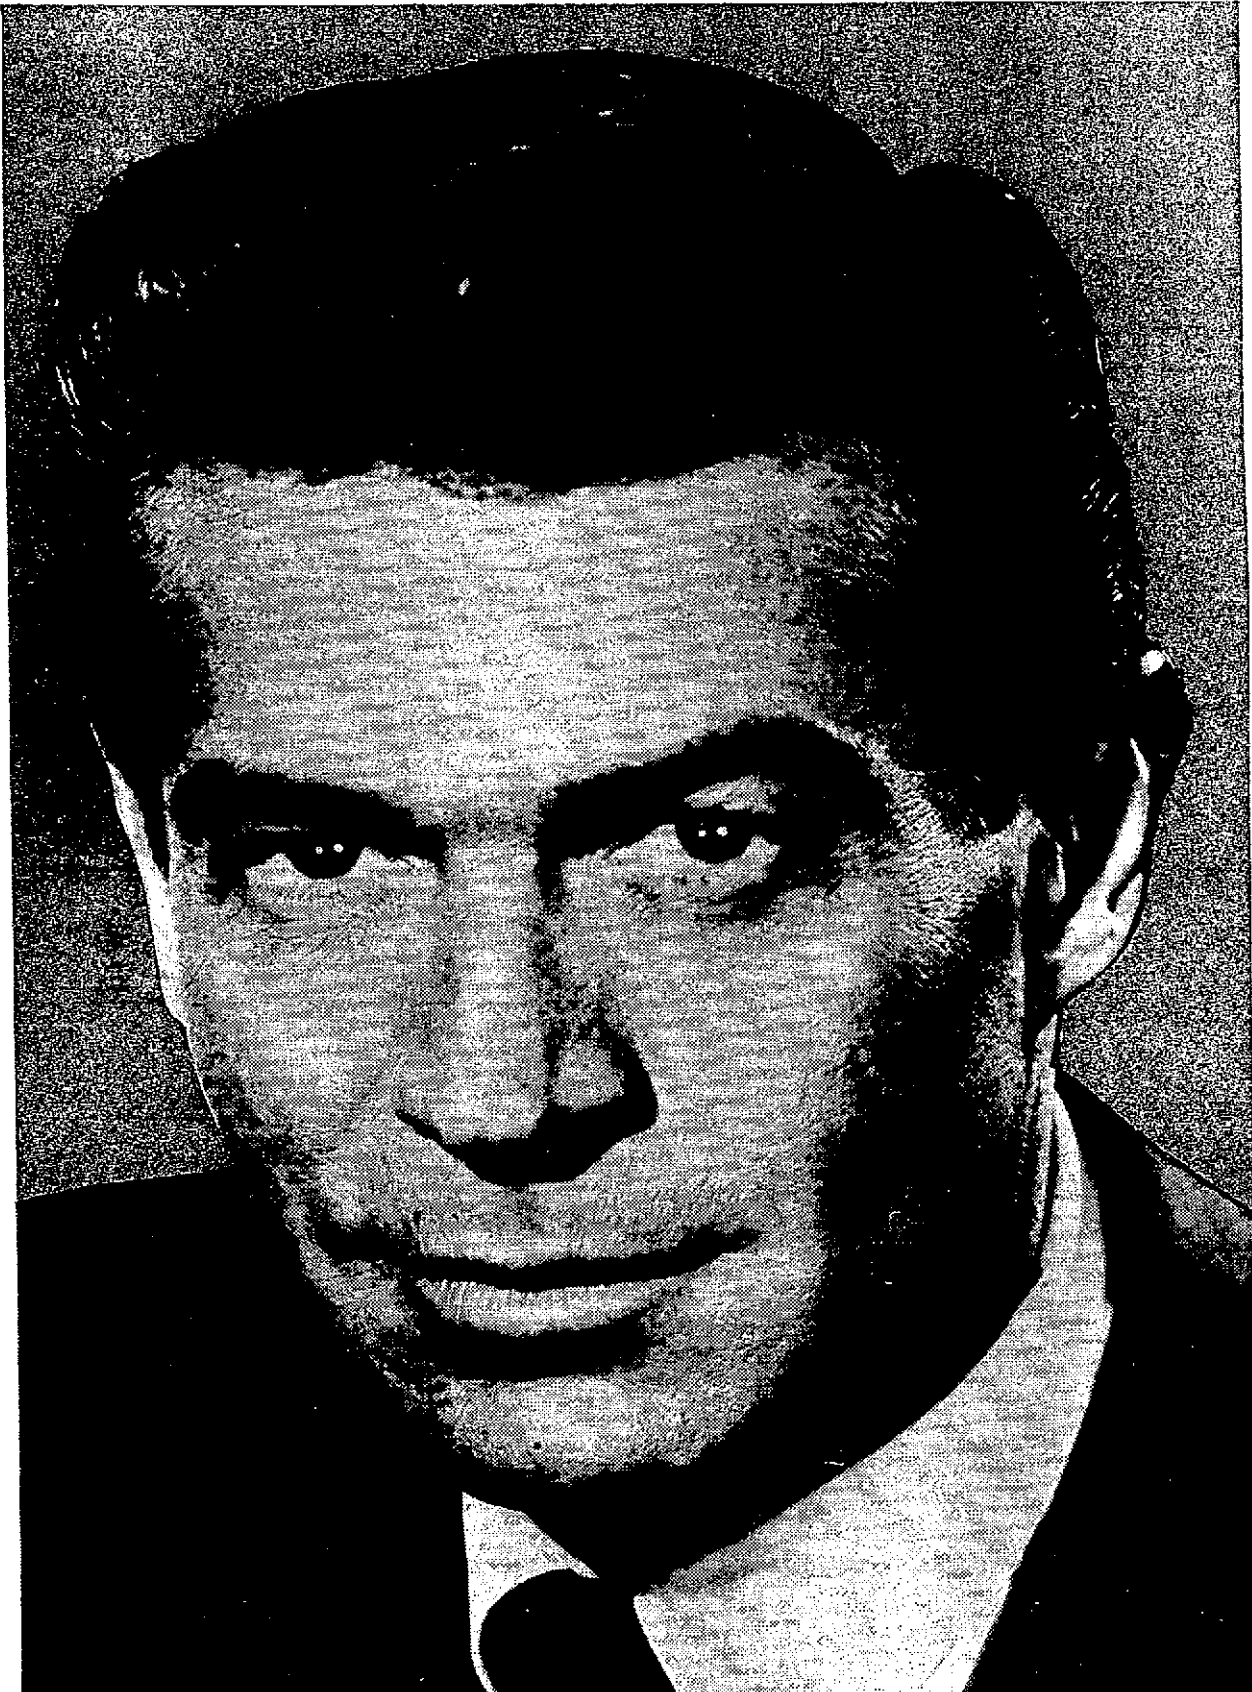

As a youngster, I went to many movies where violence was a major part of the film.

But there is a difference—a hypnotic difference—between going to a movie and watching violence on television.

When you go to a movie, you leave your home and enter a theater where there is a group of people watching the film.

Television comes into your house, usually into a darkened room where the TV set is the only source of light.

A major basis of hypnosis is concentration on a given point. That point of concentration tration in your home is television.

Doctors Say 'TV Hypnotizes'

Yes, television is a hypnotic medium and that's not just my idea.

RECENTLY, I attended a symposium of doctors and dentists who use hypnosis to relieve agony and psychosomatic illnesses.

Several of them told me that, after they had their patients in a state of hypnosis, they asked them when was the last time they were hypnotized.

The hypnotized patients replied: "While I was watching television."

Do you realize the impact of this? These patients were not speaking glibly, not making wisecracks. They were voicing the truth from the depths of their subconscious.

It is time responsible people assume their responsibility.

And I mean, first of all, responsible parents.

Use a little more sense with your children.

I don't mean that you should stop them from watching television altogether.

But be aware of what they're watching and be aware of what's happening to them while they're watching.

IT IS ALSO time for the television industry to take a good look at itself.

Why does television drama so often have to deal with one man doing physical harm to another? Isn't this a narrow scope?

By this time, you're probably wondering what I'm doing as an actor in television. Let me tell you the answers.

I want to act. I love the business. I don't intend to starve.

Perhaps I'm a loner fighting a losing battle. But I think I'd lose it faster if I deserted the field of action.

If what I say and what I feel is printed because I'm a television actor, that is a victory.

WHAT I SAY and feel is this:

Television can deal with life honestly. The problems of life can be grappled with courageously without a series of phoney fights.

The answer to every argument in real life is not to shoot the other guy.

Somewhere along the line, television has to stop and emphasize and dramatize the innate good in people.

It has to emphasize and dramatize the innate human dignity of the individual and the mass.

Music Conservatories' Training Misses TV Boat

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI)—So Junior or Junior Miss wants to become a professional musician?

Take a tip from Eddie Manson, harmonica virtuoso, orchestra conductor, arranger and composer whose works range from TV commercials to a symphony. Don't expect music conservatories and universities to give your embryo Leonard Bernstein the sort of practical education it takes to make a big noise in an overcrowded field.

Manson, who has completed the score for "The Al Smith Story" on "The 20th Century" (6 p.m. Sunday, channel 2), is a product of one of the nation's pre-eminent music schools and has kept in touch with the academic situation through his contacts with many young professionals.

He finds the same snobbish emphasis on "serious" music as when he was a student 20 years ago.

"MUSICIANS ARE being educated for a non-existent market," he said. "Most of them will never find employment in a major symphony orchestra or earn a living on the concert stage. They will have to work in radio, TV, films and the theater where the financial rewards can be much higher anyway. The more the student can learn about these media, the better the chance that he will be self-supporting."

Manson was one of Borrah Minevitch's Harmonica Rascals at 15, but he had to study classical clarinet when he enrolled in music college. He reverted to the harmonica after graduation, working his way up the musical ladder via vaudeville, burlesque, nightclubs, hotels and the concert circuit.

NOW MANSON is one of the highest paid composer-conductor-arrangers in the art film and

TV commercial fields. In addition he has an active career as a recording artist, his latest album being "The Great Eddy Manson Plays the Great Harmonica Favorites."

"The important thing is to acquire flexibility—something the schools don't teach," he said. "You have to know a variety of instruments and a variety of styles including pop and jazz. Then you also have to know recording, TV and film techniques, understand cost accounting, be capable of producing and editing, and a dozen other things that go into making an all-round man of music."

Manson would like to see a revision of academic curricula to provide music students with two years of basic technical training and two years of workshop experience and internship in the various arenas of musical activity. He would bring in successful commercial instrumentalists, arrangers and composers to lecture on how to break all the rules in the book of orchestration."

Laugh Lines

(Following are some TV humor lines from shows of the past week.)

DINAH SHORE SHOW (NBC)

Dean Martin (guest star): "My name is Dr. Rooks, neuro-surgeon. Neuro, meaning nervous. I'm a nervous surgeon. This is the 10th patient I'm going to lose. I don't mind losing them because they're sick anyway. But what bugs me—I don't get paid by any of the losers."

MR. ED (CBS)

Wilbur (setting table): "Think we ought to have place cards?"

Carol: "Place cards?"

Wilbur: "Honey, these people are society."

Carol: "We don't need place cards. I know you and you know him and whoever is left over must be her."

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES (NBC)

Bob Barker, host of the daily show, included the following questions—plus answers—for program contestants:

Q: "Why do husbands consider wives the most biased of all people?"

A: "Because they keep saying, 'Bias this and bias that.'"

Q: "What kind of girl is easily swayed?"

A: "A hula dancer."

Pan and Fan Mail

With a work day ahead of us it's very difficult to get up that next morning after spending these fascinating hours on "Open End." Don't know of any program that has stirred such interest or faithful viewers.

Mrs. Michael Salzman,
Long Beach

You can go to bed early tonight, Mrs. Salzman. "Open End" has been closed down by a three-hour movie, "The Great Ziegfeld," which starts at 8 p.m. on channel 11.

I am sick and thoroughly disgusted with westerns, hillbillies, murders and black-mail.

Mrs. I. E. Bailey, Long Beach

More and more viewers are suffering from the same illness, Mrs. Bailey, and saying so. Is there a doctor in the house?

I wish to beg for more and more concerts. Good music is the most pleasant help our children can have in developing much needed taste and discrimination on TV.

Dean P. Fortson, Long Beach

Your begging, Dean, has brought results. CBS-TV, starting at a yet unspecified date next month, will monthly present a "Young People's Concert" at a time when the entire family will be able to view it.

* * * *

Since you have frequently published small items about local actors who appear on the popular TV shows, you may find the following information of public interest:

A young Long Beach building contractor and hopeful actor, Pat Waddick, is to appear on "77 Sunset Strip" on Nov. 17. He portrays a sheep station foreman in the "out back" in a Roger Smith script, "The Down Under Caper." Pat is a natural for the part as he is New Zealand born and spent most of his life in Australia, boxing in the ring, racing cars and following his trade as contractor.

This is his initial stint for TV and, we hope, not his last.

script has been written with Pat in mind. In fact, the name given the lead (played by Michael Pate) is Reggie Waddick.

Pat also has the lead in a play, "White Sheep of the Family," to be given in December by the Horseshoe Theater at the Long Beach campus of City College.

Mrs. George Thotos,
Long Beach

And that, Mrs. Thotos, is what I call real fan mail. Hope Pat's out back, down under initial TV caper puts him up yonder on future casting lists.

Los Angeles Health Association Brings Out New Medical Care Plan For Senior Citizens To Age 99

Covers You AT ONCE
Regardless of Present Health!
Provides Medical - Surgical - Hospital Care

L. A. H. A.

*Membership Dues Only

$5.50 PER MONTH

The Los Angeles Health Association is making available NOW, its New MEDICAL Care Plan as the best possible solution to the frequent MEDICAL CARE problems of older people — and to UNINSURABLE people of all ages.

The L.A.H.A. Plan provides IMMEDIATE MEDICAL BENEFITS . . . AT HOME . . . AT THE DOCTOR'S OFFICE . . . AT THE HOSPITAL. Many so-called "health plans" only offer benefits while hospitalized, but the fact is that MOST ILLNESSES DO NOT REQUIRE HOSPITAL CARE. Older folks and those suffering from a chronic condition but still able to "get around," are more in NEED OF MEDICAL CARE than any other type of benefits.

Almost EVERY DISEASE KNOWN TO MEDICAL SCIENCE is covered — IMMEDIATELY — NO WAITING PERIODS — NO RED TAPE — NO FORMS TO FILL OUT — NO CLAIMS TO FILE. Imagine, just $1 for routine Office Visits!

FREE CHOICE of personal physician, surgeon and specialist from among the many L.A.H.A. affiliated groups throughout Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

This NEW PLAN is VITAL to ALL who have too little MEDICAL insurance or none at all due to Age, Health or Employment. Additional Family Members may be enrolled for only $1 per month extra. NO EXTRA CHARGE made for over 3 Family Members. *Reg. fee added first year only.

There's suspense-packed action, and a clever twist ending, at 8 p.m. on channel 13.

CBS REPORTS — "In Case of War," first of a 2-part series on war and disarmament, deals with the chances and problems of surviving a nuclear attack, and considers U. S. leadership during the current crisis. Radiation effects and fallout shelters are discussed by scientists and government officials as a hypothetical 20-megaton bomb falls on Columbus Circle in New York. It's at 10 p.m. on channel 2, with Howard K. Smith reporting.

Now a Decongestant Suppository for PILES

Stops Rectal Pain and Itch As No Ointment Can

At last science has found an amazing decongestant suppository that unblocks internal & external congested pile veins as it speeds healing of swollen & inflamed tissue. This wonder-working preparation, called HEMEX, relieves agonizing pain and itch even in the most stubborn cases. And, unlike ointments that ooze out, HEMEX Suppositories disintegrate slowly so that their proven medications work hours longer to put painful nerve endings to sleep while gently reducing and contracting swollen hemorrhoids. Don't suffer another minute. Start today to walk, sit and eliminate in comfort. Get HEMEX at all drug stores.

I knew something was on his mind. He had a strange look in his eyes...

After the show we had coffee and hamburgers. He seemed terribly nervous...

He walked me home the long way. For 20 minutes all he did was hem and haw...

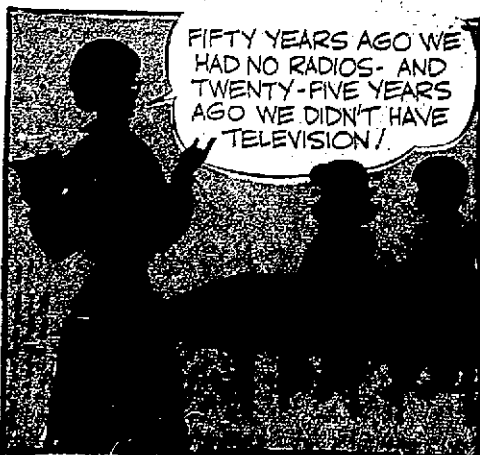

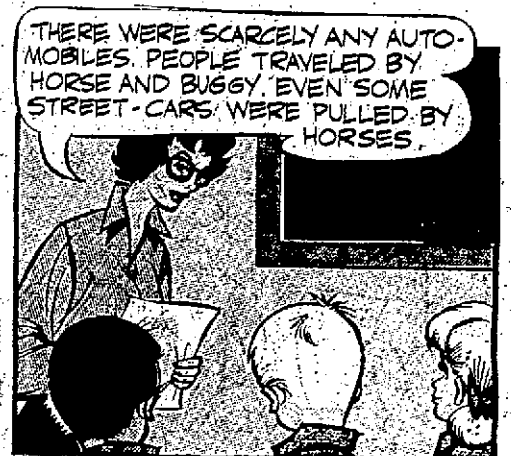

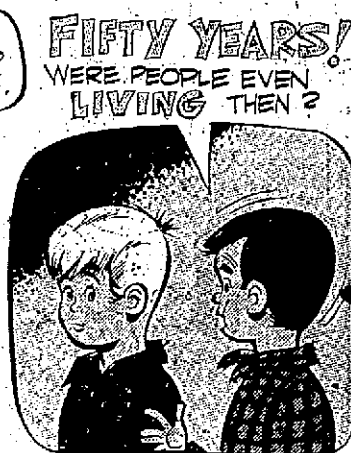

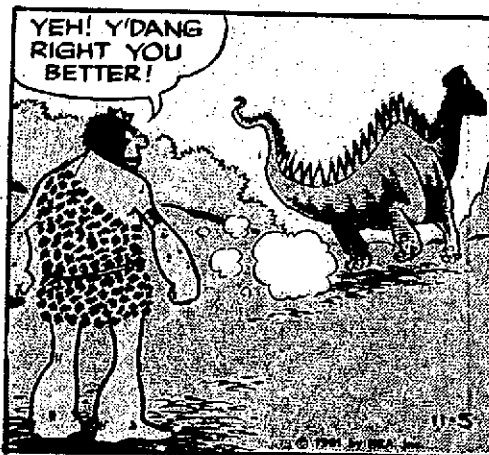

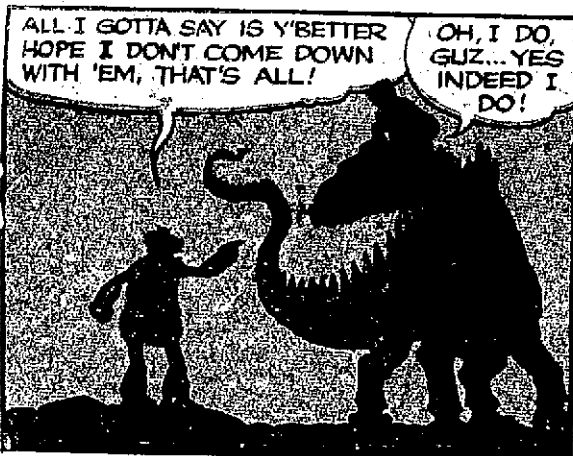

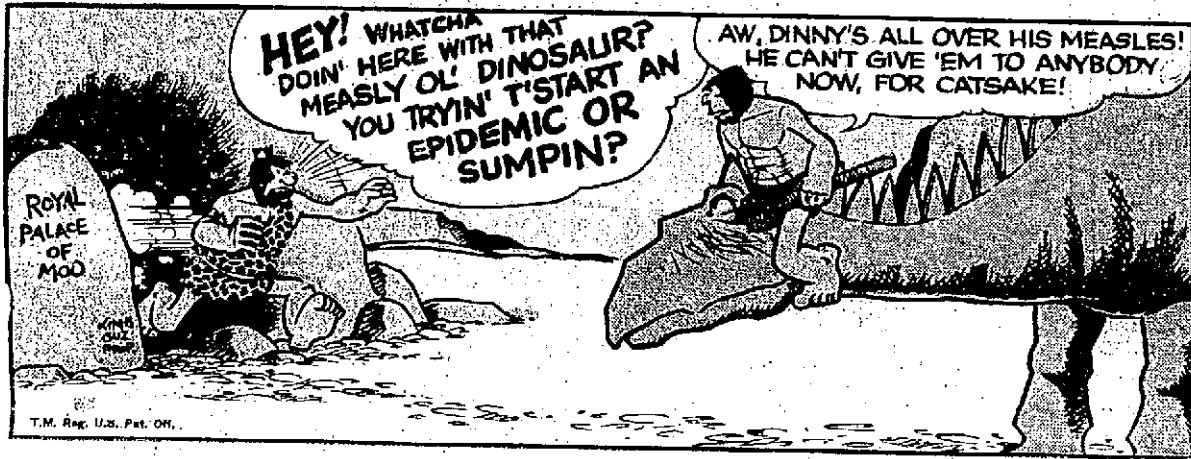

Then suddenly he blurted out that he loved me and wanted me to marry him!

Do you know that accidents are more dangerous than diseases in the age group from 1 to 24 years?
It's not hard to figure out why! Every day youngsters do many things which are dangerous...with never a thought to the possible consequences.

Running out from between parked cars, falling from bikes, playing hazardous games, scraping knees, climbing over fences...all this is part of an average day to an active boy or girl.

Youngsters get hurt twice as often as their parents. That's why more and more parents are taking out this Insurance for each one of their children.

In these days when it costs so much to be laid-up by an accident, you cannot afford to let your children be without this protection.

HERE'S HOW TO GET A POLICY

FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY—Fill out and mail the simple application below. Send no money. After you receive your policy, pay 50¢ premium at the same time you pay for the paper.

U.S. 'Bombs' Russia With Truth on K-Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Voice of America will aim a Sunday punch at the Soviet Union today in an unparalleled effort to tell Soviet citizens about their government's fallout-spreading nuclear tests.

Using the massed power of 52 radio transmitters, the Voice hopes to penetrate deep inside Russia with word of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's "monstrous nuclear blasting."

"Have you been told?" announcers speaking in eight languages will ask Khrushchev's people over and over.

"Have you been told about world-wide protests and denunciations; about the danger to future generations; about the United Nations appeal to not explode the 50-megaton superbomb?"

"You were not told—but every place in the world, the people knew."

The 29-page prepared script quotes leaders from all continents in opposition to atmospheric nuclear explosions.

It reminds the Soviet people what Khrushchev said on Jan. 14, 1960:

"The government which would be the first to begin nuclear weapon testing would take upon itself a heavy responsibility before the people."

It recalls the three-year-long Geneva test ban negotiations during which Russian and American diplomats agreed on 17 articles of a 22-article treaty. Then the Kremlin reneged on the agreements and later it broke the test moratorium, the Voice will say.

It will recall editorials from the London Daily Mail (Khrushchev "seeks to inflict death and deformity upon unborn generations"), Il Messaggero of Italy ("Contemptuous of the rights of the people") and Nur-Sulmat of Iran ("The explosion of the Soviet 50-megaton bomb is an international crime").

It also will quote warnings from Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric:

"The fact is that this nation has a nuclear retaliatory force of such lethal power that an enemy move which brought it into play would be an act of self-destruction on his part."

To cap the saturation program, the Voice will relay President Kennedy's comment that the Soviet government disregarded completely the welfare of mankind and his promise that fallout from U.S. aerial testing—if it becomes necessary—will be held to an absolute minimum.

Voice of America experts have estimated that transmitters generating some 4,331,000 watts—greatest concentration ever beamed at the Iron Curtain area—will tell the story over 80 frequencies.

These already have been publicized by the Voice by spot announcements during regular programming.

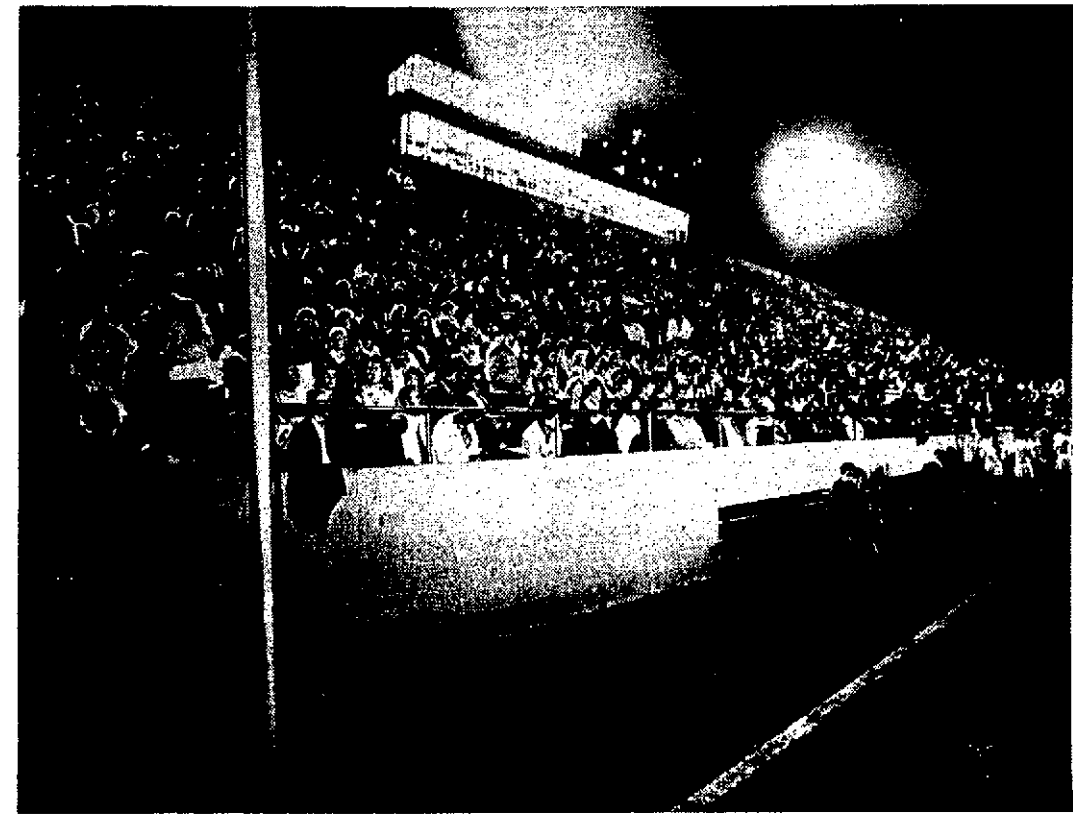

Voice of America radio monitors at strategic points around the Soviet empire have been alerted to report to Washington on success of the saturation effort, which must cope with as many as 2,000 Russian jamming transmitters.

Udall Climbs Mt. Fuji Through Fog in 6½ Hours

MT. FUJI, Japan, Sunday (AP)—Interior Secretary Stewart Udall climbed through clouds today to the 12,397-foot summit of Japan's famed Mt. Fuji. He made the climb—which he said he just had to make—without a mishap.

Two U.S. Marines accompanying Udall radioed that he spent 30 minutes on the snow-capped peak, then began his descent.

Udall, along with veteran Japanese climbers, scaled Mt. Fuji in six hours and 36 minutes, the Marines said.

Experienced climbers at base camps said veteran alpinists can make the climb in about five hours. They said the secretary's time could be considered good for a relatively inexperienced climber.

Adenauer Sure of Fourth Term

BONN (UPI)—The Christian Democratic party voted Saturday to join the Free Democrats in a coalition government. The move ensured the election of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to a fourth term.

The Christian Democrats decision, made during a 3½-hour meeting, ended a six-week government crisis in which the political fate of their aging leader hung in balance.

JFK Acts Soon on Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to make basic decisions this week on expanding U.S. military assistance to South Vietnam in an intensified effort to prevent Communist guerrilla forces from taking over the country.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Kennedy's military adviser who is just back from a first-hand study of the Southeast Asian cold war front, worked with State and Defense Department and White House officials Saturday to get a program of detailed recommendations on paper.

Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other administration policymakers will give them top priority attention early in the week.

WHILE TAYLOR and his aides worked in secret through the weekend, informed officials said Kennedy would very likely order an increase in the 685-man U.S. military advisory assistance group.

Taylor indicated on arrival Friday that he was against sending U.S. combat forces into South Viet Nam, saying the Vietnamese have plenty of manpower. This, however, would not rule out an expanded training program.

K Planning New Tests If U.S. Resumes

ROME (UPI)—An Italian cabinet minister said Saturday night that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told him Russia will continue nuclear test explosions if the United States resumes tests in the atmosphere.

Giuseppe Codacci Pisanelli, minister for relations with parliament, made the statement on his return from Moscow, where he met Khrushchev Friday.

The Italian cabinet minister was delegated by the Inter-parliamentary Union in Brussels last month to convey an appeal for negotiations on Berlin to the leaders of the big powers.

HE SAID Khrushchev also told him that the Soviet Union would continue its nuclear tests if the United States resumes atmospheric explosions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said Saturday the Russians are continuing their nuclear test explosions in the Arctic.

Another atmospheric shot was detonated early Saturday in the Novaya Zemlya area, scene of Monday's 50-megaton superbomb blast, the AES said.

The fallout cloud from Monday's mammoth explosion passed over the Great Lakes region and Eastern Canada Saturday en route toward the Atlantic Ocean.

Judge's Defense Hunts 'Lost' Files

Mrs. Wood, however, has notified Superior Court Judge James Whyte, who is presiding over the Johnston jury trial, that she is too ill to testify. A lawyer has presented to Judge Whyte a request that she be excused from the subpoena.

Judge Whyte has announced he will rule Monday on whether Mrs. Wood must appear in court as a defense witness and be questioned about Belli's allegations of missing files.

L.A.C. Says: Allegiance Pledge and Loyalty Oaths

The so-called liberals are enjoying the controversy over the legislation passed last year which no longer makes it mandatory that schools have the Pledge of Allegiance each day. The Governor has been asked to place the issue on the agenda for the coming meeting of the legislature. Many of its members have expressed the feeling that the legislature was careless in passing such a measure—and should have a chance to change it back to the former rules of the State Board of Education. The Governor who signed the bill into law now indicates he also thinks it was unwise and should be reconsidered.

Service clubs, and many of our largest organizations take pride in starting their meetings with the Pledge to the Flag. They resent any suggestions that such a ceremony should be discontinued. They also resent the sneering attacks on those who object to legislation that makes it permissive to discontinue the Pledge in our schools.

There have been many efforts to eliminate loyalty oaths for school and other government employees. The California Democratic Council at its Fresno meeting last year, adopted the policy that "All state and federal non-disloyalty oaths should be abolished, including the oath provisions of the National Defense Education Act, as being inconsistent with the principals of American freedom and useless as well."

We would agree such an oath is useless to one who is disloyal. Such a person would care little about an oath. Many of these people are loud in proclaiming themselves against communism. But they continually seek to break down the established American system and dedication to patriotic ceremonies. They may be opposed to communism—but it can hardly be said they support Americanism.

Freedom of speech and even the freedom to refuse to Pledge Allegiance or take a loyalty oath is the legal right of every person. But it should also be the right and duty of government to refuse employment to anyone who refuses to take such an oath. If it is important to them not to willingly take such an oath—it is equally important that they not be placed in public employment.

We have many controversies over social securities, labor-management, how property is to be taxed and many other issues. But there should be no controversy over the duty of every American to willingly stand up and be counted when it comes to demonstrating his, or her, attitude as concerns an oath to defend the Constitution and to Pledge Allegiance to the symbol of America—which is our flag.

An organization may not have included the Pledge in its ceremonies. It may not now change its procedure to do so. This is not important. But we feel it is important when an organization decides to drop the procedure. We do not advocate the loyalty oath for all workers. But we question those who seek to abolish it where it has been a part of procedure. In particular, we question those who would abolish it for schools and other government employees where it has long been established.

The Governor has said he was considering placing the issues before the legislature when it meets in January. It cannot be considered at that session unless he does so place it on the agenda. He has pressure from the "liberals," including his own Democratic clubs to refuse to do this. It is an issue that should again be placed before the assemblymen and senators who, like the governor, now know there are many of their constituents who believe the Pledge of Allegiance should continue to be a part of every school day—where we are convinced our children take pride in the patriotic ceremony.—L.A.C.

New Defi to Nixon by Knight

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who insists he's in the Republican gubernatorial primary fight to stay, Saturday renewed his challenge to Richard M. Nixon for television debates.

"After all, with all due respect, Mr. Nixon has had more experience debating on television than I have," Knight told a news conference.

Knight, who has been a TV commentator in Los Angeles since he lost a bid for the U.S. Senate in 1958, said he never has asked Nixon personally for a debate. He has suggested it publicly, and Nixon has declined publicly.

THE FORMER governor, here to address a convention of state employees, said Nixon's refusal is "denying the people of California the right to test Mr. Nixon's qualifications and knowledge of state government, compared with mine."

Knight scoffed at reports that he intends to withdraw from the primary and run in the general election as an independent candidate.

He said the best evidence that he is in the primary fight to stay is that he has leased an office on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles for a campaign headquarters, equipped it with electric typewriters and duplicating machines, employed a press secretary and two campaign managers, and contracted for television time and ads in other media.

If the legislature makes it retroactive to Jan. 1, the cost will be $43 million in the 1962-63 state budget.

Everyone Waits for Belli to Drop the 'Bomb'

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS
In Department 111 of Los Angeles superior court, everyone is wondering when the "bomb" will fall.

Most of the spectators are lawyers, who have taken time out from their office chores—and sometimes from trials of their own—to watch Melvin Mournon Belli conduct the defense of Downey Municipal

Judge Lynn W. Johnston. Belli is famous for dropping the "bomb."

His unexpected and often dramatic demonstrations in court have won millions of dollars for his clients. Like the time when he had his client strip to the waist to prove she had been disfigured in an "uplift" demonstration. As she disrobed, she wept. Later, Belli figured the tears were worth $30,000 apiece, based on the jury's damage award.

Belli was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, the son of Caesar Belli II, a Northern Californian who owned two banks.

OF HIS DAD, Belli says: "He was the last of the humane bankers. I think he spoke 17 languages, everything from Chinese to Pakistani, and he loaned out money in every one of them. He figured that the bank had money to put in circulation, not to hang on to it."

His father's banks eventually became part of the Bank of America, Belli recalls, and his dad turned down offers to become associated with that giant chain. Belli has named his youngest son Caesar III, after his late father.

WITH A background that might have enabled him to retire at 21, Belli—driven by a restless search for ways to help the "little man"—instead studied law at the University of California, and topped that with a year's study in Europe.

He returned to pass the bar "and I never passed another bar after that until I got hepatitis."

"Getting sick was one of the finest things that ever happened to me."

"After I went on the wagon, I found I could think better, work harder, work longer . . . I wonder what ever happened to fun in life."

ALMOST FROM the beginning, he became a specialist as attorney for the plaintiff in tort (civil wrong) cases.

Pretty soon he was attracting nationwide attention. He began winning verdicts in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The result was that the defendants, usually insurance companies, found that a whole new standard of evaluation of personal injury had been established under their noses.

One of his most recent victories was against a firm that allegedly made a faulty polio vaccine. He won a $675,000 verdict two years ago for his client, a little boy.

"IT WASN'T nearly enough—and besides, we haven't collected yet," he snorts.

Belli's usual fee is a third. The silver spoon Belli had as a starting point in life began turning to gold. But even this wasn't enough for this restless lawyer in modified cowboy boots ("others hurt my feet").

He began writing books. His newest, "Ready for the Defense," is the twelfth and more are in the works.

Belli has turned to lecturing. His favorite audience is composed of his old foemen—insurance people. These lectures have been so well attended, and so profitable, that Belli is building a combination office and auditorium on Sunset Boulevard.

THERE, HE SAYS, he will spend "about a third of my time" in the future, practicing law in Southern California and running schools in his auditorium.

The classes will be for lawyers, insurance men, engineers—any professions that feel the need of instruction in law.

Meanwhile, he has turned more attention to criminal law. His defense of Judge Johnston has not been the only cause of his current visit to Southern California. He has another client.

He went to the movies with this other client a few nights ago, to see a movie called "The Birth of a Gangster."

HIS CLIENT'S comment was:

"I can't see why dey don't tell the trut' about dese 'tings."

Next day his client was arrested and jailed again. His name: Mickey Cohen.

It was Belli who spearheaded the appeal case that got Cohen out of penitentiary temporarily.

Belli presents a striking figure in court. His thick head of hair is almost solid silver. His tailored suits, of imported British fabric, show his broad shoulders and a figure that tapers down in the most approved Vic Tanny style.

His trousers become tucked in his boots as he walks on two-inch cowboy heels.

HE'S RESTLESS, often springs from his seat with startling speed. But his voice often is so low and calm that spectators strain to hear.

Then, as his cross-examination progresses, his voice rises steadily, but so evenly that it's a while before spectators even realize he's almost shouting.

Life magazine labelled him "the king of torts" in explaining how he rewrote the basis of personal injury suit awards. He accepts the title, and the attention that goes with it, in the gracious manner of a well-conditioned movie star.

Even when he walks the hallways to the courtroom, whispers rise around him: "That's Belli!"

AND HE works . . . works . . . works. During recesses he studies law, depositions, statements, evidence. He doesn't leave the courtroom at lunch. A 30-cent sandwich in a cellophane bag often remains uneaten while he ponders the case.

In the Johnston trial, quite often the only man in the courtroom at noon recess is the king of torts.

For Belli, the law is a deadly serious thing, but his sense of humor is quick and sharp.

"Would counsel like to hear some static?"

"Counsel's heard enough static today," Belli replied, sticking his nose back into a law book.

Even the prosecution's witness, sitting in obvious dread of impending cross-examination, was "broken up."

WHEN, FINALLY, the long yer, "if he's going to read it day in court ends, the king of or write it."

torts is surrounded by a massive retinue of lawyers and just plain fans. While everyone else is debating which restaurant would be best, Belli is often likely to duck away from the mob.

"Gotta hunt me up some law," he says, dodging into the judge's library.

"I wonder," said one lawyer, "if he's going to read it day in court ends, the king of or write it."

not unduly endanger the Soviet homeland, Soviet leaders must seize it. Not to do so would constitute a serious deviation from dialectic materialism's so-called Objective Laws of History and the Marxist-Leninist formulas derived from them," he said.

"Possession of the neutron bomb by the Soviet Union alone clearly would present such an opportunity," Homer continued. "Only by also possessing the weapon can the United States maintain its relative strength and assure itself the swift, and deadly retaliatory capacity it must constantly possess in order to deter Kremlin button-pushers."

"BUT THE CASE for U. S. development of the neutron bomb and for carrying out the atmospheric testing necessary to do so does not rest only on a continued ability to deter Soviet surprise attack."

"Neutron-bomb capability, even if possessed by both sides, would tend to make war, if it ever came, less inhumane than if conducted with present weapons. Therefore, the terror effect of war threats constantly emanating from Communist leaders would diminish and achievement of their ends by bluff, bluster and blackmail would be made more difficult."

"This is because the neutron bomb maximizes the radiation effects of a nuclear explosion while minimizing its blast and heat effects. Its deadly rays may penetrate several feet of concrete, kill instantly and create no fall-out aftereffects. As a consequence, military forces would have to be removed from population centers where they now are concentrated for protection against the heat and blast effects of existing nuclear weapons and be dispersed for protection against the neutron weapon."

THE CONGRESSMAN said such dispersal of military forces to sparsely populated open areas of relative safety from penetrating neutron rays will tend to isolate civilian population from the battle-grounds of war and thus make the conduct of war less deadly in terms of human and physical destruction.

"Far from being the terror weapon many think the neutron bomb to be, in actuality it has an opposite connotation," he declared.

"It is a fundamental of military science that the capabilities of available military weapons systems determine the size of the battlefield and thus the extent and nature of war's destruction. When only swords and spears were available, civilians were largely spared the destructive effects of war because the issue could be resolved between soldiers on a battlefield."

"IN CONTRAST, the conventional high-explosive weapons available during World War II proved inadequate for resolving defeat or victory on the battlefield. In consequence, civilian populations were drawn into the arena of conflict. Wholesale destruction of life and urban industrial complexes resulted. "The same limitation exists on the employment of existing nuclear weapons stock-piles and total war involving entire populations could result. Almost an opposite result might be brought about by the availability of neutron weapons," he concluded.

Judge's Defense Hunts 'Missing' Court Files

missing file, but was blocked by an objection, on the grounds that his inquiry was not proper cross-examination.

As a result of that, Belli had Mrs. Craig placed "on call" as a defense witness.

A third employee of the court, Margaret De Carlo, a clerk, also has been subpoenaed by the defense. She appeared in court briefly last week, when LaVerne Murphy of Hawthorne, was testifying for the prosecution.

MRS. MURPHY was asked whether she could identify Mrs. De Carlo, and said she could not.

The defense contends, Belli said in his opening address to the jury, that Mrs. De Carlo was present when Mrs. Murphy visited Judge Johnston in the latter's chambers. Vida Dolphus, 26-year-old Anaheim redhead, is scheduled to resume the stand

Monday morning as the prosecution nears the end of its case against the judge.

SHE HAS testified that Judge Johnston "propositioned" her in a Long Beach traffic circle parking lot.

Miss Dolphus said she carried a tape recorder in her purse at the time. The recordings are scheduled to be offered in evidence Monday.

Suspect Captured Driving Stolen Bus

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A man who told police he "just wanted to go to Santa Monica to see some friends" was jailed Saturday on charges he stole a city bus.

Police said Richard McWhorter, 42, was arrested driving the MTA bus.

Report Closing of 'Missile Gap'

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit News said Saturday President Kennedy has closed the "missile gap"—politically as well as militarily—on the strength of new intelligence information about Soviet Russia.

The News' Washington bureau chief, J. F. Ter Horst, reported "Russia's superbomb blackmail made it necessary, in Mr. Kennedy's opinion to publicly affirm this country's superiority" in missile strength and total retaliatory might.

"The result has been to discard the gap theory as a military figment and also to cancel it out as a democratic political issue," The News said.

"The decision to do so publicly was reported to have been difficult for the administration.

"For one thing, there was a reluctance to let the Russians know that we had ferreted out—in a manner extremely secret—the size of their missile stockpile and its growth potential.

"But, it was said, the President overruled secrecy and political arguments because Soviet nuclear tests and pressures on Berlin and Southeast Asia had made it imperative that the U. S. declare in bold fashion that it was not being intimidated.

"The decision put Mr. Kennedy askew one of the prime Democratic issues of the 1960 campaign—that a budget-bound Republican administration had permitted the country to fall behind Russia.

"Now Mr. Kennedy's position on military strength is the same as was Gen. Eisenhower's last year. Administration intimates, however, insist that Mr. Kennedy is standing on known facts while Mr. Eisenhower was standing on faith."

Kennedy Liberal Elected in Texas went to Goode, 38, by a 2,727-D-Tex., endorsed Gonzalez.

Eisenhower campaigned last Monday for Goode, who also was endorsed by Tower, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Rep. Bob Wilson of California, Republican congressional campaign chairman.

GOODE, a lawyer, emphasized conservatism more than his Republican affiliation in his campaign.

The race was Goode's first attempt for public office. Gonzalez has been elected to the State Senate twice. He lost races for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1958 and the U.S. Senate last spring.

VOTING HOURS were 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. (EST). The one-county district has 140,000 potential voters among its 600,000 residents.

Johnson endorsed Gonzalez in a series of statements. Mrs. Johnson also spoke in his behalf before the Vice President flew in Thursday night for a round of public and television appearances.

The acting House majority leader, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, also spoke at a Gonzalez rally, and President Kennedy, Gov. Price Daniel and Sen. Ralph Yarborough,

U.S. Doubts Reds Lost 3 in Space Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration discounted Saturday a report that the Soviet Union had launched and lost a space ship with three men aboard last month.

The New York World-Telegram & Sun reported that government space experts are investigating information indicating the space ship was sent into orbit Oct. 14. It said ultra-high frequency radio signals were received in Tokyo and elsewhere.

The World-Telegram & Sun said scientists believe the spaceship left its orbit and carried its crew into outer space and certain death.

Russ Helping U.S. Explore in Antarctic

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The United States, with Russia cooperating, plans to attempt today its longest—and potentially most hazardous—research flight over this ice-capped continent.

A Navy P2V Neptune plane, designed originally for anti-submarine warfare, will set out on a 3,500-mile triangular flight over the least-known sector of Antarctica in a new effort to chart the continent's hidden features by studying its magnetic forces.

THE VENTURE, starting from the U.S. base, will include a flight of about 1,500 miles across eastern Antarctica to the main Soviet scientific base at Mirny on the Indian Ocean, a hop of nearly 450 miles to the Australian-American Wilkes Station and then the return to McMurdo.

E. German Army Trains With Russ

BERLIN (UPI)—Adm. Waldemar Verner, deputy East German defense minister, Saturday said the East German Army in coordination with the Soviets has begun a "new phase of development" to strengthen it and prepare for modern war.

Verner said this resulted from the "military-political conclusions" drawn from a speech by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev at the Communist Party Congress in Moscow.

EAST GERMAN Communist boss Walter Ulbricht returned Friday from the Moscow meeting with a demand for conclusion of a German peace treaty, the end of Western rights in Berlin and control of Western routes to the city.

East Berlin police continued building their barbed wire barricades higher and higher

—and on the roofs of buildings on the border line—but still a trickle of refugees made it to safety in West Berlin.

West Berlin police said seven eastern residents escaped between 7 a.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday. One was a 19-year-old girl who cut her way through barbed wire and then swam 200 yards through the icy waters of the Teltow Canal at 3 a.m.

A Communist railway policeman fled in civilian clothes, bringing his pistol with him.

4 Masked Men Take Furs Worth $40,000

MONTREAL (UPI)—Four masked gunmen robbed a furrier of $40,000 worth of mink, beaver, otter and Alaska seal furs Saturday and escaped in a truck after beating an employee with a revolver.

Big Nuclear Carrier Fast as Destroyer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy officials disclosed Saturday the huge nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise reached destroyer speed in her first sea trials.

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, said the 85,000-ton Enterprise, powered by eight atomic-reactor engines, "exceeded by far" the predictions of the ship's designers.

"The ship has gone faster than any other carrier; it's gone in excess of 40 miles an hour in trial conditions," the admiral added in response to questions by a newsmen.

Anderson said every indication is that the designers and builders of this first nuclear carrier had "hit the jackpot."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ask Special U.N. Meeting on Congo

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ethiopia, Nigeria and Sudan Saturday requested an emergency meeting of the Security Council this week to cope with the deepening Congo crisis which they blamed on colonialist mercenaries.

Acting Secretary General Thant conferred with the Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, council chairman for November, and they were expected to call the council into session early in the week.

The request for the meeting was supported by a personal cable from Emperor Haile Selassie to Assembly President Mongi Slim of Tunisia. Selassie said the Katanga forces have been reinforced by "certain colonialist powers" and that the central government had been forced to carry out new police actions.

Cadet Reappears

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (UPI)

—An 18-year-old cadet who disappeared from the United States Military Academy last Aug. 30, Saturday appeared at his parents' home here and then surrendered to FBI agents.

Cadet Paul M. Weaver had been the object of a nationwide search since his disappearance by the FBI and military police.

Weaver's mother said her son was well and apparently spent the time since he left West Point wandering around the country. She said he is to return to West Point to try to "straighten out things there." Mrs. Weaver said the youth was to report to Ft. Hayes in Columbus, Ohio, Saturday night and was to go from there to West Point, probably to be charged with being AWOL.

Russ A-Tests Evil, Nehru Says

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said Saturday the resumption of Soviet nuclear tests was an evil thing and that it "is of the utmost importance to put an end to all nuclear tests by formal treaty."

The explosion of the big Soviet bomb "shocked us," he told reporters at London Airport where he arrived from India en route to the United States and talks with President Kennedy. Nehru held a two-hour-long extended luncheon discussion with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Informed sources said much of the conversation concerned nuclear testing.

French Atomic Blast Due

PARIS (UPI)—France was reported Saturday to be ready to resume nuclear testing with an underground blast in the Sahara Desert scheduled this weekend. It would be the fifth in a series of French nuclear blasts.

British Shun K Berlin Bid

LONDON (UPI)—British government sources Saturday said there was "little new" in Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's hints that Russia might be willing to make some concessions for a Berlin settlement.

They dismissed suggestions that formal negotiations on Berlin and Germany are just around the corner and said there is still "a long way" to go to any such East-West conference.

Jury Convicts Officer Killer

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—A Superior Court jury Saturday afternoon found Thomas Arroyo Estrada guilty of first-degree murder for killing a Van Nuys policeman.

Estrada, a 30-year-old ex-convict, also was found guilty on two counts of attempted murder and two counts of robbery. He was convicted for the fatal shooting of officer Sidney Riegel, 44, during a gunbattle last May 5 in which a second officer was wounded.

Rusk Arrives in Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, highest ranking U.S. official to visit South Korea since the military coup last spring, Saturday assured Koreans of continued American economic and military support against the threat of communism.

GOP in Dixie to Hit at JFK Liberalism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican strategists plan to make full use of President Kennedy's liberal policies as a weapon during the 1962 congressional campaigns in the South.

Lee Potter, commander-in-chief of "Operation Dixie," said Saturday the Republicans intend to saddle every Democratic candidate in the South with the liberal policies of the President.

"Mr. Kennedy hasn't hurt our chances any," Potter said. "He has boosted our opportunities considerably." Potter said that for many years Republican candidates were stymied during the campaign because they could not find any issues against the conservative-voting Democratic congressmen.

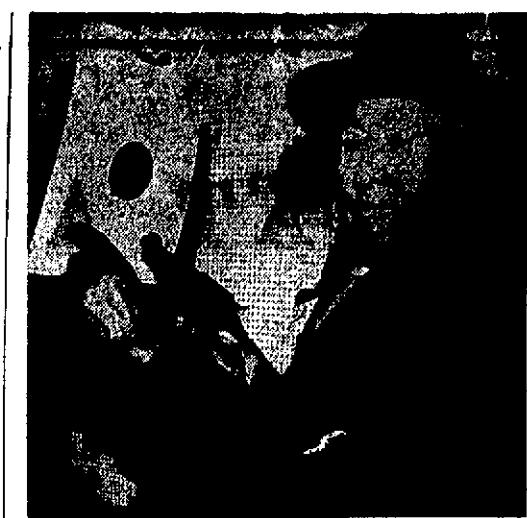

"Operation Dixie" encompasses the 11 states of the old Confederacy plus Kentucky. In the 1960 elections, the Republicans held on to their eight seats but made no gains.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman met briefly with Mayor Robert F. Wagner Saturday on a party-endorsement mission designed to kill off one of the strongest Republican bids for New York's City Hall since the 1930's.

The back-slapping political visit, which followed by two days a similar brief stop here by President Kennedy, was hailed by local Democrats as the one-two punch that could stop Republican

CRACK SHOT AT 103

James White Calf of the Blackfoot Indian Reservation at Browning, Mont., also known as Last Guns, showed Saturday he was no slouch when it comes to shooting a pistol. The 103-year-old Indian, on a visit to Seattle, hit the bullseye once and came mightily close three other times.—(AP)

Russ Ready Fete for Anniversary

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union celebrates the 44th anniversary of the Russian revolution Tuesday with the accent on hoped-for future peace and prosperity.

But Western observers in Moscow expect the Berlin crisis and current East-West tension may produce a strong military display.

Moscow for the last week has been blooming with Red flags and banners bearing slogans hailing the nation's march toward communism.

The main Moscow boulevard is strung with chains of bright lights and the traditional portraits of Lenin and Marx. Pictures of the newly elected ruling Communist party presidium decorate the walls of main buildings.

GOVERNMENT offices are working through this Sunday, after which the country officially will be on a three-day holiday until Nov. 9.

Many a hard-drinking Russian is expected to use it for a continual binge. Stores already are jammed with citizens laying in an ample supply of food and vodka.

Highlight of the celebrations will be a military and civilian parade through Red Square. It will be about five hours long and will start early Tuesday morning.

The military will be followed by half a million Soviet citizens riding on floats, marching with banners, balloons, and flowers past the reviewing stand.

As in recent years, the military emphasis is expected to be on giant cannons. But Western observers also have seen medium tanks rumbling through the square in mid-night rehearsals for the holiday parade.

NO TANKS have been shown either in the Nov. 7 or May Day parades for four years. Westerners have interpreted it as an effort to tone down the military emphasis of the celebrations.

It also has been speculated

Reds Back Cambodia

GRADE CARD

Best of Students Have a Life Goal

By HARRY KARNS
School Research Associates

Students who have a goal in life are the ones who do the best work in high school and college—and afterwards. No later than the sophomore year of high school, he should have a program of courses which will meet college requirements and lead toward a specific degree. Otherwise, he may encounter needless delays in his career as he makes up for courses he neglected to take.

How do you know whether your son or daughter is picking the right career?

TIME, OF COURSE, is the only sure test. But here are two preliminary questions you can ask which may prevent heartbreak and failure later on:

1. Is it a field in which he is truly interested?

2. Is it a field for which he is truly suited?

"There are so many alternatives for careers today that the child and the parent become understandable frustrated," remarks Meredith Wiley, instructor in personnel management and member of the committee on personnel research at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"PERHAPS THE best advice is that the parent come to know his child's genuine interests.

"I don't mean the interests expressed on a contrived test. Such tests can be quite helpful, but they can sometimes be quite unreliable—especially when the child answers questions in a way which he thinks will meet the approval of parents or teachers.

"The thing to really watch for is that subject which makes him sparkle and overflow with enthusiasm.

"WHEN THIS interest and the thing he does best come somewhere near one another, you are on the right track in helping him select a career.

"But a word of caution: You can only guide him. The final choice must be his own."

A true interest will survive a searching, realistic investigation. Sometimes the career looks interesting from afar, but, like a cactus, loses its charm on closer investigation.

ENCOURAGE THE student to find out about the hours of work, the pay as compared with that of other jobs, the routine, and disadvantages. He should discuss the job with somebody who has been working at it for a long time.

If, after this exploration, the youngster still likes the field, perhaps it is the right one for him. We say perhaps, for there is the second question:

Is the job one for which he is suited physically, mentally and emotionally?

IS YOUR SON is color blind, an extravert, and a mathematical genius, it is questionable whether he could be happy as a landscape painter.

Without pushing the child into anything, the task of school and home is to define his longings, his strengths and weaknesses and guide him into his proper orbit. It is a launching as delicate and important as any that takes place at Cape Canaveral.

(Want to help your child do good work in school? Mail questions and requests to Harry Karns, Room 403, Independent, Press-Telegram. Letters cannot be answered individually, but some will be answered in the "Grade Card" column.)

Crystal Lake Road Ribbon-Cutting Set

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ribbon-cutting ceremonies are scheduled Monday to mark the opening of Crystal Lake Road between San Gabriel Canyon Road and Angeles Crest Highway.

The State Division of Highways said the Azusa Chamber of Commerce and the Asso-

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Rather than wait in line at a service station, a Wichita man decided to winterize his car himself.

With the job barely under way, a wrench slipped, breaking a sparkplug and injuring his thumb.

He borrowed a neighbor's car to go buy a new sparkplug and scraped a fender in backing out.

The job finally completed, he took his newly winterized car out for a spin. The engine overheated, a hose broke and the new anti-freeze ran out. Reason: thermostat was installed backward.

Said the red-faced, do-it-yourselfer: "Please don't tell anybody it happened to me."

ciated Chambers of Commerce of San Gabriel Valley are sponsoring the ceremonies.

The road, a southern entrance to Angeles National Forest, cost approximately $4,250,000.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Heart Victims Steady on Job

By BEN ZINSER AND GEORGE X. TRIMBLE, M.D.
Industrial workers who have recovered from a heart attack have no greater absenteeism from the job than other workers, provided they are assigned to suitable work.

The finding is that of Dr. Neill K. Weaver, of the medical department at the Baton Rouge refinery of the Humble Oil Co.

In the American Heart Journal he describes a study of 100 employees (average age: 50) who resumed industrial work after a heart attack. These workers, part of a 7,500-man refinery work force, worked an average of 4.7 years after their initial heart attack.

The study shows that the heart-attack victims had 10 calendar days of disability per person each year, while the average for all workers in the plant was 9.9 days annually. Only 2.7 days of the 10 absent each year were due to cardiovascular disease.

THE NEW ANTI-STERILITY drug, identified only by a code number in recent news stories, is chloramphenicol, discloses Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt of the University of Georgia Medical School.

The drug, still experimental and not available to the public at present, induces ovulation. In trials it has enabled hitherto barren women to become pregnant.

Chloramphenicol is a chemical relative of TACE, a synthetic female hormone (estrogen). TACE is a trade name for chlorotrianisene.

The new drug is identified in a report in the medical journal Fertility and Sterility.

A NEW YORK dental products firm has developed a plastic resin—Densene Mucro-Tone—which makes false teeth undetectable from the real thing.

The new material, reported to the American Dental Association, is a translucent paste containing color pellets and tiny fibers. This mixture, say researchers, produces a chameleon quality that reflects the exact shading of the gums to the denture.

The substance, the researchers explain, "borrows color from the patient's own mouth."

CAN A PERSON'S job cause mental illness? Yes, says Dr. Robert L. Vosburg, a consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association. Often, however, the occupational factor merely is the triggering force.

A promotion may precipitate a guilt-ridden neurosis, he says. Decision-making may create great anxiety. And sharp business practices may be morally abhorrent to the individual and thus provide a source of continual conflict.

IF YOU HAVE seat belts in your car, you can get a reminder sticker (EASTEN SEAT BELT) for your dashboard by writing:

Automotive Safety Subcommittee, Colorado State Medical Society, Republic Bldg., Denver 2, Colo. Enclose 5 cents, coins or stamps. Also a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The subcommittee recommends that the sticker be applied to the dash in front of the right passenger space.

Rayburn Jokes; Seems Stronger

BONHAM, Tex. (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn, wasted by incurable cancer, managed to laugh Saturday at a joke his nurse told him.

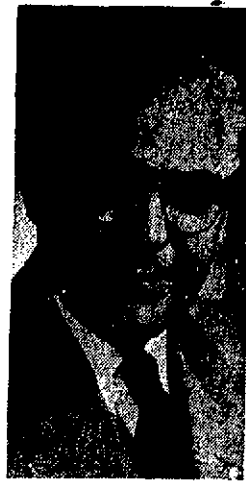

"He seemed in real good spirits," she said. Rayburn, 79, ate toast, jelly and a poached egg with his breakfast milk.

A morning bulletin from Dr. Joe Risser, who is attending Rayburn at the 15-room hospital in his home town, said: "Although the speaker slept little last night, he is alert and seems stronger."

Heater Kills Four on Hopi Reservation

KEAMS CANYON, Ariz. (UPI)—Three sisters and a brother of the Wesley Pone family were found dead Saturday in their stone and adobe house on the Hopi reservation.

The four apparently were asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes from a new unvented propane heater. The victims were identified as Clara Mae Poneoma, 29; Amelia, 14; Nancy, 10, and Albert, 8.

Officer Cited for Capture

Patrolman Terry C. Brown, a 10-year veteran on the Long Beach force, has received an official commendation for his participation in the capture of a murder suspect.

Chief William J. Mooney commended Brown for his "efficiency and alertness on Oct. 27 in connection with the arrest of Melvin Thomas Darling, a San Francisco robbery-murder suspect."

BROWN, 37, spotted the suspect's car parked at the Lafayette Hotel only minutes after the police broadcast describing the vehicle.

The officer, Chief Mooney said, immediately notified the detective division and participated in the capture of Darling, a two-time loser.

Brown was riding a three-wheel motorcycle at the time he spotted the car.

Mexico Train Wreck Kills 4, Injures 26

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Four persons were killed and 26 injured in the head-on collision of a passenger train and freight train near La Piedad, about 200 miles west of Mexico City, officials said Saturday.

The freight train was ahead of schedule when it collided with the passenger train from Guadalajara.

Groundbreaking Set for Library at Seal Beach

Ground will be broken Monday at 9:30 a.m. for Seal Beach's new branch of the Orange County Free Library System.

The structure will be built at the northeast corner of Eighth Street and Central Avenue, facing City Hall, and will contain 3,000 square feet of floor space. This is about four times as much space as the library now has in the City Hall.

James Praggastis is financing the construction for lease to the county.

Tremor in Atlantic

New Jersey, NYC Races in Spotlight

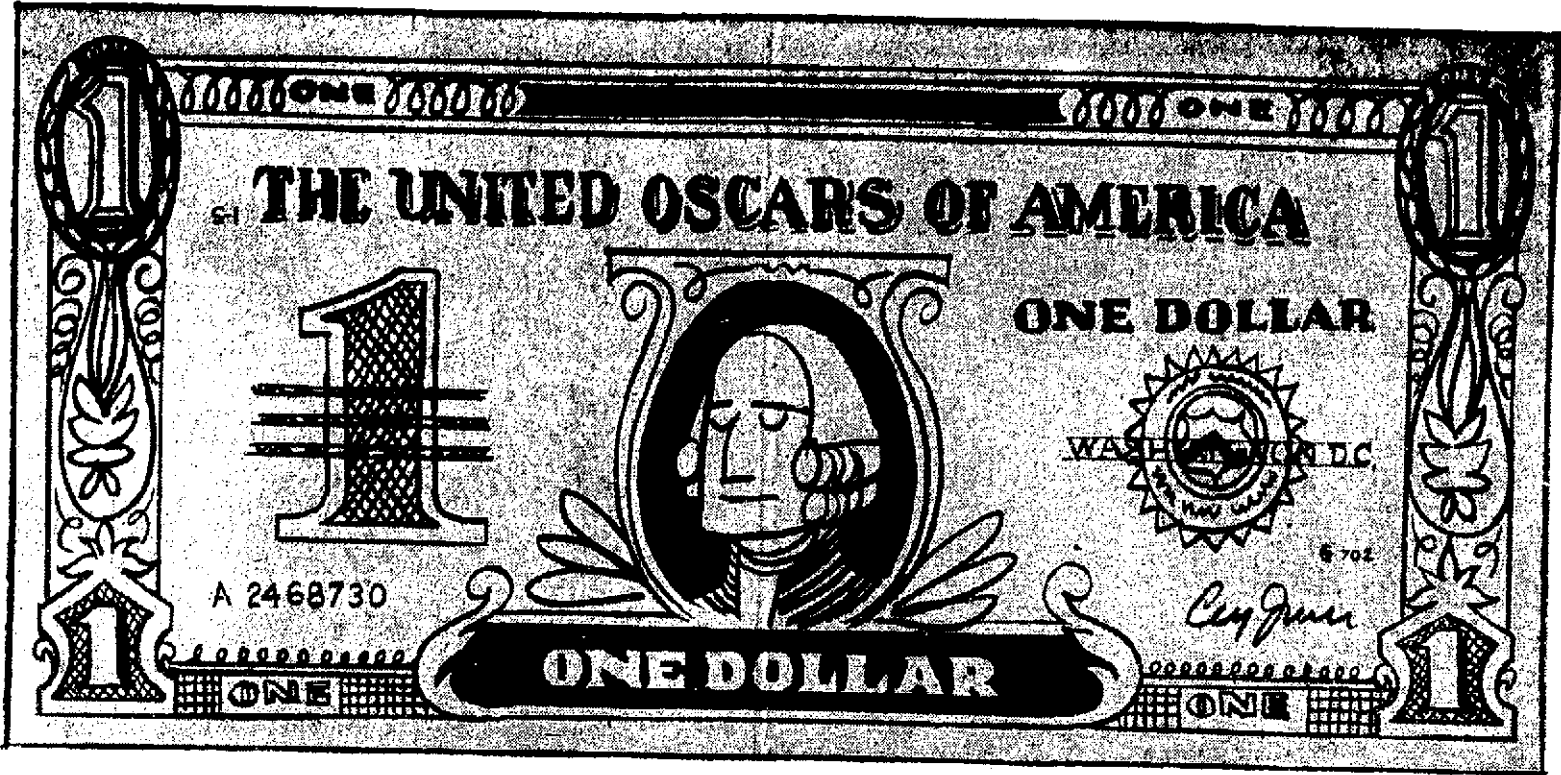

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)
—City Hall in New York and the State House in New Jersey are the biggest prizes at stake next Tuesday in off-year elections in which hundreds of state and city offices will be filled.
Virginia also will elect a governor and other officials in a state where the Democrats dominate. Kentucky will elect half of its state Senate and all of its state representatives in another state where the Democrats are dominant.
Many states will vote on constitutional amendments or other statewide propositions. Ohio and New Jersey will vote on proposals for keeping the government functioning in case of nuclear attack wipes out the state administration. Ohio also will vote on a reorganization of the state militia for home defense, including a plan to make women eligible for service.

IN NEW YORK, the odds-makers have made Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner the favorite to win re-election despite a lively challenge from Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Republican nominee.
In New Jersey, James P. Mitchell, the Republican candidate and secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration, is favored to win the governorship. His Democratic opponent is Richard J. Hughes, a former judge.
If these two major elections follow the book, the outcome will be less than a standoff from the Democratic viewpoint. A Democratic defeat in New Jersey would mean the loss of a politically important state in which Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner has been head man for the two four-year terms.

A MITCHELL victory would mean much to the liberal wing of the GOP, which hopes to set up a broad base in the Middle Atlantic states in elections this year and next. Mitchell is viewed as politically akin to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in neighboring New York, who is expected to be a major contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination if he wins re-election next year.
Although national issues are not directly involved in the Tuesday voting, former president Eisenhower campaigned in both New Jersey and New York City and talked national politics. President Kennedy responded by paying the same territory in behalf of the Democratic candidates last Thursday.
In Virginia, the Democratic candidate is Albert S. Harrison Jr., former state attorney general, who was nominated in July primary contest with the backing of the state Democratic organization led by Sen. Harry F. Byrd. His Republican opponent is H. Clyde Pearson.

PENNSYLVANIA will hold one statewide election, filling a 21-year term on the state supreme court. The judgeship now is held by Anne X. Alpert, a Democratic appointee by Gov. David L. Lawrence and first woman to sit on the court. She is running for the elective term against Republican Henry X. O'Brien, a Pittsburgh judge.
Pennsylvania also will vote on a constitutional amendment which would permit a governor to succeed himself.
A special election will be held in Michigan's first congressional district to fill the seat of former Democratic Rep. Thaddeus M. Machrowicz, whom Kennedy appointed to a federal judgeship.
Along with New York, major cities holding partisan municipal elections include Oakland, Calif., Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn., Louisville, Ky., Buffalo, N.Y., Cleveland, Youngstown and Akron, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa.
Cities holding nonpartisan elections include Cincinnati and Toledo, Ohio, Salt Lake City, Utah, and San Francisco.

Profit-Sharing Versus Wash-Up Time

DETROIT (AP) — The importance put on working conditions in contract bargaining within the auto industry was pointed up anew at a Kenosha, Wis., plant of American Motors Corp.

It appears that 3,624 production workers at Kenosha had rather keep a five-minute wash-up time than share in any future company profits.

That number voted at Kenosha to reject the first profit-sharing contract in the history of the auto industry, and the main complaint was against giving up the company-paid five minutes heretofore devoted to washing up.

But 6,738 of Kenosha Local 72 of the United Auto Workers union cast ballots for profit-sharing, and the new voting upset a previous 63-vote majority against ratification in a previous election in which only about a fourth of the local's 12,000 members took part.

Local-level issues, rather than paycheck dollars and cents, proved the knottiest throughout 1961 contract bargaining, which virtually was wound up with initialing of a new agreement between the UAW and Chrysler Corp. at Detroit.

Studebaker-Packard, fifth and smallest, now is the only automaker without a new three-year contract which the UAW estimates is worth more than 12 cents hourly in new take-home pay over each year.

The contracts retain built-in automatic wage annual increases of six cents hourly or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater, and a cost-of-living allowance. They also provide for full company payment of hospital-medical insurance, instead of a 50-50 split; higher pensions and life insurance; and 62 per cent of gross pay for any hours fewer than 40 in a short workweek.

Only at American Motors is profit-sharing included. There workers will get 10 per cent, after an amount equal to 10 per cent of the company's net worth is set aside for stockholders. Workers also will get a five per cent bonus in stock.

Shipping Man Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Elliot I. Liman, 60, of Hewlett, N.Y., passenger traffic manager for the Holland-American Steamship Line of New York, collapsed and died of a heart attack in front of the St. Francis Hotel here Saturday.

Guards Tiptoe for Royal Baby

LONDON (AP) — Sentries outside Clarence House did not stamp their nailed boots on the ground as usual when turning at the end of their beat Saturday. Instead they adopted a new soft shoe routine.

A War Office spokesman said that, although no official order had been issued, it was possible that someone from Princess Margaret's household had said "a quiet word to the Guard commander about keeping his chaps quiet" so as not to disturb the new baby.

Chemicals Sterilize Insects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government scientists have reported a new way of making insects unable to reproduce themselves without interfering with the bugs' love life.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said its experts have applied sexually sterilizing chemicals (chemosterilants) to a wide variety of insects including houseflies, mosquitos, boll weevils and screwworms.

"Sterilized females laid no eggs and the eggs laid by fertile females that mated with sterile males did not hatch," the department said in the current issue of Agricultural Research.

"Sexual vigor and mating behavior were not affected," it added.

If the technique can be applied on a wide scale it may eliminate many destructive and dangerous insect pests, the report said.

It said that chemical sterilization did not seem to reduce the competition among male bugs for female attention.

When radiation was used, the report said, it always reduced the sexual vigor of males and this meant that more male bugs were required to compete with normal males if the same effect on reproduction was desired.

Scientists Warn of Space Germ Threat

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—Human life on earth could be wiped out by strange unknown bacteria from other planets, unless effective decontamination methods are developed for space vehicles, Lockheed scientists said today.

A searching program covering study of biological decontamination techniques and construction of ground and in-flight sterilization units was proposed by a team from Lockheed Missiles & Space Co.

In a historical comparison, the scientists pointed out that an ordinarily mild children's disease like measles became a rampaging killer when introduced to the South Sea Islands by Europeans during the 18th century. The long-isolated Polynesians had no immunity to it. Whooping cough and mumps were almost as deadly on some Pacific islands.

THERE COULD be a 20th century space age parallel that could affect the whole human race when spacecraft return to earth after initial landings on Mars and Venus, perhaps within 10 years.

Lockheed scientists noted that not only living biological matter from other planets can carry bacteria, but also every extra-terrestrial specimen of rock, soil and atmosphere could be suspected of transmitting infectious matter harmful to man, animals and plants.

Equally dangerous could be introduction of unknown forms of plant life that might play havoc with the established order of life on earth.

Such plant material might be present on film and tape records and sampling instruments brought back from extra-terrestrial surfaces.

This material must be sterilized, handled aseptically and, if possible, decontaminated of living organisms, the scientists said.

STERILIZATION could take place on the alien planet or in flight back to earth, by means of remote control units, or on earth itself in a sealed off area.

The scientists also noted that sterilization is a two-way affair. Space vehicles launched from earth should be completely antiseptic to prevent contamination of other planets and the moon by earth bacteria.

"Without proper sterilization, it is very possible to destroy invaluable clues to the origin of the universe and of life itself, which may be within the lunar strata and under the atmospheres of strange planets," a Lockheed scientist said.

"The deposit of earth microorganisms on extra-terrestrial surfaces could render doubtful the subsequent space research results of an evolutionary and even theological character."

THE VAN NUYS section of Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. already has designed and built a prototype sterilizing unit for the lunar landing ranger space vehicle. The first ranger, using a Lockheed agenda second stage, was launched last August.

In the long-range study, scientists recommended that spacecraft be developed to facilitate sterilization of all components. Among the methods of sterilization and decontamination that should be investigated for either earth or space operations, the scientists suggested:

Ultrasonic vibrations, radiation, dry heat, chemical disinfectant, extreme cold, dehydration and mechanical destruction.

When manned space exploration is possible, the sterilization procedures will extend to space suit exteriors and the areas between the space vehicle cabin and the outer environment. Sterile procedures must be devised for astronauts reentering the space vehicle and maintaining a sterile airlock prior to retrieval operations on earth.

Duke of Windsor to Sell Ranch

CALGARY, Alta. (AP)—Col. Douglas Kennedy announced Saturday the Duke of Windsor plans to sell his 4,000-acre ranch near High River, Alta.

Col. Kennedy, ranch manager since 1958, did not name any purchaser or the price sought. Sales have been announced for all livestock on the ranch, which includes Hereford and Galloway cattle, Welsh ponies and about 800 pigs. The ranch has been the property of the Duke of Windsor 42 years. He took a personal interest in the operation of the ranch for many years.

In 1956 a group in Great Britain including the Duke of Windsor and Col. Kennedy formed the E. P. Ranching Co. to take over the operation.

2,000 Scientists Sought by NASA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration wants to hire 2,000 talented scientists and engineers at salaries ranging from $6,345 to $21,000 a year.

Administrator James E. Webb announced the start of a nationwide recruiting drive by teams of NASA scientists to find the new employees. The drive opens Monday at the Sheridan Hotel in Chicago.

Lions Grant Vern Hedden Life Membership in Club

Vern D. Hedden, who for 27 years has made and presented gavels to Lion's Club officials in this area, was honored at the 40th anniversary luncheon of the Downtown Lions Club in the Wilton Hotel.

Having previously presented Hedden with a huge 17-pound gavel and a miniature gold lapel gavel pin, the Downtown Club gave him a life membership and a bound book with letters of appreciation from most of the gavel recipients.

Those who received gavels include 128 Long Beach area club presidents, at least 12 district governors and an international president.

The life membership was only the second ever given by the Downtown Club. The first went to Bob Swanson, now deceased.

Hedden, a retired city civil engineer, joined the Downtown club in April, 1922, and is a past deputy district governor of the Lions. He and his wife, Nina, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Wesleyana Acquired by Duke U.

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—The Duke University library has acquired the "largest and best collection" of the writings of John and Charles Wesley in America and "one of the most outstanding in the world."

University officials Saturday said the Frank Baker collection of Wesleyana and British Methodism includes some 17,500 volumes, documents and manuscripts.

The 1,500 editions which make up the Wesleyana collection constitute about half of the 3,000 Wesley publications known to exist, university officials said.

JOHN WESLEY was the founder of Methodism and his brother Charles its early poet and hymn writer.

Some 300 of the editions have not been previously listed in published Wesley biographies and 50 appear to be unique in America, library officials added.

The addition of the Baker collection completes the picture at Duke for Dr. Baker, a former secretary of the Wesley Historical Society in England, who joined the faculty in September. He holds joint appointments as associate professor of religion in the University's Department of Religion.

The acquisition of the collection was announced by Dr. Benjamin E. Powel, university librarian, and Dean Robert E. Cushman of the Divinity School.

New Foreign Trade Look Urged by Business, U. S.

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The government and a big segment of business directed sharp attention to the vital problems of foreign trade last week.

More than 2,000 businessmen engaged in international commerce gathered in New York City for the National Foreign Trade convention.

They heard the Kennedy administration advocate a foreign economic policy of open competitive trading for the entire non-Communist world. And they voiced demands that this country act to eliminate foreign restrictions against its exporters.

MEANWHILE, on the domestic scene major interest was centered on the automobile industry, where the United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. teetered on the brink of a strike.

A walkout at Chrysler would be the third in the key industry in close succession. The UAW struck General Motors and Ford before reaching contract agreements.

The administration's proposal for a new international trade policy was outlined by George W. Ball, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, in a speech to the foreign trade convention.

He said the President should be given power to make "much broader and more ambitious bargains on behalf of United States industry." And, he added, there must be a basis for an open trading world extending beyond the European common market.

EARLIER, Christian A. Herter, a secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state for economic affairs in the Truman administration, had recommended a trade partnership with the common market and a departure from restrictions on international trade.

Overtime operations by General Motors and Ford, catching up after the strike shutdowns, kept auto production at a high level this week. Output was estimated at 152,000 passenger cars second this year only to last week's 159,136.

Production in October totaled 557,200 cars, a drop of 60,000 from October 1960, due to the two-week strike at Ford. The industry scheduled assembly of 680,000 cars for this month, highest in 21 months.

Steel output last week posted an increase after three weekly declines. The total of 2,057,000 tons was 0.7 per cent above the previous week.

THIS BROUGHT the total for the year to 78,721,000 tons, down 8.5 per cent from the comparable 1960 period.

October production showed little improvement over September and not much of an increase was expected for November. Industry executives expressed disappointment that orders from the automakers are increasing at such a slow rate.

A flood of corporate earnings reports gushed from directors' meetings. Profits exceeded those of the 1960 third quarter, showing the results of recovery from the recession. But results were spotty.

Among companies reporting were two of the country's biggest—Ford and U. S. Steel. Ford announced earnings of $79.8 million, highest since the firm became publicly owned in 1956, and well above the $51.4 million a year ago. U. S. Steel's profit inched downward to $51.7 million from $52.4 million in the 1960 third quarter.

BECAUSE of improvement in October, Baltimore, St. Louis, Seattle and Flint, Mich., were removed from the Labor Department's list of areas with substantial unemployment. They had been listed as having 6 per cent or more of their work forces jobless. Now their unemployment is rated at 3 to 6 per cent.

Other newly reported business indicators include: New orders received by manufacturers in September increased $110 million to $32.2 billion; manufacturers' sales held steady at $32.1 billion; manufacturers added $400 million to inventories, bringing them to $53.8 billion.

Consumers reduced their installment debt in September by $75 million, compared with an increase of $26 million in August.

Spending for new construction in October declined 0.3 per cent to $58.4 billion from the record September level.

Briefly around the business scene: Tax Foundation, Inc., reports state legislatures this year enacted more than 60 tax changes which are expected to increase collections by nearly $1 billion a year.

LBSC Looks Back Upon Humble Beginnings

By ROBERT WILCOX
(First of a Series)

Classes in living rooms. Offices in kitchens. Files in bathrooms. Labs in garages.

This was the picture of Long Beach State College in 1949 when the school set up operations in a rented apartment building at 5401 E. Anaheim St.

Professors fondly recall fresh-air faculty meetings under the shelter of a pepper tree.

Situated since 1954 on its city-donated 320-acre campus on a portion of the historic Bixby Ranch, the school today begins a week-long celebration of its second annual "College Days in Long Beach."

Marking the observance this year is the biggest building program in the college's history. More than $11 million worth of construction is under way on the campus at the present time, bringing the state's capital outlay there to $34 million.

Scheduled to be completed by Dec. 1 is a 20,800-square-foot addition to the administration building which will allow counseling, testing, personnel and student services offices to move from other parts of the campus to the building.

This in turn, says Dr. Francis J. Flynn, executive dean for development, will provide more space for business, admissions and records offices which now handle a larger volume of work due to surging enrollment.

The project is one of five under construction. The others are the $5.3 million science building, the $2.5 million engineering unit, the $2 million fine arts building and the $1 million liberal arts building.

The most expensive building, including equipment, on campus, the science building, will be completed by Christmas and ready for use in the second semester of this school year. It will contain 112,000 square feet.

Built in a U shape around a courtyard to be used for outdoor laboratories, the engineering building will house 10 labs and offices for the college's fast-growing engineering division, now in its fifth year. Move-in date for the 56,000-square-foot complex is next Feb. 1.

Studies and ceramic labs, as well as additional space for art, are included in the 73,000-square-foot fine arts building, which also will be occupied next February.

The final building to be finished will be the liberal arts building—fifth of the type to be constructed on the campus. The 40,000-square-foot structure, offering classrooms, teaching labs and special facilities for audio-visual services, will be ready by next September.

Completed since the last "College Days" event were a $200,000 utilities expansion program for the new buildings and 1,900 additional parking spaces paid for by parking fees on the "commuter campus."

In the future, as outlined on the college's master plan, are a classroom-locker room addition to the physical education facilities and a permanent building for the student health service.

Long-range plans now call for several additional classroom and faculty-office buildings, another engineering complex, another industrial arts building, an addition to the home economics building, an auditorium, a student activities building, a number of additional dormitories and a dormitory dining hall.

These facilities are aimed at handling an enrollment which is expected to double from its present 11,600 in the next decade, possibly making Long Beach the largest of California's 16 state colleges.

The enrollment climb is expected to be such that even a record construction year like 1961-62 will be only a temporary help.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, college president, estimates: "This should take care of our needs only for about two years."

That would leave the college in cramped quarters again some time before the "College Days" of 1964.

But it's still been a long trip from the apartment kitchens of 1949.

AGAINST BACKGROUND of scaffolding adorning Long Beach State College's forthcoming liberal arts building, pretty freshman Carol Martin, 18, of Hollywood, walks to class. The building is one of five under construction there.

State To Hold Freeway Hearing

Engineers to Explain 3 Routes

By BOB HOUSER

Best location for a two-mile segment of freeway in southeast Long Beach will be the subject of a State Division of

Highways public meeting at 10 a.m., Nov. 22 in Wilson High School Auditorium.

Engineers of District VII of the division will explain recent studies on each of three alternatives proposed. Then they will hear views of local governmental officials, civic groups and individuals.

Facts developed at the meeting, the full transcript, will be considered by the state highway engineer before he makes his recommendations to the California Highway Commission. The commission has authority for final determination of the route.

THE THREE routes are depicted on an accompanying map. They also are on display in a large aerial photograph in the City Hall lobby. They will be referred to in the public meeting as the Red Route (north), the Blue Route (middle) and the Orange Route (south).

Although a actual freeway construction may be 10 years away, District VII engineers stress the importance of early route designation.

They stress that lower right of way cost is a chief benefit of early determination. They point out also that subdivision developers are standing by, ready to build both residences and commercial establishments once the route is set.

ONLY THE Blue and Orange Routes appear to be feasible. Engineers say the northerly Red Route is not being seriously considered because of undesirable engineering factors.

The Red Route, as do both others, has its east end at Seventh Street and the Los Cerritos Channel. It runs west slightly south of Seventh, bends northwest along the north side of Pacific Coast Highway, then bends west to Ximeno Avenue just south of 15th Street.

Blue Route is the more costly of the two routes under serious consideration. It dips south from Seventh Street to cross PCH just south of Sixth Street and proceeds west to Quincy Avenue. This segment is two miles long. Its estimated cost is $10 million.

Reveals Outlook of VA Hospitals

By BEN ZINSER

Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital already is typical of the new look slated for the VA's entire hospital system.

7 Arrested on Football Bet Charge

Sheriff's deputies Saturday seized 69,000 partially printed football betting cards in smashing an alleged $200,000-a-week betting ring in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

Seven persons, including a Hawthorne man labeled as the gang's head, were arrested in a raid on a Los Angeles print shop.

Detective Capt. Walter R. Howell said at Los Angeles the ring supplied all game betting cards in Southern California and was broken up after a nine-weeks' investigation.

Booked on suspicion of conspiring to commit bookmaking were Robert Rael, 31, of 5143 W. 130th St., Hawthorne, described as head of the ring; John Martin, 30, of the ring; Mrs. Beverly Hurst, 33, of 33733 Lucille Ave., Torrance; Mrs. Larayne Elridge, 43, of Los Angeles; Russell D. Calvin, 30, of National City; Marilyn M. Hall, 31, of Huntington Park, and Herbert W. Fites, 36, of Inglewood.

ALTHOUGH THE VA's biggest waiting list for admissions is that of the mentally ill, the trend is away from separate neuropsychiatric facilities, Dr. Glotfelty said.

The VA's aim is to concentrate many specialized medical skills on the single patient, and the best way to achieve this the VA feels, is in a general hospital.

Currently the VA has 41 neuropsychiatric hospitals, nine TB hospitals and 120 general medicine and surgery hospitals. However, only 70 of the medical-surgical hospitals have beds for mental patients and many have no facilities to care for tuberculous patients.

BUT THE LONG BEACH VA Hospital, Dr. Glotfelty notes, already fulfills the new concept. Although a general medical-surgical hospital, the Long Beach hospital also has facilities to care for TB and psychiatric patients.

Dr. Glotfelty, 56, will manage the Long Beach hospital during the absence of the former director, Dr. Michael L. Matte, called to active duty in the Air Force.

Dr. Glotfelty has been affiliated with the VA since 1937. He has been director of the VA's hospitals in Lebanon, Pa., and Durham, N. C., and area chief of psychiatry and neurology with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

He also has served in VA hospitals in St. Cloud, Minn., and Sheridan, Wyo.

L.B. State Grows in Size, Influence for Enriching Life

ONLY 12 YEARS OLD, Long Beach State College is passing rapidly from the stage of awkward youth to growing maturity.

If you haven't visited the campus lately, this week is a fine time to see for yourself how the college is blossoming physically, a reflection as well of its intellectual and cultural growth.

Beginning today, attention is focused on all the schools in recognition of American Education Week, but especially so on the big school along East Seventh Street. There the second annual College Days in Long Beach add extra zest to the occasion.

Along with other events, open house will be observed on campus from 2 to 5 p. m. next Saturday, Homecoming Day. Not only the old grads (most of them still in their 20's or 30's) but everyone in the community may well feel pride in the flourishing condition of the college and its bright prospects.

THE PHYSICAL growth is evident in the current construction of five buildings encompassing 300,000 square feet of floor area and valued at $11 million—the biggest construction program in LBSC's short history.

Statistics reeled off by Dr. Carl McIntosh, president, tell the same story of steady expansion. From a makeshift beginning in a rented apartment building, with an initial annual budget of $135,840, the college has advanced to a $34 million complex housing the activities of 11,300 students and a faculty of 432 full-time and 130 part-time teachers. The master plan contemplates a $60 million institution with an enrollment of 25,000 by 1975.

CASUAL VISITORS won't see it, but Long Beach State's contributions to culture and knowledge have been substantial for so young a school. Four issues of the Weekly Bulletin, covering a typical month, reported such faculty achievements as the publication of two books, two pamphlets, 11 articles and two musical compositions. Recognition has come in the form of 22 current research grants totaling $317,488, primarily in natural science studies. Faculty members hold degrees from more than 200 colleges and universities in 42 states and 14 foreign countries.

The main impression of the college's vitality, however, comes from the students. On any school day they throng every section of the campus in their pursuit of careers, a variety of extra-curricular activities and the more intangible benefits of learning. Median age of freshmen is 18, although the range is from 15 to 65. Observing them in purposeful action, even the skeptic feels reassured about the younger generation.

IN THE PROCESS of its development, of building its facilities and awarding 10,055 degrees, LBSC has become a major influence in the community, both economic and educational. Citizens of Long Beach have a right to special satisfaction because their city contributed the 320-acre site. But the homecoming will show that the college's impact has reached beyond local limits through its alumni who have gone out in all directions to richer and more productive lives.

Every Bomb Spawns One More Horrible

EDITOR:

Some politicians are proposing the development of the neutron bomb, designed to kill only the people but not damage property. Well!

The tragedy of the Soviet bomb tests and all others is that a decade of an arms race has not yet convinced us that the build-up of force has led us to the brink of hell, not to peace.

To continue the arms race knowing every bomb and missile will be matched by another more horrible is insanity. Our children live with the constant voice of doom.

The impending holocaust can be avoided if in our own self-interest we take the lead in decreasing tensions. Difficult it may be, the United Nations and the conference table offer more hope and saner solutions than the neutron bomb.

No Hope for Gains From Negotiations

EDITOR:

There will always be a crisis. Write off any advantage at West Berlin over the Reds. Already the West is retreating.

The West should never have allowed that fence to stand in the first place. On the other hand, negotiations usually end in concessions—political blackmail like Cuba.

Now there's a lot of talk about removing Stalin's body from the tomb. Just what difference does it make?

'Agrarian Reform' Producing Hunger, Crime in Red China

WASHINGTON—The story of starvation inside China after 12 years of "agrarian reform" is far more grim than the outside world has been told.

Now on top of their terrible hunger, the Chinese face a scourge from the skies dumped upon them, ironically, by their Soviet comrades. Of all the people lying in the path of the radioactive winds out of Russia, the hunger-weakened Chinese have the lowest resistance.

Bad harvests, peasant apathy and a mushrooming population have produced an acute food crisis. Apart from the pampered soldiers and bureaucrats, the masses are weak and listless from malnutrition.

The diseases of starvation, such as dropsy and beriberi, have reached epidemic proportions in some areas. This should make the people peculiarly susceptible to the radioactive poison from the Soviet testing grounds.

INTELLIGENCE reports out of China are full of gripping human drama, sad and sordid stories, which have never reached the public. This column has now had access to the reports which should be made known to the world.

The Communists once boasted that they had rid China of the shame of beggars, corruption and theft. Now the beggars are back, and crime is the worst in China's history. Goaded by hunger, men, women and children have taken to raiding restaurants and stealing from market stalls.

The traffic in forged ration coupons has become so flagrant that the government is even confiscating children's printing blocks. At night, city dwellers roam the countryside looking for some unguarded vegetable patch. To protect the fruits of their toil, peasants are forced to mount pitchfork patrols.

HERE ARE a few typical glimpses of life in Red China, taken from official

intelligence reports:

In Foochow, a mother drowned herself and her three children rather than suffer the slow death of starvation.

In Swatow, a family of 10, accused of stealing rice, committed mass suicide. A Chinese visitor from Hong Kong brought food parcels to his relatives in Swatow. The word got around. That night 10 men armed with knives and pistols broke into the house to steal the precious food.

A visitor to the village of Hsin Ho Hsiang was surrounded by a crowd begging for food. Communist officials tried to disperse the mob, but it turned on them with shouts of "You give us food, and then we will go away." Finally the visitor had to pay off the demonstrators in cash.

An elderly man snatched some boiled eggs from a basket carried to the Swatow market by a child. Several onlookers gave chase, but the thief crammed the eggs into his mouth as he ran.

Peasants in the Chang Ahai Pien Hsiang commune are paid off in working points which can be used to buy meals in the mess hall. It takes all they earn in a month for a meager diet of rice, plus one bowl of salt-water soup each day. No side dishes.

WHAT IS the Red regime

doing to counteract the growing hostility of a once docile people, a people renowned for their stoic acceptance of hardship?

The Communists have reduced work "norms" for those suffering from malnutrition and cut out evening political activities to conserve energy. In other words, their solution is to lower the people's caloric needs rather than increase the rations.

By pressure and propaganda, the Reds are encouraging overseas Chinese to send food parcels to their relatives in China; then turning round and taxing the parcels heavily.

The government has also bought 5 million tons of grain from Canada, Australia and France. For the vast Chinese appetite, however, this is a mere morsel. The outlook has improved only slightly with the fall harvest. The soaring population has condemned the Chinese people to years of substandard living and reduced energy.

Nowhere in the world are the people more gaunt and conditions more ghastly.

Meanwhile, American farmers are bringing in another abundant harvest, which the politicians seem to regard more as a bane than a blessing. They grumble about food surpluses and the cost of storing them.

CASPAR W. WEINBERGER

Author Advocates Primary Endorsing

LAST WEEK the University of California Public Bureau Administration, which ordinarily does not produce best sellers, published a study entitled "Preprimary Endorsements in California Politics."

Professor Leonard Rowe, the author, had been working on this pamphlet for several months, but it appeared, by coincidence, at a time when more public attention than ever has been focused on this delicate subject. The problem, stated most simply, is whether or not official and unofficial party organizations should "endorse" or otherwise indicate a preference among competing candidates of their party for various nominations.

Rowe, a scholar with no personal or political axes to grind, concluded that preprimary endorsements "have had a healthy effect on California politics."

ROWE pointed out that the direct primary method of selecting party candidates was brought in to replace state conventions about which had gathered substantial charges of corruption.

The theory was that if the people made the nominations themselves, rather than delegates to party conventions, "party bossism" would vanish.

But in practice, largely because of the enormous cost of elections, it has worked out that many potentially good candidates did not enter the primary because they were unable to finance a campaign.

Prof. Rowe says that if the parties play a more positive and responsible role, deliberately recruiting, developing and supporting the best candidates, the parties would find that more persons of outstanding ability would be encouraged to run for office.

What Makes the Front Rank Man Fall Down? Just Bugles

CABBY RENTS supplied the tent which canopied the overflow diners on the patio of the Lakewood Country Club Friday night.

From the patio seats, Steelworkers President Dave McDonald was about a nine-iron and a dog-leg to the right. So they used closed circuit television to pipe him in to all corners.

They served 980 dinners. The manager said 70 more stood but didn't eat. Total 1,050. That was about 200 too many people for comfort or safety. Waitresses squeezed through the picket line of table hoppers like strikebreakers.

Famous songbird Jo Stafford and baritone swashbuckler John Carroll sat at our table just four feet from the air conditioning—two doors to November's icy blast. Board of Equalization member Richard Nevins asked for help to roll away the small boulders holding the doors open. Miss Stafford pulled her fur snuggler and blinked her eyes against the thumping boom-clatch of the drum on the band's platform at her shoulder.

Gesturing Carroll sang from the platform. In bravura posture on a big note, he stepped on the right toe of the accordionist. When it was Miss Stafford's turn, her arm-spread gesture made it appear she was holding a finger under the accordionist's nose to forestall a sneeze.

A UNIFORMED Lake Elsinore bugle corps lost cadence in the jampack and had to use a grunting, swivel-hipped route step in line up for their bugle blast. The bells of their gleaming horns played against the front rank diners. The blow ruffled the short hair on diners' necks. Hands held over their ears only partially muffled the sound.

The compelling thought which came to mind was: if this is what shelter living will be like, I'll take the fallout.

But this testimonial to Governor Brown and McDonald must be written as a big success, with all the pageantry of a political convention.

You were bound to talk to a lot of labor people at a bash like this. And you're bound to pay some heed when you consider their political strength.

RANDOM ITEMS: A pitch was being made to McDonald by some present to use his influence on behalf of Wayne (Sharkey) Hull for the Long Beach postmaster appointment. And further representations for Hull were to be made in Sacramento and Washington, D. C.

Hull, secretary of the Building Trades Council here, led in county committee balloting for the recommendation for PM all the way until the last two ballots of about eight. The seventh was a tie and the eighth went 8-4 in favor of Councilman Virgil Sponberg.

State Central Committee member David Selcer, who was eliminated on about the fifth ballot, has his friends too. They said if the PM job is to stay strict patronage, he's the most deserving.

It's reported national committeeman Stanley Mosk would go for Selcer in speaking to Senator Engle. But a weekend set to between Mosk and Engle over federal judicial appointments, said one politico Friday night, "makes Mosk's recommendation as good as nothing."

AFTER DESSERT Items: Lakewood Councilman William Burns will take on Joe Kennick for the 44th Assembly seat next year.

Kennick will go for Congress in the 1964 presidential year with Lakewood Mayor George Nye stepping into the Assembly contest.

Finally, word that next Thursday's vote to pick a successor to Southern California Demo chairman Bill Munnell (a new judge) will go 2-1 in favor of Eugene Wyman over Glenn Wilson. Source: Los Angeles Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman, the Mrs.

Arms Costs Slice Domestic Program

By WALTER T. RIDDER
ROBERT E. LEE AND
WILLIAM BROOM

WASHINGTON — Behind President Kennedy's order to all government agency heads to economize on spending and hiring is a cold reality: The military budget for next year will be higher, somewhere in the neighborhood of $47 billion.

That figure covers requests for new spending authority. Counting leftovers from past budgets, actual spending will be even higher than $47 billion.

Although the Pentagon's budget is still in the very rough preliminary stages, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has already informed the White House that his department will need at least the total of last year's Eisenhower's budget, plus the $6 billion in increases voted last summer by Congress as an emergency measure.

This leaves the administration's domestic programs in tough shape. They will have to be trimmed to fit forecasts of government revenues next year, since the administration is firmly committed to a balanced budget. Something had to give in order to meet that goal, and it was the nondefense agencies.

The slowdown on domestic programs is bound to create political problems for the administration and could cost some Democratic seats in Congress next year.

A MEASURE of the coldness of U.S.-Soviet relations was visible when Leningrad's Kirov ballet performed here Tuesday. Not a single high-ranking government official was in the audience.

AN AFRICAN diplomat recently came to a formal Washington dinner dressed in the ceremonial gown of his nation. During the dinner he had considerable trouble with the rig. A kind of shawl kept slipping and falling into the soup. He spent more time trying to adjust the complicated affair than in talking or eating.

Finally he leaned over to his partner and apologized. "You know," he said, "I have not learned how to manage this costume. We never wear them when we're in my country."

SIR DAVID Ormsby Gore, the new British ambassador, has a distinction no doubt never before held by any British envoy to the United States — or elsewhere for that matter. He has played touch football with the President of the United States.

Ormsby Gore and President Kennedy are old friends and each has visited the home of the other. During one of his visits to the Kennedy establishment he was corralled into a game of touch. As far as can be observed, he suffered no permanent harm.

The social and athletic energies of the Kennedy family are creating an unexpected bonanza for such things as charity balls and sporting events. People show up at things they never dreamed of attending, apparently in the hope that they will see or be seen by a Kennedy. Washington's International Horse Show is an example. Year after year it has lost money.

This year it was announced that Mrs. Robert Kennedy would be present the opening night and it was rumored that Mrs. John F. Kennedy would appear the final night. Well, the Attorney General's wife did appear on the first night. She not only appeared, she suddenly borrowed riding clothes from a friend and jumped a horse in the ring. And for the first time in years the show made money.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Appian Way Extension

Q. How long was the famous Appian Way? E. J. A. Originally the road ran from Rome to Capua, a distance of 132 miles, but later it was extended to Brundisium, on the southeast coast of Italy, about 386 miles from Rome. The Appian Way was the most famous of all the old Roman roads and the Romans themselves called it Regina Viarum, the Queen of Roads. It was named for Appius Claudius Caecus, the Roman Censor who began its construction in the year 312 B. C.

Press Girls Hear Lawyer Assail Males

By GEORGE ERES

The quality of Terrys T. Olender's mercy toward maleness is somewhat strained.

Don't let the name fool you —Terrys is a lady lawyer, first gal to work on major felony cases as a deputy district attorney, and her battle in the war of the sexes is told in "For the Prosecution: Miss Deputy D.A."—a top seller in the U. S.

Miss Olender related some of her jousts with the concept of male supremacy at the California Press Women's statewide luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel Saturday.

THE TROUBLE, said Miss Olender, is that a woman "has to work twice as hard to get half as far" as a man with no more ability.

First of all, USC Law School, where she went for two years, denied her the editorship of the Law Review because she was a woman. The dean, she said, didn't feel that USC should break a precedent by allowing a woman to hold such a position.

Miss Olender (Mrs. Edward Glick in private life) decided to show them. She had only two years of law school but decided to take the bar examination.

She moved to an apartment in Long Beach and pored over law books, swam in the ocean here for relaxation and was almost drowned in a rip tide. (She recounts in her book that her cries for help were not heard by a lifeguard she later noted "was busy chatting with a bosomy blonde.")

SHE PASSED the bar on her first attempt and started making the rounds of lawyers' offices to be told it was a man's world: "Ladies didn't belong in court."

She recalled she got considerable satisfaction later as a deputy district attorney in beating some of these same lawyers in court.

Marjorie Seville, of Menlo Park, president of the CPW, presided. Fred Kraft, editor of The Independent Press-Telegram's Southland Magazine, welcomed the group to the city. Mildred Flannery, home economics editor of the I. P.-T., who won second place for a series of articles in the National Federation of Press Women's contest for 1960-61, was chairman of the day.

PROPOSED CROSS-TOWN FREEWAY ROUTES

Location of three proposed cross-town freeway segments designated Red, Blue and Orange all converge at Seventh Street at right on map. Red route runs slightly south of Seventh Street, bends northwest along the north side of Pacific Coast Highway, then swings west to Ximeno Avenue south of 15th Street. Blue route dips south from Seventh Street and crosses PCH south of Sixth Street, then continues west to Quincy Avenue. Orange route runs southwest from Seventh Street, crosses PCH and continues west just south of Colorado Street to Appian Way where it goes northwest to Quincy Avenue.

Estimated cost is $12.2 million, no specific routes for westerly continuation of this freeway across town from the Quincy Avenue terminal point.

Engineers pointed out that the California Highway Commission, while responsive to requests and wishes of involved communities, has the final authority for setting a freeway route. However, no construction can begin until the city enters into a freeway agreement with the state.

Persons or groups interested in making a presentation at the public meeting are requested to notify George A. Hill, District Engineer, Division of Highways, District VII, Box 2304 Terminal Annex, Los Angeles 54. Telephone MAdison 0-3030.

Orange Route dips southwest from Seventh Street, crosses PCH near Colorado Street, runs west just south of Colorado to Appian Way, then northwest along Appian Way to Quincy Avenue.

ALL THESE SEGMENTS west of PCH are referred to as "Pacific Coast Freeway." Those portions east of PCH are called "Garden Grove Freeway."

Woman Beaten by 5 Young Men

Five young men, believed to be members of a motorcycle gang, were sought Saturday night in connection with the vicious beating administered early Saturday to a 24-year-old waitress on E. Seaside Walk.

Officers said the woman had refused to serve the men upon orders of her employer. She was quoted as saying the attackers waited for her as she left the cafe, knocked her down, kicked her and ripped her clothing.

Cadillac

What a difference a year makes!

If anyone had told him that his 1961 Cadillac could be improved on—he would have regarded them with disbelief.

And yet, after only half an hour in the newest "car of cars", he knows beyond doubt that a year of Cadillac progress has made a world of difference.

In fact, the list of Cadillac advancements for 1962 embraces each of the great motor-ing virtues.

For added beauty, there is a lower, longer silhouette... greater simplicity and dignity of line... and new elegance and luxury.

For improved comfort, there is increased spaciousness... new convenience of appointments... and a ride that is unbelievably quiet and smooth.

For finer performance, there is greater power... more responsive handling... and a degree of all-around road ableness that is new even to Cadillac.

For increased safety, there is an exclusive new dual power braking system... a new three-phase rear warning light system...

and new cornering lights that illuminate your way around turns.

And we would like to say that even Cadillac quality and craftsmanship have been enhanced for 1962. But the truth is simply that the car continues to be built to the highest standards that can be brought to the production of an automobile.

Stop by your dealer's soon, won't you? He'll be happy to demonstrate to you what a difference a year can make—when the year is this one and the car is Cadillac.

HARBOR VIEWS

U.S. Exports Top Value of Imports

By LOU JOBST
Marine Editor

The United States has a $1 billion favorable balance of trade with its three best customers, Canada, Great Britain, and Japan. Canada—the best customer—received $3.7 billion in U. S. imports last year while exporting $2.9 billion; Great Britain got $1.1 billion and sent $1.1 billion and $1.3 billion was exported to Japan while $1.1 billion was imported.

Many maritime experts feel this is a good reason to maintain low protective tariffs.

One such expert is Albert Perrish, the articulate Los Angeles Harbor Commissioner.

"Under these circumstances," he told a luncheon at the British United Services Club, "this is a poor time to think of protectionism when the balance of trade is so much in our favor."

"YET THE protectionists are threatening liberal trade policies and making a tremendous impact upon Congress. They represent a real challenge to those favoring two-way world trade."

Although many feel that should the British enter the European common market it will have an adverse effect on American maritime commerce, Perrish, who is also president of West Coast Metal Importers Association, doesn't hold any such view. "Britain's joining the common market will not isolate us any more than did the formation of the original common market. The greater world activity they have... the greater will be their ability to buy from us."

GOV. PAT BROWN has appointed two Los Angeles County men to two-year terms on the Marine research committee of the State Department of Fish and Game. They are Max Gorby, president of the California Marine Curing and Packing Co., Terminal Island, a reappointment, and Edward F. Bruce of Rosemead, past president of the California Wildlife Federation, Inc., will replace Temple City newspaper publisher Lee F. Payne on the committee.

Children's Art Class Registration Stated

Registration for children's art classes at the Long Beach Museum of Art will be held next Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. The museum's calendar, distributed last month, erroneously stated registration would be conducted Saturday, Nov. 4.

Books on Music and Scientific Aspects of Sea in Demand Here

Interest in music, is reflected in requests of patrons for these works, according to Mrs. Mary Pearson, head of the Art, Music and Philosophy Department of the Public Library.

Among the titles available are, "Music for Family Fun," by Harriot Barbour, which tells of the many ways of enjoying music at home through listening, singing, and playing various instruments; "Listening to Music Creatively," by Edwin Stringham; "What to Listen for in Music," by Aaron Copland, and "Discovering Music," by Howard McKenney.

Leonard Bernstein's "The Joy of Music," a best seller when published in 1959, is still requested. John Briggs' new biography, "Leonard Bernstein: The Man His Work and His World" help interpret this conductor.

FOR OPERA lovers: Thomas Briggs' "Opera and Its Enjoyment," Philip Hope-Wallace's "A Picture History of Opera" and "Milton Cross' Favorite Arias From the Great Operas," edited by Milton Cross.

The history of music is covered in "A History of Western Music," by Donald Grout; "A Pictorial History of Music," by Paul Lang; "The Art of Music," by Beekman Cannon, and "Our Musical Heritage," by Curt Sachs. For jazz enthusiasts: Nat Hentoff's "The Jazz Life," Dennis Stock's "Jazz Street," Hughes Panassie's "The Real Jazz," Studs Terkel's "The Giants of Jazz," and Marshall Stearns' "The Story of Jazz." ANOTHER GENERAL topic which greatly interests readers, judging from patrons' requests is the mysteries of the oceans and their resources in food, minerals and power.

On Alert for War: These Men Are Ready

ALERT GENERAL

The commander of the Strategic Air Command, Gen. Thomas S. Powers (center), confers with staff members after alighting from his jet tanker. He had been up all day, taking his turn as the general officer always in the air over SAC headquarters as a precaution in case of disaster on the ground.—(AP.)

(Editor's Note—Across the breadth of the North American continent, a select group of professionals devote their complete attention to waiting for war. Their duty: to block attack and strike back. Associated Press reporters watched them at their work on one typical day last month. Here's what they saw.)

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Newsletters Writer

"We happen to live in the most dangerous time of the human race," says the President of the United States. Yet Americans go about their everyday business in factories and offices, on farms and trucks, in schools and restaurants. But with one group of Americans, this "most dangerous time" is their daily business. They are the men, and some women, who stand guard for the rest of America. Their duty is to watch... and wait... and be ready.

AT SUFFOLK COUNTY AFB near the tip of Long Island, N. Y., Capt. George Jatrass, 30, 2nd Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, fingered the shoulder of his bright orange suit. His silver F-101B Voodoo Fighter-Interceptor awaited only a touch of the starter button. It could be airborne in five minutes.

PVT. WILLIAM COTTON, 20, of Charlie Company, rose with the 5:30 a.m. bugle at Fort Campbell, Ky. Charlie Company, 1st Airborne Battle Group, 501st Infantry, the first ready company of the 101st Airborne Division, was set to move—anywhere in the world—on an hour's notice.

COL. McLYLE G. Zumwalt, director of operations, 1st Strategic Aerospace Division, Vandenberg AFB, Calif., was up at 4 a.m. to make the first of three visits to the Titan and Atlas missile complexes. If the traditional 15-minute alert obtained, the 65-foot Atlas could be erected, fueled and fired in a quarter of an hour.

A FOUR-ENGINE converted K-135 jet tanker thundered down a runway and climbed into the high clouds over Offutt AFB near Omaha, Neb. Aboard was Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command. There is always a general officer in the air over SAC headquarters, ready to assume direction of the missile-bomber forces in case of a disaster on the ground. SAC's commander himself is no exception. So it went one day recently along the ramparts of American defense: radar picket planes above the cold Atlantic, across the wide continent—turning from summer green to grey and wintry white—and up the Pacific shoreline to little Diomed Island, where an Eskimo scout three miles from Russia studied the sky for clues to weather or to war.

TWO AND ONE-HALF weeks ago, on Oct. 18, Associated Press reporters were sent to watch the nation's guardians at work in a half-dozen critical stations across the continent. They found an air of relaxed readiness during this single day on America's first line of defense. Here's a partial view, in close detail, of how ready to protect itself the United States was on that day—

CAPT. JATRASS, from Harrisburg, Pa., came on duty at Long Island's Suffolk AFB at 9 a.m. this day, he was senior pilot of two two-man crews and two airplanes on five-minute alert.

First, Jatrass ran through a pre-flight inspection of his F-101B. By radio to a control room, he reported himself and plane ready. Jatrass and his crew for 24 hours are not allowed to leave the heavily guarded alert hangar area. They are ready to "scramble."

The word to "scramble" (get airborne fast) comes to Suffolk AFB's alert room from the "Hot Room," the Combat Alert Center about 100 yards away in 2nd Squadron Headquarters. The Hot Room is in communication with the New York Air Defense Sector (NYADS) at McGuire AFB in New Jersey. A sample alert would go like this:

NYADS to Hot Room: "Scramble two!" Hot Room to Alert Room: "Scramble two!" (or a blast of the klaxon.)

Both crews on five-minute alert scramble for their planes, strap themselves in, close canopies, start engines. When the planes are airborne, they contact NYADS directly for running instructions and changes in orders.

AT FORT CAMPBELL, Pvt. Cotton, from San Mateo, Calif., and his jumpmates of Charlie Company settled into the day's routine.

Capt. Bibb Underwood, 29, of Dallas, Charlie Company's commander, checked his men as they double-timed past shouting their list numbers. They carried rifles, rocket launchers and .45 caliber pistols. One wore a hunting knife, an age-old weapon still useful in the atomic era. For Pvt. Paul Neese, 28, of La Grange, Ga., a newcomer to the 101st, it was the third day of parachute training at the division's jump school. "Hit it!" barked an instructor.

"Hup thousand, two thousand, three..." shouted Neese, gripping a dummy parachute and striking a jump pose in a dummy plane door on the ground. "Recover!" Neese and his fellow trainees ran to the stairs leading to the top of the 34-foot training tower. Instructors in black jackets checked each man's gear in minute detail for a mistake or an omission that might cause injury. "Hup thousand..." yelled Neese and he leaped through the tower door, dropping 15 feet before his harness played out and snapped him short like a chute does on opening. He rode a cable to the ground and started over.

On the firing range, Pfc. David Reichenback, 20, of Wyandotte, Mich., was checking out on the new M-14 rifle. The rifle is not Reichenback's weapon. He's a crewman on a rocket battery. His baby is the 27-foot Honest John, a rocket capable of carrying a conventional or a nuclear warhead.

The watchword of the 101st is: "BE PREPARED TO MOVE, ANYTIME, ANYWHERE AND FIGHT!"

AT VANDENBERG AFB, members of the 576th Strategic

Missile Squadron were working 12 hour shifts in the control blockhouse of an Atlas launching complex.

In the same blockhouse, T. Sgt. Richard Brooks, 37, of Hartford, Conn., was giving a refresher course to visiting airmen from Warren AFB, Wyo., and Offutt AFB, Neb.

AT A THOR Missile Complex, Wing Commander David Downs, 39, of Brigend, Wales, a Royal Air Force liaison officer, was awaiting the arrival of his missile, Welcome 10, due the following morning, and his RAF crew of about 50, due sometime later. Once every three months, explained Lt. Col. John F. Waters, a Thor and its crew are brought in from England to test and refresh its readiness. The crew is held on alert and suddenly ordered to fire. Reaction time is considerably less than 15 minutes, said Waters.

AT ELMENDORF AFB near Anchorage, Alaska, where the 317th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron maintains alerts, Capt. Clyde Markley, 37, of Tacoma, Wash., studied a bit. He's adding to college credits gained during a year at the University of Wichita. "This job," he says, "is 24 hours of boredom broken up by occasional periods of sheer panic."

AT STRATEGIC AIR Command headquarters near Omaha, down the dark gray concrete corridors to the glass-walled control center near the underground war room, there was tension, hush and quick movement. A defense exercise was underway.

A loudspeaker boomed: "The submarine is under surveillance."

Col. William H. Cooper, 43, of Duquesne, Pa., sat at a desk behind a broad panel of lights, switches, telephones, loudspeakers. He held a phone to his ear constantly. Within reach was a red phone, the one he would use on orders from the President—to send SAC's bombers and missiles to war.

BMEWS, an early warning network tracking missiles in the far north, reports: "Predicted impact four on sight two. Fourteen minutes to go."

Silence. Then from NORAD, the North American Air Defense Command near Colorado Springs, Colo.: "A large air burst at Great Falls, Mont."

And the announcement: "Simulating turning control over to the Airborne Command Post."

The New York accents of Gen. Power, high over the base in his converted K-135, crackle over the loudspeaker.

Col. Cooper, controller of the exercise, rose and disappeared behind a large pillar. He returned with a paper cup of coffee.

"These exercises keep us fit," he said.

Up on the field, in an inconspicuous house trailer set on permanent foundations at the end of a quarter-mile long concrete ramp, Bomber Commander Capt. Walter Ratliff, 32, of Norman, Okla., told a visitor:

"We have to continually study our emergency war plan. We're tested periodically to..."

A klaxon squawked loud and urgent. Ratliff and his crew vanished suddenly. Moments later they could be seen speeding down the apron in their light blue station wagon. Other blue station wagons converged on the big jets down the ramp. The first jet engine roared.

"We could have been airborne in 10 minutes," said Ratliff later.

Peace Corps Foe Rejects L.B. Visit

Nigerian student leader Dapo Falase, who led opposition to postcard-writing Peace Corps girl Margery Michelmores, said Saturday he has rejected an offer to visit Long Beach.

Falase said he was turning down the offer because "I don't believe a pleasure trip can atone for the insult to Nigeria," according to United Press International.

MISS MICHELMORE returned to the United States last month after a postcard she wrote describing living conditions in Nigeria set off anti-American protest demonstrations.

Russell Guiver, of 6229 Seaside Walk, local real estate-investment businessman, offered Falase the free trip to Long Beach "to see what America is like and what Americans stand for."

Asked whether he had ever visited the United States, Falase replied: "No, but I know a lot about it from the movies."

Snake Plot's Perpetrator Sent to Jail

Daniel Calvin Milligan, 19, of 319 W. Central Ave., La Habra, a college student whose displeasure with his ex-wife led him to put a poisonous snake in an air-conditioning system at her home, must serve five months in Orange County Jail.

An Anaheim Municipal Court order sends Milligan to jail after admitted possession of a deadly weapon—a Russell's viper—with intent to assault.

The snake was found Sept. 5 in an air-conditioning vent at the home of the former Bonnie Johnstone, 18, of 2024 W. La Palma Ave., Anaheim, by her father.

revlon's new eterna 27 with progenitin

For two years, scientists in Switzerland and America secretly tested a totally new kind of skin cream on hundreds of women, aged 26 to 74. Can a cream really make dramatic improvements in aging skin? Today, the probability exists as never before. Doctors and research scientists from four great universities tested "Eterna 27" with Progenitin by Revlon. They saw remarkable results in 6 out of 10 cases. Usually, the skin with the most apparent signs of age showed the most improvement. If after 40 days of daily use, you are not completely satisfied with the results obtained from "Eterna 27," return the unused portion to us and Revlon will refund your purchase price in full.

Gades Ruin LBCC Streak, 20-0

Coaches Agree Line, Defense Big Factors

By KEN PIVERNETZ

While all the pre-game writeups stressed the expected offensive show that Bakersfield and Long Beach would put on, both coaches agreed after the game Saturday night that defense was by far the big factor.

Bakersfield coach Ray Newman said it was by far his team's best defensive effort of the season, and that it had to be, because Long Beach was by far the best team he had seen this year.

"We were prepared physically and there isn't enough I can say about our defense," said Newman. "Everybody talks about our backfield depth, but it's the line that won it for us. When you can contain their backs, you know you've done a good job because they're the best in the league."

FOR A MAN who had lost his first football game in two years, LBCC's Jim Stangeland said the Renegades didn't do anything he didn't expect.

"They were much stronger defensively, but it's what we expected. It might have been a different game if we had held them scoreless in the first half, but they forced us to gamble in the second half and the four interceptions wrecked us. No doubt about it, they're a fine ball club," said Stangeland.

Both coaches agreed there was no real turning point.

Newman said, "The only turning point was when we had 20 points on the scoreboard and the clock had run out."

Viking Errors Costly

Interceptions Pave Bakersfield Path to Title, JRB

By BOB SHIRLEY

Bakersfield threw an impenetrable blanket over the Long Beach City College offense Saturday night and dealt the Vikings their first loss in 17 games, 20-0, before an overflow Veterans Stadium crowd.

For the Renegades it left open the door to the Junior Rose Bowl and kept them in a tie for the Metropolitan Conference lead with Santa Monica. Aside from the loss of its 16-game winning streak, Long Beach also lost much prestige in its vaunted running attack. Hardest hit of all Viking offensive threats was Dee Andrews, who for the first time in his heralded career was virtually useless as the Renegades concentrated most of their defensive tactics toward stopping him.

ANDREWS, who had averaged 11 yards per carry and scored 74 points in six games, netted only 28 yards on 11 carries.

Bakersfield's mammoth defensive line, which averages 215 pounds, gave all in attendance a good lesson in how to stop a rushing attack. It held Long Beach to 12 yards net. The Vikes entered with an average of 262 yards on the ground.

Long Beach managed only eight first downs, another season low. So dominant was the Renegade attack that Long Beach was able to run off only 19 plays in the first half and 43 for the game. Bakersfield had the ball for 90 plays.

THE RENEGADES came to town with a 45-4 scoring average and a reputation for being the nation's strongest defensive JC team. By the end of the game there was no arguing this point.

When their running attack failed to jell, the Vikings went to the air and showed only a minor improvement. Chris Dawson completed six of 17 attempts for 113 yards and had three interceptions. In 48 previous throws only three of Dawson's passes were picked off.

Bakersfield took an 8-0 lead into the dressing room when Cliff Chilton scored from the five with only 30 seconds left in the first half. Throughout the first half Bakersfield pushed the Vikings all over the field, but couldn't score until the waning seconds. The Renegades were stopped twice inside the LBCC 20.

Bakersfield turned the game into a rout late in the fourth quarter as interceptions by Marvin Gram and Jerry Dow set up two quick touchdowns.

GRIM'S THEFT came with 3:30 left as he raced from his own 45 to the Long Beach 2. After three running plays lost two yards, Kenny Loti hit L. C. Brown in the end zone. Loti's conversion pass failed.

Dow raced 28 yards to pay dirt with a stray Ed Reddick pass with one minute left. Until the final three minutes when the interceptions made victory impossible, Long Beach remained in contention behind the sterling defensive efforts of Andrews, who twice prevented Bakersfield touch-

Bruins Punch Out KO; USC Plain 0

Free-for-All Ends Smith-Led 35-15 Routing of Cal Cousins

By DAVE LEWIS

The Bruins of UCLA won a "doubleheader" Saturday at the Coliseum—thoroughly chastizing California, 35-15, in 60 minutes of football and then outpunching their cousins from Berkeley in a wild five-minute free-for-all as the battle drew to a gory close.

The blocking and tackling, particularly by UCLA, was the most vicious seen in the Coliseum this season and it was inevitable that tempers would reach a flaming peak and that the "hitting" would go beyond the normal contact in football.

But trouble didn't begin until late in the game when spirited reserves took over.

First "preliminary bout" came four plays from the end of the game. Cal was penalized for a personal foul. There was no retaliation.

Second prelim on the following play with just one minute remaining found Walt Datto, third-string UCLA guard, and Dave Favro, Cal's third-string center, mixing it up and being ejected from the game. The by-play nullified a 32-yard Cal pass.

On the next play, came the main event as Sam Stassi, second-string Cal tackle, and a Bruin lineman got into it at midfield. Two other UCLA players came up fast to jump Stassi and that was the signal for a general free-for-all. Tackle Bob Weeden and halfback Carl Jones were two of the featured Bruin battlers.

THE CALIFORNIA BENCH erupted and joined the fray and at one time at least 30 players were swinging. UCLA coach Bill Barnes and his assistants averted an even more serious brawl by keeping the bulk of the Bruin squad out of the action. But it still developed into one of the most bitter mixups in Coliseum history.

No injuries from the free-swinging melee were reported by the Bruin camp, but Stassi was helped off the field in a woozy condition and bleeding from a wound on the forehead, while Mel Piestrup, third-string Cal tackle, was bleeding profusely from the mouth, and tackle Andy Segale suffered a cut forehead.

Once order was restored, both coaches called their players together and handed down ultimatums of "no more fighting." The game ended on the next play with no further incidents.

Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, including the UCLA campus, was instrumental in putting a "gap" on the coaches and players after the game following a hurry-up visit to both dressing rooms.

DR. KERR, IN A STATEMENT to the press, said "it was an unfortunate incident and everyone is very apologetic. The two captains have apologized on behalf of their teams for embarrassing the university. This is a type of incident that sometimes happens at the end of a tough game. Both coaches regret it and beyond that the incident is closed."

The slugfest overshadowed one of the great all-time UCLA performances by tailback Bobby Smith. Smith gained 177 yards rushing—just three shy of Bill Kilmer's single-game record—and scored 23 points with three touchdowns on runs of one, 30 and 63 yards; a field goal from the 16, and a two-point conversion.

Smith supplied the momentum for the Bruins to take over disputed first place in the AAWU standings with their second straight conference triumph and move them a notch nearer the Rose Bowl bid.

It was UCLA's easiest afternoon of the season as Cal's defense was unable to cope with UCLA's hard-charging forward wall and the savage Bruin blocking.

ALTHOUGH CALIFORNIA ANTICIPATED virtually every Bruin play and massed its defense to meet the charge, the Bears still were unable to keep the Bruin machine from rolling up 418 yards on the ground.

Despite being decisively whipped, the Bears made it a close game for a half and at one time enjoyed a 7-3 lead for a period of four minutes and 45 seconds.

After Smith had kicked a field goal from the 16-yard line at 11:52 of the first period to send the Bruins into a 3-0 lead, California snapped back on the second play after the kickoff with a lightning 70-yard touchdown strike by halfback Alan Nelson. Jim Ferguson's placement made it 7-3.

The touchdown was a bit of a fluke. Nelson appeared to be stopped on the line of scrimmage, but as the UCLA defense eased up waiting for the whistle, the Bear halfback slipped out of a tackler's grasp, picked up a key block and sprinted the 70 yards to paydirt.

The Bruins came right back with a 66-yard drive in 11 plays to regain the lead. Mike Haffner capped the advance by cracking over from the one for the tally at 2:49 of the second period to make it 9-7.

IT WAS ALL DOWNHILL FOR the Bruins from there, although they had to wait until the third quarter to "ice" it.

Actually, the score would have been much greater but for the Bruins' offensive mistakes. They cost themselves another TD midway in the second quarter when poor play selection fouled up a drive that finally stalled on the three-yard line just six inches from a first down. They were stopped again at the outset of the fourth period on the Cal 10 when a fourth-down pass to Al Gvernink was ruled incomplete when the latter caught it a step beyond the end zone.

Smith broke things wide open in the second half as

Willie Fizzles In Scoreless Husky Contest

By JEROME HALL

L. P.-T. Staff Writer

SEATTLE—The USC and Washington football teams got what they deserved—a scoreless tie.

But it wasn't dull for the 55,200 who filled the Huskies' stadium on a cold, cold Saturday in Frostville on the Puget.

There were seven fumbles, four pass interceptions, two field goal attempts and one long touchdown run was called back. Other than that, things were fairly normal—if you overlook the fact that the game ended on a riotous note with a Washington player running half the length of the field on an interception with hundreds of youngsters in close pursuit.

Though the tie doesn't severely damage USC's Rose Bowl chances, it pretty well eliminates the Huskies, who are 1-1-1 now in AAWU play. Troy has a win over Cal, with Stanford coming up Saturday in the Coliseum.

Last Trojan scoreless tie was 19 years ago, with Washington.

The heralded return of Willie Brown was a fizzle. He ran to the outside only once, losing yardage, and wound up with a net of nine yards in five carries.

THAT LEFT IT UP TO FULLBACK Ben Wilson, who started the year as Willie's replacement. And Wilson again was the outstanding runner on the field, totaling 93 yards.

"It was a game of missed opportunities," said a dejected John McKay, the USC coach. "Only ourselves kept us from scoring."

But it was a penalty that kept the Huskies from scoring. Early in the third period QB Kermit Jorgensen ran 50 yards to the end zone on a keeper, but a holding penalty nullified it.

Soon after, Troy made its strongest touchdown bid, reaching the 10 where a fourth-down plunge aimed at gaining a half yard was exactly a half yard short.

This was a far cry from the crisp-blocking, hard-running Washington teams we've seen in the Rose Bowl the past two times. This year's doesn't have an offense.

Washington's strong point was a blanketing pass defense that held ace end Hal Bedsole to two receptions for 25 total yards. The Huskies practiced all week on stopping Bedsole and it paid off.

USC's big break came at the start of the fourth period when center-linebacker Dave Morgan picked off a Jorgensen pass at the Trojan 25 to halt a long drive and he returned the interception 37 yards. From the Husky 38,

Tammy Barks, and Bites, Too

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Terrible-tempered Tammy Grimes has been known to hit or bite her fellow actors even though it's not in the script... to bark unexpectedly at them... to turn her back on the audience... and she confesses that she constantly dreams of telling some inattentive audience to leave immediately and go to a movie.

Tammy takes her acting seriously and wants every body else to do the same. "Perhaps the first three rows have heard me rant because I do talk a lot," Tammy said the other afternoon, sitting in a white nightgown in bed in her dressing room at the Winter Garden where she's given 400 performances of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

"ONE GENTLEMAN in the cast had a hard time one night trying to keep his eyes open," she said. "Now he has nothing to say in the play and it could be a bit of a bore. 'Still, I don't think it would be nice of him to go to sleep. I said to him, 'just don't you go to sleep! DON'T YOU GO TO SLEEP!' He was pretty surprised."

"Then there's a woman in the cast who has no lines and one night she gave herself a fine. She said, 'What are you doing, honey?' I said, 'WHAT DID YOU SAY?' she went blushing."

Tammy has made up in her own mind in great detail the speech she would like to make to an occasional Friday night audience.

"Ladies and gentlemen," she can hear herself saying, "just because you paid $11.10 for your seats, the fact is I didn't invite you here. You came on your own. No actor has ever done anything for money and it doesn't matter whether you paid $11 or $500. The fact is, you're a bad audience. Just do everybody a favor and leave. Go and see 'Spartacus' — it's a good movie. Wait, I'm going with you."

"YET," TAMMY said, "you as the actor are greatly responsible for that audience's behavior and you listen to it as much as you listen to the other actors."

"You are aware of that open," she said. "Now he has great mass out there that you can't really see but you can feel. They are like one enormous person."

"Sometimes it isn't so much the laughs, but the quiet! If there's that stillness, you know they are listening and that they care."

THE WEEK-END WINDUP... Frank Sinatra kidded Barbra Luna after they'd finished "Devil at 4 o'clock," telling her: "They seldom do this, but I'll fix it so they let you keep your wardrobe." (Her "wardrobe" was a ragged gingham dress)... N.Y. Giant footballer Kyle Rote will write the Encyclopedia Britannica's article on the sport... Rocky Graziano said at Leone's he'll do a TV series with young singer Bobby Rydell.

EARL'S PEARLS: It's strange that the man who's afraid to go to the dentist won't hesitate to race a locomotive to the crossing — Frances Benson.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Jackie Mason said at the Blue Angel that he was asked to contribute to a fire prevention fund: "So I contributed... I gave 50 gallons of water."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A B'way bartender figures TV is on the way out — he gets two requests to turn it off for every one to turn it back on.

'Drunk' Scene Will Amaze Boone Fans

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pat Boone needs no crystal ball to see that fans will be surprised, some perhaps indignant, at what he's planning to do with his career.

Upcoming: a drunk scene in a movie and an engagement at Las Vegas. The young singer calls it part of the maturing process. But like his friend Perry Como, Pat gets letters — lots of letters — when he deviates one iota from his popular image.

PAT SAYS, however, that his plans will have no effect on the real Pat Boone. He assures that his moral and religious convictions will remain unchanged.

In "State Fair," Pat has one scene where a frustrated romance drives him to drink. Played for comedy, there is nothing immoral about the scene. But it's a departure from the old Pat Boone, who once hesitated about kissing his leading lady.

"I want to make family pictures," Boone says. "If each acting assignment is part of a good moral story, then I feel I have rendered a worthwhile service without sacrificing my own personal convictions. I naturally hope that my fans will understand my desire not to be one dimensional."

"AS I TRIED to make 'As' in school, I am naturally trying to be a good actor, but I'm not happy going half way on anything. I am sure it would be impossible to have a successful acting career just portraying myself on the screen."

"This doesn't mean that I won't have limitations, both inherited and self-imposed — but you can't remain on top of this profession on a one-dimensional note, and I hope my fans will realize that when the real Pat Boone stands up he will stand for the same things."

"If I find that I can't reconcile my career with my innate beliefs, I'll look for a new career."

AND HIS PICTURES have been successful almost without exception with Italians and their Latin cousins in Spain and South America.

Most Italians think Sordi's appeal lies in his ability to portray his countrymen sympathetically and accurately, but always with self emphasis on their foibles. He makes them laugh hardest at themselves by exploding time-worn myths about the Italian character. In many pictures he is the traditional Latin lover, looks the part and acts the part, but seldom gets the girl. He is the strutting big shot, a la Mussolini, but usually stumbles at the height of his arrogance.

Sordi more or less agrees with this assessment. "I just keep my eyes and ears open and watch the people around me," says he. "Overhearing a good quarrel between husband and wife is enough for me to create a character all Italians can understand."

WYNN EXPLAINS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's the difference between a comedian and a comic?

There is a difference, you know. Ed Wynn, who classes himself as a comic when not working as a serious dramatic actor, gives this classic answer to the question.

"A comedian says funny things. A comic says things funny."

Italy Top Comic in U.S. Film

By ALLAN JACKS

ROME (AP) — Alberto Sordi, Italy's best known film comedian, will soon make his first major appearance on American movie screens.

The 41-year-old bachelor who has been packing Italian movie houses for over a decade is starred in "The Best of Enemies," a comedy-drama set during World War II in Africa. The film is being produced by Italy's Dino De Laurentiis and co-stars David Niven.

It's the story of a British army patrol (led by Niven) and an Italian patrol (led by Sordi) getting lost in the African desert. They wind up taking each other prisoner, then cooperating to get out of the mess.

SORDI, A SORT of latter-day Don Quixote who can make Italian audiences laugh and cry simultaneously, is a husky, handsome man who seldom is heard from off the screen. He lives quietly with two sisters in the palatial Roman villa his 100 pictures built for him. He entertains friends in a 300-seat theater in the basement and treats them to guided tour of a notable collection of antiques and objects d'art.

But Sordi didn't always live this high. He was born in Rome's working class section, son of a tuba player who once toured the United States with the Rome City Band directed by Arturo Toscanini.

Sordi got his start in the movies by winning a contest at 13 to dub the voice of American comedian Oliver Hardy. He did the dubbing and has been in the movies more or less ever since.

AND HIS PICTURES have been successful almost without exception with Italians and their Latin cousins in Spain and South America.

Most Italians think Sordi's appeal lies in his ability to portray his countrymen sympathetically and accurately, but always with self emphasis on their foibles. He makes them laugh hardest at themselves by exploding time-worn myths about the Italian character. In many pictures he is the traditional Latin lover, looks the part and acts the part, but seldom gets the girl. Rossmoor Leisure World Thronged Opening Week

Since its official opening, 25,000 persons have visited the Rossmoor Leisure World, the nation's first senior citizen development to include an insured program of medical care and drugs, excluding hospitalization, in monthly payments for cooperative apartments.

"About 500 apartments in the first unit of 844 were sold in the first 10 days by private appointment and 67 were sold Sunday," reported William G. Brangham, general sales manager.

THE UNIQUE development, planned for completion in two years, will comprise 6,750 one and two bedroom apartments. Builder is Ross W. Cortese.

Minimum age for owner eligibility is 52 years.

When completed, the entire project will include a medical center, golf course, county library, 12½-acre shopping center, a 2,500-seat amphitheater with a retractable roof, churches for all major faiths and three elaborate clubhouses with banquet facilities for 600 persons and hobby centers for woodworking, ceramics, sewing, courts. One clubhouse is already ready near completion.

The medical program will go into effect when the first residents move in early in 1962, said Lewis M. Letson, administrator of the Golden Rain Foundation, a non-profit organization which will administer and operate all medical, recreational and maintenance facilities.

UNUSUAL construction features of the 541-acre development are:

- No steps or stairs anywhere in Leisure World—only ramps and grades.
- Street curbs are rolled.
- Electrical outlets are placed two feet above the ground so no bending is necessary.
- Sit-down seats in the shower rather than tubs to avoid slipping accidents.
- All of the apartments are soundproof.
- Extra-wide hallways provide 36 inches.
- Built-in safety night lights to avoid groping for switches in the dark.
- Twelve furnished model apartments are open daily for inspection.
- To reach the community from Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. to one block west of Los Alamitos Blvd.

Crowds are expected for this weekend's extended Grand Opening of the Fifth Unit at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said elevations, he said.

Golden West homes are offered with the finest 35-year, 5 1/4% FHA terms, McCarthy added. FHA down payments are from $800. Also available are GI no-down payment terms, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

GOLDEN WEST sales are paced by an unusual double patio plan which features a sweeping kitchen-family-living room complex opening on two separate patios. The impressive front patio in this plan serves as an enclosed entranceway. Numerous exterior stylings are available, among them an authentic Spanish design.

The homes, which may be $17,500, are offered in 22 exterior stylings.

LOCATED LESS than ten minutes from inviting beaches and the Long Beach and Balboa boating marinas, the new Golden West development offers all the advantages of a choice smog-free vacation area.

Among the quality features of the homes are: gleaming breakfast bars, ash kitchen cabinets, sliding glass doors, forced-air heating and center entry hall.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by going east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., then right to furnished models.

A REVOLUTION IN HOME BUYING!!

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL HOME BUYERS:

We at Sun Ray Estates in Westminster honestly believe we have the greatest deal ever offered, especially for you who are eligible to buy under V. A. financing. Without one red cent of investment (no down payment, no closing costs) you, on a G.I. loan, can purchase one of our award winning Provident Series homes on a pool-sized lot (65' wide, 100' deep) in a climatically desirable area (south of the smog, east of the fog), only ten minutes from Long Beach.

Never before in history has the following combination of items been included in the purchase price of a tract home: 1) wall-to-wall carpeting throughout (even in the closets), 2) over 110 yards of custom made drapes (in every room) with a wide variety of fabrics and colors to choose from (at least a new home area where sheets will not be seen hanging over windows for the next year or so!), and 3) the rear yard is completely fenced with an attractive concrete wall (all sides) five-foot-four-inches high.

This revolutionary concept of financing means that there is practically no way in the world you can take a financial loss. Without any capital invested you are getting a luxurious residence (just try to rent anything its equivalent for what your monthly payment will be!), PLUS the benefit of income tax deductions for loan interest and property taxes (this should mean a nice little refund from Uncle Sam), PLUS an increase in your home equity every month, PLUS protection against an inflationary spiral in building costs. Man, you just can't go wrong.

Perhaps the greatest innovation in these homes is the block wall fence encompassing the rear yard. Not only does it cut out a costly initial expense, but it eliminates the cause of many a feud based on "what kind of fence to put up and who is going to pay for it." Uniformity in fencing is bound to add to the value of the property.

A partial list of the many features in these three and four bedroom homes includes a family room with oak parquet floor and a sliding glass door leading out to a large patio deck, forced-air heat with a summer switch, built-in range and oven by O'Keefe & Merritt, Insinkerator garbage disposal, insulated acoustic ceilings, and two baths. Featured in the baths are shatter-proof tub enclosures, Formica topped Pullmans, and genuine ceramic tile on the walls. The oversize double garages are available either detached or attached to the house. Choice may be made between rock and split cedar shake roofs, with no additional charge for the latter.

Prices start at $19,300, and occupancy is practically immediate. Among those already moved in are doctors, lawyers, aircraft engineers, and a high percentage of retired military personnel.

For those not eligible to buy G.I., thirty year F.H.A. loans at 5 1/4% interest are available.

Anyone who is renting, or thinking of a more modern home, should make it a point to see these homes while they are still available. It is very doubtful that such a deal will ever be offered again.

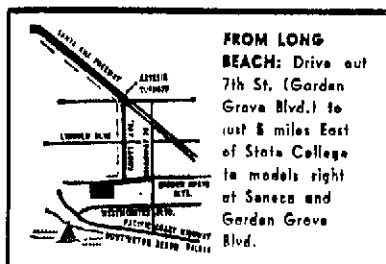

Yours most sincerely,

John Bollinger

No Price Increase for Dutch Haven New Unit

IN NEW DUTCH HAVEN UNIT

With sales of previous units far ahead of expectations, Dutch Haven has rushed to completion unit 19 in Huntington Beach. The homes will be sold at the same prices in previous units. Here is a living room view of one model.

Dutch Haven's newly opened Unit 19, on Edinger Ave. near Bolsa Chica, by Huntington Beach, is creating real estate news and attracting top sales with its recently announced decision to maintain previously established Dutch Haven selling prices on homes within the new unit.

Reason for industry interest in the Dutch Haven decision is that it is in direct contrast to the current price-raising trends prevailing at most new beach developments. Mounting construction costs and increases in land values have sparked the move to higher prices. Unit 19 will offer features identical with those shown at other most recent Dutch Haven communities.

opened since May of this year by Luxury Homes, Inc., developers of Dutch Haven communities. Edward S. Boyd, sales agent, said that Dutch Haven Units 17 and 18, also located at Huntington Beach, were accorded such acceptance that it was necessary to speed up development plans for Unit 19 by as much as six to eight months to meet the public demand.

Centered in the heart of the coastal resort area, Unit 19 offers a remarkable combination of ideal climate, vacation-type recreation, complete city facilities and homes dimensioned for spacious family living.

More than the usual number of custom features are offered in the homes. They include complete front-yard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach: Drive east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd. then right to the models.

Some Westmont Homes on Low Terms to Vet

MURALS OFFERED IN HOME

Mural wallpapers, fireplace, tile eating bar, built-in kitchens, shake roof, are all included in the Westmont community where vets may purchase for a total $35 move-in charge in some units. Homes are located south of Westminster Boulevard on Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach and are priced from $16,500.

A limited number of choice homes in unit six of George M. Holstein and Sons' Westmont community in the Huntington Beach area will be offered to veterans for a total move-in charge of just $35, the builders announced.

Several of the homes have just been completed and can be occupied within a few days. The $35 total move-in cost includes everything with no costs or imposts to be paid by the veteran, the Westmont developers stressed.

AMONG THE homes are three bedroom models with family rooms, two baths, and features such as shake roof, fireplace, tile eating bars and tile work areas, glassed in showers, master bedroom suites with private bath, built-in kitchens, paneling, mural wallpapers, and a score more luxury features. Stressed with the low move-in charge is the low Westmont prices with many models selling as low as $16,500. "Comparable homes in the same area are selling for as much as $2,000 more," a spokesman for the pioneer building firm said.

The developers urged qualified vets to act quickly for the limited offer and stressed the close proximity of the homes to the Long Beach area. From Long Beach go in the same area as selling east on Westminster Blvd. or Garden Grove Blvd. (Seventh St.) to Hiway 39 (Beach Blvd.). Then drive south to the models on the left of the highway.

New Realty Class Soon

Moore Real Estate School, operated by the firm of Moore Realty, announced that its third complete course of study will start Nov. 13.

The program offered by the Moore School is to prepare students for all phases of the real estate business covered in the state examination given to applicants for a real estate salesman's license.

Jack Krueger, instructor, emphasized that each class is a separate unit, and students may start at any one class and continue until they have completed the 4-week course which includes eight night classes.

E. T. Moore, President of Moore Realty, stated that this fall there has been a great deal of interest in the school by residents desiring the knowledge of real estate to better understand their own personal real estate problems and investments.

Fashion Homes Open for Preview Today

Drawing board dreams become a reality in a blend of quality construction and gracious, indoor-outdoor living at Fashion Homes, new Medallion Award-winning development which is previewing in Huntington Beach.

Pre-opening sales have been so brisk at the new Mervin B. Johnson Construction Co. enterprises, located west of Hwy. 39, northside of Sugar Ave., that nearly half of the first section's 69 homes already have been sold.

FOUR furnished models are on display, illustrating the four distinctive floor plans offered in the Fashion Homes, Vogue Series. Variations include three bedrooms, three bedrooms and family room, and four bedrooms and family room—all with two baths. Styling choices are Early American, Ranch, Cape Cod, Modern and Hawaiian.

The homes' electric kitchens include built-in ranges and ovens, with range hoods and exhaust fans, dishwashers, garbage disposals, ash hardwood cabinets in decorator tones and formica breakfast bars.

BATHS HAVE attractive pullmans, full mirrors with Medallion-approved lighting and oversize stall showers. Other features in the homes include acoustical-type ceilings, service porches in some of the models, choice of shake or shingle roofs and concrete block walls on all lots included in sales price. The Fashion Homes Vogue development is convenient to schools, shopping centers and Orange County's famed recreational attractions. The homes range in price from $18,600 to $19,600.

A. L. Code, Long Beach district manager for Southern California Edison Company, says the homes have qualified for the electric industry's coveted Medallion Home Award because of their built-in electrical excellence.

Sun Ray Homes Are Fenced

Our seven miles of decorative cement block fencing—36,912 lineal feet, over five feet high, went into the Sun Ray Estates Homes in Westminster, to make it the first truly "walled City" in Southern California.

Fencing is on every lot and it encompasses all three sides of the back yard, giving the new home owner a multitude of advantages.

Among these are: (1) rear yard privacy as soon as you move in; (2) no fence salesmen bothering you while trying to get furniture squared away; (3) no trouble with neighbors over type and financing of fence; (4) uniformity throughout the area to add to the re-sale value, and (5) by contracting for the entire unit at one time, the builder was able to have the installation made at about one-half of what it would cost the individual.

THIS IS JUST ONE of the major innovations in the Westminster Sun Rays Estates. Custom-made draperies in every room, (there is a wide choice of colorful fabrics to select from) with traverse rods, completely installed are included in the purchase price, starting at $19,300.

Veterans can make the purchase of these luxurious award-winning Provident Series of Sun Ray Homes with no down payment and no costs and impounds. No better deal has ever been offered to GI buyers anywhere, declares a spokesman.

FOR NON-VETS, a 30 year FHA loan at 5½ per cent is available.

Among the many features of these three and four-bedroom homes are, family room with breakfast bar and oak parquet floor; carpeting in the living room, hallway, bedroom, and even in the over-

WITH HYPNOSIS, POSITIVE THINKING . . .

She Shapes Her Own Model Life

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Want the moon? You can have it. So says blond and vibrant Terri Lee Robbe, who leads a charmed life of self-hypnosis and positive thinking—with a bit of extra-sensory perception mixed in. "Actually, all you have to do is go to bat for what you want," says she. And she must be right. Because, so far, her batting average (as licensed hypnotist, professional model and writer) adds up to a thousand.

TWO YEARS ago Terri was widowed by the untimely death of her professional ball-playing husband, "Curly" Robbe, first baseman with the Portland Beavers.

Left with two children—Mike and Kathy, now 11 and 9—she was trained for no particular profession. "I'd been a housewife so many years, I had no idea what I could do," she reflects.

But her thinking-will-make-it-so approach to life soon came to the rescue.

She set up these objectives:

1. To become a professional model;
2. To use her previous hypnosis training in the medical field; 3. To make a good home for her two children.

In two short years, all have come true.

TODAY, she's a busy model, works daily as staff hypnotist for Dr. Charles Bartell at his Signal Hill Alcoholics Hospital, 1600 Orange Ave., gives free lectures at the sanitarium on Monday evenings, teaches classes in self-hypnosis (for loss of weight, habitual smoking, hyper-tension) and is writing a book, "The Magic Key."

The subject: how through one's own mind he can become the person he desires —without tensions, sleeping pills, ulcers, tranquilizers or goof-balls.

"All people can be helped with a more positive attitude toward life," says she.

AND HERS is the voice of experience. Terri has used the positive approach—with overtones of hypnotic persuasion—all her 29 years.

Her father was a hypnotist in home-state North Carolina, back in the river boat days when hypnosis was an entertainment medium.

"The hypnosis, positive-thinking, extra-sensory philosophies run through my entire family," says she. "We THINK things into reality."

WITH NOSTALGIA, she looks back on the time she met her husband.

"I was sitting on the sidelines during a game at Southgate Park watching my to-be-husband play. I must have been sending out strong thought waves—because, he hit me smack on the head with a fly ball."

The result? "He came over to apologize and we were married three months later in Oklahoma."

Since his death, Terri has made good use of her concentrative powers to build a new life for herself and her children.

TAKE THE modeling, for instance. Although she'd had no previous training or

As staff hypnotist at alcoholics hospital, she works under direction of staff physician in treatment of alcoholism, other problems; holds lectures, classes in self-hypnotism.

AS PROFESSIONAL MODEL, Terri Lee Robbe, here pictured during showing at Hawaiian, approaches assignments with positive attitude, self-assurance. An openly magnificent blond, her personal wardrobe is made up of clothes along bone-simple lines. "I like things very plain with no fluff on them at all—no bows, no puffs."

AS WIDOW AND MOTHER, Terri Lee Robbe pinch hits during backyard baseball workout with children Mike, 11, and Kathy, 9. She often warms up Mike for game of Little League, sometimes wearing her best high heels because there wasn't time to change.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, NOV. 5, 1961 SECTION W

HADASSAH MEMBERS DINE, DANCE

It's Their Golden Jubilee

Featuring a golden jubilee theme, the annual benefit dance of Long Beach chapter of Hadassah will be held next Sunday in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

A delightful evening of cocktails, excellent cuisine and outstanding entertainment is planned, according to Mrs. Max Stotland, president, and Mrs. Robert Baldwin, general chairman.

Cocktails will be served at 5:30 p.m., dinner at 6:30. A minimum pledge of $65 is admission to the ball.

HIGHLIGHTING the entertainment will be a song and dance act by comedy team Patti Moore and Ben Lessy. An added attraction: the famous Billy Gray, straight from the Band Box Club in Los Angeles.

Herb Silvers and his band will provide music for dancing.

Adding a serious note will be a talk by Dr. Moshe Feuchtwanger, a graduate of Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical School, now serving as chief physician of general surgery at the hospital in Israel. He is also author of many medical books.

IN ITS 50TH YEAR, Hadassah looks back on a remarkable record of achievement in Israel and the United States. Founded in February, 1912, by Henrietta Szold, Hadassah now numbers 318,000 members.

The program started as a modest attempt to raise health standards of what was then Palestine. It has become an intricate system of healing, teaching and medical research, child rescue work, vocational education, social welfare and land redemption, which has earned international renown.

On the American scene, Hadassah has been noted for its cooperation and participation in all local community affairs.

THE MEDICAL Organization of Hadassah, which benefits from proceeds of the ball, has been main core of the Hadassah program. The new Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center is without parallel; is there to serve Israel, science and all mankind.

Haven for Spare Time, Parts

By MARY NETH

The lady shopper who sticks to hat counters, jewelry bars and dress racks is missing a delightful "other" world. Shopping for car accessories is as intriguing as tracking down dress accessories... well, almost. Such stores carry more than just tires, windshield wipers and puzzling auto parts. There's a lot on the counters to interest non-mechanics, too.

Under $1
Meter muddled? Parking pennies always in the bottom of the purse, or home on the dresser? Quick-change, magnetic coin holder solves the problem. Tuck away somewhere in car, out-of-sight, perhaps, but not out of mind. Dispenser assures change in a minute. Handy, too, for telephone.

Under $2
Trunk traveler. New T handle shovel is handy item for campers to store in car trunk. Measures 27 inches overall. Its neat, nifty, well made and low priced.

Automobile do-it-yourself addicts will find new engine and transmission enamel in spray can an aid. Spray comes in black and red. Sixteen ounces for $1.39.

Sharp turns won't shake it. Family can dine on the go with new no-tip auto food tray. Shatter and stain proof, tray fits over raised area of car floor. There's room for four cups plus food. Long trips won't seem so long when tray's along. Eliminates searching for a level place to put hot cup of coffee when driver needs both hands for wheel.

Another item for compact car owner. Compact, lever-handled grease gun is perfect for working on smaller equipment. New on market, it's good gift for fanatic sports car mechanic.

Let car look out for itself! Guard bell guards it while you're away. When someone tampers with doors, guard gadget sets off horn reaction. Horn blows intermittently while car's being "annoyed" . . . then for five minutes afterward. Easy to install, hard to detect, guard may be placed in motor, under hood or inside car. Is set to blow by hidden switch. Stop thief device ideal for apartment dwellers who park cars on street.

Under $4
New nylon heavy duty strap, complete with hook, is strong enough to lift car in air . . . will hold up to 18,000 pounds. For those going straight . . . not up . . . strap is pulley. It's easier to store and handle than chain; won't rust. Good for around home moving jobs, too.

Wheel for wheels. Under 16, two-wheel drivers will go for new round steering wheel which replaces bicycle handlebars. It's new-

Lit up with no lights. Revolving color wheel lights up modern aluminum Christmas trees by means of light through colored lens. Portable, lamp brings out color of ornaments on tree, eliminates need of stringing unwieldy wires . . . testing bulbs. Also useful for lighting up other types of arrangements and displays.

The aluminum trees come in two sizes (6 ft. and 6½ ft.) are sold by number of branches: 73 branches for $9.39; 46 branches for $4.77.

Under $10
Timely gift for compact car owner. A compact clock, of course. Made with sports and small cars in mind, clock is streamlined looking and space saving.

Shapes Her Own Model Life

experience, her I-want-to-be-a-model plans came off as planned. Here, in broad outline, is how:

She surveyed herself with penetrating eye, corrected the faults she saw, set up a clothes system geared to the model life.

Then, she walked into Vogue Modeling Agency, applied for a job; got it on the spot. In a short time, after some training, she was teaching classes at the school.

Of course, one quickly sums up her assets: handsome 5-feet-7 frame, nicely proportioned figure, good features—also the kind of projected "here I am" personality that seems to fill the corners of every room she enters.

But, says she: "Attitude has made it so. My features are no more than most women have."

Asserting that her own attributes are mind-made, she contends beauty is a mental attitude that comes from within.

"Any woman who thinks beautiful CAN be beautiful," says she. "By planting the idea in her sub-conscious, she automatically does the things that make it so."

AND THE same positive approach goes on at the Robbe home, 6464 Los Arcos, a comfortable abode with wood-burning fireplace, backyard swimming pool—AND the added attractions of a cat with three kittens, also a poodle with four puppies.

In her mother-father role, Terri participates in all her children's school activities . . . whips up holiday surprises at the drop of a calendar . . . often helps her son warm up for a game of Little League (sometimes in her best high heels, because there wasn't time to change.)

How does one accomplish so much, so soon?

Terri sums it up this way: "Anything I want to do . . . for some reason . . . I know I can do. I feel that life is a gift and a privilege—to be lived positively and fully."

"I sincerely believe that anyone can be the person he—or she—wants to be."

The Wild Waves Say . .

By IOLA MASTERSON
I. P.T. Women's Editor

A LIVELY, curious crowd showed up for the dedication party of a new office building last weekend which turned out to be the headquarters of Guy Balser, Alex Horowitz and Joe Abrams. On the surface this doesn't sound unusual. But it actually is a monument to the inquisitiveness and pioneer spirit of our citizenry. You see Messrs. Balser, Horowitz and Abrams' invitations failed to mention whose building or what firm was hosting.

But all's well that adds up to the right total and merry well wishers present at the accountant's party totaled up very nicely—despite the invitational debit. Among those who took a chance on what 3491 Elm Ave. might turn out to be (good natured guesses ranged from mortuary to coffee house) were Cal and "Rod" Strong, Bruce Mason, Les Lawson, Henry Clock, Harold King, Bob Avery, Clare Hamman, Lucille and Harold Gray, Grace and Clarence Knox, Sally and George Badenhausen, John Paap and the Henry Moores.

The attractive structure was designed by Alex's son, Jack. Decorative paintings which graced the office walls were there, courtesy of Ruth Balser. Say, she does right well with brush and canvas.

THIS SEEMS so opulent it's like a Persian fairy tale. I am told that Ann and George Thagard of Downey annually host a trip as casually as thee and me might give a dinner party. This year they took about 60 by chartered plane to San Francisco—put them up in the new wing of the Fairmont; winced and dined them in the sanctum of the Blue Fox wine cellar. Then, again by charter plane, took their guests to Klamath Falls thence into hunting country for the opening of the pheasant season. Trip, which began week ago Thursday, ended Monday. Localites on the 14 karat journey were Mary and Bob Lintz, Barry Merritt, Larry Crager.

DETERMINED to see for themselves how the hula is REALLY done are Barbara and Norb Dean. Somewhat confused, they left for Hawaii yesterday to research this phenomenon of undulation in its native breeding grounds—a trip incidentally, which Norb won. At any rate, last Saturday Joy and Bob Axtell entertained at cocktails prior to the University Club party. They had talked Ruth and "Sandy" Sandberg into a surprise rendition of the hula as a bon voyage for the Deans. In sarongs, yet. After only four rehearsals and a few glasses of champagne-courage it proved quite a preview.

IF YOU'RE an old Wilson grad you may have experienced the ears burning sensation, common to people being talked about, last Tuesday. Alma McFarland had a farewell luncheon for Helen Young before her departure for home in Rhode Island. Campaniles, the Bruin's year books, other school mementoes, were mulled through by guests Jean Wood, Kitty Carroll, Eloise Chase and Lee McFarland. Wotta lotta laffs.

HERE'S hoping Grandma John Cottrell has left something for Grandma Emily Cottrell to brag about when she returns from New York in a couple of weeks. It would be terribly frustrating if every time she tried to tell someone about their first grandson friends smiled condescendingly and gave her the "I know" treatment. Emily and John took off for New York the minute they heard daughter and son-in-law Janet and John Hancock were parents of John Cottrell Hancock. Dr. Cottrell returned here mid-last week while Emily stayed on. All I've got to say—someone in that family of Johns is going to have to settle for Jack, Junior or Charlie.

HOLIDAYS have begun for Jean and Ray Houghton. They "opened" their Christmas gift to each other Thursday night as they sailed aboard P&O's liner, Oronsay, for a 58 day South Pacific cruise. Among farewell parties in their honor was the one given by Ruth and Lyle Payne—a delightful Javanese dinner as a salute to the glamorous places the Houghtons will visit.

GLOATING about having her Christmas shopping well started is Eunice Crail. Personally, I think she's taking unfair advantage of her slower-to-the-counter friends. She has two new granddaughters—both born within the past year—to inspire this early season frenzy.

RUEFULLY settling back into the routine of life as she is usually lived are Ruth and Leroy Jensen. Exciting houseguests, now departed, were Emilio and Meta Glinz of Guatemala. They were here for marriage of daughter, Maya, to Tracy Lay of Santa Monica. Ruth was Maya's official hostess when she was Miss Guatemala in our Miss IBC contest three years ago and that was when the Central American beauty met Tracy and how an international friendship between the Jensens and Glinz began.

SIGN THAT it's time to begin thinking, and seriously, about dusting off your Christmas list is the fact that Viennese Waltz Club is about to begin its season—next Saturday matter of fact. First formal dinner dance at Virginia Country Club will have Helen and Joe Kellogg and Dolores and Herman Weissker as hosts. Assisting will be Byrd and Vern Garten, Roxanna and Eugene Moore, Ola and Don Murphy. Newcomers joining the group as it begins its 18th year will be Fran and Dominic Cavaliere, Janet and "Sven" Runolfson, Hallie and Gay Fisher, Lucille and Lowell Bowman, the Monroe Yunkers and the Bill Harberts.

A LITTLE vacation for Tina and John Biby of five days duration ran the gamut from a total peace and quiet beginning to a joint-is-jumping climax. They spent three days at Cherry Cove aboard their boat, "Madcap"—the only craft in sight; then wound up at Las Vegas where it seemed there were more people playing than dice being.

MOST realistic women's bridge group in town is the Crazy Bridge Club. When a hand is dealt it is the signal for the gals to start talking—and I don't mean bidding. Marge Young entertained the conversation grand slammers at the Yacht Club Wednesday.

INVITED to an informal dinner party Thursday by Doris and Jim Wood, close friends discovered upon arrival they were helping the well known pair celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary. Which only goes to prove again how pffleeting is time.

Arranging display are (left to right) Mmes. Ray Culley, Douglas Morrison and Samuel May. Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; dinner from 5:30 to 7 p.m.—(Staff)

He Went Thataway, but Witch Way Did She Go?

With jaunty, not to say even foolhardy, courage, Jim Edmonds showed Mary Jaene her surprise wedding anniversary gift—it was HIS ticket for a trip to the Virgin Islands. Before she could say, "What about me?", he told her they would leave Halloween night, this crafty timing enabling her to ride her broom. Just before he lost consciousness he admitted he had bought an extra plane ride, just in case.

They flew—one way or the other—first to New York to meet former LBers, Nancy and Peter Frederick, then to Miami for a real estate convention. After palavering there they'll fly to San Juan and on to San Croix Island, returning—via New York again—just before Thanksgiving.

"Witch way?"

The bride-elect is the daughter of Wilfred John Hainley, Long Beach, and the late Mrs. Hainley. She was graduated from St. Anthony's High and LBCC.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scully, San Francisco, attended UC, Berkeley, and the University of San Francisco where he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi.

Mrs. George W. Davis

Becky Perry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leland F. Perry, 105 Rivo Alto Canal, became the bride of George Wallace Davis, Lakewood, in a recent mid-afternoon ceremony at Gloria dei Lutheran Church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of embossed white brocade with panner pleats ending in a train. Her veil of bridal illusion was held by a headdress of pearls and crystals. Her bouquet was of stephanotis and orchids.

AN AUTUMNAL splash of color was added to the wedding through purple brocade dresses of attendants, the bride's sister, Susan, as maid of honor, and Mrs. T. D. Dalton, also a sister, Mrs. James H. Kinney, Mrs. Arne Peterson and Miss Marcia VeDel, bridesmaids. They carried bird of paradise bouquets.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. C. H. Fenton of Lakewood and James A. Davis of Santa Barbara, asked John R. Kelly to serve as best man, and Jim Kinney, Larry Dodd, Hal Lynch and Lee Warnick to usher.

A champagne reception followed at Long Beach Yacht Club with the newlyweds departing later on a Las Vegas honeymoon trip. They are at home in Bellflower.

State College Graduates in Rites

Now at home in Honolulu, Hawaii where the bridegroom is office manager for American Concrete Pipe of Hawaii are newly married Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Donovan.

The bride is the former Mary Alice Wynne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Wynne, Torrance. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. Donovan, 5231 25th St.

Setting for the recent morning wedding vow exchange was St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in floor length Chantilly lace over white taffeta. Her bouffant veil was held by a crystal tiara and she carried white roses.

BRIDAL attendants were Mrs. Michael Donovan, matron of honor, and Misses Sharon Ebacher, Ann Hoppman, Judy McCauley and Michael Wynne, bridesmaids. The bridegroom asked Michael Donovan to serve as best man and Phil Baker, John Carney, Richard Dyer and Emmett Ryan to usher. Laurie Woelm, flower girl, and Johnny Rohutz, ring bearer, completed the entourage.

The new Mrs. Donovan was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and attended LBCC. Her husband, a Wilson alumnus, was graduated from LBSC.

White-Goodart Shades of bronze and gold in flowers and gowns of her attendants contrasted becomingly with the dress of candlelight bridal satin selected by Linda Maurine Goodart for her recent marriage to Stroller Tod White at Community Presbyterian Church.

Her gown was fashioned with full overdraped pannier forming a sweep train and was enhanced with Venice lace. She carried white orchids.

Preceding her to the flower banked altar were her sister, Diana Goodart, maid of honor, Gail White, bridegroom's sister, Mary Jerald, Linda Heckman and Mrs. Dennis Brown, bridesmaids. All wore gold taffeta dresses and carried bronze mums. Linda Pino was flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stroller White of Balboa Island, was attended by Ronald Davis as best man and Robert Coane, Kenneth Shannon, Peter Lewi and Bill Goodart, brother of the bride, seated the 375 guests.

A RECEPTION followed at Petroleum Club with the newlyweds later departing on a honeymoon trip to Mexico. They are home this weekend in Seal Beach.

Mrs. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Goodart, 6495 Brayton Ave., was graduated from Jordan High School, and in June from LBSC where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta. The bridegroom was graduated from Occidental College where he affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega. He received his M.A. degree from LBSC and currently is working toward his doctorate in industrial psychology.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace, also a crown of crystal and pearls with fingertip veil.

PRECEDING the bride to the altar were Mrs. Leroy R. Miller, matron of honor; Lela Weaver, Deanna Sperry, Joanna Dodworth and Patricia Eagen, bridesmaids.

Completing the wedding party were Leroy R. Miller, best man; Ted Deppe, Don Nau, Ted Witt, John Clark and Richard Johnson, ushers.

THE BRIDE was graduated from Millikan High School, where she was a member of Lambda Zeta sorority. Her bridegroom, an alumnus of St. Anthony's High, attended LBCC.

Following a honeymoon at Big Bear, the newlyweds are residing at 3979 Cherry Ave.

Days of Fortv-Niners SEARCH FOR SCHOLARS ON AT STATE COLLEGE

Calling all scholars at Long Beach State: Sigma Sigma is looking for you. President Stan Hilton wants it known that the group is on a membership drive. Most of last year's members have graduated, and there are only 31 names on the roster right now. Stan knows there are many qualified candidates on campus, and he would like them to come forward. To get started in Sigma Sigma, you need 12 units at LBSC with a 3.0 GPA. The path gets steeper for permanent members—check details in the Activities Office. The local group is working on plans to affiliate with the national honorary Phi Kappa Phi.

Chi Gamma Iota, the Vets Club, is doing its part to make next week's Homecoming football game a colorful affair. The group is sponsoring the sale of brown and gold pom-poms and rooters' caps, also in the college colors. Price is nominal, and cap purchasers will get a pom-pom thrown in free.

We want to express our appreciation to Gary Little, 49er Sports Editor, for his efforts in behalf of the fund drive for a LBSC page in the program of the Mercy Bowl football game on Thanksgiving. Gary made a plea to delegates at the leadership conference recently and came back with $27 for the fund. As we understand it, he is still conducting his solo campaign around the campus, and we salute his endeavors.

BIG ITEM THIS WEEK is Homecoming. Stories in other sections of the paper have the details, but we just want to note briefly the Open House from 2 to 5 p.m., Saturday, to which the public is invited; and to remind those alumni planning on attending the Alumni Buffet in the Chart Room at 5 p.m. to get their reservations in ahead of time.

In closing, we noted a "Hill Name Ballot" in last Tuesday's Forty-Niner. Listed are nine candidates for titling the area on which our college is built: Alamitos Hill, Bixby Hill, Cerritos Hill, College Hill, Forty-Niner Hill, Knowledge Knob, Nugget Knoll, Peterson Hill, and Study Slope. Ballot Box is outside the Forty-Niner office. Don't know how others are voting, but we think "Knowledge Knob" has a nice individualistic ring. Winning entry will be suggested to U. S. Board on Geographic Names as the official name for "the hill."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I Spy--And So Does He!

DEAR ABBY: I came home from a football game and put my binoculars on the table. Just for the fun of it I picked them up and started looking out the window at the apartment building across the way. Into focus came another man, looking directly at ME through a pair of binoculars! My heart almost stopped beating. Now I am wondering what kind of a nut lives so near to me. Should I call the police?—MORT.

ABBY

DEAR MORT: Why not give him the benefit of the doubt? He may be as normal as you. Strange how, when the speck is on one's own nose, it is a "beauty mark"—but on someone else's, it's a mole.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's firm promoted him, and moved us to another city 400 miles from our former home. We have one child, Karl, who is 14. Karl was very unhappy over the move because he had to leave all his friends.

We live in a beautiful home in a fine neighborhood, where there are many boys and girls Karl's age, but Karl shows no interest in making friends. He sits around the house and sulks, and looks down-hearted and miserable. He used to be such a happy boy. Did we make a mistake to move? If Karl is going to be miserable it will not have been worth it. Any suggestions?—KARL'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Pretend not to notice Karl's sulking, and he will stop trying to punish you (that's what he's doing, you know) for disrupting his social pattern. He will meet plenty of potential friends at school. If this is the biggest adjustment Karl will ever have to make in his lifetime, he'll be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: You hear so many older people say how terrible the teen-agers of today dress, make up their faces and do their hair. My mother told me herself that 20 years ago she used to put RATS in her hair to make her pompadour stand up higher than anybody else's. Now, can you top that?—LINDA.

DEAR LINDA: The "rats" your mother used to puff up her pompadour were made of synthetic hair. They were not real rats. But the goldfish the college boys of that era used to swallow—just to be cute—were very real indeed. And alive!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SO IN LOVE": The only married man worth waiting for is your own husband.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The elderweds' other son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kennelly, Atlanta, Ga., will participate in the anniversary party by a previously arranged telephone call.

THE KENNELLYS were married in Seattle, Wash., in 1911. They moved to the Southland in 1929 and have

Puppets to Delight Children

Maxim Gershunoff's Children's Theatre of America will make a pre-World's Fair appearance Saturday morning at Long Beach City College with a puppet production of Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

Second in the current Programs for Children series, sponsored by Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc., and the Junior League of Long Beach, Inc., the presentation will feature puppet master, Rene Zendejas, known as the "Puppeteer's Puppeteer." The child-size figures have been elaborately constructed at an average cost of $700 and are so well animated that they have been seen and enjoyed by a crowd of 8,000 in a baseball park.

Ten-year-old Russ Lewis will introduce such characters as Maestro Psst, Alfie, the Elf, a gossamer winged Sugar Plum Fairy, and a complement of woodland creatures. Six-foot sunflowers and caterpillars made of genuine sable will provide additional fascination for young theatergoers.

PERFORMANCES will be at 10 and 11:30 a.m. Season tickets, priced at $2 for the remaining four programs may be obtained from Mrs. Francis Fillipow, 471 Darcia Ave. or at the box office on the morning of the performances.

For the fifth consecutive year, Programs for Children is bringing the finest in varied live theater at minimum cost to children from 5 to 12 years of age. Future productions include "The Unicorn and the Myth Maker" by Immaculate Heart College, "Impressario" by Educational Opera Association, and "Ozma of Oz" by Long Beach Children's Theatre, Inc.

Music for College Days 'Accessible'

A program of "accessible" music will be presented by Long Beach State College Orchestra Thursday in the college theater.

Two free public performances will be given, the first at noon and the second at 1 p.m., as part of the College Days in Long Beach observance which begins today.

Dr. Bertram McGarrity, director, says the music "will be of a type readily accessible to the listener."

The program includes "Jamaican Rumba" by Arthur Benjamin; selections from the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, "Carousel;" and the hilarious "Circus" by Ernst Toch.

Three students will appear as soloists. Jean Hockney will sing "My Hero" from the Strauss operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier." Linda Riddle will conduct her own composition, "La Solita." The final number will be Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with Anita Grossman as soloist.

Museum Exhibit Shows Past, Present Trends

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"The Figure, Past and Present," and Jewelry and Sculpture by Radakovich open today at Long Beach Museum of Art. Each is a visual treasury in its own right.

Bernard Berenson, the eminent art critic says: "I have stated that the human figure must furnish the principal material out of which the graphic and plastic arts are constructed." This thesis is projected in a large showing of both paintings and sculpture beginning with charming figures from the pre-Christian era and logically developing up to the present. Works by Rodin, Matisse, Archipenko and Henry Moore are included. One of the most arresting and charming is a poly-chromed sculpture of St. Catherine, c. 1420 from Burgandy, a transition from the strictness of Gothic to the more "life-enhanced" approach of the Renaissance.

CONTRASTS are interesting; there are contemporaneous examples of American and European early 19th century painting, and, on facing walls, Norman Rockwell's "Television Antenna" and David Park's "Three Male Figures on Beach."

Radakovich's jewelry and sculpture are pensive commentaries on value in a mechanized age. A standing bronze cross is embedded symbolically in a polished and incised black rock. One looks through the open intersection at a pure shape in crystal.

Major & Minor Notes JOAN SUTHERLAND WINS ACCLAIM OF AUDIENCES

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P.T. Music Critic

The sensational opera singer from Australia is Joan Sutherland, about whom I wrote the following after hearing her sing the title role in "Lucia di Lammermoor" with the San Francisco Opera recently:

"Music history was made at the Shrine Auditorium Sunday afternoon when the San Francisco Opera presented the opera "Lucia di Lammermoor" by Donizetti. You have heard the phrase, 'the audience went wild.' Well, that's exactly what happened when the Australian soprano, Joan Sutherland, appeared as Lucia. Never since I heard Caruso at the Metropolitan have I witnessed such frenzy in an opera house. After the Mad Scene, the recalls were so many that I lost count. There has been no singing like it since the days of the de Reszkes, Chaliapin and Rosa Ponselle.

Joan Sutherland is the quintessence of supreme art and vocal mastery. Her voice, unlike other coloratura singers, is big as well as floating, warm as well as liquid. But apart from the glorious phenomenon of the voice itself, Miss Sutherland has a finesse in acting that is rare indeed. Miss Sutherland is destined to become the rave of the operatic world."

TO MY GREAT amazement and joy she telephoned me personally after reading my review and invited me to come in and meet her and her husband. In one of the cozy bungalows of the Chapman Park Hotel in Los Angeles I spent a thrilling hour and a half with this charming couple.

In the old days of Tetrazzini and Melba, after a success as astonishing as that of Joan Sutherland's one would have found a prima donna with muffled throat, who spoke only in whispers—if one could get to her at all. But this was not so with Joan Sutherland. She received me personally at the door with a warm, firm hand clasp.

SHE IS NOT six feet tall as I erroneously stated in my review; she is 5 feet 8½

Gift Shopping? Visit Museum

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

"Art makes ideal Christmas and holiday gifts," reminds Mrs. Martin Garron, chairman of the second annual Art Rental and Sales Show which opens today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

The display, a project of Friends of the Museum, is shown in conjunction with the "Figure, Past and Present," and Jewelry and Sculpture by Radakovich exhibits.

Also on view will be original prints from the Rotten studios of Baltimore, Md. Redon, Chagall and Rouault are a few of the masters represented in the 40 works which will be on sale at prices ranging from $7.50 up. This offers an unusual opportunity to the collector of graphics.

THE FRIENDS note that their current show boasts a wider selection than last year. Some of the artists represented are Vic Smith, Eugene Wallin, Guy Williams, Ulfred Wilkie, Sister Mary Corita and Fran Soldini. Works also have been obtained from local galleries, including Comara, Paul Rivas and Primus Stewart.

An innovation this year is the method of reservation. Each work will carry a tag on which the renter may write his name. He may then return Friday or Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. to pick up the reserved piece instead of waiting until the show closes Nov. 26. Rental will apply to future purchase price, and, of course, works are offered for sale outright.

The Friends also suggest gift certificates as unusual

Christmas presents, not likely to be duplicated.

All exhibits will be seen for the first time today from 1 to 5 p.m.; a reception is scheduled from 2 to 4 o'clock.

ANOTHER enterprise of the Friends of the Museum has been received enthusiastically. The first and just-concluded series of art workshop classes was so well-attended that a second series is slated for eight weeks beginning Nov. 18. Each class will be limited to 25 pupils.

The tentative schedule for Saturday is: Children 6 to 8, 9:30 to 10:45 a.m.; children 9 to 11, 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.; children 12 to 14, 1:30 to 2:45; 15-year-olds to adults, 3 to 4:15 p.m.

Registrations will be taken Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. at the museum; a fee of $6 will cover cost of materials. Parents and friends are invited to view works completed by students of the first classes; refreshments will be served.

The workshop teacher, Dorothy Lanier, holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from New York University, has taught in elementary and secondary schools, was a supervisor of art, and taught at People's Art Center at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

SAN PEDRO Art Association, 820 S. Beacon St., will exhibit oils, water colors and mixed media in its fall juried show which begins today from 4 to 6 p.m.

Cash prizes will be awarded by the jury—John Weeks, Mildred Walker and Wayne Long. The show will run

AMERICAN SCENE

Contemporary America is reflected in Norman Rockwell's "Television Antenna," a high light of the show which opens today at Museum of Art. The large painting, meticulous in detail, is on loan from Los Angeles County Museum. Also on view are "Two Nudes," by Auguste Rodin; "Boy in Blue," by Whistler; "Honey Is Sweeter Than Wine," by Dali; and "Arabian Bride," by Klee.

who could do the Mad Scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor" so magnificently with all its high E's, arpeggios and trills sing Wagner?" I asked.

"My husband developed my upper range, unknown to me," she said. "In practicing he would take me higher than I thought until the very high upper range was perfected." It was then that he persuaded her to sing the coloratura roles; an art which is fast dying out.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

She's Still a Child

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My wife is 16 years old and so I suppose I shouldn't expect too much. We've only been married five months, but all she talks about is how old I am—I'm 26. And all she does is complain about having to get up and get my breakfast.

I admit she has to get up early, as I have to be on the job by seven. But, Molly, surely it isn't any harder for her to get up and fix some coffee and eggs and toast for me than it is for me to get up and drive 12 miles to my job and work there eight long hours.

Guess this is what I get marrying a child—UP-SET.

DEAR UPSET:

Your wife must be as spoiled as she is selfish. And she sure is acting more like a child than a young woman. Maybe she should be treated like a child if she is going to act like one. Maybe you ought to turn her over your knee and give her a spanking?—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I certainly married into an odd family. My mother-in-law is constantly boasting about my husband's ancestors, and acts very hoity-toity when I admit I don't know overmuch about mine. My father-in-law can't talk about anything but big business, and seems ashamed of the fact that my dad is just a foreman in an electric plant.

I'm very proud of my folks. Dad has worked hard to get where he is, and Mom often worked to help him out, as there were six of us kids to bring up.

So far I have not lost my temper with my in-laws—but I'm liable to! Help, help!—MARIAN.

DEAR MARIAN:

Sometimes a young wife has to have pretty thick skin to put up with in-laws, and, apparently, this is one of those times.

They may irk you, Marian, probably even hurt your feelings. But you are the winner, my dear, if you can keep your sense of humor, and not let their irksome ways ever really touch the inner you.

Hard, it's true—but so rewarding to show them they can't really touch you, no matter what they say—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Several years ago—five to be exact—I gave my nephew some rather special cuff links with figures of the Statue of Liberty on them. He had just been divorced and I considered these appropriate.

Yesterday was my husband's birthday and my nephew's new wife sent a gift. Yes, you can guess. It was the same set of cuff links.

I am quite sure my nephew didn't know. But isn't it rather shabby to take old gifts and pass them out for new? I'm not exactly hurt, but somewhat—ANN-OYED.

DEAR ANNOYED:

Keep them, my dear, and send them back to your nephew this Christmas.—M. M.

WHY do stores start Christmas before Thanksgiving?

That's a question that's often asked and it deserves a sincere answer!

We appreciate the spirit that prompts many of the objections to early Christmas shopping promotions. However, when the reasons for the urge to "Shop Early" are examined, the most critical agree it's MORE than a problem for stores alone.

So we're happy to take this opportunity of presenting some of the problems that confront all stores at holiday time.

Every successful store directs its best effort towards perfecting a helpful service to ALL its customers. And since many customers ask stores to make it easier for them to complete their gift shopping before the crowded post-Thanksgiving period, Christmas merchandise and displays are brought forward early to accommodate them.

And scarcely a major store in the nation could cope with the store traffic that would be generated if any part of early Christmas shopping was postponed until after Thanksgiving. Even under present circumstances most stores are strained to capacity during the peak of the season, to maintain the kind of store service all shoppers have learned to expect. When you recall the extremely crowded conditions of stores the final two or three weeks before Christmas the problem becomes evident. If no early Christmas shopping was done, this condition would be multiplied many fold. (Actually there would not be enough room behind store counters for enough sales people to serve shoppers during this period between Thanksgiving and Christmas.)

The same condition exists in regard to the children's visits to Santa Claus. Thousands of children and their parents look forward to their annual visit with him, and unless he makes an early appearance, many hundreds would be doomed to disappointment, simply because it's physically impossible to reach him in a shorter time.

Those in the store business know that an extremely large percentage of the Christmas gifts that are selected are items that are in plentiful supply the entire year.

If you were to ask the thousands of retail employees—and as a group they represent one of the largest employee groups in the nation) they would tell you that much of the stress and strain of their Christmas would be relieved if the shopping public would anticipate Christmas shopping throughout the year. (Then you'd seldom hear your friends in retailing remark, "I'm simply worn down to my knees by Christmas Eve.")

Granted that the problem is not a one-sided one. It should be recognized that stores are faced with the problems of convenient service to customers, of maintaining helpful employee relations, of providing a place where those of the public who cannot, or do not, plan ahead may select the traditional gifts for their loved ones and friends.

We are sure that if storekeepers everywhere could chat with you, personally and informally, that you would be convinced of their sincerity, and that in the true spirit of Christmas they would not be criticized for their efforts to perform a helpful service to their shopping public.

Romance On a High Level

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Washington and California met 10,000 feet over Winslow, Ariz. The "Washington" is the former Barbara Erickson of Seattle—the "California" is today's Chef of the Week, Jack London Jr.

Winslow, Ariz., was the scene of formation flying—Barbara in her plane, Jack in his. Today, they are Mr. and Mrs. Jack London, and their landing field is Long Beach. He is owner of the Acme Industrial Supply Co., suppliers of precision measuring equipment and electronic parts for aircraft and missile industries.

It all began on that never-to-be-forgotten date, Dec. 7, 1941. Jack, a member of the Army Air Corps, was instructor in charge of flight training Air Transport Division. She was in that same division. Flying P-38s, they had, unbeknown to each other, left Long Beach airport a few minutes apart. They were enroute to Newark, N.J. Spotting a P-38 in the air, he joined it in formation-flying. It wasn't until they made their routine landing at Winslow, however, that Jack knew his "fellow" pilot was a girl. Nor did he ever forget it.

THE LONDONS came from Oklahoma when Jack was still a toddler. Fremont

and Lowell Grammar Schools, Jefferson Junior High, Wilson High and Long Beach City College preceded his accepting a position in Palm Springs as swimming instructor.

Before too long he joined the Flying Club. Part of the initiation was a 30-minute plane ride. He liked it so well, he signed up for lessons, and thus began his flying career. His first position was flyer-demonstrator for the Piper Distributing Co. of California, Arizona and Nevada.

As of Dec. 7, however, commercial flying ended, and Army flying began. Everything from single engine pursuit planes to 4-engine bombers came under his control. He became the third air force pilot ever to fly the new Lockheed Jet in 1945. Advancing from a second lieutenant to a full colonel and a command pilot, he presently has a mobilization assignment at Travis Air Force Base as director of operations.

His reserve assignment each year takes him to Japan. He thinks that country a perfect wonderland—including the "hotsu batsus" (hot baths complete with attendants). This past summer flying a C-133 Turbo Prop Cargo Plane, he covered 17,000 miles in 14 days.

LONDON belongs to the Los Angeles Industries Club and is membership chairman of the Los Angeles Industries Distributors Association. He is fleet captain of the National Fleet, Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, and both he and Barbara belong to the Aviation Country Club. They have two little "Powder Puff" future contenders, Terry, 13 and Kristine 11. They, as a family, enjoy sailing, swimming and water polo.

Little did our "chef" dream when, as a lad, he commandeered a Press-Telegram newspaper route, that one day he would land on the Woman's Page, cooking a batch of Sukiyaki.

Voice of the Vikings FUTURE BRIGHT FOR 'ALL COLLEGE SING'

Business, Technology

An "All College Sing" is scheduled at 11 a.m. Wednesday for students of the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division. It's the first event of its kind at the Pacific Coast Hwy. campus but may well develop into an annual extravaganza.

Special attractions for Wednesday's program are also being planned by music director Earl Thomas and organist Orville R. Foster.

For the sixth straight year, LTD's Associated Junior Retailers had the honor of judging the downtown window displays during "Good Old Days" and the group is now planning a campus fashion show in December. Current A.J.R. officers are Ed Buras, president; Joan Glasier, Mary Jo Petersen, and Al Winters.

With an eye to college service and public relations, members of Norsemen and Kisab have joined forces to patrol the campus parking lots several evenings a week. Their special mission: to hold a reserved parking area for the management and labor members of the Joint Apprenticeship Committee which hold regular meetings on the LTD campus.

Liberal Arts

With the fun-filled Homecoming Week celebrations at Long Beach City College finally over, faculty members and students will get back to the old grind tomorrow. However, many events and activities will highlight the coming week.

"United States Propaganda Abroad" will be title of the Student Forum in the school auditorium Wednesday at 11 a.m. Dr. Totton J. Anderson, political science professor at USC, will discuss the propaganda methods of the United States abroad in combatting communism and winning prestige for the U.S.

Anderson's talk will be the first of two lectures dealing with international propaganda techniques before the forum on Nov. 29. Also on Wednesday, the CRA women's basketball team will travel to Fullerton Junior College for a game. The Long Beach contingent won the women's championship last year without a defeat.

MEMBERS of the 1961 spring semester Viking newspaper staff were recently notified that their paper was one of four junior college bi-weekly publications to be given an "All-American" honor rating by the consecutive semester the semester the newspaper had been awarded the honor.

Heading the staff was John Mullikin, LBCC graduate, who served as editor-in-chief. Other key members included Del Daniel, managing editor; Linda Gallagher, news editor; Jan Parberry, activities editor; Bob Shibley, sports editor, and Joan Lindgren, representative of publications.—DEL DANIEL

Mrs. Lee Carter Takes Presidency

Mrs. Beulah Nelson of Long Beach, first vice president of State of California Grandmothers, will install Mrs. Lee Carter as president of North Long Beach Grandmothers Club 57 during a luncheon meeting Monday at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Others assuming board of directors posts are Mmes. Everett Harris, Hazel Markham, Jean B. Miller Sr. and Harold West. State officers, members of nearby clubs and prospective members will attend.

Oswald Jacoby Bids Make Grand Slam

Here is an actual hand from one of the matches in this summer's knockout team championships which shows another gambling grand slam.

Charles Gabriel, sitting North, opened two clubs as a force. Many experts today use other two bids as weak hands, but reserve two clubs for all rockcrushers.

Dr. John Fisher, sitting South, had just enough for a positive response. (The negative response is two diamonds.)

West did not know who was going to do what to whom, but he decided that a five diamond bid would stir things up.

IT SURE DID. Gabriel went into a trance. Decided that he could not buy the hand below seven and that if he did bid seven the one sure thing would be that he would not have to look at a diamond lead. After all, West was a great expert who shall be nameless and East would never play Gabriel for any diamonds if he jumped to seven.

So Gabriel bid seven and things worked out even better than he had hoped. To start with, West doubled. Gabriel did not redouble. He felt that a redouble would give away the fact that he was void of clubs.

So he just passed and let West drop a high club on the table. Dr. Fisher ruffed in dummy and had no trouble setting up the spades upon which to discard his two losing diamonds.

Tint Rug Spots

Bleach spilled on dark cotton rugs can be made less noticeable by applying food coloring to the lightened spot. The coloring will have to be replaced when the rug is washed, but it is a cheap and easy way to make the rug presentable.

Dodge Dart Visits Health Spa

Week-End Adventure

MOTORLOG to MURRIETA

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Back in 1902, Fritz Guenther, just over from Germany, happened upon the early California health spa of Murrieta Hot Springs, a small collection of tents and shacks some 11 miles south of Lake Elsinore.

With visions of a health spa matching the famed mineral springs resorts of Germany and Europe, Guenther purchased the property and proceeded to put his dream into action. Fifty-nine years later, through the efforts of father, sons and grandson, Murrieta Hot Springs has grown to become one of the best-known health resorts in California.

And back in 1914, having given up their bicycle shop in a small Detroit town to turn to horseless carriage construction, John and Horace Dodge produced their first Dodge Brothers automobile to launch the success story of one of the great names of motordom.

And there's still another "way back" in this motorlog story as it was the Glenn E. Thomas Dodge agency here that provided our tour car last week-end—a beautiful new 1962 Dodge Dart hardtop for our run down to general manager of the Murrieta resort. For it was back in 1909—52 years ago—that Glenn E. Thomas' father, Walter L., first began his automotive career in a small garage which stood on the site of the present-day Buffums' parking lot on downtown Pacific Ave.

WARM MINERAL WATER POOL AT MURRIETA

Dodge Dart Motorlog car hovers over huge swimming pool at Murrieta Hot Springs, south of Elsinore, Calif. Pool is fed by filtered water from warm mineral spring. V-8-powered Dart scored 18.4 miles per gallon on 198-mile trip.

Well, with this historic background, let's get on with the trip. It was Monte Davis, brand new miles as we left the Anaheim and Elm showroom new, the of Dodge. ultra-modern air-conditioned bungalows at $36 daily for two. Life at Murrieta, we soon found, revolves around the healing properties of the warm waters that bubble up from unknown depths at several places on the grounds. Hot, natural tulle mud and hot mineral water baths, combined with the drinking of the mineral waters form the basis of Murrieta treatments. Lorraine and I sampled the hot water as it came gurgling out of a well but I was never one to go for a hot water drink except maybe around Christmas time and then it might have something a little more substantial in it than sulphate of lime and chloride of sodium. The wife concurred.

But the baths, massages and bubbling water aren't all the activities here, we found after a chat with George Blake who manages the sprawling resort. There is hiking to Cold Water Springs in nearby Murrieta Canyon. Horses are available for riding over mountain trails. There is rabbit, dove and quail hunting in season, and croquet, tennis and badminton courts are on the grounds. A billiard room is available and free movies are offered for guests.

Informal dancing every night but Sunday is offered for those who have been imbued with new zing from the spring.

DINNER VARIETY

A late dinner that Saturday night offered a variety of appealing entrees. Our family-style chicken and steak dinners were seasoned to perfection and included everything from soup to lox. Other selections included lobster and lamb chops, and were served in ample quantity, we could see.

An after-dinner drink seemed in order now so we adjourned to the Forty-Niner's Room done in the decor of the gold rush days. Adjoining was a huge card room with every table filled with avid players. The game was panguinea, Bartender Zeke Lieferman explained, an intricate type of gin rummy played with eight decks, and it looked too involved to request an explanation.

Health-seekers, fun-seekers... it was a gay, animated group enjoying the hospitality of Murrieta's Forty-Niner's Room this Saturday evening.

Late Sunday morning saw us simmering in the huge warm mineral water pool till time for lunch which afforded such niceties as squab chicken with wild rice, roast beef, swiss steak and other delights. You can see they dine well at Bud Guenther's table, grandson of founder Fritz, who now operates the health resort.

Two p.m. saw us back in

When the Army was experimenting with camels, this was a scene at military headquarters in Wilmington. Outbreak of the Civil War caused scheme to lose interest.

WHEN LT. BEALE, commandant at Ft. Tejon, California paraded his high-stepping, silver-belled camel corps down the streets of the drowsy little pueblo of Los Angeles in 1857 it was the second time around for the camels.

Ships That Cruised the Desert

By V. Franklin Limerick

Thousands of years before herds of these animals had roamed the area. Why they became extinct is an unsolved scientific puzzle.

It was on May 16, 1856, that the first army-sponsored camels were unloaded at Powder Horn, Tex., for their overland trip to California. Jeering and jostling, the motley crowd shouted insults at the bright-sashed, burnoosed and turbaned camel tenders, imported with their charges. The unwelcoming committee loudly and profanely criticized the peculiar looking and smelling "critters."

Weeks later, a strange looking caravan of horses and wagons, mules and men, camels and cameleers left Texas for the long, perilous journey across Indian infested territory for the west coast. The little-known country of the Southwest was to be surveyed en route.

After expected incidents with weather, difficult terrain and Indians the expedition arrived in California. The camels had stood up well on the trip and had proved to be superior to the other animals in many ways. They required very little water and seemed to enjoy a prickly pear diet. And when the going got really rough and there was a dire need for nourishment they could draw on the built-in supply on their mounded backs.

Patiently, they bore their burdens and they held their own with the thievish redskins.

Siesta time was shattered when the one and two-humped animals marched into the small, sleepy city of Los Angeles. Attired in bright blankets, blue beads and bells, the haughty animals stalked past gaping citizens, looking down their noses with heavy lidded eyes. The awe-inspiring spectacle routed some of the inhabitants to the spot.

ALTHOUGH THE camels turned in a good performance and did more than was expected of them, the venture was ill-timed. The Civil War broke out in 1861 and interest in the camel corps lagged. Soon afterwards the idea originated by the then secretary of war, Jefferson Davis, and promoted by Lt. Beale died of neglect.

For awhile the camels were indifferently used for one minor project or another. The temperamental animals required special handling. The soldiers hated the lofty creatures and were accused of abusing and mishandling them.

Most of the foreign cameleers soon returned to the land from whence they came. Of the few who stayed, history remembers only three: Greek George is buried at Whittier; Mico settled in Texas and is said to have descendants there today. The

By Ellen Saunders

WEEKEND touring in the desert may easily include an interesting side trip to the Edward-Dean Museum of Decorative Arts in Cherry Valley, less than an hour's drive from Palm Springs.

The museum houses Riverside County's most diversified collection of art and sculpture, valued at $1 million, and attracts about 7,500 visitors annually. It is open again, after being closed in August, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Admission is free. J. Edward Eberle and Dean Stout, owners and founders of the museum, planned it that way.

Eberle, a real estate investor and art lover, says, "This is our dream, a museum where the best in art could be made available to everyone. My mother was an artist and early in life I learned to distinguish between good and bad art. Then I met Dean who is an interior decorator, and our collection, like Topsy, just grew.

"THREE YEARS ago I bought a fruit farm here and built a weekend home. It was then that we decided to build the $225,000 structure which houses our collection."

The spacious rooms of the museum are cheerful and the art objects have been arranged with care. The immediate impression gained by a visitor is that of entering a private residence filled with beautiful belongings.

Although each century is represented in the treasures on display in the gallery's four main rooms, art objects of the 18th and 19th centuries predominate. The majority of them were picked up at a fraction of their worth by Eberle during eight trips to Europe.

"Mostly at public auctions," Eberle stated. "I've made a hobby of buying the best at the lowest price." As an example he cited a Pissaro valued at $7,000 and for which he had paid $20.

"I DIDN'T KNOW when I bought it that it was a Pis-saro," he admitted, "but I did sense that it was something good. The dealer was only too happy to get rid of it."

Several art objects are of interest not only because of their own intrinsic value, but because of their association with famous personalities. A lacquered table inlaid with mother of pearl was once owned by Ellen Terry, the noted actress. There is a chair formerly the property of Lord Nelson, crystal chandeliers which belonged to the Duke of Windsor and a bronze statue of "Icarus" which one was in the Hermann Goering collection.

NORWEGIAN pine paneling in the Pine Room, the work of Grenling Gibbons, famed 17th century wood carver, was brought intact from the home of the Earl of Essex.

One entire wall is taken up with water colors of the 18th and 19th century.

In the basement is a research library containing several hundred volumes, many of them priceless because of their bindings and prints. Eberle says it ranks with the Claremont College Library as possessing one of the two finest collections of books on decorative arts to be found in Southern California.

Students are allowed to do research in the library without charge any day except Sunday or Monday.

The museum is located at 9401 Oak Glen Road, Cherry Valley. It can be reached from Beaumont by driving about four miles north on Beaumont Avenue, which becomes Oak Glen Road at the north edge of Cherry Valley.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of LE CLERCQ and LE CLERC.—Mrs. A.D., Anaheim; R.L., Long Beach.
A.D., R.L.: DE CLERCQ and LE CLERC both mean "cleric" which in medieval France was a lay-member of the clergy. These names originated in northwest France. The Le Clerc coat-of-arms, granted at Lyon, has three silver coins and a golden chevron on a blue shield. The De Clercq shield was granted at Bruges, Belgium, and has a silver horizontal stripe surrounded by three gold sea-shells on a blue background. Seashells indicated ancestral participation in the 12th century Crusades to the Holy Land.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze KING.—A.K., Bell Gardens; Mrs. F.F., M.B., Long Beach.
A.K., F.F., M.B.: KING had two sources. One, from an English inn-sign, designated the "King's Inn" whose owner became identified as "King," first by village humorists, later by tax collectors. Alternately, in yearly medieval religious pageants, the man who portrayed the king was eventually called King. The King coat-of-arms has a golden rampant lion on a black shield. Thomas King of England, born about 1620, was among early Massachusetts settlers.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like brief genealogy on CORREIA from Portugal.—J.C., Seal Beach.
J.C.: CORREIA refers back many centuries to a remote Portuguese ancestor whose occupation of "correia" meant "maker of leather belts and straps." No coat-of-arms is recorded for this lineage.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain BURNHAM.—D.B., San Pedro; R.B., E.H., Long Beach.
D.B., R.B., E.H.: BURNHAM is from a locality in Somerset, England. This placename decipheres as "From the brook-land." The town name is listed as Burnhamme in the will of King Alfred the Great who died in A.D. 901. The Burnham family coat-of-arms from Suffolk has a silver cross between four silver crescents on a black shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you analyze HENNESSEY and HENNESSEE.—Mrs. F.H., Long Beach; Mrs. R.H., Lakewood.
F.H., R.H.: HENNESSEY, famous in Irish history, is traced to an early Gaelic leader called Aonghus whose name meant "one-choice" or "unique strength." Aonghus' descendants became the clan "O'Haongusa which was eventually modernized to O'Hennessey. Ancestral records of this family are found in Offaly, Meath and Thomond in the Emerald Isle. The world-famous French brandy by this name was first produced by an Irish family who settled at Charante, France, in the late 1600s.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you genealogy on BURRI.—Mrs. R.R., Long Beach.
R.R.: BURRI is from Italian Switzerland. This surname is based on an ancient German-Gothic warrior title "Bod-Rued" meaning "Herald-counsellor." The Burri coat-of-arms from Winterthur, where this family had a manor house, in German Switzerland, has six horseshoes in natural coloring on a silver bar that lies below a gold star and above a gold diamond on a red shield.

The Desert Is Forever New

By Robert Wilcox

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS long ago learned that they couldn't change the dictionary's unflattering definition of a desert as "barren and uninhabited."

They changed the desert instead. Blushing not unseen on Noah Webster's so-called "wasteland" are fabulous Palm Springs, the "Jewel Box of the Desert"; the lush winter-growing farmlands of the Imperial Valley and the palatial Scotty's Castle of awesomely named Death Valley, among other man-made spectacles.

Yet carefully unchanged is the desert's spectacular beauty which lends a feeling of oneness with nature captured in this description:

"For the fascination of the desert is that it remains forever an undiscovered country, new though man has passed through many times."

AMONG THE FIRST "passing through" Palm Springs were "35 passengers not counting the driver and a Chinaman" aboard the first stage from San Bernardino into the Indian country in the 1860s. They reportedly were moved mainly by the scenic beauty of the sun reflecting from the gold they hoped to find in the nearby mountains.

The first permanent settlers of what was to be called "the nation's foremost desert resort" were brought in 1884 by Judge Guthrie McCallum to the community of Agua Caliente (Hot Water) as Palm Springs was named by the Indians.

Present civic leaders give generous credit to the founding fathers for guiding the growth of the village to preserve its atmosphere and serenity while creating a modern winter-spring resort area.

VISITORS TODAY are struck first with the beauty of Palm Canyon Drive, the spa's main thoroughfare, in sharp contrast with the streets of other resort areas.

No glaring neon signs or brightly illuminated unattractive advertisements clutter or distract from the drive's natural beauty.

Stretching 2½ miles and spaced 20 to 30 feet apart, stately palms line both sides of the street. When the afternoon sun sinks behind the peaks of Mt. San Jacinto (10,805 feet), suddenly 1,000 palms are lighted in spectacular array.

After a quick sightseeing trip through town, our travelers—two hours from Long Beach—are faced with making a difficult selection of lodging from among more than 350 hotels and apartments at a wide range of prices, nearly all of which include swimming pools.

(Palm Springs with its noontime average temperature of 83 degrees calls itself the "Swimming Pool Capital of the World"—2,600 pools, or one for every five persons among its official population of 13,000.)

ONCE SETTLED, the visitors probably will be ready for an evening out and again face a happily difficult selection from among dozens of top restaurants offering a wide selection of food and prices.

Among top attractions are the Chi

Chi which features a "name" floor show, Romanoff's on the Rocks, the Dunes and the Doll House. After dinner one of the desert community's noted theater attractions may beckon.

The visitors may be wise to reserve the next morning for a shopping tour around the village where they're apt to encounter any of the dozens of notable desert dwellers.

The roster includes Honorary Mayor Bob Hope, Desi Arnez, the Phil Harrises (Alice Faye), Hoagy Carmichael, Frank Sinatra, Groucho Marx and others. Shopping list items can be obtained at Alan Ladd's hardware store or Jolie Gabor's pearl salon.

FACED WITH the choice of afternoon amusements, the visitors may decide to extend their stay. Just a few include golfing (12 courses), swimming, hiking, horseback riding, burro riding and tennis. (The Chamber of Commerce advertises: "Everything Under the Sun.")

Major winter and spring special events include "Western Week," the Palm Springs Golf and Tennis tournaments, National Art Week, All-Star Police Show, Palm Springs European Sports Car Race, Mounted Police Rodeo and Desert Circus Week.

The many canyons surrounding the resort offer a prime attraction. Visitors, cameras in hand, may journey a short distance to picturesque Tahquitz Canyon with its spectacular 60-foot waterfall.

Located on Indian territory 15

Andreas Canyon, five miles from the heart of Palm Springs is ever-new in its appeal to visitors who ride and hike in to enjoy its features.

Golf courses abound in the Palm Springs area, and Eldorado Country Club is one of these—sporty, beautiful and richly appointed. One of its landscape features is a man-made lake near the $2 million clubhouse.

The Desert Is Ever New

minutes away from the city are Palm and Andreas Canyons, the former a 15-mile-long desert gorge with a stream running off the mountains through 3,000 towering palms.

GIANT INDIAN grinding stones more than 100 years old may be found in Andreas Canyon, named for Capt. Andreas of the Cahuilla Indian tribe which inhabits the area.

Also beckoning to tourists who want to extend their trip through Southern California's fantastic desert wonderland is Imperial Valley with its famed "orphaned ocean," the Salton Sea, highly saline and warm for winter swimming. The sea is a favorite place for winter boating, water skiing and fishing for the sporty big corvina.

Visitors will see the valley's lush farmlands slope down to 235 feet below sea level. Its colorful town names include Calipatria, Niland, El Centro, Brawley, Holtville, Imperial and Calexico.

ANOTHER desert locale, Death Valley, boasts perhaps the state's most spectacular panorama as seen from Dante's View. By looking up, visitors can see the top of 14,495-foot Mt. Whitney, highest spot in the continental United States. By looking down, they can scan the salt pool of Bad Water, 282 feet below sea level, the deepest point in three continents.

Another resort area is booming in the high desert on two sides of Victorville, just off Highway 66. A few miles to the east is prospering Apple Valley, a short distance south, Hesperia.

Concluding their desert trek, tourists probably will find that no matter how long they've stayed they haven't seen it all. The desert claims a fantastic "rate-of-return."

"THOUSANDS of people have found Palm Springs since the Indians came and have returned again and again," boasts the Chamber of Commerce.

All of which tends to temper the dictionary's outdated definition of the desert, although, going back a few years, desert devotees prefer to quote the Bible: "And the desert shall blossom like a rose."

They challenge you to see the phenomenon for yourself.

With 1,000 palms lining its sides and lighted individually at night, Palm Canyon Drive is intriguing.

The Windfall of the Navajos

By Elizabeth
Cannon Porter

NAVAJOS make up the largest Indian tribe in the United States. Numbering less than 10,000 a century ago, the Navajos are now in excess of 80,000. Most of them live on a reservation of 16,000,000 acres of semi-arid land carved out of sections of Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

Navajo means "cultivated land in a canyon." It is estimated that this tribe first came to this locality 600 years ago. Before sheep, horses and cattle were introduced into America by the Spaniards, they were a small tribe that lived by hunting, raiding and gathering roots and seeds. They stole squaws and sheep from the Pueblos. Instead of eating the sheep, they bred them and tended flocks.

During the American occupation they were a source of much trouble. In 1863, Kit Carson, who resided at Taos, was commissioned to round up the Navajos. After destroying their supplies he marched 8,000 of them to an encampment at the Bosque Redondo near Fort Sumner. Unused to confinement, many died. When they were released five years later they were given clothing worn in the 1860s.

The lands that were assigned to them were vast in scope but rich only in scenery—desert, cliffs and mysterious canyons in the colorful hues of the West. Today, a windfall is in prospect: Oil, uranium and other minerals of value have been found on the reservation. The lands may yet yield a more fitting inheritance for the Navajos.

NOW THE MEN usually wear gaudy shirts, blue denim trousers, earrings, belts studded with huge silver conchos, and either worn Stetsons or bright bands tied around their long hair; the women, clad in velvet tunics and flowered or brightly colored voluminous skirts, often carry their black-eyed babies strapped in cradleboards.

The Navajos' ceremonial dances are famous. Some are for curing the sick. The Squaw Dance serves the older people as a general gathering and a mating ceremony for the younger. The rites occur in summer and fall; beginning at midnight and lasting until dawn. A girl chooses a man by tugging at his coat. If he likes her he continues to dance with her; if he prefers another he must pay his partner.

The Navajo has the odd custom of the "avoidance relation." A married man must never look at or speak to his mother-in-law.

Navajo reservation trading posts offer blankets and turquoise and silver jewelry.

HOGANS MADE of poles and brush in a tent form serve the Navajos in summer. A look inside discloses only a stone fireplace. In the top is a smoke hole. Entrances all face east. The Indians sleep on the floor on sheepskins.

Nomads, who follow their flocks, the Navajos have sheep corrals, ramadas and more substantial hogans for the winter. They are built of logs or rocks and covered with adobe.

This mud hut is thus described by the Navajos: "Built of poles of white shell, turquoise, obsidian, jet, and red sandstone" and at the entrance is "a fourfold curtain of dawn, skyblue, evening twilight, and darkness."

The Indian brings in his rug, bracelet or wool to the trading post and is credited with the value of his product. From this credit he purchases coffee, flour, sugar, velvet or other goods. Business is conducted in the Navajo language.

Trek to Death Valley

Death Valley's sand dunes shift with the winds, form spectacular patterns.

Miners left their mark on the rugged peaks and in the barren canyons that isolate the valley. These cars were part of one mine operation. Death Valley has long been a mecca for hardy prospectors.

By Sharon Elgin

HELLHOLE OF HEAT in summer, Death Valley National Monument opens its regular season Oct. 15 to the vanguard of thousands of sight-seers and vacationists who will trek to the area until next May 15.

The area will swarm with visitors beginning next Thursday when the Death Valley 49ers' annual encampment opens at Furnace Creek and Stove Pipe Wells. Continuing through next Sunday, days of the Old West, when the desert was the domain of the intrepid prospector, will live again. The program will include dancing, conducted tours, exhibits, burro races and religious services.

FAMED FOR ITS scenery, as a scene in the drama for gold in the Far West, and as the lowest land point in the Western Hemisphere, this 3,000-square-mile region also is rich in scientific and human interest.

For centuries Death Valley was inhabited by Panamint Indians, part of the Shoshone nation that existed following the seasons in incessant migration between valley floor and mountain slopes. Their ingenuity in utilizing every edible or otherwise useful plant and catching animals for food developed unusual endurance, perhaps originating from the hunters of big game and mammoths at the end of the Ice Age.

Historically, discovery of the southern end of the valley is attributed to Gen. John C. Fremont in 1844 but in 1849 was written a tale of suffering by a wagon train of half-starved immigrants called the Jayhawker Party and the Bennett-Arcana group having finally crossed to civilization.

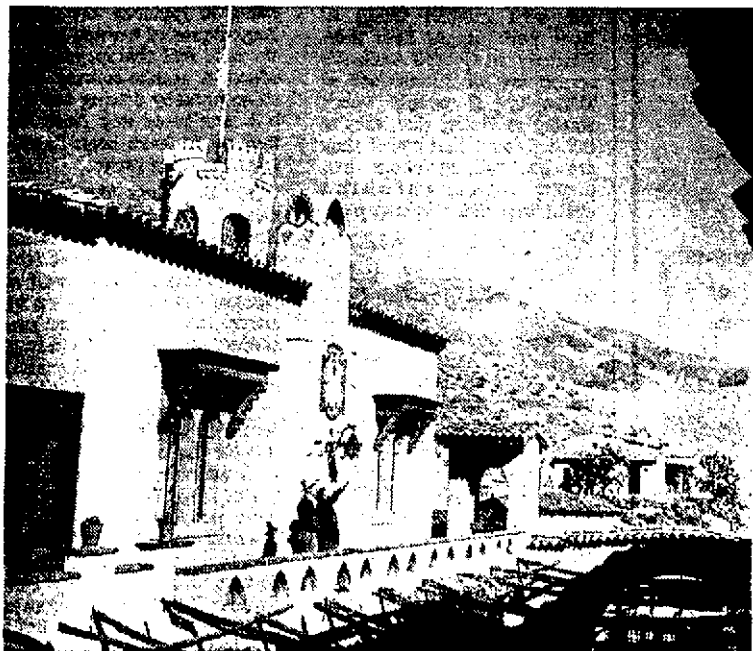

WORD OF THE country gradually spread and forty-niners went there to prospect for silver, although it was borax that brought the railroad near. An ex-cowboy called Death Valley Scotty came later to intrigue adventuresome visitors. Now visitors can enjoy the area, entering by car or plane.

Strata formed by earth materials deposited by wind, water and volcanoes have been changed by heat, pressure and deformation to form many varied

Badwater Bill and his burro, Beulah, will attend Death Valley 49ers fete this week.

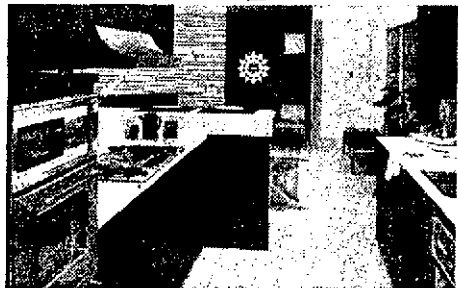

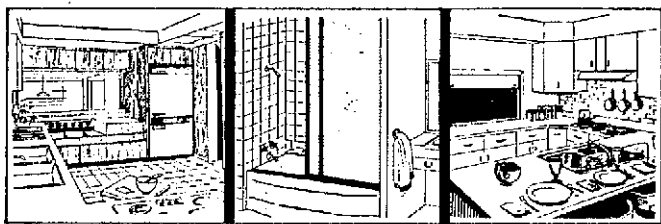

Death Valley Scotty intrigued tourists for years with the mystery of his origin and existence in this elaborate retreat known as Scotty's Castle.

In the 1880s, "cotton ball" borax was produced and freighted over agonizing miles of desert in these heavy-duty, high-wheeled, 20-mule wagons.

Fast change of pace for Audrey Hepburn finds her cast as Holly Golightly in film, "Breakfast at Tiffany's."

Man, What a Party!

HOLLY GOLIGHTLY without doubt ranks as the most dynamic and provocative character ever to splash across the pages of a Truman Capote manuscript — a distinction not to be taken lightly, considering that Capote is the creator of some of the most stunningly bizarre and touching people in contemporary fiction.

On her celebrated first appearance in print, Holly was a major conversation piece in publishing circles—and ever since, she has been a topic of discussion, just as she is in her own modish world of New York's upper East Side. Fittingly, in George Axelrod's screenplay of "Breakfast at Tiffany's," if people aren't staring at Holly, then they're talking about her; and if they are not talking about her, they're certainly thinking about her, and thinking plenty.

THE CHOICE of Audrey Hepburn for the raffish Holly was the casting surprise of the year, because Miss Hepburn is usually associated with far gentler creatures—princesses, nuns and ladies of noble bearing. But Audrey pulls out all the stops as she drags the fascinated George Peppard through a series of devastatingly earthy situations, spinning dizzily through New York City as though it were an enormous playground, organized and operated exclusively for her amusement.

Since "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is so uniquely a Manhattan story, director Blake

Edwards and producers Martin Jurov and Richard Shepherd didn't hesitate to shoot as many scenes as possible on actual Gotham locations.

AMONG THE principal sequences filmed in Hollywood was a squashing jammed cocktail party, the type that squeezes 80 people into a tiny room and sets them all smoking, drinking and shrieking to be heard. Due to the exigencies of filming, this particular spree stretched out for seven full days. For the grand finale on the last day, director Edwards replaced the usual stage liquor of tea and ginger ale with real champagne, and added a smoke-making machine, thereby driving out the last vestige of any fresh air that might have been lingering in camera range.

By the time the smoke cleared, Audrey Hepburn had clocked a couple of miles sashaying around in bare feet and a fringed bath towel; a woman's hat had gone up in smoke while still on her unsuspecting head; a six-foot tall fashion model had passed out like a felled oak; Peppard had crawled through a dense forest of tangled legs searching for the telephone (it was in a suitcase, of course); and various sozzled guests had gone popping in and out of showers and up and down fire-escapes in a madcap effort to avoid the police riot squad. These spoilsports were called in by an irate neighbor, a Japanese photographer, enacted with incomparable originality by Mickey Rooney.

Translucent leaves stand out beautifully against a backdrop of water or sky as the camera looks at autumn.

By the Shutterbug

AUTUMN'S yellows, purples and crimsons rouse the poet that's in most of us. But the beauty of autumn should also rouse the photographer in us—to capture on color film its flaming loveliness.

There are no special photographic problems involved in snapping autumn scenes. Normal exposure is all that's needed. Try some black-lighted close-ups of translucent foliage, with a blue-sky background for necessary color contrast. Backlighting is also recommended for leaf-burning activities.

Whenever possible, put people in your autumn scenes for balance, added spots of color, depth and dimension.

A VERY satisfactory way to photograph "frosty asters like a smoke upon the hills," is to shoot them or other fall flowers and leaves singly or in clusters—and close-up.

Simple cameras, such as Kodak's line of Brownie Star cameras can be used for real close-up snaphooting with inexpensive supplementary lenses—such as Kodak Porta lenses. These lenses, of varying powers, will give your fixed-focus camera sharp focusing ranges of from 3 feet to 3 3/4 inches. Easy-to-build focus sticks or focal frames which aid in determining accurate distances between lens and flower must also be used. Instructions for making focal sticks and frames can be obtained at no charge by writing for pamphlet B-10, "Portra Lenses and a Technique for Extreme Close-ups," Sales Service Division, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester 4, N.Y.

It's possible to get good pictures of fall sports action fairly closeup with a single, fixed-focus camera. Just remember to snap the shutter as the action is coming toward you. However, action-stopping sports pictures can best be made by adjustable-lens cameras.

AT A FOOTBALL game, snapping from the grandstands (unless you're a press photographer the chances are you'll not be permitted on the field near the action), you can capture on film much of the

CAMERA ANGLES

Get Autumn in Your Viewfinder

over-all action, atmosphere and excitement. Band formations, card stunts, and other activities can be photographed. However, you can make effective close-up snapshots of football plays from grandstand if you use a camera such as a Kodak Retina Reflex III with a telephoto lens. For making color slides or prints of action subjects, Kodak II High-Speed Ektachrome is excellent.

Many fall sports can be photographed by the participant. For example, hunting scenes—the brightly garbed huntsman, his dog, a bird in flight—all are grist for the camera mill.

Touched by the talents of a creative family, the Rossmoor home of the Kenny Glombs has a personality all its own. This is a view of the living room which bases its decorative scheme on an oriental motif.

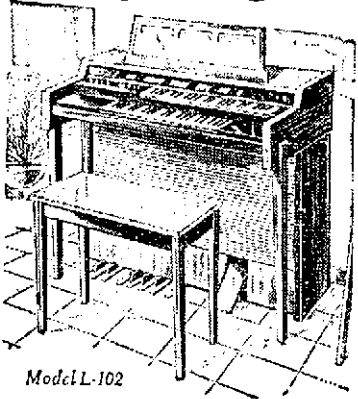

Creative touches were added to the landscaping, too, for outdoor individuality.

a ceramic artist who has won many awards. Her artistic skills have manifested themselves throughout her home which is at once comfortable, attractive and distinctive. As every owner of a tract home knows, although the floor plan of his home may be similar to many others it is possible to create a custom appearance if one has the talent and creativity—which the Glombs have.

Their home is a model that has an entry hall divided from the living room by a low hearth; the L-shaped living and dining room; and the center kitchen in the rear flanked by the family room on one side and the dining room on the other. The hearth seat in this home is decorated and made usable as a couch by cushions in shades of orchid and rose.

THE AREA near the hearth and fireplace is tastefully furnished with a Hammond organ, table and occasional chair. Near the fireplace is a planter that is decorated with flowers and shrubs and a very special "family tree"—a creation to which the whole family contributed. The tree is black, placed in a black planter box amid white stones, and

Only the Floor Plan Is Routine

CLASSIC individuality is shown in the decorating scheme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Glomb, 3262 Tigertail Ave., Rossmoor. Mrs. Glomb did her own decorating with a professional flair which might possibly stem from the fact that she is grows pink flowers, an artistic triumph that might sell in an exclusive store for a sizeable sum.

Two-toned, carved carpeting in champagne shade is used throughout the home, including the bathroom adjoining the master bedroom. The curved couch in the end corner of the living room is gold and beige, a good neutral background for many orchid, lavender, and gold pillows that add color accents. The coffee table is large, round, and with polished ebony finish. Chinese figures and flowers are placed strategically. End tables are topped with white formica. Lamps are tall, with neutral shades showing off the handsome bases to advantage. Behind the couch is a full, wall-sized Byolu screen from Japan.

Photos by Joe Risinger

The dining room set is customized to add size to the surroundings. The round, glass-topped table seats eight comfortably. Antique-white aluminum decorates the underside of the glass near the edges.

Interesting item of decor is the "family tree" in planter of white "earth." Tree is a family project, all taking part. It is black and "blooms" with pink flowers.

Antique white aluminum decorates the dining room table and chairs. The breakfast holds a ceramics collection.

Logs are aluminum. Similar chairs have gold foam cushions. Dainty in appearance, the table is strong and substantial. A breakfast, also in antique white, completes the set, and holds a treasured array of figurines made by Mrs. Glomb.

APPLIANCES in the center kitchen are pink. Pink frothy curtains frame the window that looks out into the back yard.

The family room has a black sectional couch topped with colorful pillows of the same fabric that form a back rest. Aqua, pink, orange, and white is used for the pillows, and chairs facing the nearby sit-down bar are of matching colors. A white formica coffee table edged in black sits luxuriously upon a furry white rug. The TV set is opposite the couch.

The den is formal but inviting with several choice furniture pieces including a fine antique desk.

The boy's room has blond furniture, well placed to provide a maximum amount of space.

A corner desk has a chest of similar height on one side, a higher chest on the other. The bed has a matching headboard. Opposite, the TV is flanked by two blond chests. The furniture has all the advantages of built-in units.

THE MASTER bedroom has a gold Japanese mural above the bed. A pink cover, gold headboard, and black-and-gold duster are of interest. Chests of drawers are solid black with brass handles. Twin pink ceramic lamps were made by Mrs. Glomb. A shocking pink chair fits perfectly with the decor. Black towels and accessories in the adjoining bathroom add a glamour touch.

The wide back yard, partially cemented, is expertly landscaped — another do-it-yourself Glomb family undertaking that appears to have been professionally handled. In either corner, a touch of the oriental was created with various plants, a waterfall, and yard ornamentations.

Fun-filled project for Santa's workshop.

FOR A do-it-yourself Santa Claus, Christmas is practically the day after tomorrow. If you have one or more young ladies in the household, and would like to see their eyes light up Christmas morning, you might consider getting started right now on this two-story doll house, submitted by William Meyer-riecks, Huntington, N. Y., designer.

It's guaranteed to look impressive under the tree. The house measures 38" wide, 21" high, and 11½" deep. The scale is one inch in miniature to one foot in real life. This is a standard proportion for manufacturers of doll house furniture, so you'll have no trouble furnishing the finished house at the dime store.

ONE OF the attractive features of the step-by-step Sketchbook plan is that you are allowed a great deal of leeway in how far you want to pursue a realistic effect. The basic shell is exceedingly simple to build with plywood and a few short pieces of 1 x 12.

For those with time and energy to burn, suggestions are made on how to go even farther by applying miniature clapboard siding, louvered shutters, and extra fancy windows and entrance.

To order Doll House Plan S-31, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Create a World of Elves

NOTHING is impossible in the world of childhood. So, watch your youngster's face light up when he sees these little characters that you have made for his world of for-fantasy and for-real.

These Santa's helpers appeared in thousands of places across the nation last year, popular everywhere.

They are easily made with waterproof colors. You simply glue them on plywood, saw them out and they're ready for display.

To obtain five elf pictures No. C-10, send name and address and $2 in currency to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. Other seasonal decorations in color are C-7, two-thirds life size nativity scene, $5; C-17, giant Santa, sleigh and 8 reindeer, $12; No. 258, angels, $1 each; C-6, snow family, $5, and No. 183, Santa head for front door, 50 cents each.

Ships That Cruised the Desert

third was an amiable Syrian by the name of Hadji Ali, popularly known as Hi Jolly. This gentle camel tender lies in a grave near Quartzite, Ariz.

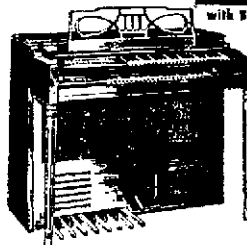

Eventually the government camels were sold at auction. Some of them went to circuses and zoos. Other stately ships of the desert ended up in mines and working at jobs degrading to their proud heritage.

A FORTUNATE few escaped to a life of freedom on the desert. Here they thrived and multiplied until tracked down by beaver hunters who cared only for the sport of killing. A few trickled through mountain passes into remote valleys for a time.

Rocks That Gad About

By Bertha Blanchard

IN AN isolated section of the northern part of Death Valley National Monument, 20 miles beyond Ubehebe Crater is a phenomenon known as the race track playa where huge rocks move mysteriously. No one has ever seen them move, but these 200 and 300-pound stones do move, leaving a path where they have moved. Once in a while, some of these rocks disappear.

These mysteriously moving rocks are no myth and are shown in Disney's movie, "The Living Desert."

The race track playa is a dry lake bed. According to a Death Valley ranger, the earth underneath the lake bed is hard and when it rains, the water does not soak through. Therefore, when the wind blows and the lake bed is wet, it acts as a greased track.

Since these rocks move infrequently, there is some question as to whether slight earthquakes in the vicinity may be the moving factor.

Whether by skidding on the wet sand or due to some force, the fact is that these huge rocks do move—mysteriously.

Simple filter which its inventor asserts will desalt, remove impurities from water shown here in demonstration.

His Secret: Sweet Water

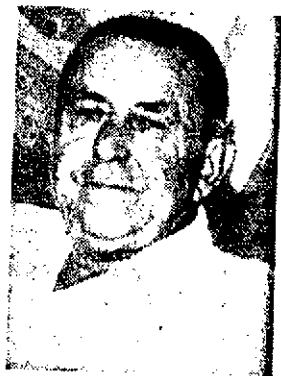

By Tamara Andreeva

MANKIND from the earliest times has been concerned with the problem of turning salt water into sweet and thus opening new sources of water supply for agriculture, sea travel and sanitation. But all machinery built so far has always been too cumbersome and expensive. Owen Atkin of Henderson, Nev., a mining engineer, has invented a simple filter which will not only desalt water, but will also remove radiation and other impurities in a matter of seconds.

It has no motor or any complicated apparatus, just a plain filter, that he says can be made as small as a straw or as large as a room, the only difference in the action being speed of filtration.

The composition of his filter, of course, is a secret. The government thought enough of it to ask him to bring it for a demonstration at the Pentagon, and according to Atkin, on the completion of the session, he was told that his invention would revolutionize the water industry.

Atkin and two others have formed "Nuclear Filters, Inc.," and plan to issue franchises for production in different parts of the country as soon as patent rights are established.

BOOK REVIEWS

Do Nazis Still Haunt Germany?

By Vera Williams
Independent, Press-Telegram Book Editor

A LEADING expert on German geopolitics believes the Nazi menace still lurks in Germany.

Author T. H. Tetens, a concentration camp refugee and one time member of the U.S. War Crimes Commission in Washington, documents in book-length form how Hitler's cronies have staged a comeback.

"THE NEW GERMANY AND THE OLD NAZIS" (Random House, $4.95) by Tetens is more than a shocker.

It also accuses the Pentagon and State Department of conspiring to play down the resurgence of Nazism in Germany — lest it hurt their policy of giving the Bonn government the image of a solid ally of the Western democracies.

Tetens charges that former Nazi war criminals — gotten off the hook by diplomatic pressure from the Adenauer Administration — have infiltrated into the West German Government.

Tetens says West Germany now regards the former Nazi leaders as war heroes, and that anti-Semitism is on the march again.

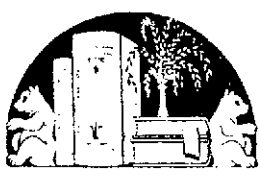

Hitler's judges still sit on the benches; former SS officers and many one-time Nazis run the police and Bonn army, says Tetens.

Tetens questions whether West Germany can be counted as a 100 per cent ally if a showdown comes with the Soviet Union.

He tells how West German envoys have made several trips to Moscow, and speculates that for the right deal West Germany might even throw in with the East.

VOLUME ONE of the three volume Centennial History of the Civil War is out: "THE COMING FURY" by Bruce Catton (Doubleday, $7.50.) E. B. White did the prodigious research.

"The Coming Fury" carries the story from the stormy political conventions of 1860 through the first major battle at Bull Run. As Catton presents it, this was the time when democratic processes broke down, the problem of slavery became "intolerable and insoluble," reason vanished and emotion prevailed. Catton does not hold with many historians who think the Civil War was inevitable. He points to lost opportunities to win the peace — but somewhere the nation passed the point of no return.

The historian paints the 1860 campaign as "tragically unreal." When Jefferson Davis and Abraham Lincoln took office as rival presidents, preservation of the Union had become the issue, and men would fight for it, whether or not they would fight to abolish slavery.

"THE SURVIVAL of the Unicorn and Other Poems" by Virginia Brasier ($2.25) is the first in a series, Poems of Distinction, to be issued by Creative Press (Box 89, Claremont, Calif.) Miss Brasier, widely-published California-born poet, is the wife of Charles D. Perlee, San Bernardino music critic.

The title poem, an enchanting tale of a romance between a white mare owned by Ham, son of Noah, and "a horse of moon-dust . . . stallion of stars" sets the pace for the book. Miss Brasier writes with flair, imagination, and tremendous love of life.

AMERICANS are rediscovering Africa—the Africa of growing power, mounting importance, turbulent politics. What about the people and their daily lives? Now comes "YES AND NO: The Intimate Folklore of Africa—Dilemma Tales, Stories of Love, Adult Riddles, Proverbs" by Alta Jablow (Horizon, $3.95). The stories, of course, have been handed down orally for generations.

Modern Tyrants

Two new fall books give the reader a back-to-back look at dictatorship. Both are studies of modern day tyrannies.

"THE MAN FROM NOWHERE" by Roy MacGregor-Hastie (Coward-McCann, $4.) traces the rise to power of Nikita Sergeevitch Khrushchev, who holds the future of the earth's billions in his hands.

"MUSSOLINI" by Laura Fermi (University of Chicago Press, $5.95) is the biography of the Italian school teacher who wanted to revive the Roman glories of the Caesars and who died an ignoble death in the attempt.

The story of Khrushchev's rise from a peasant's hovel in the Ukraine to supreme master of the Soviet world is fraught with contradiction and ironies. His name is but one of these many paradoxes. His father had wanted to call him Nikolai after the Tsar-to-be, but his noble-fearing mother thought it would be disrespectful to name a poor peasant after a Father of All the Russians, and so they compromised on Nikita.

Author MacGregor-Hastie points out that Khrushchev overcame incredible odds to gain political ascendancy and attributes this to Nikita's "many human qualities including . . . a special sort of courage, and above all a devotion to an ideal."

As a London newspaper correspondent in Moscow, MacGregor-Hastie was on familiar terms with the Russian leader and his cronies and in his words has "waded through a soggy swamp of nonsense" to produce probably one of the more accurate biographies to date of a man who could determine the fate of human civilization.

While MacGregor-Hastie's approach is journalistic, author Fermi's study is scholarly. This probably can be attributed in part, to the fact Mussolini's life is complete and the records and archives of his regime and life have been open to detailed study since the end of World War II.

Author Fermi sets Mussolini in the proper environment and perspective—the social turmoil, economic distress and national frustration which helped create his dictatorship.

She also reveals his dramatic juxtaposition to the striking figures of his time who helped shape his career —Gabriele D'Annunzio, poet-adventurer from whom the Duce stole much of stage decor; Leda Rafanelli, Mohammedan anarchist he wooed but never won; Hitler, his apprentice who rose to become his Frankenstein.

Leo Carrillo

"Endeared himself to millions . . . Santa Monica, his beloved home, has lost its first citizen and devoted son."

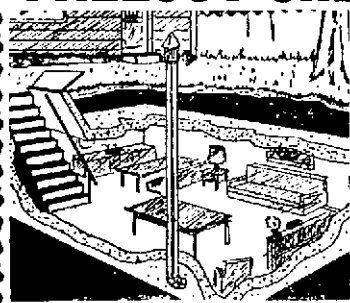

—MSGR. RAYMOND O'FLAHERTY

LEO CARRILLO's bountiful collection of colorful history, violent adventure and romantic legend is a triumphant evocation of the beauty, richness and restlessness of the Golden State.

"What are you allowed to bring into the U. S. without paying duty? We heard the amount now is only $100."

THE AMOUNT now IS only $100 — cut from $200 every month and $500 every six months.

The new Customs form I got entering Honolulu from the Orient is just as simple, however. Mark an X in the corner indicated if purchases with you are less than $100. That's all.

List articles coming to you. They give a slip to give the mailman.

Naturally, everybody is having to cut down. BUT—here are some ways to help you, legally:

You can mail any gift of less than $10 value from overseas. It enters free and does not have to be declared. Carry it with you and it is added to your $100 exemption.

The new form does not require you to list small articles of less than $5 value.

"... whether it is safe to go to Haiti now. There seems to be so much revolution and trouble in the Caribbean..."

We don't hear of any problems in Haiti now. (Any country is bad to go into when there's a revolution.

The main thing about Haiti that troubles the tourist is either water or uncooked fruits. The locals seem to be immune. But the bugs really cut into the visitor. Bottled water and peel your own fruit and you're okay.

"... if Hong Kong is the best place to buy cameras in the Far East?"

IT'S A FREE PORT and the selection is the best. But I think Singapore (with lower rents for the merchants) is cheaper. (A Minox for $110 was listed at $80 in Singapore; $99 in Montego Bay, Jamaica free port; $115 in its native Germany.

"Our travel agent advises us to travel by train rather than drive in Switzerland."

He's right. Particularly at this snowy time of year. Swiss trains are excellent. And you should have a lot of fun when they're full of skiers and the amateur accordionists are playing. Best time of year for air fare overseas, too. Check those 17-day excursion rates.)

"What is the MINIMUM amount of clothes for a woman going to Hawaii?"

I'd take what you are wearing and ONE cocktail dress—which you may never wear.

The things most women wear are bought better in the Waikiki shops: Bermudas, slacks, muu muus, swimsuits—and for evening maybe a Chinese collar-thing called a pakemuu.

Leave the other things

home and some space in your baggage for what you buy. These things are good-looking and NOT expensive.

SOUTHLAND TRAVELER

Ghost in the Desert

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

WHEN Walter Knott purchased the Mojave Desert ghost town of Calico in 1950, he took the first step in realizing a long-cherished dream of perpetuating what was once the largest silver mining camp in Southern California.

Today, except for improvements made for the comfort and convenience of visitors—and as many as 7,000 of them come on weekends—Calico looks much as it must have appeared in the early 1890s when hardy miners were taking millions of dollars worth of the rich ore from the neighboring hills.

Silver was first discovered there in 1881 by a trio of prospectors grubstaked by John C. King, San Bernardino sheriff and, oddly enough, an uncle of Knott. In no time at all, Calico boomed to 3,500 population. Twice the town was ravaged by fire but rebuilt each time because silver was flowing from the mines. But, by 1896, the veins petered out after $86 million of high grade ore had been mined.

A GENERATION later—prior to World War I—Walter Knott moved with his family to Newberry, about 20 miles from Calico, to eke a living from Mojave sand and soil. Failing in that, he took a job at a silver mill which, somehow, was still operating at Calico.

"I listened to the stories around the campfire in the evenings," says Knott. "They seemed to recreate Calico in its most active days—wagon trains, prospectors' bonanzas, gambling and all. They impressed me along with the nearby scenery, picturesque and austere, and they stuck with me. Although I didn't dream of buying the town then, these experiences undoubtedly influenced me to restore the town so many years later."

Since purchasing Calico, Knott has restored the important buildings—Lil's Saloon, Wells Fargo, Silver Gulch, Calico House, the Bottle House, Lane's General Merchandise store and other landmarks.

Under the neighboring hills are 30 miles of tunnels with 13 working levels. One of these mines, with 1,000 feet of tunnels, has been restored and may be explored by visitors. The others have been boarded up and are strictly off limits to those who come to take in the sights.

JUST RECENTLY, Knott paved Main Street, working red rock into the mixture. Other improvements are constantly being made to add authenticity to the scene.

"It's certainly not a money-making venture," admits Knott, "but I feel it has great historic interest and I take pride and interest in seeing the restoration take place, step by step."

It takes considerably less than three hours to drive to Calico (via Barstow) from Long Beach, a distance of less than 150 miles with freeways the entire distance. Those who make the trip say they wouldn't want to part with the experience, even though they don't own a mine in that rugged terrain.

CHRISTMAS at sea? A swell idea! Passengers aboard the SS Matsonia, sailing from Los Angeles Harbor on Dec. 23, will be just such a deal, with passengers and ship's officers uniting as one big family to hang tinsel and holly,

UNDER THE MANAGEMENT of executive director Eddie Davidson, the Palm Springs Spa offers steaming, hot baths for which this desert oasis originally was famous, and the pampering of customized massage to visitors ranging from a Near East prince to such household names in entertainment as Art Linkletter. The Spa was opened Jan. 12, 1960, at the corner of Tahquitz-McCallum Way and Indian Avenue, one of the most luxurious spots on the desert. The $2 million bath house contains the sunken baths where 104-degree mineral water soothes away stress and strain.

carol around the tree, participate in talent shows and costume balls, dance to the ship's orchestra, and attend mid-night services.

The same round of fun awaits passengers sailing Dec. 23 aboard Matson's big liner, the Lurline, en route to Acapulco; aboard the SS Monterey, sailing Dec. 19, two days short of Tahiti; and on the SS Mariposa, departing

Going Places

TOKYO

WHATEVER its advantages, the jet age has completely changed one aspect of travel. That is its sense of reality. We have been through a night that did not end until dinnertime, and we lost a day somewhere to boot. We also saw the sun set and rise twice within 24 hours, on one occasion doing both from the same direction.

It started half a world away in New York, where we boarded a TWA jet for a non-stop, 5½-hour flight to San Francisco.

We were scheduled to board a Japan Air Lines DC-8 which, for reasons which will soon be readily apparent, is scheduled to depart San Francisco at the reasonable hour of 2 in the afternoon and arrive in Tokyo at the equally reasonable hour of 9:30 in the evening. Racing the sun westward, it is, as the airline publicity states, just a long sunset from Honolulu.

But a mechanical delay held us up until 11 at night. At an hour when most reasonable persons are preparing for bed, Capt. Sugiyama was gunning us down the runway westward towards the mysterious East.

LEST THE airline lose further face with the passengers than that already entailed by the delay, out came the resplendent kimonoed stewardesses with the sake, sushi and tempura. An hour of that, a few more of sleep, and we were honorably awakened for humble stopover at Honolulu for fuel, both mechanical and human.

Famous Desert Inn under new management completely redecorated. Relaxation and privacy of 20-acre estate, dining—dancing—Bobby Ramos Orchestra, swimming, golf, horseback riding, theatres, night clubs, excellent cuisine. European plan, single $12.00 to $18.00; doubles $12.00 to $20.00; suites from $25. Make reservations thru travel agent or direct.

We left Hawaii shortly before 4 a.m. local time, at an hour when milkmen were already at work in San Francisco and the subways were already disgorging stenographers on Lexington Avenue. And over the Pacific there was a "midnight snack of cold chicken, champagne and Chinese mince pie."

Again we slept, and somewhere in our dreams the international date line came and went, and Wednesday somehow became Thursday. Finally, at 4:30 a.m., while executives on Madison Ave. were beginning to think about that first martini, we had breakfast. At Hanaeda Airport, the sun was just beginning to burn off the morning haze as we set down. Our night finally had ended after 18 hours of darkness.

Some days later, we flew from Tokyo to Paris on Japan Air Lines' polar flight an experience in getting disoriented in the Orient.

We left Tokyo about 11 at night and, with a logic alien to our flat-map oriented minds, headed northeast by way of the United States at Anchorage, Alaska. By 3 a.m. it was broad daylight, and when we landed it was 9 a.m., Anchorage time, the previous day. Crossing the international date line again, we had grown 19 hours younger.

TAKING OFF from Anchorage on a bee line for the North Pole, we ran into night again in about three hours, or early afternoon, and after only six hours or so of daylight. It stayed dark until we reached Copenhagen eight hours out of Anchorage.

Thus we had the rare experience of seeing the sun rise twice and set twice within 24 hours. Not only that, but we saw it set and rise from the same direction. While we were heading north toward the pole, it was setting in the west, on our left. After we had crossed the pole, we were heading south, and the direction on our left thus became east. From it the sun dutifully rose.

"THE GREAT ONE, Louis 'Satchmo' Armstrong, and his all-star concert group is the attraction through Nov. 11 at Palm Springs Chi Chi, the desert's only theater-restaurant. Appearing on the same bill is England's laugh-getter, Betty Regan, 'My Fair Lady of Satire.' Bill Alexander's orchestra furnishes the musical background for shows each night at 8:45 and 11:45 o'clock.

Traveler

What to eat and drink? Menus will include such items as choice of roast suckling pig and other Polynesian specialties, besides the traditional turkey, plum pudding and hard sauce. AND eggnogs and champagne!

PAN AMERICAN World Airways reveals that in the three years since the dawn of the jet age in 1958 when it inaugurated jet service under the American flag — it flew 120,021,500 jet miles and carried almost 2 million passengers. Translated into space terms this means that Pan Am Clippers could have carried the entire population of Philadelphia to the moon and back 237 times, or one way to the sun!

LONG BEACH-built DC 8s figure prominently in Scandinavian Airlines System's revised winter traffic program to the Middle East. The big birds will provide Teheran two services weekly to Europe and the Far East. Also, beginning Dec. 5, SAS will operate DC-8s on its route to South America, terminating in Santiago de Chile.

WEEKEND GADABOUT:

Nov. 11-12: Salton City holds its first 500-mile race for outboards, with more than 100 boats competing 250 miles each day at speeds of 100 mph over a 5-mile course.

Nov. 10-12: Two days of RCA rodeo, western parade and chuck wagon breakfasts will mark Brawley's Cattle Call and Imperial Valley Rodeo. The parade will be held the morning of the first day.

Nov. 11-12: Twentynine Palm holds its Desert Weed and Gem and Mineral Shows at Oasis School and high school.

Death Valley

Known best is the contrasting topography of Death Valley—from Badwater 279.6 feet below sea level, to 14,495-foot Mt. Whitney only 80 miles away. Both points can be viewed on clear days, which average 283 in a calendar year.

CONTRARY to popular belief many wild animals live in Death Valley although some can be observed only after dark. Actually recorded are 26 species of mammals, lizards of dozen kinds and more than 230 kinds of birds. All have adapted themselves to the extreme conditions in this unusual sanctuary.

Identified also are more than 600 plant specimens ranging from common cacti and brush to the sage and desert bear-poppy. Myriads of desert flowers bloom in season.

Park rangers and naturalists provide directions for tours and give illustrated talks at the hotels and at the free Texas Spring campground. Special programs for groups may be arranged and, upon request, organized groups are conducted on caravans.

Once named "Tomesha" meaning 'ground afire' by the Indians. Governed and protected by the United States Department of the Interior, Death Valley Monument belongs to all of us for our enjoyment.

Hamburgers and hot dogs, with suitable accompaniments, and mugs of chocolate make up this football-day feast.

FOOD

Football Feast

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

AUTUMN Saturdays find kick-off cheers ringing in the crisp air. It's the height of the football season, so plan a winning buffet, before or after the game.

A platter of hamburgers and hot dogs would be a real touchdown entree, accompanied by potato salad, assorted relishes, apples, date bars and steaming mugs of hot chocolate.

No fancy trimmings are needed for this party so hostess duties are kept at a minimum.

Ground beef patties may be either broiled, pan broiled or pan-fried. For broiling, place the patties on the rack in your broiling pan so that they will be 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil 4 to 5 minutes on each side. There is no need to preheat the broiler, and the meat should be seasoned after broiling.

For panbroiling, place the patties in a heavy frying-pan.
Since panbroiling is a dry heat method of cooking, no fat or water should be added and the pan should be covered. However, you may want to rub the pan with fat before cooking to prevent the patties from sticking.

COOK the patties slowly, using a low temperature. Turn the meat occasionally to insure even doneness. The fat should be poured off as it accumulates, because in panbroiling the meat is not cooked in fat.

For the hostess who might like to dress up the hamburgers, have slices of mild cheese, sliced onions, sliced tomatoes and pickle relish available. For a surprise, try hiding stuffed olives or dill pickle slices in the middle of the hamburgers. Or give them a stuffing of grated cheese, minced onion or chopped olives.

Your table setting, too, ought to contribute to the spirit of the day. Pennants,
"mums" and miniature foot-balls are suggestions to go along with the theme of your Saturday football feast.

Ribbons indicate top quality of ceramics produced by Mrs. Ellen Glomb in pursuit of her engrossing hobby.

A Winner in Ceramics

COLLECTING ceramics can be considered just an ordinary hobby, except in the case of Mrs. Ellen Glomb, 3261 Tipertail Ave., Rossmore, it's far more than a casual diversion. She makes the ceramics and has won many awards for her artistic pieces.

In making her figures, Mrs. Glomb first casts porcelain in a mold and then cleans it with a damp cloth in preparation for decoration. If the figure is a gracious lady doll, a design for dressing is selected. The dress of the gypsy girl (see photo) as an example was made of old bed sheeting, sewed and gathered with lace inserts. The finished skirt was then dipped into liquid porcelain and placed on the doll. The blouse was done in the same manner.

The arms were then attached; the fingers filed and shaped. A tiny sleeve was then cut and placed. After the jewelry, violin, and bow were placed in position the gypsy was ready for firing at 2,400 degrees. After cooling for 24 hours, she was ready for painting, and finally, another period of firing.

THE FIGURES are extremely delicate. The lace, for instance, is actually burned away with the fragile porcelain fuses taking the shape of the material after firing. In some of the figures, Mrs. Glomb's creative imagination knew no bounds.

One doll stands regally in a mother-of-pearl costume. Another is elegant in brown lace intricately designed in a 1900 style. The gypsy is gay and colorful in yellow, green, and red. Because of the folds of the skirt, this was one of the more difficult figures to produce. The doll was a prize winner at a California Ceramic Hobby Show—STELLA GEORGE.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Plant primroses for bloom next spring and primulas for bloom this winter.

Plant pyracantha and other berried shrubs for fall and winter color. You'll find several kinds with crops of berries on display in nurseries.

Coastal gardeners can plant lawns. Where early cold snaps are the rule, it might be better to wait until spring. Ask your nurseryman.

Plant a cover of annuals for the spring bulb bed. Alyssum, pansies, violas are all recommended.

"Thy rest is earned," reads a motto on this bench that invites passerby to pause in pleasant surroundings.

Shingled hub of an old wagon wheel makes a roomy house for birds and blends with setting. Hook hangs it.

Dress Up the Garden Details

By Bertha Blanchard

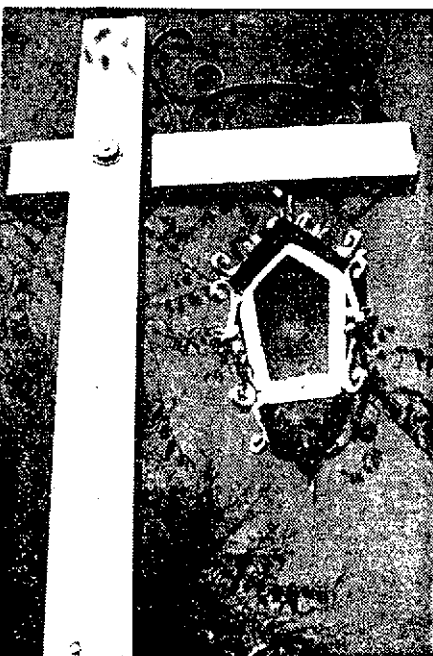

ACCESSORIES add individuality, charm and interest to the garden. A few carefully selected pieces are effective but too many give a cluttered appearance.

Choose accessories that will fit into the background, blend with the setting and become a pleasing part of the garden picture. When building a new home, plan the right setting for them before landscaping the property.

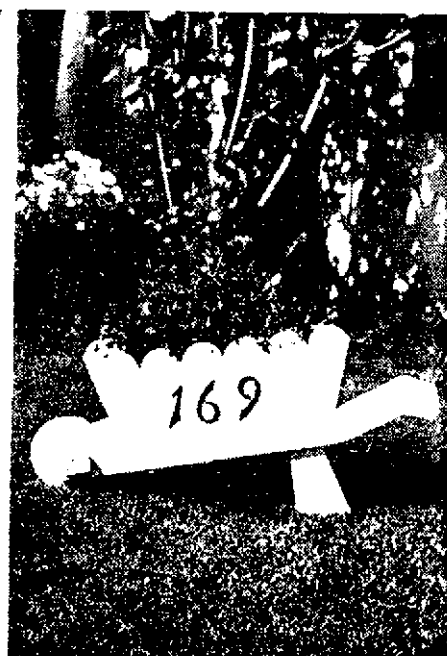

If you have a small garden, carefully consider the size of your decorations.

Hobbies of the family may happily find expression in the garden. Amateur artists, woodcarvers, sculptors and metalworkers can make accessories that will be both beautiful and practical.

A lamp is attractive at an entrance and lights the way for guests. A bird house or a feeding tray attracts feathered songsters. Then, too, every garden should have a seat.

Scraps of metal acquired in antique shops and from similar sources went into constructing this street lamp.

Redwood wheelbarrow was assembled by owner, painted white like house trim and filled with potted plants.

Tip on Snaps: United They Stand

By Joe Littlefield

PLANT snapdragons close together in sunny flower bed areas and they will stand up practically without staking, but set them widely apart and you'll likely have to stake each plant.

Space the snapdragons eight to ten inches apart and you'll have a mass of brightly colored, self-supporting flowers.

Pinch tips out of young plants when they're six to eight inches tall. Some gardeners pinch tips out again a second time after several inches of new growth and leaves have developed. Plants thus will develop more side branches, hence more blossoms.

Fertilize the annuals about a month after they've been planted, again a month or so later. A balanced complete plant food is good. Soil must be moist before feeding. After fertilizing, plants should be thoroughly watered again. Unless you apply plant food too thick in spots, or too much overall, or apply the fertilizer when the soil is dry, you'll never burn the plants.

The same watering principle applies to granular form fertilizer for lawns. A day or so before fertilizing, water lawn thoroughly. Then walk over the lawn and if the soles of your shoes are dry, no moisture on them, feed the lawn. If soles of shoes are even slightly moist wait an hour or two longer for the grass or dichondra to dry before fertilizing. Apply proper amount of turf fertilizer and you'll avoid burning the lawn. Immediately water in thoroughly.

LAWNS renovated and reseeded and now have been mowed several times should now be fed. Use about half the amount of lawn fertilizer that you would if the lawn was well established.

Tired looking lawns that seem to need something to revive them may be pepped up by fertilizing them right now.

Weedy, messy, lawns may be improved by mowing them close with mower, seeding with grass seed mixture, or rye grass seed, applying top dressing of good grade of steer manure and keeping area moist till first mowing. Thereafter water when the lawn dries.

LARGE CLAY pots make excellent containers for rooting plant cuttings.

Fill the pot with plain clean sand or vermiculite to within one inch of its top. Then make cuttings from three to five inches long of young, tender plant shoots, making sure you cut below the node joints. Place cuttings in the pot's rooting mixture to a depth of 1 to 1½ inches to hold them upright. Then water thoroughly from the top and place a plastic bag over the pot to conserve moisture. Cuttings should be well rooted and ready for clay-potting in soil within six weeks.

Fuchsia Society

California National Fuchsia Society members will hear returns of election of 1962 officers when they meet at 1:30 p.m. today in Hollywood School, 5511 Main St., Hollywood. A. Roy Joyce will preside. Lomita and Downey branches will host the meeting.

Board of directors meetings will be held on the first Sunday of the month in the future, it was stated.

Begonia Meeting

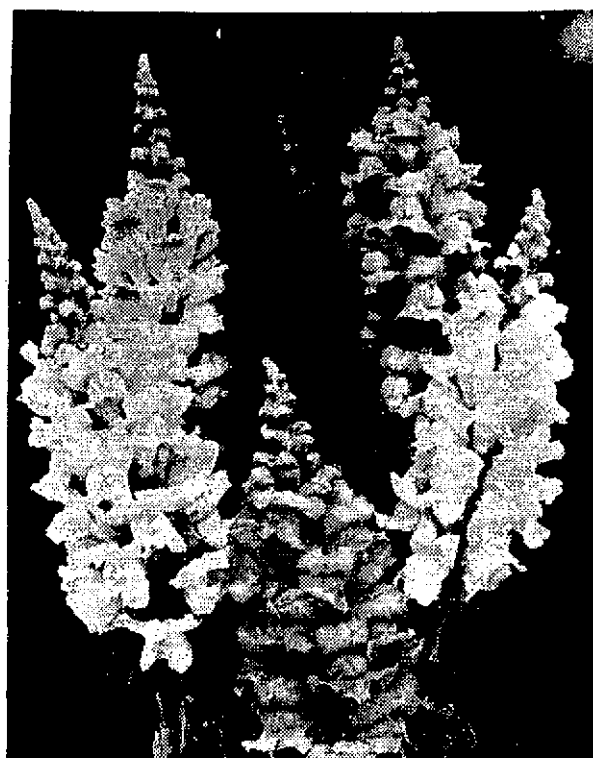

Election of 1962 officers will be on the agenda of the Long Beach Parent Chapter, American Begonia Society, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 728 Elm Ave. Anyone interested in begonias and shade plants is invited to submit questions on problems of growing these specimens. An exotic plant table will be set up.

By Dorothy Jonson

Eel worms are sometimes mistaken for wire worms and frequently infest potted plants of tender varieties, such as orchids, cymbidiums and fine ferns.

This is one type of insect infestation for which I like to use a well-formulated pyrethrum product. The way to use it is to water the plants well the night before so that the soil is evenly moist. Then mix your pyrethrum product in the proportions recommended on the label and pour the dilution into the flower pot until it comes right up to the rim. Permit this mixture to slowly seep down through the potting soil. Then fill it to the top a second time so that you get a thorough permeation. A good pyrethrum product used in this way will not be injurious to the plant. And it has the additional advantage of being effective against other destructive insects besides the eel worms, if any are present in the potting soil.

When planting snapdragons, keep plants moderately close together for self support, avoiding staking.

By Eleanor Avery Price

TORTOISES as pets have developed into something like a farming operation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Grantham, 2103 Charmagne Ave., where several desert tortoises started what is now a large family.

The Granthams acquired their first desert tortoises some time ago. The largest measured 15½x12 inches and since the plastron or floor of his walking home was somewhat concave and his tail a little long, the Granthams rightly assumed he was a male and called him Oscar. The next largest had a flat plastron and was named Grandmother Grey. The other females were named Grandmother Brown, Susie and Myrtle. Since tortoises are close to nature, the Granthams' pets are one happy family, play together, sleep together in their tortoise house, and between the females there have been 18 babies. (A tortoise matures at 15 years when the carapace is about 9 inches long. At 12 inches, a tortoise is about 50 years old but still can reproduce.)

WHEN A TORTOISE becomes a mother in June, she usually digs a hole in soft earth or sand with her hind feet. The Granthams are ready to give nature an assist and when eggs are laid they place them without turning them over in a foot-square cardboard box and this box inside another. They cover the eggs with 3 or 4 inches coarse sand and put on a lid previously lined with tinfoil and with a hole in the center to run an electric cord holding a 7½-watt light bulb. A thermometer is placed inside so temperature can be checked—it should stay at 90 degrees. To provide humidity, they set a glass of water in a box corner.

Eggs should not be disturbed. About four days before the end of incubation—72 to 90 days or longer—baby tortoises start gyrating inside the shell and work up through the sand. Break-out takes about three days. The effort makes them hungry, and they come out looking for food and water. Desert tortoises enjoy water and will stick their heads under in a shallow pan and drink sometimes for five minutes. They usually do not drink again for a week and will survive without water if food is succulent. They also enjoy orange juice. Their foods consist of shredded lettuce, chopped apple, tomato, other fruits and melons, flowers, clover, dried leaves, even bits of twigs, but no meat.

Desert tortoises stop eating just before they need their winter nap starting in November and should be placed in a box in the garage or home.

Desert tortoises may be found along the Mojave River, at Cottonwood Springs or along desert canyon bottoms and washes where sand is coarse and burrows that won't collapse can be dug. California law permits removing these creatures from their natural habitat but prohibits buying or selling them. However, anyone removing them for pets should have due regard for their needs and care for them as attentively as for any other creature.

RICHARD KATSARIS

YOU CAN'T fool experienced restaurant goers. They know whether the sea food they're eating is fresh from the ocean.

And that's one reason they keep flocking to Sam's Sea Food, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, a few miles south of Long Beach. Nick Katsaris, his wife, Ruth, and their son, Richard, operate a fish market and delicatessen adjacent to their restaurant—and this enables them to keep large supplies of fresh sea delicacies available daily.

Currently in season (and fresh as tomorrow) are halibut, sanddabs, red snapper, sole, lobster, yellowtail, swordfish and salmon. Chef Danny M. Totonides and his seven assistants prepare those sea foods in a number of different and delicious ways, making Sam's one of the most popular fish restaurants in Southern California.

A $500,000 Polynesian showplace with half a dozen special tropical dining rooms and a huge luau garden for special parties, Sam's serves 500 guests simultaneously—and keeps each one happy. The restaurant's staff of 98 employees sees to it that hot dishes are served hot and cold dishes are cold—a maximum in good restaurant operation.

The dinners at Sam's include fine clam chowder, salad with French, Thousand Island or Roquefort dressing, potatoes, vegetable, bread and butter, beverage and dessert. Prices start at $1.95 for the complete dinner or $1.65 a la carte. Among the many other entrees are jumbo shrimp, $2.25 on the complete dinner; deep sea bass, $2.25; rock cod, $1.95, and albacore, $2.25.

Hardest working man at Sam's right now is Richard Katsaris, a friendly good-natured fellow who directs the operation of all the restaurant's numerous departments. In order to accomplish his endless duties, he works a man-killing shift daily from 7 a.m. to 3 a.m.

WALTER SCOTT'S

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question of interest on a personality of note, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless requested otherwise in writing. Sorry, PARADE cannot reply individually to the inquiries of readers.

Q. Now that Allen Dulles is leaving the C.I.A., could you please identify Mrs. Glover Jebson, the woman he secretly used to meet here in London?—T.L., London, S.W. 1.

A. Mrs. Jebson is Mr. Dulles' daughter. She is married to an American banker working in London. Mr. Dulles used to go over to London frequently to visit his grandchildren.

Q. Is Sophia Loren married to Carlo Ponti or is she not? Just for once—the truth, please.—Jack Horner, New York, N.Y.

A. Miss Loren's latest statement: "Carlo and I are no longer married. We live together of course, but we are not married. We had to annul our marriage because Italian law does not recognize Carlo's Mexican divorce from his first wife—and therefore in Italian eyes, we were bigamously married. It is a nuisance but it does not worry me too much. I feel married. That is the important thing."

Q. What's happened to Juan Peron, ex-dictator of the Argentine? Has he remarried?—Allen Hepworth, Washington, D.C.

A. Peron lives in Spain where he has extensive real estate holdings. Unmarried, he spends much of his time in Madrid with Isabel Martinez, a dancer from Buenos Aires, who has been his close friend for several years.

Q. What was Mary Pickford's original name, and how old is she?—Mrs. Ella James, Milwaukee, Wis.

A. Mary Pickford was born in Toronto in 1893, was christened Gladys Smith.

Q. Will you tell me when the baby of Sandra Dee and Bobby Darin is expected?—J.R.S., Seattle, Wash.

A. First week in December.

Q. Can you inform me if a venereal disease of the blood was responsible for driving Adolf Hitler insane in 1945, or if he ever suffered from such a disease?—Otto S., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. A 26-page medical report on Hitler compiled by agents of Heinrich Himmler revealed that Hitler had contracted such a disease in his youth. He was treated for it at Pasewalk in the 1920s but in 1937 the symptoms re-appeared. By 1942 the Nazi Fuehrer had begun to suffer from progressive syphilitic paralysis.

Q. What is the population of Africa? How many whites and non-whites?—J. Taylor, Chicago, Ill.

A. Africa is home to 230 million people; only 5 million are white.

Q. In World War II, is it true that the U.S. Navy refused playwright Moss Hart a commission because of insufficient education?—C. Urey, Washington, D.C.

A. True.

Q. Has Lillian Hellman ever been married?—Gerald D., Oklahoma City, Okla.

A. Yes, from 1925 to 1932 she was married to writer Arthur Kober.

Q. Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker, former commander of the U.S. 24th Inf. Division in Augsburg, Germany, who was relieved of his command—was he or was he not a member of the John Birch Society?—B. Lee, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A. According to the report Lieut. Gen. Frederic J. Brown filed with the Pentagon, General Walker was a member of the John Birch Society.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

INTERNATIONAL FACTS OF LIFE. What the Kennedy administration has failed to tell the American public concerning the entire Berlin situation is this: The most hated and feared nation in America is Soviet Russia. In Europe, however, the most hated and feared nation is Germany. During World War II, the Nazis overran every European country except Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Portugal and Spain. They killed 30 million people, savagely exterminated 6 million Jews in a barbarity unequalled in modern times. Most of our NATO allies -- the British, French, Italians, Norwegians, Greeks and others -- couldn't care less about the welfare of 2,250,000 Germans in Berlin. Nor do they believe that the basic militancy of the typical German has changed. Rightly or wrongly, most Europeans fear the Germans more than they do the Russians. Unpleasant as it is, that's the truth...and part of the Kennedy dilemma.

PRINCE RAINIER, THE PROMOTER. Latest promotion scheme of Prince Rainier, who recently invested a few bucks in a Majorca hotel, is the Monaco Economic Corporation. To a select group of American executives, the prince has sent an expensive brochure entitled "Monaco Can Help Your Company." How? The prince explains that the Constitution of 1911 "expressly precludes any direct income tax," and invites corporations to establish subsidiaries in Monaco, 370 acres large. So far half a dozen companies have accepted.

NEED MONEY? Qualified small businessmen in need of loans at 4% may obtain them from the Small Business Administration provided their businesses are located in redevelopment areas. To find out if you qualify, write Area Redevelopment Administration, Washington 25, D.C.

DE GAULLE'S DANGER. Gen. Charles de Gaulle has spent most of his life working and fighting for France. The result? More Frenchmen are determined to assassinate him than ever before. Why? Because de Gaulle wants to give Algeria its independence. Investigation of the latest assassination attempt on de Gaulle reveals that the O.A.S. -- the "Secret Army Organization" in France -- is determined to get him. So far two generals, a baroness, an insurance salesman, a university lecturer and many others have been caught in the police dragnet.

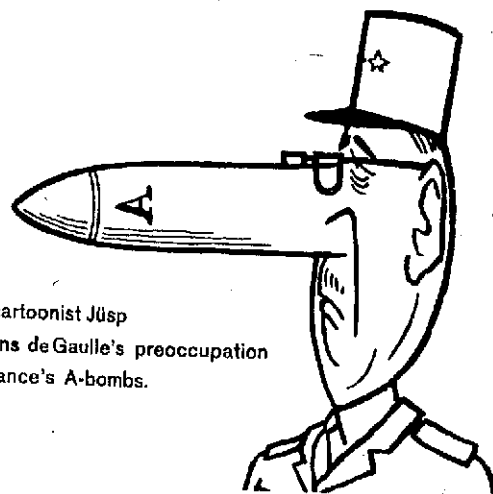

DRAFT REJECTION RATE. American youth is getting softer all the time if the current draft rejection rate is any indication. Of every seven young men now examined for military service, five are rejected -- 60% for physical defects, 40% for mental defects. Twenty years ago, only two out of every five were rejected. Army standards are either higher or our young men weaker.

MAUGHAM, THE PHILANTHROPIST. Somerset Maugham, 87-year-old novelist, owns one of the world's great private collections of paintings -- Picassos, Matisse's, Monets, Utrillos, Lautrecs. The collection has been appraised at $2,500,000. Originally Maugham planned to have his paintings sold after his death. The money received was to establish a fund for needy writers. The recent series of art thefts on the Riviera has changed Maugham's mind. He now plans to sell his paintings for the fund or give them to a museum before they're stolen from his Cap Ferrat villa.

BEWARE OF THE CON-MEN. Space-age con men are springing up all over the U.S. These are glib, sincere-sounding, fast-talking securities salesmen offering investors "ground-floor" opportunities on space-ships to Mars, the moon and Jupiter. Recently the O.T.C. Enterprise, Inc., of Baltimore, announced in a stock-selling drive that it was ready to test a "prototype of the O.T.C. X-1 near Oklahoma City." Later the company announced the test had been canceled because the government decided to classify this top-secret project. The truth: the company's space rocket couldn't get off the ground, and the president of the company had been jailed for selling unregistered stock.

SEX LESSONS BY DISC. Because most British parents are still reluctant to discuss sex with their children, a record company, Transatlantic Records, is now producing a 12-inch record which explains simply and in detail the facts of life. Entitled "The Biology of Sex" and recorded by a Harley Street physician, the disc sells for $5, may soon be on sale in the U.S.

ANTI-GANGSTER TAXI. At the recent International Motor Show in Frankfurt the car which attracted most attention was an anti-gangster taxi with bullet-proof windows, steel panels and a special fingertip door control which prevents passengers from getting out until the driver presses the correct button.

HAYLEY MILLS

She's the greatest child find since Shirley Temple

by LLOYD SHEARER

PINEWOOD STUDIOS, ENGLAND.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO a 13-year-old Canadian girl, Edna Mae Durbin—screen name: Deanna Durbin—singlehandedly rescued Universal Pictures from the precipice of bankruptcy.

Simultaneously another child, Shirley Jane Temple, working for 20th Century-Fox, became one of the 10 best money-making stars in motion pictures and the studio's top box-office attraction.

At MGM in this same period a third child actress, Frances Gumm—screen name: Judy Garland—won similar honors.

The decade of 1936-46 was the golden age for little-girl stars—an era which proved correct the sage words of the late W. C. Fields: "Nothin' pulls 'em in like a cute kid or a trained dog."

Today, happily married to a French director, Deanna Durbin, a bit on the hefty side, lives outside Paris, completely retired from show business. Shirley Temple, also domesticated, resides with her husband and three children in Atherton, Calif., occasionally journeys to Hollywood to pick up some easy television loot. Judy Garland, 40, resembling a young edition of Elsa Maxwell, is the sole member of the trio still singing for her supper.

To this coterie of onetime child stars Walt Disney has found a truly worthy successor. Her name is Hayley Mills. She's 15 but looks 12. You may have seen her in Tiger Bay, Pollyanna, Whistle Down the Wind, which her mother wrote, or in The Parent Trap in which she plays twins.

Hayley is English, blonde, impish, pug-nosed and putty-faced. The middle one of John and Mary Mills' three children, she is so enormously talented that Walt Disney, no mean judge, describes her as "the greatest movie find in the past 25 years."

Teenage Fans

In contrast to most film producers, Disney is not a spendthrift with superlatives. He maintains an un-Hollywood-like respect for truth. When he points a figurative finger at this delightful blue-eyed pixie and describes her as "the greatest," he has evidence, both popular and financial, to back his contention.

Hayley Mills today receives more fan mail than any other motion picture player in the world. This includes Elizabeth Taylor, Brigitte Bardot, Lassie and Cary Grant.

Hayley averages 7,500 letters a week, most of these from teenage girls who comprise the largest movie-going segment in the country.

Family photo shows four of the Millses: Hayley (with pet Pomeranian and setter); father John, an actor; mother Mary Hayley Bell, a playwright and actress; and brother Jonathan.

This figure is even more amazing when one realizes that to date only two Hayley Mills films, Pollyanna and Parent Trap, have achieved wide distribution in America.

Pollyanna cost Disney $2 million and will easily gross $6 million. Parent Trap also cost $2 million and will earn an estimated $12 million.

What Disney originally tried to do with Hayley Mills was to give her a screen image compounded of yesterday's Mary Pickford and Shirley Temple—sweet, charming, innocent, almost cloying. But Hayley refused to generate that particular contrived personality. Instead she came up with her own. On-screen she is pixyish, mischievous, bubbly, intelligent, delightful, realistic, semi-hoydenish. She exudes an infectious humor with which the audience finds so much rapport that unwittingly it becomes her accomplice.

In Parent Trap, for example, a contemporary version of the hoary-haired tale about a little girl who brings her divorced parents together, Hayley acts American twins—one a tomboy, the other a proper-prim from Boston. The twins, of course, alternate between one unsuspecting parent and the other, bringing joy and jokes to everyone.

It is a tribute to Hayley that in the past three months 2,500 movie fans have written to Disney asking whether one or two little girls played the twin roles in Parent Trap. That's how well she did with her fake American accent, her perceptive eye to environment, her plastic, mobile face, her self-thought-out interpretation of the parts.

A French Appraisal

Maurice Chevalier, with whom she is currently finishing Jules Verne's The Castaways, told me in London a few weeks ago: "Hayley has a wonderful chance of developing into the biggest English star of the century. I have played opposite many, many little girls in my time—but never one like this. She is naturally, not artificially, cute. She has warmth and humor without being—let me find the proper English word—without being sticky-sweet. Too much sugar in a child frequently turns the sophisticated adult sick."

"It is not so with Hayley. She is never over-sugary or offensive; she never tries to steal a scene, never over-acts, which is difficult for most child actors to avoid."

"As she grows older," Chevalier continues, "she will develop warmth and, God granting, sex-appeal, and with those two qualities she will become a great, great star, because already—perhaps it is her instinct or her heritage—she knows how to act, how to appeal to the heart."

"I was married once, you know, a long time ago. It didn't work out. My wife wanted me to be married to her. I was married to my career like all actors. I am sorry now it didn't work because maybe I would have had a daughter like Hayley. I cannot tell you how jealous I am of her father."

Hayley's father is John Mills, for the past 20 years one of England's foremost film stars. Her mother is Mary Hayley Bell, actress-turned-playwright. Her older sister, Juliet, shone for two years in the London and Broadway productions of Five Finger Exercise. And her younger brother, Jonathan, 12, scored so sensationally in a Disney film test two years ago that Disney offered him a seven-year contract. Jonathan refused it on the grounds that he preferred cricket to show business, a reason his parents consider sensible.

With this sort of background, is it any wonder that Hayley Mills became a child actress at age 12? The wonder is that she wasn't, like Shirley Temple, emot-ing before the cameras at age 3.

Old trouper and young, Maurice Chevalier and Hayley Mills, star together in The Castaways, based on Jules Verne novel.

"Actually," Hayley explains, "my getting into films was sort of an accident. Lee Thompson—he directed Guns of Navarone—came out to our farm in Sussex one weekend. I guess it was three years ago.

"I was in the garden, taking off on one of those ghastly TV commercials, just imitating, play-acting. Mr. Thompson laughed at me. Then he explained that he was looking for a young boy to act in Tiger Bay. That's the film story of a Polish refugee—Horst Buchholz played the part in the movie—who murders his sweetheart and is seen by a young boy who likes him so much that he refuses to tell the police.

"Anyway, Mr. Thompson thought that I might be just as right for the part as a boy. He asked my parents if he could screen-test me. They said sure. Mr. Thompson liked the screen test, gave me the part, and that's how I got into this crazy business."

What Hayley omits with serene modesty from her account is that she proved so able in Tiger Bay that she was awarded top acting honors at the Berlin Film Festival for her work in the film.

Not only that but Disney saw and grabbed her for the lead in Pollyanna, cast her opposite such top-flight professionals as Jane Wyman, Karl Malden, Adolph Menjou, Donald Crisp and Agnes Moorhead. For her performance in Pollyanna, Hayley was awarded the "Oscar" of the Variety Clubs of Great Britain, the youngest actress ever to be so honored.

The Money Rolls In

Under her Disney contract, Hayley is scheduled to make one picture a year for five years with every second production filmed in England. Her current salary is $4,000 a week with a minimum 10-week annual guarantee. For her next picture she will be paid $5,000 a week, then $6,000, and for her final Disney production, $7,500 a week. But, like all film contracts, this one is subject to renegotiation.

According to one leading Hollywood agent, "The kid is easily worth $250,000 a picture. Matter of fact, she's so hot at the box office right now that Universal has signed her to replace Sandra Dee, who's pregnant, in The Chalk Garden, and I think they're paying her a flat $100,000."

Hayley says, "I have no idea how much money I earn. Father looks after that. I don't care about money. I act because it's fun and I love it.

"My parents give me two pounds a week [$5.60] to spend; and when I see something I like and they're not around to stop me, I buy it."

Proud Guardian

Hayley's folks leave England when John Mills is filming on location—he's recently been working in Tahiti—and during these periods their daughter is looked after by Lee Bragg, a pleasant, blonde, middle-aged lady from Louisville and North Hollywood who describes her charge as "the most normal, considerate, well-mannered teenager you're ever going to meet."

Mrs. Bragg has worked as Hayley's guardian on three films and believes the system of alternate production between Burbank, Calif., and Pinewood is the best thing that could happen to Hayley.

"In England," Mrs. Bragg explains, "they don't treat a child star with all the hullabaloo and fuss they accord one in America. This prevents a young girl from getting spoiled. Here at Pinewood, Hayley's regarded as just another member of the crew, and she's treated accordingly. It helps her keep both feet on the ground, although I must say she's never shown any tendency to do anything else. She doesn't regard herself as anything special, just as a lucky girl."

Hayley still attends the Elmhurst School in Surrey—she's been going there since she was 7—and in addition to school subjects takes ballet and drama.

The school makes no special concessions to her as an actress. This year, for example, she couldn't even make the end-of-term class play since, owing to film commitments, she had missed several rehearsals. Instead, she happily sold programs at the affair.

"I only work three months a year," Hayley points out. "So nine months of the year I'm quite normal. I've just started going out with boys. I don't know too many—and frankly I'm not as interested in boys at this point as I am in myself.

"I'm ambitious, I guess, but not terribly. The parts I've played in films, the characters are always younger than myself, and I wonder sometimes if that's made me backward. I mean, I wonder if at my age I should be more interested in boys than I am.

"Right now I'm interested in finishing school at Elmhurst. Then I'm going to Brussels for six months to learn French. I guess I'll enroll in a convent.

"Reporters ask me frequently if working in films doesn't prevent me from enjoying a normal youth. I don't think it does. I still have the friends I've always had. I still do the things I've always done, swim, play tennis, watch my brother Jonathan play cricket. I listen to jazz and rock 'n' roll with my schoolmates. I don't think working in films has changed me much.

A Mind of Her Own

"You ask me what sort of girl I think I am. Frankly I'm moronic and imbecilic, but I have a mind of my own. The one thing I've learned from this business is that I shouldn't marry an actor. I need a man I can respect and love, and while I feel that way about my father, I still wouldn't want to marry an actor because then we'd have two rival careers in the same family and it would bring problems, problems, problems."

Essentially a quiet girl, Hayley rarely emits such lengthy spoken thoughts, even in interviews. Although she is by now well-acclimated to life on the sound stages, she claims she is happiest when she's riding around the Mills' 450-acre farm in Sussex on her horse, Annabelle.

"I love horses," she confesses. "Sometimes I even wonder what it would be like if I married one. They're such a comfort, you know. They never talk back." ■

At last doctors see real hope of...

PREVENTING the 'COMMON COLD'

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history, medical scientists are convinced that they will be able to prevent the "common cold."

There is a bigger push than ever in medical research circles to produce one or more vaccines that will protect against certain types of respiratory infection.

PARADE has learned these facts from leading authorities in virus research throughout the U.S.:

1) Recent discoveries (within the past eight years) have led doctors to conclude that they have nailed down the viruses responsible for 60 per cent of all severe respiratory illnesses in children.

2) Vaccines to protect against some of these illnesses are in the planning stage. No doubt you will hear more about experimental vaccines within the next year.

3) The first of the new vaccines probably will be aimed at reducing cold-type illnesses primarily in children under 5 years of age. This vaccine might contain the croup virus and thus protect against one of the most frightening of all childhood disorders.

Such optimism is based on findings in one of the most exciting fields of medical research—virology, which since 1953 has yielded so many discoveries that even scientists admit they can scarcely keep up with them.

In the past decade, virus research has produced more than 90 separate viral "bugs" involved in respiratory disease. It is now thought that between 15 and 25 of them cause most of the sore throats, wheezing and sneezing of children in pre-school and early school years.

Hope for a Vaccine

A tremendous effort is now being launched to classify the most prevalent viruses so that they may provide the basis for a protective vaccine. Ultimately, doctors hope for a vaccine that will be given together with polio or flu shots. This multiple vaccine would also protect against common cold-type ailments.

"We can now proceed intelligently toward respiratory vaccines," says Dr. Maurice Hilleman, of Merck, Sharpe & Dohme, leading pharmaceuticals house. "There is a real future for these vaccines, or I wouldn't be in this field."

Dr. Hilleman is a discoverer of some of those 90-plus cold-type viruses which have given the big push to vaccine research.

Another authority, Dr. Robert Huebner of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, Bethesda, Md., adds that vaccines in this area of sickness are no longer a dream. Enough has been learned so that "we need no longer accept respiratory illness as an inevitable condition of life."

This is an extraordinary statement; particularly in the light of a 30-year study at the Harvard School of Public Health which shows that 83 per cent of all illnesses that occur up to age 18 are caused by acute respiratory disease—common colds.

The average American adult has four to six bouts with cold-type illnesses every year. These ailments are the No. 1 cause of job absenteeism in the U.S. It is safe to say that Americans have 1 billion illnesses they call "colds" each year.

(Medical researchers shy away from the term "colds." This is because the symptoms are caused by so many different viruses that to scientists the term has no real meaning.)

Virulent Tongue-Twisters

The respiratory viruses discovered within the past five years include some with tongue-twisting names such as respiratory syncytial, adenoviruses and a group called the parainfluenzas.

An adenovirus vaccine, already available, is widely used in military camps which, for some peculiar reason, are vulnerable to respiratory outbreaks from these particular viruses. In addition, an adeno-plus-flu vaccine is currently available.

Some experts say that gradually more and more viruses can be added to the vaccines already available to provide protection against an ever-widening range of respiratory disorders.

However, there are serious problems in vaccine research, which must be overcome before vaccines are possible for mass use.

The first step, according to Dr. Huebner, is to find a way to purify and concentrate the viruses so they can actually confer immunity with a few injections. A vaccine is usually not fully accepted by the public if children have to keep going to the doctor for shots every few months.

The second step will be to produce a safe vaccine which can be tested on a broad scale. Some viruses which cause respiratory disease in humans have no significant effect on laboratory animals. That means some mass field trials would have to be carried out directly on people without benefit of previous experiments on animals.

One stage in producing vaccine: Pfizer & Co. lab worker prepares a liquid medium before the virus is introduced.

In addition, because of viral differences some vaccines will be easier to manufacture than others.

For example, parainfluenza virus appears to cause about 15 per cent of respiratory illnesses in small children, including many cases of croup. This virus is quite easy to work with in the laboratory. But respiratory syncytial virus, which is thought to cause more cold-type ailments, is extremely difficult to stabilize and to use in a vaccine.

Even with these monumental problems, Dr. Hilleman is willing to concede that the current accumulation of knowledge means that big things will happen in the respiratory vaccine field.

This is his conservative way of saying that today respiratory vaccine research is hot—red hot. ■

Now! The three kinds of insurance a young father wants most — all in one new policy

Here's a comprehensive life insurance program in one policy. Equitable's new Planned Security Policy provides for your family, if you should die: 1. Lump sum cash payment for beneficiary. 2. Monthly income while children are growing up. For you, if you should live: 3. Cash for your own retirement.

Three questions to ask before you buy any one single life insurance policy

1. Will it provide a cash payment large enough to cover heavy immediate expenses and enable your family to get a fresh start free of debt?
2. Will it guarantee a monthly income to help raise and educate your children?
3. Will it help take care of your retirement?

For complete details about Equitable's new Planned Security Policy (issued up to age 45) call The Man from Equitable.

Tall and short of it

BRUCE YARNELL, who co-stars as a deputy marshal on Outlaws—a TV Western—is so big (six feet six) that NBC has had some unusual difficulties with him. For example, Yarnell's hands are so large that a special revolver had to be manufactured to accommodate his over-sized fingers. And when it comes to finding actresses who can play opposite Yarnell, none are tall enough for kissing closeups. To solve that problem, Yarnell always takes off his shoes and has the young lady stand on a box in high heels. Attractive Pippa Scott demonstrates the procedure as she and Bruce rehearse a scene.

QUESTIONS

1 When the battle opens, raise your voice a notch so your mate will know at once you are genuinely annoyed. YES ☐ NO ☐

2 For wives: A shower of pretended tears will win you sympathy and probably the argument as well. For husbands: Make believe your feelings have been seriously hurt by something she said. Chances are she will be instantly contrite. YES ☐ NO ☐

3 When arguing about one specific matter, use the opportunity to bring in another subject that has been bothering you. Thus you can clear up two sources of friction at the cost of one spat. YES ☐ NO ☐

4 Never ask questions during an argument. Make forthright statements instead. Questioning is only sparring and won't move you forward. YES ☐ NO ☐

5 If you have a gripe on your chest, get it off even though your mate is weary and would rather put off a discussion. Remember the old adage: "Never let the sun go down on your anger." YES ☐ NO ☐

6 If a funny remark occurs to you while you are verbally whaling away at each other, throttle the urge to say it aloud. Comedy has no place in an argument where serious issues are at stake. YES ☐ NO ☐

7 Suppose a quarrel has ended in a draw. If you discover some evidence later on that proves your case, be sure to let your mate know. If you don't, the battle will only break out anew in the future. YES ☐ NO ☐

8 Be wise and give in to keep peace in the family. Since quarrels are destructive, you win even though you don't get your way. YES ☐ NO ☐

9 Craftily play upon your mate's reasonableness and sense of justice. Tell him: "Now after all, isn't it logical to feel this way?" Tell her: "Wouldn't any fair-minded person do this . . . ?" YES ☐ NO ☐

10 If you feel like calling names while a spat is in progress, do so. Bottling up your true feelings will only make them fester inside you. YES ☐ NO ☐

ANSWERS

You should have answered NO to every statement! Here is why, according to leading marriage and family relations experts:

1 "If you must quarrel at home be determined but make it a point never to talk above normal conversational tone," counsels Dr. Anna K. Daniels, New York gynecologist and marriage counselor. "It's hard to say cutting things in a gentle voice. Thus if you don't incite your partner, you won't receive sharp replies and the conflict will ebb. Your mate is more likely to see things your way than if you caused outbursts by your own loud arguments."

2 It's true that strong emotion is often the only way we can make our mates realize how important some things are to us, declares Dr. David R. Mace, executive director of the American Association of Marriage Counselors. But the emotion must be genuine. Make-believe tears and hurts are transparent and won't fool anyone for long. Then, when you really feel keenly about something, you'll have trouble convincing your mate you mean it.

3 Quarrels enlarge easily, all experts point out. Sticking closely to the subject at hand prevents both of you from reaching far out for all sorts of grievances and tossing them onto the fire. At this point, a mate finds it hard to yield, even though realizing the other is right.

4 "Ask questions to clarify the causes of the argument," advises Dr. Melvyn M. Katz, Long Island psychotherapist and marriage counselor. By asking questions, adds Dr. Katz, you may learn there is less conflict than you thought. Other experts point out that if you let your mate know you are honestly searching for the roots of the battle, you are also demonstrating fairmindedness. This can turn out to be a big point in your favor.

5 The old saw belongs in the scrap heap. Dr. Judson T. Landis, family sociology professor of the University of California, says: "An excellent rule is never to try to discuss any controversial or emotionally charged questions if either partner is ill, over-tired or hungry." After a good night's sleep, you see things in better proportion—besides, by then your anger may have faded!

6 By all means make the comic remark, provided it's not a cutting one. If you can get your mate laughing, you're way ahead. Says Dr. Landis: "The possession of a good sense of humor helps to relieve tension and to keep quarreling at a minimum."

7 This is one of the most common and yet most dangerous mistakes wives and husbands make, says Mrs. Martha K. Selig, consultant on family and children's services for the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York. She adds: "Perhaps you will win the arguments on points if you 'prove' your case after the battle ends, but you may cause resentments that last for years." Then add: "The fight is ended—prove yourself a big and loving person by letting the matter lie."

8 Yielding just to keep peace is a defeat, not a victory. You'll lose them all that way, plus a good deal more. Dr. Mace warns that the peace-at-any-price policy "no more improves family relations than international relations." If a principle is at stake, stick up for it.

9 An emotion-charged wife or husband will only storm louder when urged to be "reasonable." Authorities urge you to be fair, reasonable and logical as you quietly discuss the matter.

10 If you feel like saying something nasty, DON'T. When quarreling, advises Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall, a leading sociologist and family consultant, keep your energies focused on the problem, not on the other's faults. Stinging remarks wound deeply and hurt your cause, both immediate and long-term.

SCORING: Give yourself 10 points for each NO answer. If you racked up 30 or less, you'll lose the next spat too! 40 to 70 gives you a fighting chance each time, while 80 or higher shows a sound understanding of human nature, yours and your mate's.

They make figures more attractive

Show case of mathematics stops visitors, young and old, at California Museum of Science and Industry,

Los Angeles. The exhibition, a year in preparation, illustrates principles from simple sums to trigonometry.

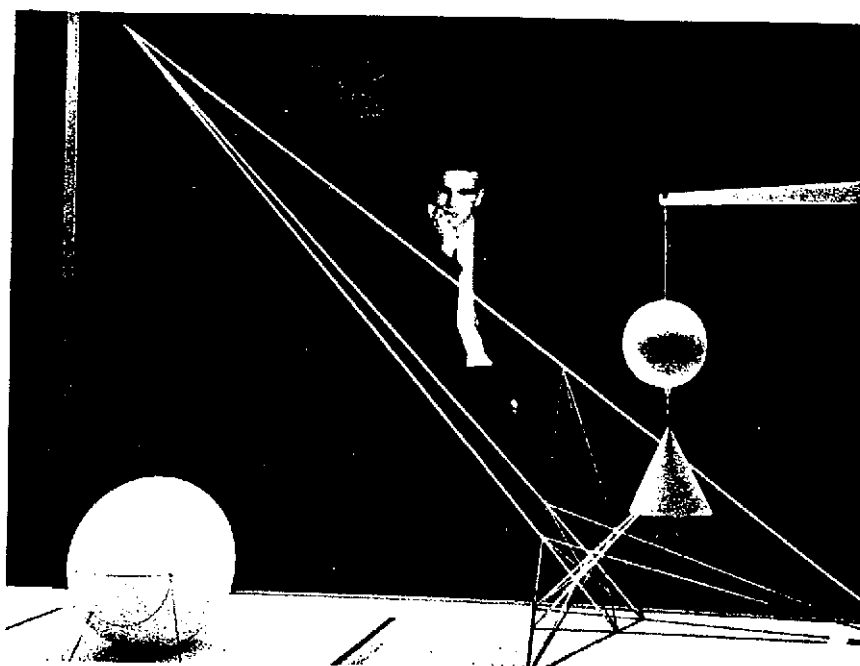

TO MANY YOUNGSTERS — and adults — mathematics is a dull, meaningless jumble, filled with intimidating numbers, bewildering problems, and uninspiring memory work. To children in the Los Angeles area, however, math has recently become as clear as a bell—and fun besides. Behind this turn-about is the exciting exhibit shown in these photos.

"The World of Mathematics—and Beyond" is the work of famed designer Charles Eames. Now on permanent exhibition at the California Museum of Science and Industry, it teaches a complex subject through a series of eye-catching surprises. One of the first things visitors learn, for instance, is that sunflowers, seashells and dried-up mud all illustrate mathematical principles. The difficult concept of probability is demonstrated through 8,000 plastic balls which arrange themselves in a bell-shaped curve.

Right from the start the show has been a hit. Today more than one million visitors a year see the exhibit—including many scientists and mathematicians from the California space and electronics industry. A seventh-grader, however, has summed up the show best. "This," he says, "is more fun than Disneyland." ■

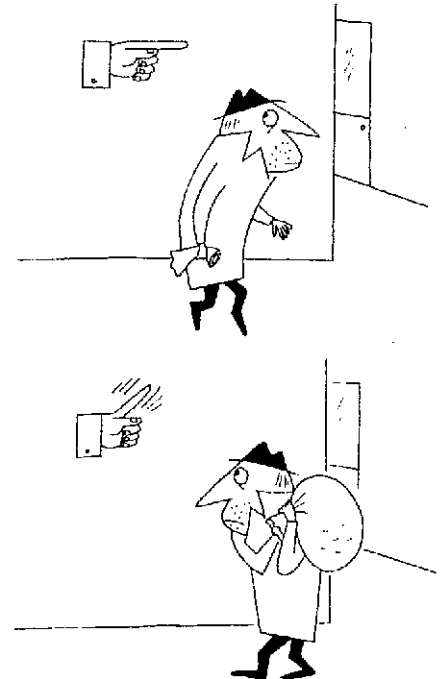

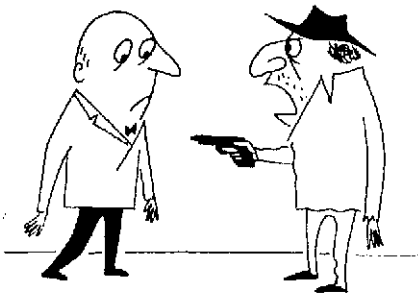

'Moebius band'—a geometrical curiosity used by mapmakers and surveyors—catches eye of 5-year-old Abby Wilson. Moving arrow shows that figure has only one edge and surface.

Spheres and cones teach high school boy the basics of solid geometry. Favorite features of the exhibit are "prove-it-yourself" models which allow viewer to solve math problems.

CHILL-BLENDED FOR EXTRA FLAKINESS

Three newly-ordained clergymen explain WHY WE SERVE GOD

THE CHURCHES need men. At a time when Americans' minds are troubled and the clergy's mission is vast, 10 thousand towns have no Catholic priest, 25,000 Protestant churches no regular minister, upwards of 400 Jewish congregations no rabbi.

The Methodist Church alone needs 2,800 new ministers a year to offset deaths and retirements. Its seminaries produce 900.

Enrollments in theological schools have fallen off six per cent in the last five years. The United Presbyterian Church recently abandoned plans for a new seminary for lack of enrollment. Another seminary was converted into a training place for lay leaders.

And sociologists say the situation probably will grow worse. Today's eye-on-the-dollar young people, they say, won't be diverted into the priesthood, ministry or rabbinate, which are traditionally underpaid, overworked and exploited.

Yet each year a dedicated handful of 7,500 young men from all denominations enter God's service. Why? What reasons impel them to choose a life of difficult work and miserable salary? What causes do they see that the church must fulfill? What purposes do they feel religion serves in the world today? Below, three young men who have just answered God's call answer that question.

THE REV. WILLIAM CONGDON

RABBI JERRY ORENSTEIN

THE REV. WILLIAM MCCURDY

'The bomb faces us all'

► The Rev. William H. C. Congdon, curate of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Wallingford, Conn., believes the need for clergymen today is intensified by the danger of nuclear war.

"One of the things people must face and the church must face," says 27-year-old Mr. Congdon, "is that there is very little security in this world. The front pages show us that. The only answer is to be found outside this world.

"God's answer is not an easy one, but as long as this threat exists, we cannot expect an easy attitude toward life. There simply is no easy compromise."

Bill Congdon, like his fellow clergymen Father McCurdy and Rabbi Orenstein, is under no illusions that he will change the world. He says he literally "wandered" into the clergy. He was a choir boy in Greenwich, Conn., but at Yale, where he took honors in philosophy, he considered Christianity "irrelevant." But as a graduate student at the University of Glasgow, Scotland, he began to feel "some sort of need."

"It was not a ball of fire," he explains. "It just grew in me. On Trinity Sunday at the cathedral at Salisbury I realized that there was only one door open to me." Congdon returned home, entered General Theological Seminary, New York.

"Essentially," he says "the clergy's mission is the same as always. It is to bring into the lives of normal people something of the knowledge of God's power. It is to learn to say and explain simply the message of God for these times. Clergymen in the 12th century must have seen their task the same way."

'The world wants justice'

► Rabbi Jerry Orenstein, a Flushing, N.Y., youth who once was a concert pianist, considers the need for justice so pressing in today's troubled world that he spent his last year at Jewish Theological Seminary of America concentrating on the Book of Job and on concepts of justice as taught by the rabbis.

"It is not that justice is more important than mercy and love," says the rabbi. "It is that justice is the basic rung of the ladder.

"If your concept of justice is clear, you can judge in your own heart whether an action is right or wrong.

"Our world is confused about this. It tends to say that all things are relative. But there is a right and wrong. The Bible and the Talmud show it."

The cry for justice, as Rabbi Orenstein sees it, also extends to nations in this era of anti-colonial uprising and racial turbulence. This was brought home when he spent a year in Israel and visited Russia.

"The truth about Russian Jewry is bitter, but little known," he says sadly. "A religious Jew suffers almost as much today as he did under Stalin. True, his blood is not spilled. Khrushchev is too crafty for that. He prefers to attack the soul rather than the body."

Yet Rabbi Orenstein feels that, worldwide, counter-trends are beginning to build up. In our own country, for example, he sees the Peace Corps as a counter-weight to the drive for money and luxury.

"This is an important time to be in the rabbinate," he says. "But had I lived at any other time in history, I still would have wanted to be a rabbi. I can't imagine any other life outside the service of God."

'Youth needs guidance'

► The Rev. William McCurdy, S.J., prematurely white-haired at 31, feels youth is most in need of guidance today. "The young," he says, "are at a critical age in critical times." He continues:

"Young people need someone to indicate to them that there is something more than the material things around them. They need to realize that the whole goal is not what happens in this life. They need to be shown that 'doing well' by the standards of this world is not necessarily 'doing well' by the standards of God.

"Today's young people may have had things too easy. They have had a great deal given to them, perhaps too much. Yet many of them have lost contact with their parents. They are confused, upset. They don't know where they're going. They need to be challenged, to be helped to see the basic Christian idea — of giving themselves. They need a basic orientation toward God and an understanding of God's plan."

Young Father McCurdy was ordained this June at Fordham University. His assignment has not yet been decided by his superiors. But he would like to aid the Jesuit program of weekend spiritual retreats. In this program, boys winding up their high school studies seek direction and guidance for their future. Priests like Father McCurdy counsel them.

Father McCurdy sees today's task for the clergy this way: "We must help Catholics to deepen their own faith, help non-Catholics to know Jesus Christ, help people everywhere to get to know God better. In a world of power politics and cold war, we must get across a message of helping others and loving God."

All politicians get this disease.

It's called

FOOT-IN-

by JACK ANDERSON
Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

WHEN 3-YEAR-OLD Caroline Kennedy confided to reporters that "Daddy is upstairs with his shoes and socks off doing nothing," she committed her first blooper. She put her little foot in her little mouth.

Not even the President's daughter, it seems, is immune to Washington's most virulent virus. The slightest exposure can cause foot-in-mouth disease, an infirmity of the tongue which commonly besets bureaucrats, upsets politicians and sets back diplomats.

The virus exists, of course, wherever pronouncements are made. Its effects are most severe in places like Moscow and Peking where talking out of turn can be positively fatal. But nowhere does it flourish more than in this free-speaking capital.

The symptoms are most prevalent among politicians who believe in an open-mouth policy on all subjects.

The most troublesome are the fire-eaters who are forever swallowing their own burning words. They clamored for a military expeditionary force, for example, to rescue a hi-jacked airliner from Cuba. The proposal had to be called off and they had to gulp back their flaming language when the next news dispatches revealed that the culprits had had nothing to do with Cuba.

Off the Wrong Cuff

Ships of state have been rocked by a comment off the wrong cuff or a statement that had better been left unstated. The customary procedure is to issue denials, explanations, alibis, retractions. But these seldom silence the reverberations.

Even the most circumspect statesman, schooled in diplomatic double-talk, will get caught with his mouth open and his foot jammed in it up to the ankle. Few, for instance, are more taciturn than General Lucius Clay, the President's man-on-the-spot in Berlin. Yet he managed to stir up an international rumpus by suggesting at a party that West Germany accept the "reality" of two Germans.

This unfortunate remark slipped out shortly after Vice President Lyndon Johnson had been sent to West Berlin to bolster morale. The effect was to take the pep out of Johnson's pep talks to the beleaguered city. To European reporters, always alert to fine nuances, Clay's words also hinted at a retreat in America's stand-firm policy.

Soapy in Africa

G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, was the first New Frontiersman to chew on his foot. Touring the Dark Continent, the exuberant "Soapy," on the frothy tide of oratory, declared his firm belief in "Africa for the Africans." The white settlers took this to mean that they should be cleared off the continent. They roared with rage while Soapy joined a group of Congolese schoolboys singing mournfully, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

Another who has contemplated membership in Ad-Libbers Anonymous is Interior Secretary Stewart Udall. His worst gaffe came during a chat with Begum Aurangzeb, the daughter of Pakistan's President. Commenting on the fact that the Begum's husband came from Peshawar, Udall remarked pleasantly: "That's in Afghanistan, isn't it?" The Begum later complained to President Kennedy over Udall's lack of geographical knowledge. Quipped the President: "That's why he's Secretary of the Interior."

Vice President Johnson found he could plant his foot in his mouth without saying anything at all. He accomplished that in India

Gen. Lucius Clay, shown with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, hit world headlines with blooper.

THE-MOUTH

by uttering a full-throated Texas yell to test the echo at the Taj Mahal. This is a shrine and many Indians were offended. But they were so warmed by his friendly, folksy ways that they forgave him.

Few men were more skilled with words than the late John Foster Dulles. Yet in many world capitals, he is remembered more for one unfortunate remark than for all his years of constructive diplomacy. He said: "The ability to get to the verge of war without getting into war is the necessary art."

Life magazine featured the statement under the headline "Brink of War," and the word "brinkmanship" became part of the world's diplomatic language. The mistaken impression was that the Secretary of State was prepared to gamble with world peace.

Nixon's Bloop

Another cautious fellow, Richard Nixon, managed to trip over his tongue while he was Vice President. Urging a flexible foreign policy in a TV debate with Kennedy during the 1960 presidential campaign, he declared:

"We can't stand pat!" The audience, remembering that his wife's name is Pat, snickered with delight.

Chief Justice Earl Warren is still blushing over the occasion when, enthused at the size of his audience, he began: "Ladies and gentlemen, I am delighted to address such a dense crowd."

Nor will Ezra Taft Benson, former Agriculture Secretary, forget the time he proclaimed in a ringing voice: "Price supports can be used effectively to protect the farmers against undue disaster."

Ex-Congressman Alvin Bentley must still squirm at the memory of a GOP policy meeting where he tried to change a party principle. "Gentlemen," he said solemnly, "in this matter we must rise above principles."

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen intended nothing but chivalry when, in response to a denunciation by Senator Wayne Morse, he sprang to the defense of Mrs. Clare Booth Luce. In a voice of righteous wrath, Dirksen called on Morse to "stop beating an old bag of bones." Continued on page 24

John Foster Dulles, the late Secretary of State, alarmed U.S. allies and hurt his career with famed "brinkmanship" remark in an interview.

New Yorkers Were SHOCKED
By The Recent EXPOSE of
PATENT MEDICINE PRACTICES
Now You Too Can Learn How To SAVE
... STOP PAYING HIGH PRICES FOR

VITAMINS

A recent public service study of Patent Medicines in one of New York's leading evening newspapers, devoted one entire installment to VITAMINS and disclosed many interesting highlights about the sale of Vitamins and Vitamin-Mineral combinations.

One of the startling revelations in this frank article was the wide variance of Vitamin prices.

The following three paragraphs taken from the series, as it appeared, are of particular concern to every family buying Vitamins.

"Any particular vitamin bottled under one label is, for all practical and therapeutic purposes, the same as if it is bottled under another label. The fact is, most of the Vitamin concentrates consumed in America are produced by only a few companies.

"The list of ingredients in a Vitamin compound is one thing the consumer can almost always depend on to be correct. Any company which fails to label the bottle with the exact formula and amount (or unit strength) of each ingredient risks a seizure by the U. S. Government.

"Bearing that in mind, it is interesting to pick up a few Vitamin catalogs and compare the prices charged by different companies for the same Vitamin compounds."

Following publication of the installment we received hundreds of telephone calls requesting copies of the Hudson Vitamin Catalog. This interest prompted us to tell the entire nation our story.

Here is one example from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog: A very popular multiple vitamin that is taken once-a-day, regularly sells for about $3.10 per 100... the Hudson formula sells for only $1.50 per 100.

Here is another — a well-known high potency B complex formula with Vitamin C and minerals (similar to a brand nationally advertised at $4.40 per 100) ... only $2.10 per 100 DIRECT from the Hudson Vitamin Catalog.

These are only two examples that you will find in our 48 page catalog that is simple, easy to read and has been a Vitamin buying guide for millions from coast-to-coast.

Sometimes they snowball as far as the White House

Ill-expressed chivalry also caught Sen. Paul Douglas with his phrases down during an impassioned appeal for non-slip polish on the Senate office floors. "It's been reported," he cried, "that many women have fallen in the Senate Office Building."

But no one could have been more embarrassed than the young, eager State Department aide who was delegated to show the new Secretary, Dean Rusk, through the diplomatic establishment. Knowing Rusk to be a professor, he assumed that "Dean" was his title.

"Dean," he said, "you must see this . . . Dean, look at that. . ."

Only after the tour was the young aide informed that he had been calling the Big Boss by his first name.

The debates over defense have produced some classic cases of "foot-in-mouth." When Russia launched the first Sputnik, Presidential advisor Clarence Randall called it "a silly bauble." The former White House watchdog, Sherman Adams, commented: "The United States isn't interested in a high score in an outer space basketball game." They soon wished they had a magic machine like a magnetic eraser on a tape recorder that could have canceled their words.

Worse off was Adm. Lewis Parks, former Navy press chief, who committed his bloopers in writing. He signed a memo declaring that the atomic submarine wasn't battle-worthy, that her torpedo tubes were added only as an afterthought and that her delicate equipment wouldn't work at high speed. When the memo inevitably leaked to the newspapers, President Eisenhower exploded. "Why," he wailed, "the Navy even asked Mamie to christen her!"

Misunderstood Secretary

But the most incurable foot-in-mouth victim of all time was probably the late Defense Secretary, Charles Wilson. His slips and misses of the tongue began the moment he hit Washington. At a Senate hearing, he remarked: "What is good for the country is good for General Motors and vice versa." Somehow this got twisted, and the nation became convinced that the former General Motors boss had said: "What is good for General Motors is good for the country."

He was still trying to explain this away when he let go an opinion on unemployment in Detroit. "I have always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs," he said. "You know, one that will get out and look for food rather than sit on his haunches and yell for it." Angered workingmen across the country accused Wilson of calling them dogs.

Next, Wilson alienated the nation's scientists by expressing his contempt for space research in these words: "I am not much interested in why potatoes turn brown when fried or what makes the grass grow green." He also didn't care what was on the other side of the moon. This caused the Air Force to teletype to all commands: "No statements can be made which might in any way cause national news media to describe Air Force projects as efforts to 'fly to the moon'."

Wilson was continually called on the White House carpet. Once he announced that the United States was pulling a division out of Europe at the moment that State Secretary Dulles was assuring the Europeans this would not happen. Wilson came out of the White House looking dejected. "Maybe," he said, "I should remember what the mama whale said to the baby whale, 'Son, it's only when you're spouting that you get harpooned'."

Most Quoted Line

Another time Wilson bluntly charged that the National Guard was used by some boys to dodge the draft. The uproar was so furious that Ike decided to issue a public rebuke. He called the statement "unwise . . . made without stopping to think."

Even then, Charlie Wilson could not restrain his tongue. Coming out of the White House he shrugged and said, "This is not my dunghill!"—which became the most quoted "no comment" in Washington history.

Fiercely loyal to her husband, Mrs. Wilson chimed in, too—and put her own foot in her mouth. She rebuked the President!

She snapped: "I don't think John Foster Dulles, whom Mr. Eisenhower praised, has done any better job than a lot of other men. I've stood back and listened to criticism until I'm tired of it."

To no one's surprise, Wilson finally had enough and submitted his resignation. As he departed, he still had his foot dangerously close to his mouth. "The price of progress," he said, "is trouble. I must be making a lot of progress. But," he added, "it's futile to talk about the past, something like trying to make birth control retroactive."

Is there a cure for Washington foot-in-mouth disease? No one has found it yet. But there is a preventive medicine which one harried press officer prescribed for his charges. He quotes from the New Testament, James 3: 3-5: "Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body. Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet they are turned about with a very small helm . . . Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!"

A LUNCHEON SANDWICH LOAF

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

RECIPES for a sandwich loaf usually call for a loaf of unsliced bread, which is trimmed and sliced lengthwise into 3 or 4 long slices. Nowadays it is difficult to find unsliced bread at the market. Usually it must be ordered a day or so ahead. Furthermore, lengthwise slicing is not easy and the slices are often uneven. That's why we like this new idea of making a sandwich loaf from a loaf of sliced bread. Trimming is easy, slices are uniform and the finished loaf is symmetrically handsome. Buy a 1-pound loaf of regular-sliced bread, not thin-sliced, and follow our easy directions. The fillings make a delicious flavor blend, and party guests will enjoy every luscious bite.

Sumptuous Sandwich Loaf

1 loaf (1 lb.) sliced white bread (not thin-sliced)
 Deviled Ham, Tuna and Liver Spread Fillings
 2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese
 Pimiento strips Parsley Pitted ripe olives

Trim crusts from bread slices. Place four slices side by side on flat serving platter. Spread with Deviled Ham Filling. Place four more bread slices over Ham Filling; spread with Tuna Filling. Place four more bread slices over Tuna Filling; spread with Liver Spread Filling. Top with remaining four bread slices. Place stacks close together on platter. Beat cream cheese until smooth and fluffy. Frost top and sides of loaf. Decorate with pimiento strips, parsley and ripe olive slices. Chill. To serve, cut into 1½-inch slices. Makes 8 servings.

DEVILED HAM FILLING: Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper or drained pickle relish and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard to 1 can (4½ oz.) deviled ham. Mix well.

TUNA FILLING: Blend together ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon minced onion and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add 1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, drained and chopped fine, ¼ cup minced celery and 2 tablespoons snipped parsley.

LIVER SPREAD FILLING: Combine 1 can (4½ oz.) liver spread and ¼ cup mayonnaise; mix well. Stir in ¼ cup finely chopped ripe olives.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by HILDEGARDE

EDITOR'S NOTE: Hildegard, born Hildegard Loretta Sell in Wisconsin on February 1, 1906, is one of the most fabulous entertainers of modern times. Pianist, chanteuse — a fancy name for singer—and raconteur, Hildegard and her landlady's daughter, Anna Sosenko, hit New York together in the 1930s. Hildegard sang, and Sosenko managed her. Since 1934, Hildegard has appeared in spots ranging from sophisticated supper clubs in Paris to summer stock theaters in New Jersey.

Entering a department store, a little old lady was startled when a band began to play and a dignified executive pinned an orchid on her dress and handed her a crisp $100 bill. It seems she was the store's one millionth customer. Television cameras focused on her and reporters began interviewing.

"Tell me," one asked, "just what did you come here for today?"

The lady hesitated for a minute, then answered: "I'm on my way to the complaint department."

The tiny compact car was jerking and jumping. Despite the fact that it was on a smooth highway, the car would bounce, glide along, then bounce again. The driver pulled over to the side of the road.

A sympathetic policeman approached and asked, "Something wrong with the car?"

"Oh no, sir," the driver answered. "It's just that I have the hiccups."

The easiest way to get a youthful figure is to ask a lady her age.

The millionaire had written his daughter at college about the lavish swimming pool he had built—just for her. She came home for the holidays, and as they drove into the grounds, she noticed several handsome young men, swimming and diving in the new pool.

"Oh, Daddy, that's wonderful," she exclaimed. "You didn't write that you stocked it for me!"

The raw recruits were running the obstacle course, over rocks, across icy streams, through briar bushes, under barbed wire and up an almost vertical hill. "Well, Rookie," said the sergeant when the run was over, "what do you think of being a marine?"

"Shucks, Sarge," said the hillbilly recruit, "I ain't even puffin'. Where I come from, we go through country like that jest to get to the barn."

In a plush photography studio a society matron was looking at her new portrait. "That picture's an outrage!" she stormed. "Now I ask you, honestly, does it look like me?"

The photographer, flustered for a moment, quickly regained his composure. "Madame," he said, bowing slightly, "the answer is in the negative."

A meek little man approached a policeman on the street corner.

"Excuse me, officer," he said, "but I've been waiting here for my wife for over an hour. Would you please be kind enough to order me to move on?"

A foreign diplomat once came in upon Abraham Lincoln while he was blacking his shoes.

"What, Mr. President, you black your own shoes?" the diplomat asked incredulously.

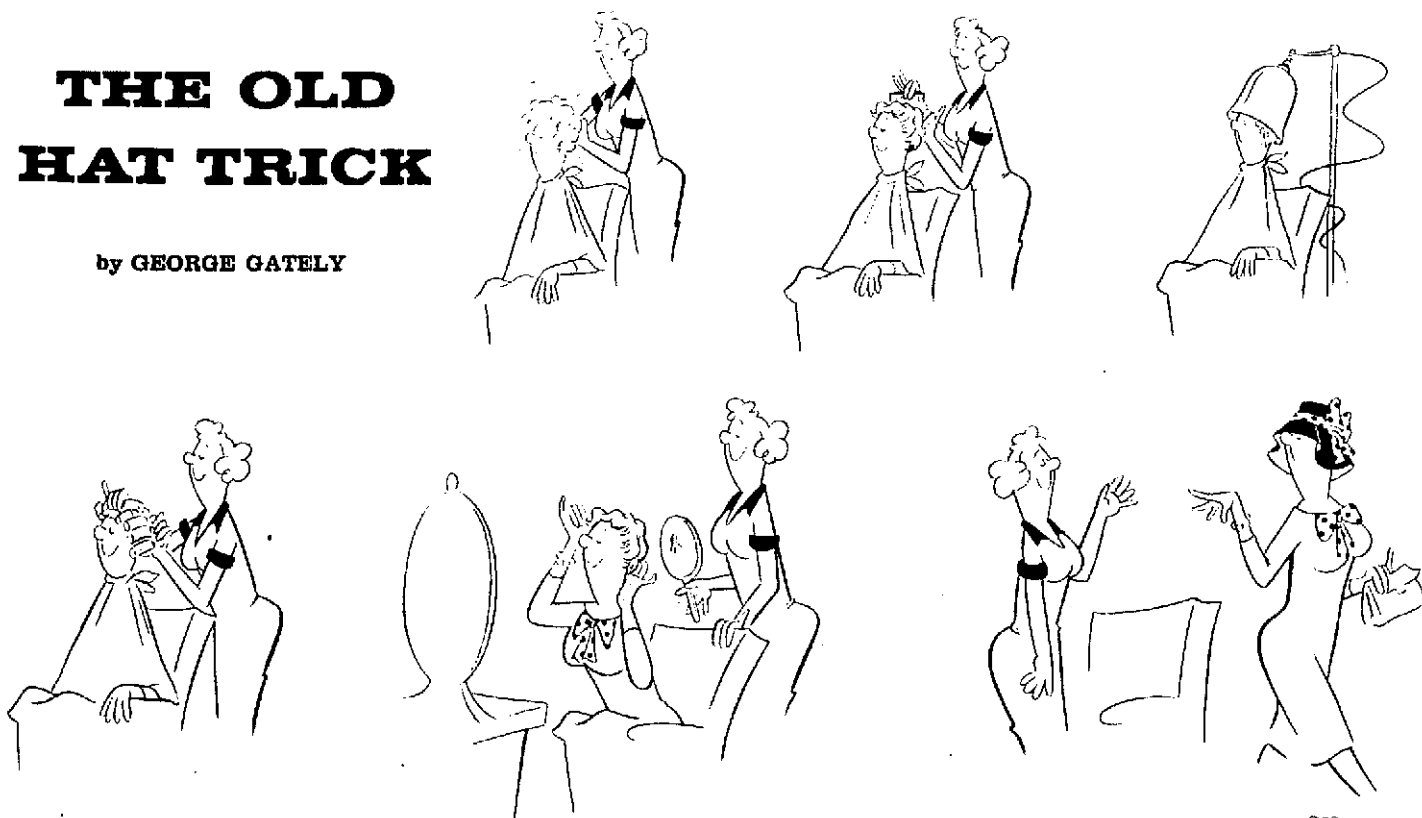

"Yes," Lincoln answered. "Whose do you black?"

A surgeon examined a new patient most carefully. After studying the X-rays, he turned to the man and said, "Could you pay for an operation if I told you one was necessary?"

The patient thought for a moment, then said to the doctor: "Would you find one necessary if I told you I couldn't pay for it?"

George Nader Claims TV 'Hypnotic'

(Editor's Note: The severest critic of television that I have met in more than two years of covering the video beat is an actor who makes his living appearing on the home screen. George Nader, the actor, currently is featured in the title role of "Shannon," airing 7 p.m. Mondays on channel 4, and previously starred as Dr. Glenn Barton on "The Man and the Challenge" series.)

By GEORGE NADER
As Told to 'TeleVues'
Editor Bert Resnik

Television is a hypnotic medium.

Most of what you see goes directly into your subconscious, whether you know it or not.

As a mature individual, you have set up safeguards throughout your life to help you, including your subconscious mind, to discriminate between what is right and wrong.

A child has no such safeguards.

What a child sees on television goes into his mind and is implanted as being real.

The child's subconscious is told that it is acceptable form to use guns, knives, broken beer bottles and to throw acid in the faces of others.

FIVE YEARS from now we will reap the crop of the seeds that have been sown by television. The crop will be the worst bunch of juvenile delinquents in the history of our nation.

The "Magic Monster" in the livingroom—a hypnotic monster—will be at fault.

As a youngster, I went to many movies where violence was a major part of the film.

But there is a difference—a hypnotic difference—between going to a movie and watching violence on television.

When you go to a movie, you leave your home and enter a theater where there is a group of people watching the film.

Television comes into your house, usually into a darkened room where the TV set is the only source of light.

A major basis of hypnosis is concentration on a given point. That point of concentration in your home is television.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Doctors Say 'TV Hypnotizes'

Yes, television is a hypnotic medium and that's not just my idea.

RECENTLY, I attended a symposium of doctors and dentists who use hypnosis to relieve agony and psychosomatic illnesses.

Several of them told me that, after they had their patients in a state of hypnosis, they asked them when was the last time they were hypnotized.

The hypnotized patients replied:

"While I was watching television."

Do you realize the impact of this? These patients were not speaking glibly, not making wisecracks. They were voicing the truth from the depths of their subconscious.

It is time responsible people assume their responsibility.

And I mean, first of all, responsible parents.

Use a little more sense with your children.

I don't mean that you should stop them from watching television altogether.

But be aware of what they're watching and be aware of what's happening to them while they're watching.

IT IS ALSO time for the television industry to take a good look at itself.

Why does television drama so often have to deal with one man doing physical harm to another? Isn't this a narrow scope?

By this time, you're probably wondering what I'm doing as an actor in television. Let me tell you the answers.

I want to act. I love the business. I don't intend to starve.

Perhaps I'm a loner fighting a losing battle. But I think I'd lose it faster if I deserted the field of action.

If what I say and what I feel is printed because I'm a television actor, that is a victory.

WHAT I SAY and feel is this:

Television can deal with life honestly. The problems of life can be grappled with courageously without a series of phoney fights.

The answer to every argument in real life is not to shoot the other guy.

Somewhere along the line, television has to stop and emphasize and dramatize the innate good in people.

It has to emphasize and dramatize the innate human dignity of the individual and the mass.

Music Conservatories' Training Misses TV Boat

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI)—So Junior or Junior Miss wants to become a professional musician?

Take a tip from Eddie Manson, harmonica virtuoso, orchestra conductor, arranger and composer whose works range from TV commercials to a symphony. Don't expect music conservatories and universities to give your embryo Leonard Bernstein the sort of practical education it takes to make a big noise in an overcrowded field.

Manson, who has completed the score for "The Al Smith Story" on "The 20th Century" (6 p.m. Sunday, channel 2), is a product of one of the nation's pre-eminent music schools and has kept in touch with the academic situation through his contacts with many young professionals.

He finds the same snobbish emphasis on "serious" music as when he was a student 20 years ago.

"MUSICIANS ARE being educated for a non-existent market," he said. "Most of them will never find employment in a major symphony orchestra or earn a living on the concert stage. They will have to work in radio, TV, films and the theater where the financial rewards can be much higher anyway. The more the student can learn about these media, the better the chance that he will be self-supporting."

Manson was one of Borrah Minevitch's Harmonica Rascals at 15, but he had to study classical clarinet when he enrolled in music college. He reverted to the harmonica after graduation, working his way up the musical ladder via vaudeville, burlesque, nightclubs, hotels and the concert circuit.

★ ★ ★
NOW MANSON is one of the highest paid composer-conductor-arrangers in the art film and

TV commercial fields. In addition he has an active career as a recording artist, his latest album being, "The Great Eddy Manson Plays the Great Harmonica Favorites."

"The important thing is to acquire flexibility—something the schools don't teach," he said. "You have to know a variety of instruments and a variety of styles including pop and jazz. Then you also have to know recording, TV and film techniques, understand cost accounting, be capable of producing and editing, and a dozen other things that go into making an all-round man of music."

Manson would like to see a revision of academic curricula to provide music students with two years of basic technical training and two years of workshop experience and internship in the various arenas of musical activity. He would bring in successful commercial instrumentalists, arrangers and composers to lecture on how to break all the rules in the book of orchestration."

Laugh Lines

(Following are some TV humor lines from shows of the past week.)

DINAH SHORE SHOW (NBC)

Dean Martin (guest star): "My name is Dr. Rooks, neuro-surgeon. Neuro, meaning nervous. I'm a nervous surgeon. This is the 10th patient I'm going to lose. I don't mind losing them because they're sick anyway. But what bugs me—I don't get paid by any of the losers."

MR. ED (CBS)

Wilbur (setting table): "Think we ought to have place cards?"

Carol: "Place cards?"

Wilbur: "Honey, these people are society."

Carol: "We don't need place cards. I know you and you know him and whoever is left over must be her."

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES (NBC)

Bob Barker, host of the daily show, included the following questions—plus answers—for program contestants:

Q: "Why do husbands consider wives the most biased of all people?"

A: "Because they keep saying, 'Bias this and bias that.'"

Q: "What kind of girl is easily swayed?"

A: "A hula dancer."

Pan and Fan Mail

With a work day ahead of us it's very difficult to get up that next morning after spending these fascinating hours on "Open End." Don't know of any program that has stirred such interest or faithful viewers.

Mrs. Michael Salzman,
Long Beach

You can go to bed early tonight, Mrs. Salzman. "Open End" has been closed down by a three-hour movie, "The Great Ziegfeld," which starts at 8 p.m. on channel 11.

I am sick and thoroughly disgusted with westerns, hillbillies, murders and blackmail.

Mrs. I. E. Bailey, Long Beach

More and more viewers are suffering from the same illness, Mrs. Bailey, and saying so. Is there a doctor in the house?

I wish to beg for more and more concerts. Good music is the most pleasant help our children can have in developing much needed taste and discrimination on TV.

Dean P. Fortson, Long Beach

Your begging, Dean, has brought results. CBS-TV, starting at a yet unspecified date next month, will monthly present a "Young People's Concert" at a time when the entire family will be able to view it.

Since you have frequently published small items about local actors who appear on the popular TV shows, you may find the following information of public interest:

A young Long Beach building contractor and hopeful actor, Pat Waddick, is to appear on "77 Sunset Strip" on Nov. 17. He portrays a sheep station foreman in the "out back" in a Roger Smith script, "The Down Under Caper." Pat is a natural for the part as he is New Zealand born and spent most of his life in Australia, boxing in the ring, racing cars and following his trade as contractor.

This is his initial stint for TV and, we hope, not his last.

script has been written with Pat in mind. In fact, the name given the lead (played by Michael Pate) is Reggie Waddick.

Pat also has the lead in a play, "White Sheep of the Family," to be given in December by the Horseshoe Theater at the Long Beach campus of City College.

Mrs. George Thotos,
Long Beach

And that, Mrs. Thotos, is what I call real fan mail. Hope Pat's out back, down under initial TV caper puts him up yonder on future casting lists.

Los Angeles Health Association Brings Out New Medical Care Plan For Senior Citizens To Age 99

Covers You AT ONCE
Regardless of Present Health!
Provides Medical - Surgical - Hospital Care

L. A. H. A.
*Membership Dues Only . . . $5.50 PER MONTH

The Los Angeles Health Association is making available NOW, its New MEDICAL Care Plan as the best possible solution to the frequent MEDICAL CARE problems of older people — and to UNINSURABLE people of all ages.

The L.A.H.A. Plan provides IMMEDIATE MEDICAL BENEFITS . . . AT THE DOCTOR'S OFFICE . . . AT THE HOSPITAL . . . AT HOME . . . "health plans" only offer benefits while hospitalized. Many so-called "health plans" only offer benefits while hospitalized. But the fact is that MOST ILLNESSES DO NOT REQUIRE HOSPITAL CARE. Older folks and those suffering from a chronic condition but still able to "get around," are more in NEED OF MEDICAL CARE than any other type of benefits.

Almost EVERY DISEASE KNOWN TO MEDICAL SCIENCE is covered — IMMEDIATELY — NO WAITING PERIODS — NO RED TAPE — NO FORMS TO FILL OUT — NO CLAIMS TO FILE. Imagine, just $1 for routine Office Visits!

FREE CHOICE of personal physician, surgeon and specialist from among the many L.A.H.A. affiliated groups throughout Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

This NEW PLAN is VITAL to ALL who have too little MEDICAL insurance or none at all due to Age, Health or Employment. Additional Family Members may be enrolled for only $1 per month extra. NO EXTRA CHARGE made for over 3 Family Members. *Reg. fee added first year only.

PLAY OF THE WEEK —

Unique two-character single-setting drama of Communist intrigue stars Richard Kiley and Patricia Jessel. Fears of a minor party official and his wife turns into terror, and mutual suspicion, when the Minister of State is found murdered. There's suspense-packed action, and a clever twist ending, at 8 p.m. on channel 13.

CBS REPORTS — "In Case of War," first of a 2-part series on war and disarmament, deals with the chances and problems of surviving a nuclear attack, and considers U. S. leadership during the current crisis. Radiation effects and fallout shelters are discussed by scientists and government officials as a hypothetical 20-megaton bomb falls on Columbus Circle in New York. It's at 10 p.m. on channel 2, with Howard K. Smith reporting.

Now a Decongestant
Suppository for PILES
Stops Rectal Pain and Itch
As No Ointment Can
At last science has found an amazing decongestant suppository that unblocks internal & external clogged pile veins as it speeds healing of swollen & inflamed tissue.
This wonder-working preparation, called HEMEX, relieves agonizing pain and itch even in the most stubborn cases. And, unlike ointments that ooze out, HEMEX Suppositories disintegrate slowly so that their proven medications work hours longer to put painful nerve endings to sleep while gently reducing and contracting swollen hemorrhoids. Don't suffer another minute.
Start today to walk, sit and eliminate in comfort. Get HEMEX at all drug stores.

TAKE A LETTER--DEAR SIR, IN REPLY TO YOURS ON THE 7TH INSTANT I REGRET TO SAY WE ARE UNABLE TO COMPLY WITH YOUR REQUEST FOR REVIEW OF YOUR--

THIS IS 'TURNABOUT DAY' IN CRABTREE CORNERS--WHEN THE BOSSES AND THE SECRETARIES SWITCH JOBS!

W-WAIT A MINUTE. WHAT (GASP) CAME AFTER-- 'DEAR SIR'?

WHAT!

OF ALL THE LAME-BRAINED INCOMPETENTS! WHERE DID YOU GO TO SCHOOL? WHO TOLD YOU YOU WERE A SECRETARY?

BUT---I--I MEAN YOU-- YOU (GROAN) TALK SO FAST!

DON'T WORRY, GORGEOUS-- AFTER ALL, TAKING SHORT-HAND ISN'T EVERYTHING, IS IT--?

W-WHAT ARE YOU DRIVING AT?

I'VE HAD MY EYE ON YOU FOR SOME TIME, CUTIE--

HOLD ON--I'M SPOKEN FOR-- FOR THE PAST TWENTY YEARS

A MERE DETAIL HANDSOME. LET'S LIVE A LITTLE!

OH, PENNY...IT CAN'T BE AS BAD AS ALL THAT!

OH, IT IS! I INVITED BABS TO STAY OVER-NIGHT AFTER THE DANCE SATURDAY AND MY ROOM IS SO DOWDY! WHAT'LL SHE THINK OF ME?

GO AHEAD AND FIX IT. BUT OUT OF YOUR ALLOWANCE MONEY, WE'VE GOT TOO MANY BILLS THIS MONTH.

OH, MOTHER! I'VE ONLY SAVED SEVEN DOLLARS!

Dear Penny-- Here's a hint. Look for a package of Tintex at the store. Love, Mother

I WONDER WHAT SHE MEANS?

"TINTEX IS THE NEW WASHING MACHINE DYE-- MAKES OLD THINGS LOOK NEW AGAIN." THAT'S FOR ME AND MY OLD DRAPES 'N BEDSPREADS 'N EVEN MY RUGS. SHOULDN'T COST MORE THAN $4!

GOLLY, IT'S EASY AS PIE. NO BOILING, NO STRAINING. TINTEX TAKES JUST 30 MINUTES. NOW, WHAT CAN I DO WITH THAT SLOPING WALL?

DECORATING TIP: A sloping wall can be an asset. The trick is not to try to hide it. Make the most of it by playing it up with wallpaper or paint in a color different--but harmonizing--with the rest of your room. See the next picture and how Penny used this idea.

THANKS FOR THE GREAT TIME, AND I'M SO JEALOUS OF YOUR BEAUTIFUL BEDROOM, PENNY.

Do you know that accidents are more dangerous than diseases in the age group from 1 to 24 years?

It's not hard to figure out why! Every day youngsters do many things which are dangerous...with never a thought to the possible consequences.

Running out from between parked cars, falling from bikes, playing hazardous games, scraping knees, climbing over fences... all this is part of an average day to an active boy or girl.

Youngsters get hurt twice as often as their parents. That's why more and more parents are taking out this Insurance for each one of their children.

In these days when it costs so much to be laid-up by an accident, you cannot afford to let your children be without this protection.

HERE'S HOW TO GET A POLICY

FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY—Fill out and mail the simple application below. Send no money. After you receive your policy, pay 50c premium at the same time you pay for the paper.
